Mothers To Give Festival June 2 To Help College

Knights' Hall Chosen As Locale For Big Dance And Card Party

Endeavoring to surpass their Tenth Anniversary Party which was a huge success both socially and financially, the Seattle College Mothers' Club will stage a June Festival, featuring cards and dancing, on Saturday evening, June 2, at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The event will mark the launching of a Greater Seattle College movement. All proceeds realized from the Festival will be utilized in the finishing of the third floor of the College Building.

Fr. Raymond Nichols who is making arrangements for the party expressed himself as anticipating a huge success.

"All students are urgently requested to give their whole-hearted support to the Mothers' Club in this affair," said Fr. Nichols.

Dancing with the music of the Blue Lyres, will commence at 9:00 o'clock in the main ballroom. Cards will be played in the clubrooms on the upper floor beginning at 8:00 o'clock. There will be a large number of attractive bridge prizes as well as valuable door prizes.

Tickets at fifty cents each may be obtained from Mrs. Wm. J. Smith, general chairman of the festival, or may be purchased at the door.

Knights Of Columbus Will Hear S. C. Team Debate Child Labor

Arguing on the Child Labor Amendment, two Seattle College Debating teams will speak before the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus in their clubrooms, Thursday evening, May 17. Ward Smith and Joseph Hurley will argue for the ratification of the Amendment, while Bernard Pearce and Robert Smith will oppose it.

The two teams debated on the question before fifty members of the Sacred Heart Branch of the Seattle Holy Names at the Sacred Heart Hall last Thursday, May 10. Following the debate the regular order of business was abridged to allow Michael Falcone, talented young accordion player to entertain the society with several selections.

May 18—Dramatic Society Presents "Broken Dishes."

College To Apply For Accreditation

Rev. James B. McGoldrick, S.J., dean of Seattle College, this week will make formal application to the University of Washington for accreditation as a four year college. Action on the application may be expected within a week or ten days according to Father McGoldrick.

Requirements for accreditation to the University include a minimum of six functioning major departments, a library of at least ten thousand volumes, an efficient staff and a student body of at least 100 students.

Seattle Sodality Union Issues Approved Picture List For May

Assisting the Legion of Decency for clean motion pictures, the Seattle Sodality Union has submitted the following list of approved movies for the month of May received from the Motion Picture Bureau of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae:

"Bottoms Up," V.G.; "City Limits," G; "Harold Teen," G; "I'll Tell the World," V.G.; "The Man Traller," G.; "Murder in Trinidad," Excellent; "Stand Up and Cheer," G.; "20,000,000 Sweethearts," V.G.; "Voice in the Night," G.; "Wild Cargoes," Excellent; "You're Telling Me," G.

FOREST RIDGE PLANS DANCE

Music furnished by Jules Buffano's Orchestra will be the big drawing card for the Forest Ridge College Sport Formal to be held next Saturday evening, May 19, at the Seattle Golf and Country Club, according to Miss Catherine Quigley, chairman.

"All Seattle College students should consider this a personal invitation to attend," says Miss Quigley, "and we promise that it will be one of the most popular dances of the season."

Dancing will be from 10:00 until 1:00, and tickets are $1.50 per couple.

"Broken Dishes" To Be Presented On Friday Night

Father John Concannon's Players Give Last Production Of Year

Concluding the 1933-34 dramatic season, the Seattle College Dramatic Society directed by Rev. John A. Concannon, this Friday evening at 8:15 p.m. presents its fifth and final production, "Broken Dishes" in St. Joseph's School Auditorium.

Allan Steele as Cyrus Bumpsted and Georgina Killkelly, as Elaine, his leading roles. Supporting players are Mary Jo Connelly, Muriel Rivers, Vivian Crenna, Robert Lee, Joseph Brislawn, Gene Galvin, James Casey and John McGinley.

Tickets are now on sale and may be secured from Carl Robinson or from Vivian Crenna. Reservations for tickets will be accepted by telephone at the College.

Nurses and sisters of Providence Hospital, present at a dress rehearsal given last Sunday afternoon in the Providence Nurses' Auditorium, were enthusiastic, pronouncing it the finest the College group has presented.

"Broken Dishes" is a heart-warming saga of the hen-pecked husband written by Martin Flavin, and according to Father Concannon, is "guaranteed to keep the audience in a glow of good humor."

College Enjoys Spring Informal; Hurley Urges Return On Tickets

Pronounced by students and alumni one of the most enjoyable affairs ever presented by the College, the Spring Informal held May 3 was a distinct success both socially and financially.

More than thirty dollars in excess of expenditures has already been turned in to the dance chairman, Joseph Hurley, and over 100 tickets remain in the hands of the students. Hurley requests ticket holders to get their returns in as soon as possible.

MOTHER'S DAY—

Last Sunday was Mother's Day. The day in the year men have set aside to honor in a special way the one person who sacrifices all that we may be worthy men of the world. We students of Seattle College have a special reason to honor our mothers. Not only do they care for us with the thousand and one labors of love arising from our home life, but in addition they work unceasingly for the development of the College. Let's show our appreciation of their efforts in our regard. Not only with a box of candy, or some similar material token of our esteem — although they too have their place, but by offering our Communion in their intention, and by seeking to make their burdens lighter by our conduct at all times.

We believe it would be particularly fitting to reprint here, an extract of a Mother's Day poem composed by one of the city's leading business men:

'Twas she who shared our troubles all
and lent a willing hand,
Always to cheer, always sincere,
her guidance to expand,
The humble cottage on the farm
and city mansion grand,
Pay homage to some Mother dear
we love and understand.
To Mothers all we dedicate
this thirteenth day of May,
In prayer and song we join the throng
most heartily to say
Best Wishes, and the Best of Health
to you in every way,
God Bless all Mothers in the land,
God Bless All Mother's Day.

SNAP SHOTS

By ART OLMER

I'm back again with all my things.

At last I get a chance to do something useful and tell everybody that our own Betty Williams is giving a recital at Holy Names on the evening of May 23. By the way, Mrs. Williams, that's mud on Betty's dress.

And if Joe Hurley has any more cousins like the last one I hope he takes me along to meet her. But then Joe did right well without my help.

From the looks of Jo Barry's sandals at the dance I'd say she had rhumba-tism.

Ask Jimmy Rothstein to show you the new open-air effect in his sweater. He had a ripping time at a picnic at Lake Wilderness.

And Dorothy Murphy stops to remark that no one can drag sheep over her glacier. Meaning, I suppose, that no one can pull the wool over her ice. Ouch!

Just received a lecture from Bob Smith about the sanctity of the home, and I'm blushing so I almost wrote this with the red ribbon.

In addition to radiator caps, Mary Jo Welch has a strange aversion to sugar lumps; and, believe it or not, so has Ed Brotherton.

Morgan Boyle spent all of one afternoon learning to play golf, and then passed away the evening practicing dance steps. What a man!

And speaking of men, we spent the best part of an hour reviving the girls after Joe Quinn pulled his line. Joe, if you could only cook!

They tell me that Frank Harrington is on the road to becoming something of an authority on Bacon. I can think of a nifty pun to fit that, but the Editor would only cut it out. Thus is genius oppressed.

Saw Monie Peabody in the reading room. She was learning the lyrics to some song, but refused to divulge name of same.

Before I forget, here's a flock of congrats to everyone who contributed to the success of the last dance. Nice work, gang.

Well, I gotta go now, you lucky people. Joe Penner is coming on and I have to get my gags for the next issue.

It's a queer world. Remain silent and others suspect that you are ignorant; talk and you remove all doubt about it.

Dear Editor,

Being "ad rem" in class these days is no easy matter. Most of the windows are open and the fanciful breeze blowing in calls most alluringly for our thoughts to race with it over the hills, rolling away seemingly without end in whichever direction we choose to look, north or south, east or west.

Sincerely,
Mary Jo Welch.

The Student Observer

Guest Conducted by BERNARD PEARCE

A chance to observe how it is done by would-be newspaper workers, as well as to observe how newspaper work would be done, was afforded your guest conductor last Tuesday when the journalism class visited the plant of the Post-Intelligencer.

Georgina Killkelly, gazing at the making of a mat—no, not a rug, but a sheet of heavy composition material that is pressed into a galley of type to form a mold for the type that finally prints the newspaper—was struck, run down, and humiliatingly injured by a truck in the way of which she absent-mindedly found herself. She learned that the paper must go to press in spite of her blonde head. Your conductor heard it remarked by one of the newspaper men that things would go faster if it weren't for the blondes and brunettes.

The most interesting department of the newspaper plant was the morgue where certain scandal mongers (paid by Art Olmer, it is rumored) insisted on delving into those news records of years and years ago to see what they could find of interest to the Snap Shot column.

A great time was had by all snatching bits of Winchell articles off a Hearst feature wire that was spelling out its key-hole message on one of those mysterious mechanisms, a teletype.

Casey's Championship Cookies Worst John Wall's Warts, 5-4

Wall's Warts, new league entry, dropped a close game Wednesday in their first game of the second intramural series to the Cookies, 5 to 4. The contest was a pitching duel between Corvin Johnson and Jack Gallagher.

Clifton Buck hit a home run in the seventh to hoist the count to three-all. In the eighth the Cookies pushed a run across on an error, a stolen base, and a single by Urquhart. Wall's boys came right back in the first half of the ninth with a score on Duffy's single, Johnson's bunt, and Wall's outfield fly.

In the last half of the inning Steele's single followed by Marino's double produced the winning run.

Casey left the game in the seventh when he was struck by a batted ball.

On Tuesday the Tigers started out the second half race with a one-sided victory over the Mugs, 18-7. The game was a free hitting contest featuring a parade of pitchers for both clubs. Schade, Rothstein, Mitchell of the Tigers played good ball for the winners, while Lucid and James were the only losers that looked or played like ballplayers.

Coming from behind to score ten runs in a wild sixth inning last Monday, Casey's Cookies defeated the Tigers to win the first half championship of the Intramural League by a score of 13-9.

Joe Hurley pitched fine ball until the fatal sixth. Then a barrage of base blows, coupled with sloppy fielding and bonehead plays netted the Cookies their big splurge.

Herb Conyne blasted a triple to left center with the bases full in the hectic sixth for the best drive of the day. Quimby and Finn scored three runs apiece on as many hits. Don Tobin had a big day garnering four safeties out of five tries.

Rev. Hubbard Sails For Alaska To Film And Map Volcanic Area

Rev. Bernard Hubbard, S.J., well known "Glacier Priest," left Seattle Thursday on the Steamship Cordova for False Pass, Alaska, where he will establish a base for a series of research expeditions among the volcanoes of the North.

With him are Ed Levin, Jr., geologist; Kenneth Chisholm, aviator and geologist, and Ed Dowd, scholastic from Mount St. Michael.

Nicholas Cavaliri, photographer of "Bring 'Em Back Alive" and "Wild Car-goes" for the Frank Buck expeditions, and Beverly Jones, former Fox Film director will accompany Fr. Hubbard to obtain a complete pictorial record of the expedition. Fr. Frank Prange may join the party in June.

Fr. Hubbard hopes to complete a physical and geographical map of the volcanoes of Alaska.

George Stuntz Presides At Dinner

Honoring Seattle College's fighting squad, the annual basketball dinner was held Thursday evening, May 3, at the Knights of Columbus clubrooms. George Stuntz, director of athletics, presided as toastmaster.

Short addresses by Rev. John S. Balfe, S.J., new president of Seattle College, Rev. John Concannon, S.J., dean of men, and Hank Bernier, Maroon coach, followed the dinner. Tom Duffy, Walt Gallagher, and Bernard Monohan of the Alumni Association acted as hosts, and served the dinner prepared by Mrs. Stuntz and Mrs. Duffy.

Holy Names Men Pledge Support

"Immaculate Conception branch of the Holy Names Society pledges unswerving support of Seattle College and its activities." This was the resolution adopted by the Immaculate Holy Names organization last week after an address by Rev. Maurice Flaherty, dean of education, on the program and needs of the Greater Seattle College. The group went on record as an enthusiastic supporter of Seattle College after Father Flaherty had outlined the enlarged curricula now presented to students, and projected plans for the proposed re-opening of the third floor.

Fr. Flaherty To Address Graduates

Rev. Edgar Taylor S.J., dean of faculties of the Oregon Province while visiting in Seattle over the week-end, extended the invitation from Rev. J. J. Keep, S.J., President of Gonzaga University, to Rev. Maurice Flaherty, S.J., to deliver the baccalaureate sermon for the Gonzaga commencement exercises to be held in St. Aloysius Church, Spokane, Sunday morning, May 27.

MOTHERS OF PREP BOYS

Seattle Preparatory students honored their mothers at a special 9:00 o'clock Mass at St. Joseph's Church last Friday. Rev. John S. Balfe, President of Seattle College, preached the occasional sermon in honor of the mothers.

At a program given in the School Auditorium immediately after the Mass, Joseph Phillips, president of the high school students, gave the address of welcome. George Goerig read a poem written by Walter Nitche in honor of the mothers. The boys then pledged to receive the Holy Eucharist on Mother's Day.

Mrs. Arthur Pilon, president of the Mothers' Club thanked the sons for their tribute.

A comedy, "His Father's Son" was presented by the high school students directed by Mr. Brass, as a climax to the morning program.

Publication Of Catalogue Delayed

Pending completion of financial arrangements, publication of the revised catalog of Seattle College as prepared by Rev. Maurice Flaherty, dean of Education, has been postponed. Negotiations are now in progress, however, and definite announcement as to the date of its appearance will be made shortly, according to Father Flaherty.

O'Gorman Undergoes Operation
