In Memoriam

On November 16, 1989, a detachment of the Salvadoran Army took six Jesuit faculty members and two women out of their residence and murdered them at the Jesuit university in San Salvador. The heads of four priests and their cook were brutally and deliberately shattered.

None of these academics had supported either side in the civil war in El Salvador. Their one crime was that their academic research and teaching concentrated on causes and solutions for poverty and oppression in their country. They were martyred for their quest for truth, as the manner of their execution symbolizes.

Three months later, the Father General of the Society of Jesus named five other Jesuits from various nations to continue their work at the Jesuit university in El Salvador.

The murder of these individuals is an attack on the very purpose of every university. From their courageous witness to the quest for a truth upon which peace and justice can be founded, Seattle University draws strength and renews its purpose to seek that same truth.

Rev. Joaquín López y López, SJ, 72, founder of the Universidad Centroamericana in San Salvador in 1965, and national director of Fe y Alegría, a Jesuit organization for basic primary and secondary education of the poor throughout Latin America.

Rev. Ignacio Ellacuría, SJ, 59, president of the university for the past ten years, previously an internationally known professor of liberation theology.

Rev. Segundo Montes Mozo, SJ, 56, professor of sociology and political science and director of the university's Institute for Human Rights, researching the situation of Salvadoran refugees.

Rev. Juan Ramón Moreno Pardo, SJ, 56, professor of theology, teacher of physics and mathematics, vice director of the Msgr. Romero Center, formerly novice director for the Central American Jesuits.

Rev. Amando López Quintana, SJ, 53, professor of theology, formerly rector of El Salvador's national seminary.

Rev. José Ignacio Martín Baró, SJ, 47, vice rector of graduate studies, formerly professor of social psychology, the most authoritative designer of public opinion polls in El Salvador.

Sra. Julia Elba Ramos, 42, mother of four, cook for the Jesuit community at the university.

Srta. Celina Manisela Ramos, 16, her daughter, student in business education.

Honorary Degrees

JOHN E. HOPCROFT

John E. Hopcroft, you have been elected to the National Academy of Sciences, one of the highest professional distinctions accorded an engineer. Such recognition among your peers attests to your numerous contributions to engineering theory and practice.

For your work in the development of the mathematical theory of algorithms, the Association for Computing Machinery honored you with the Turing Award, the oldest and most prestigious award in the computer science discipline.

You have contributed to the body of engineering knowledge through authorship of several outstanding computer science textbooks.

These accomplishments, and your appointment at Cornell University as the Joseph C. Ford Professor of Computer Science, attest to your achievements in computer science.

In the true spirit and tradition of Jesuit education, you have applied your knowledge and expertise in a manner that allows others to benefit and grow.

The acknowledgement of your accomplishments as a student, scholar, instructor and academic administrator brings honor to Seattle University, your alma mater.

Therefore, in recognition of these accomplishments, upon you, John E. Hopcroft, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, doctor of humanities, honoris causa.

ALENE H. MORIS

Alene H. Moris, you are a recognized career and life planning counselor and organizational consultant. In 1972 you were a co-founder of the Individual Development Center in Seattle. In 1986 you founded Sabah House, a residential counseling service for adults in transition, which has been recognized as a pioneering effort in the counseling field.

You have shared your knowledge and expertise through many efforts. Your book, Uncommon Sense, received wide acclaim among your peers and the general public alike.

During the last 15 years you have presented countless seminars to professional associations, corporations, universities and international conferences. During a pivotal period in our nation's socio-economic history you served as consultant on all aspects of women in the workplace, addressing issues such as futuristic work patterns and male/female work relationships.

Your vision has inspired many to consider creative and positive options for their future and the future of our community. You are recognized as a servant leader whose business is the growth of persons.

You have unselfishly supported the academic and community service efforts of Seattle University. Therefore, in recognition of all these accomplishments, upon you, Alene H. Morris, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, doctor of humanities, honoris causa.

QUINCY D. JONES

Quincy D. Jones, you are recognized as the complete artist. Your career as a composer, record producer, artist, film producer, arranger, conductor, instrumentalist, television producer, recording company executive and more, has been marked by consistent innovation, impeccable taste and a harmonic mingling of consummate artistry and universally popular appeal.

Nurtured briefly at Seattle University, your genius has been acclaimed for nearly four decades. Your collaborations with early post-swing musicians to today's high-tech, multi-media artists have been lauded around the world.

Although your horizons have expanded to equal your talents, you have continued to have an impact at home through your support of music education at Seattle's Garfield High School. Your concern for humankind is evident through your support of Chicago's People United to Save Humanity. The world marveled when you arranged the historic, "We Are The World" recording session, which proved that musicians from every popular genre could unite to make a difference in the lives of millions of their fellow human beings.

Therefore, in recognition of all these accomplishments, upon you, Quincy D. Jones, Seattle University proudly confers the degree, doctor of humanities, honoris causa.
