Doctor of Laws

Honoris Causa

At this convocation for the Commencement Exercises of 1968, the faculty of Seattle University and its administrative officers, together with the members of the graduating class, their parents, families and friends, join in academic tribute to three figures whose varied and significant achievements have enriched the time and society in which we live.

Seattle University is proud on this occasion to confer the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, upon the following eminent persons:

D. K. MacDONALD

Upon one of Seattle's leading citizens and most respected business and community leaders; a member of the University family, who, as a regent, has made an enduring contribution to the University's progress.

Born in British Columbia, he came to Seattle in 1889, when the State of Washington was still a territory. At the age of 15 he began what was to become a lifetime career in business here. Today, he is board chairman of the firm which bears his name and a director of several major area corporations and enterprises. His involvement in civic and charitable activities has been deep and impressive. Among these have been the presidencies of the United Good Neighbor Fund and the Chamber of Commerce, and service to Goodwill Industries, Children's Orthopedic Hospital and the Municipal League. He has been honored by his government for civilian service in World War II.

Upon D. K. MacDonald, pioneer resident and distinguished economic citizen, contributor to the well-being of his country and community, friend and builder of Seattle University.

JOHN TIMOTHY COLLINS

Upon a successful member of the American economic society, a corporation executive, who, through his involvement in the affairs of his fellow man, exemplifies the ideal of responsible citizenship.

A native of Detroit and the product of the Jesuit university there, his rise in the business realm in the Eastern United States, where he heads three corporations and is a director of several others, is in the finest traditions of the free enterprise system. His service to society finds him actively involved in numerous and diverse causes, ranging from the Lincoln Hall Home for Boys, of which he is vice president, to Notre Dame University, where he is a member of the President's Advisory Council. He has been honored by his church, with the Order of the Knights of Malta, and by the Boy Scouts of America, with the coveted Silver Beaver Award.

Upon John Timothy Collins, outstanding economic citizen, contributor to the well-being of community, church and country, friend of higher education.

REVEREND FRANCIS E. CORKERY, S.J.

Upon a priest renowned for his contributions to Jesuit education and especially to Seattle University; a former president of the University and of its sister school, Gonzaga University.

Youngest college president in the country at the time of his appointment in 1936, he eventually served twenty-one consecutive years as chief executive here and at Gonzaga. He skillfully directed Seattle University through the period of its initial "population explosion," which saw enrollments treble, and began development of the modern campus complex by undertaking construction of the Liberal Arts Building, a campus landmark.

His achievements in education are matched in civic life. He served with distinction for more than a decade on the War Labor Board and in the Federal Security Agency and was instrumental in establishing Seattle University's famed 50th General Hospital Group. For his radio series on the concept of American freedom and human dignity, he received the Freedoms Foundation Award in 1954. His contributions to the development of Gonzaga University as a major educational force are no less significant.

Upon Francis E. Corkery, exemplar of Ignatius of Loyola, distinguished educator and good citizen, moulder of Seattle University.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the Twelfth Century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold; capes and hoods were required for warmth, and robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and a doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts, Letters and Humanities	White	Laws	Purple
Business	Olive Drab	Library Science	Lemon
Dentistry	Lilac	Medicine	Green
Economics	Copper	Music	Pink
Education	Ice Blue	Nursing	Apricot
Engineering	Orange	Philosophy	Dark Blue
Fine Arts	Brown	Physical Education	Sage Green
Journalism	Crimson	Science	Golden Yellow
		Theology and Divinity	Scarlet
