Honorary Degrees

ROSS L. CUNNINGHAM

Upon an esteemed and civic-minded journalist whose personal conception of the role of a modern American newspaper includes the belief that it is one of society's most basic educational tools. To a man who employed that educational tool in a most judicious manner to inform and enlighten the populace of the Pacific Northwest;

Upon a newspaper editor whose unceasing efforts to present the truth each day in the pages of the Seattle Times was equalled in intensity by a solemn respect for the responsibilities of such a powerful instrument of communication. These outstanding personal attributes enabled him to serve in the prominent capacity of the "conscience of the city" while keeping watch over the editorial page of his newspaper;

To a true student of the Northwest who never relinquished his desire to study and interpret the ever-changing civilization, always motivated by a sincere desire to improve the general quality of life in his community;

Upon this distinguished editor, now retired, Ross L. Cunningham, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

JOHN HOPE FRANKLIN

Upon an educator and world-renowned American historian whose quest for knowledge was not hindered by the obstacles of racial prejudice present in America at the dawn of his noteworthy career;

To a student of the black peoples' struggle from slavery to freedom; a man whose published works represent a comprehensive and accurate chronicle of that struggle. His life work has in itself been a metaphoric struggle to correct what W.E.B. DeBois said at the turn of this century was "the tragedy of the age . . . that men know so little of men;"

Upon a graduate of Fisk University who later earned his master's and doctoral degrees from Harvard University; whose scholarship provides an exemplary role model for all Americans to admire and to emulate;

To the John Matthews Manly Professor of History at the University of Chicago whose career is symbolic of a reawakening of interest in the American past in order to better understand the roots of our civilization; and so, to derive a very personal sense of pride in our own ancestry, however humble or exalted it may be;

Upon John Hope Franklin, a historian whose vision it has been throughout his lifetime that there should be no black American history or white American history; but simply that there should be one American history, devoid of the distinction of race. It is with a profound sense of respect and admiration that Seattle University confers the degree, Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa.

THOMAS S. FOLEY

Upon a young, dynamic and dedicated leader in the United States House of Representatives, whose continuing efforts to fulfill his elected role of "representative" have been exemplary and whose interpretation of the views of his constituency in our nation's capital have been both accurate and uncompromising;

To a man who, as chairman of the House/Agriculture Committee, has helped to contain world food policy within truly humanitarian perimeters, always seeking ways in which a more equitable distribution of the world's food resources can be achieved;

To a legislator whose initiative in shaping farm legislation in the United States stems from an acute recognition of the diminishing power of rural Americans over government policies;

To a Congressman whose sincere concern for his fellow man has earned him the respect of his peers in Congress and has placed him in the forefront of the nation's legislative body;

Upon Thomas S. Foley, a truly honorable public servant, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the Twelfth Century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold; capes and hoods were required for warmth, the robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and a doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:
