Citation

EDWARD TELLER
Doctor of Laws
Honoris Causa

"When the strong man, fully armed, guards his courtyard, his property is undisturbed. But if a stronger than he attacks and overcomes him, he will take away all his weapons that he relied upon and will divide his spoils."

As threats of aggression darken the free continents of the world this warning of St. Luke alerts fully reasonable men that an arsenal of resistance is essential both to our hopes of survival and our insistence on freedom.

Edward Teller, a brilliant scientist, perceptive, articulate and free, has as much as any man worked to fashion such an arsenal in this, his adopted land, against forces which threaten that survival and endanger that freedom.

Since his early maturity in Hungary he has displayed the penetrating insight and painstaking analysis that have marked his entire career. In the laboratories and lecture halls of Europe and America he has, as a dedicated scholar, sought, discovered and revealed the hard-won truths of nuclear knowledge. A master of research, he has again returned to the classroom and continues the urgent task of educating the scientists of the future.

The name of Dr. Teller is legend along with that small band of men who gave this nation distinction in nuclear research. His early studies in thermonuclear reactions and his persistence in carrying them on when others had abandoned the project were a prime factor in the development of hydrogen power.

In the history of civilization it has been demonstrated time and again that the weapons of today are the tools of tomorrow. In pursuit of such a goal, Dr. Teller is currently active in an effort to turn the power of nuclear energy to peaceful applications. He continues to serve our government and his fellow man as a key adviser in essential research. An eloquent spokesman for the necessity of constructing survival shelters, he is as well a forthright champion of the need for this nation to keep pace in nuclear experimentation.

Distinguished scholar, teacher and scientist, Edward Teller has added further luster to his career through writings in both scientific and social areas. Hence, by proper right, he has been honored by a host of the nation's leading universities and research institutions.

For his contribution to the nation's defense, for his concern with the education of its young people, for his awareness of the proper relationship of science to society, Seattle University is proud to confer upon Edward Teller its highest award, the degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the twelfth century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold, capes and hoods were required for warmth, and robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of Doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts and Letters	White	Library Science	Lemon
Theology and Divinity	Scarlet	Education	Ice Blue
Laws	Purple	Forestry	Russet
Philosophy	Blue	Commerce and Finance
Science	Golden Yellow		Olive Drab
Medicine	Green	Engineering	Orange
Dentistry	Lilac	Nursing	Green and White
Veterinary Science	Gray	Physical Education	Sage Green
Fine Arts	Brown	Agriculture	Maize
Music	Pink	Economics	Copper
