GEORGE BERNARD FLAHIFF, C.S.B.
Doctor of Laws
Honoris Causa

The prudent freedom of learned men, their dedicated exercise of spiritual and intellectual gifts for the service of others and the glory of God, are our most positive forces in the building of human society, whether civil or sacred.

These qualities were already recognized in the Most Reverend George Bernard Flahiff of the Congregation of St. Basil at the time of his consecration as Archbishop of Winnipeg on May 31, 1961. As was noted on that occasion, in Archbishop Flahiff the full liberty of a scholarly man and the praiseworthy obedience of a learned priest had been blended by the grace of God in order that the work of God's Kingdom might be accomplished on earth.

Teacher, priest and scholar, Archbishop Flahiff, distinguished even among his confreres on the faculty of the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies in Toronto, has contributed significantly to the enrichment of the intellectual life of the Catholic Church.

His elevation to the episcopacy was recognition both of his own achievements as scholar and administrator and of the impact of the Basilian Fathers on education in North America. Not the least of these achievements has been the service rendered in the education of many young Jesuit priests, including two distinguished members of Seattle University's faculty.

Archbishop Flahiff's preparation for and involvement in matters of the mind has been extensive. A native of Canada, he is a graduate of St. Michael's College, Toronto, and of the Ontario College of Education. He subsequently studied at the University of Strasbourg and for four years at the Ecole de Chartes in Paris.

During his lengthy tenure on the faculty of the Pontifical Institute, Archbishop Flahiff earned international recognition by his numerous and scholarly writings and as a profound and prolific commentator in the areas of medieval history and liturgical art.

From 1954 to 1961 he was Superior General of the Basilian Fathers, and prior to his appointment as Archbishop of Winnipeg had served three years as president of the Canadian Religious Conference, national assembly of the heads of religious orders. Since 1963 Archbishop Flahiff has been chairman of the Canadian Catholic Conference, an association of Catholic bishops.

Prior to the opening of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council, he was appointed to the preparatory commission dealing with the affairs of religious and he continues to serve on the Conciliar Commission dealing with these matters.

In recognition of his distinctive contribution to Catholic education, in acknowledgment of his achievements as priest, scholar, administrator and prelate, and for his personal qualities of integrity, courage and vision, Seattle University is proud to confer upon the Most Reverend George Bernard Flahiff, C.S.B., its highest award, the degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa.

CHARLES E. ODEGAARD, PH.D.
Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa

"In the conditions of modern life the rule is absolute, the race which does not value trained intelligence is doomed . . . Tomorrow science will have moved forward yet one more step, and there will be no appeal from the judgment which will then be pronounced upon the uneducated."

These words of Alfred North Whitehead sharply underscore the constant challenge confronting the nation's educational enterprise and point to the need for a strong direction of our academic establishments in the unending pursuit of their goals.

Never in its nearly two centuries of existence has the American university, thrust by the winds of social change and caught up in the whirl of modern scientific advancement, had greater need of the firm direction of men who are not only practical but who have the vision to see beyond the merely immediate and exigent.

Charles Edwin Odegaard, a leader in the mold of his illustrious predecessors Bagley, Graves and Suzzallo, has directed the destiny of the University of Washington since 1958 and has guided it to a position of eminence among the world's educational institutions.

Vigorous, perceptive and with far-ranging interests, Dr. Odegaard is an internationally known educator possessed of credentials that match his achievements. Educated at Dartmouth College and Harvard University, he subsequently pursued a career in teaching and administration that brought him from the humble rank of assistant instructor in history to his present eminence.

Between the time of that modest beginning and his selection as president of our state's largest university, Dr. Odegaard served, successively, as instructor, professor and assistant to the dean of the Graduate School at the University of Illinois. After four years as executive director of the American Council of Learned Societies, he returned to the campus, this time as dean of the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts at the University of Michigan.

A member of numerous educational associations, Dr. Odegaard has served and continues to serve with distinction many civic, professional and governmental organizations. He is currently in his third two-year term as president of the International Council of Philosophy and Humanistic Studies; is a board member of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association, and the Council for Financial Aid to Education.

Decorated as a Commander in the Order of the Italian Republic in 1962, he has likewise been honored by a number of leading colleges and universities. He holds honorary degrees from Lawrence College, Miami University of Ohio, the University of British Columbia, Dartmouth College, Gonzaga University and the University of California. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Medieval Academy of America, Beta Theta Pi and the American Historical Association.

For his service to the citizens of our state in vigorously developing its major educational facility; for his concern for and deep interest in private education; for his distinctive achievements as teacher, administrator and citizen, Seattle University is proud to confer upon Charles Edwin Odegaard its highest award, the degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the Twelfth Century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold; capes and hoods were required for warmth, and robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and a doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts and Letters	White	Library Science	Lemon
Theology and Divinity	Scarlet	Education	Ice Blue
Laws	Purple	Forestry	Russet
Philosophy	Blue	Commerce and Finance	Olive Drab
Science	Golden Yellow	Engineering	Orange
Medicine	Green	Nursing	Apricot
Dentistry	Lilac	Physical Education	Sage Green
Veterinary Science	Gray	Agriculture	Maize
Fine Arts	Brown	Economics	Copper
Music	Pink
