RECESSIONAL

“Marche Romaine”
Charles Gounod

DR. WALTER SCOTT BROWN

You are a surgeon and a healer, and one who is considered by your patients to be a true miracle worker. Yours is a special gift which allows you to transform and to restore; giving hope to many who are hopeless and strength to those who have become weak.

As a young man and a graduate of the University of Illinois School of Medicine, you came to Seattle to serve an internship at Seattle's Providence Hospital, and began to establish firm roots in Seattle's growing civic community.

Service to that community has been a hallmark of your career, as you have shared your time and talents very generously with schools and other community organizations, including your assistance to Seattle University.

In your almost twenty-year association with Seattle University, you have been a friend and counselor; one who is interested in the young men and women who represent the University in the classroom and in the athletic arenas. Many students have graduated from the campus of Seattle University with the fond memory of Doctor Walter Scott Brown, a man who provided them with sound advice, guidance and moral support.

We at Seattle University are sincerely grateful for your dedication to our educational mission and are truly pleased to confer upon you the degree, Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

SR. MARY LUKE TOBIN, S.L.

You are one who leads others by thought and action; a woman who has defined her role in the Church and in society as one of leadership in a Christian context.

During the deliberations of the Second Vatican Council, you were one of a few women invited to observe the congregation as you began to seek new and more meaningful participation for religious as well as lay women in the activities of the Catholic Church. Your concern for issues of social justice has made you a questioner; one whose clear moral vision demands the inclusion of an ethical dimension in the discussion of political and economic concerns in our world.

Your career has included the leadership of your community of the Sisters of Loretto, the direction of Community Action for the Church Women United, which led you to war-torn Southeast Asia on two missions of peace, and your current involvement in questions about the use of nuclear power and nuclear armaments.

Through your friendship with the renowned contemplative monk and author, Thomas Merton, you have shared his societal concerns and have sought to clarify those relationships between persons and social organizations which, Merton said, lie at the root of every ethical problem of our day. In his honor, you have pioneered a new concept in interdisciplinary analysis of contemporary problems by establishing the Thomas Merton Center in Denver.

Upon Sister Mary Luke Tobin, a true humanitarian whose religious life has been dedicated to transforming Catholic social thought into Catholic social action, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa.

HENRY MARTIN JACKSON

As one of the most dedicated leaders of the nation's highest legislative body, you have continually displayed keen foresight and shrewd judgment in your thirty-nine years in Congress.

It was your voice we heard in a prior decade warning of the impending energy shortage and advocating a national energy policy.

It was your voice of concern for internationally-recognized human rights which has raised this nation's and the world's awareness of neglect for the fundamental human dignity and freedom which exists in far too many societies.

It was your voice of support for environmental legislation which has initiated the National Environmental Policy Act, the Land and Water Conservation Act and the North Cascades National Park in Washington State.

And it is your strident call for the verifiable limitation of nuclear weapons which is conditioning the present day debate over worldwide arms control.

Seattle University is honored to salute you, Senator Henry M. Jackson, for having this remarkable gift of foresight along with the conviction and courage to propose global solutions to problems which challenge all of humankind.

Equally admirable is your attentiveness to those concerns of your constituents in our great State of Washington. Though you are a man who truly possesses a global perspective, you have not lost sight of the needs of the citizens in the Evergreen State.

Upon Henry M. Jackson, distinguished Senator from the State of Washington, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Academic Costume

The caps, gowns and hoods universally worn by faculties and candidates for degrees at graduating exercises are a costume dating back to the Twelfth Century. In medieval days the scholars were clerics; the buildings were cold; capes and hoods were required for warmth, the robes of scholars were similar to the cassocks of the clerics.

In the course of years of development, caps with tassels have replaced capes for the head covering, the hooded cape has been modified into the present hood, and the gowns with long flowing sleeves have been redesigned to indicate the character of the degree of the wearer. In 1893, a student movement in the United States endorsed academic apparel as overcoming awkwardness and difference in dress at graduation exercises and resulted in a standardization of academic costume in this country.

The Intercollegiate Code, adopted in 1895, recognizes three styles of gowns: a bachelor's gown, a master's gown, and a doctor's gown. The differences in these gowns are mainly in the cut and shape of the sleeves and in the trimming. Hoods are also recognized for each of the above degrees and vary in shape, size and length. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown, and is lined with the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. The velvet bordering of the hood is of a color indicative of the field of learning to which the degree pertains. The Oxford cap, proper for all degrees, is worn both indoors and outdoors with academic costume. The tassel, worn over the left eye once the degree is conferred, is also symbolic of the degree and conforms to the code of colors for hood trimming. Prior to the actual conferring of the degree the tassel is worn over the right eye. Holders of doctor's degrees are entitled to wear a gold tassel. The tassel of a bachelor's degree indicates the field in which the degree is granted. The color for each field of learning follows:

Arts, Letters and Humanities	White	Library Science	Lemon
Business	Olive Drab	Medicine	Green
Dentistry	Lilac	Music	Pink
Economics	Copper	Nursing	Apricot
Education	Ice Blue	Philosophy	Dark Blue
Engineering	Orange	Physical Education	Sage Green
Fine Arts	Brown	Public Affairs	Peacock Blue
Journalism	Crimson	Science	Golden Yellow
Laws	Purple	Theology and Divinity	Scarlet
