Honorary Degrees

At this convocation for the Commencement Exercises of 1969, the faculty of Seattle University and its administrative officers, together with the members of the graduating class, their parents, families and friends, join in academic tribute to four men whose varied and significant achievements have enriched the time and society in which we live.

Seattle University is proud on this occasion to confer honorary degrees upon the following eminent persons:

JOSHUA GREEN SR.

Upon Seattle's revered first citizen and elder statesman, a near centenarian, whose services to our community span the years in which it has grown from a sawmill settlement into the major metropolis of the Pacific Northwest.

Although he completed his formal education at the age of 14, he had mastered Latin—through Cicero; was reading Greek—through Xenophon; had completed algebra, geometry; and had a good start in trigonometry. His command of English had progressed to the point where he had read almost everything worth reading.

He first came to Seattle in 1886, served as a railway chain and transit man for two years and then began a 40-year career in the steamship business which saw him rise from purser to president. Since 1926 he has been chairman of the board of Peoples National Bank of Washington. His civic, professional and church affiliations and activities are as numerous as his years. He still golfs, fishes and hunts with astonishing success.

Upon Joshua Green Sr., in recognition of his career in transportation, industry and finance, his business acumen and his contribution to the development of Seattle and the Pacific Northwest, our first degree of Doctor of Business Administration, honoris causa.

Upon an eminent leader in cultural and civic affairs, whose philanthropies and services have made a notable contribution to art, culture and education in the Pacific Northwest.

A co-founder, with his late mother, of the Seattle Art Museum, he has as its president so ably directed its operations and acquisitions that it today enjoys international eminence. He has striven unceasingly toward the objective noted in the museum's dedicatory plaque, that of providing recreation, education and inspiration for area residents.

Impressive as are his achievements in this regard, they are more than matched by other diverse and significant activities. He has had a remarkable career as a teacher and research expert in geology. Among many achievements, he helped establish the Seattle Foundation, a strong private agency for community development. He was one of 34 experts chosen by President Eisenhower to plan the national culture center in Washington, D.C. He was the first recipient of the Real Estate Board's "Seattle's First Citizen Award"; has been designated "Alumnus Summa Laude Dignatus" by his alma mater, the University of Washington; and was the Seattle Art Commission's 1965 "Distinguished Seattle Citizen in the Arts."

Upon Richard E. Fuller, benefactor of his community and society, able educator and administrator, neighbor and friend of Seattle University, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

ROBERT D. O'BRIEN

Upon an esteemed industrial leader, who, as chairman of Seattle University's Board of Regents, has skillfully directed that vital organization as it has sought to provide stability and promote the development of the University in a critical and challenging time.

A Seattle native and a graduate of Washington's major public university, he has combined a progressively responsible, 35-year career in business with varied and valued services to his community and his fellowmen. Now chairman of the board of Pacific Car and Foundry Company, a leading industrial complex, he is also a director of a number of other associations and economic enterprises.

He was appointed to the Board of Regents in 1963 and became chairman the following year. His broad-ranged interests include service on the advisory boards of the Boy Scouts of America, the University of Washington Graduate School of Business, the Washington State Department of Commerce and Economic Development and the United Arts Council of Puget Sound. He is a member of the executive committee of the United Good Neighbor Fund, a director of Greater Seattle, Inc., and a board member of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Upon Robert D. O'Brien, outstanding economic citizen, contributor to the well-being of his community and country, friend and builder of Seattle University, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

ARTHUR Z. GRAY

Upon the distinguished chief executive officer of one of the nation's major private philanthropic organizations, whose continuing assistance to our educational institutions has been a distinctive aid in their struggle to meet the pressing demands of the 1960's.

A native New Yorker, he is a graduate of Princeton University and holds a professional degree from the Columbia University Law School. He has been with Clark, Carr and Ellis, prominent law firm, since 1940 and is now a partner. From 1955-60 he was president of Street and Smith Publications, Inc. During World War II he served with the United States Navy as one of a small group of officers entrusted with the responsibility of decoding messages from President Roosevelt and delivering them to Prime Minister Churchill.

Since 1961 he has been president of the Union Pacific Railroad Foundation. The reference and bibliographic sections of the A. A. Lemieux Library are a memorial to a major benefaction of this foundation. He is also founder and director of The Episcopalian, Inc., publisher of the national magazine of the Episcopalian Church.

Upon Arthur Z. Gray, speaker at these Commencement Exercises, respected member of the legal profession, able administrator, friend of American private higher education, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the Twelfth Century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold; capes and hoods were required for warmth, and robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and a doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts, Letters and Humanities	White	Laws	Purple
Business	Olive Drab	Library Science	Lemon
Dentistry	Lilac	Medicine	Green
Economics	Copper	Music	Pink
Education	Ice Blue	Nursing	Apricot
Engineering	Orange	Philosophy	Dark Blue
Fine Arts	Brown	Physical Education	Sage Green
Journalism	Crimson	Science	Golden Yellow
		Theology and Divinity	Scarlet
