Seattle University

From humble beginnings 100 years ago, Seattle University is now the largest independent institution in the Northwest. More than 4,500 students are enrolled in 45 undergraduate and 25 master's degree programs. The university also offers a doctoral program in educational leadership.

The 55-acre campus on Seattle's First Hill has the atmosphere of a small college. Teaching is the faculty's priority at Seattle University. Low student-to-faculty ratios and caring attitudes ensure that faculty members are readily available to students.

As an institution of higher learning, Seattle University's objective and purpose include the conversation, interpretation and transmission of knowledge, ideas and values. Thorough, intelligent training in theory and principle provided by Seattle University prepares students for professional careers.

Under the auspices of the Society of Jesus, Seattle University supports Christian ideals and values. It affirms the belief in the unity and totality of all human knowledge, whether experiential, speculative or divinely revealed. As a community inspired with the Spirit of Christ, the campus atmosphere inside and outside the classroom encourages the development of an unbiased, truly liberated and enlightened intelligence in its faculty and student body.

One of 28 Jesuit colleges in the United States, Seattle University offers a broadly based academic program, including a strong liberal arts core curriculum that prepares students for community service and personal fulfillment, as well as professional success.

One of Seattle University's marks of distinction is the nation's first graduate program in software engineering. The university is also known for innovative undergraduate programs, such as the nation's first addiction studies program and the first undergraduate program in environmental engineering in the Northwest.

The true measure of the university's excellence is the success of our graduates. Seattle University's alumni includes distinguished individuals in business, public affairs, education, the performing arts, athletics and other fields.

The History of the Graduation Cap and Gown

Today, the university commencement procession is a pageant with the dress and ceremony inherited from the medieval universities of the 11th and 12th centuries.

Twelfth century records of Oxford University carry this justification for academic dress: "It is honourable and in accordance with reason that clerks to whom God has given an advantage of the lay folk in their adornments within, should likewise differ from the lay folk outwardly in dress."

The principle features of academic dress are three: the gown, the cap and the hood.

Their design and heraldry began in the great European universities as an outward sign of the bringing together of students and privileged persons under the same discipline.

To preserve their dignity and meaning it became necessary for these universities to set rules for academic dress. American universities agreed on a definite system in 1895 and set up a suitable code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. In 1932 the American Council on Education presented a revised code which, for the most part, governs the style of academic dress today.

The flowing gown comes from the 12th century. Many think it was worn in olden times as protection against the cold of unheated buildings. It has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it completely covers any dress of rank or social standing underneath. It is black for all degrees with pointed sleeves for the bachelor's degree; long closed sleeves for the master's degree, with a slit for the arm; and round open sleeves for the doctor's degree. The gown worn for the bachelor's or master's degree has no trimmings. The gown for the doctorate degrees is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline to which the degree pertains.

The wearing of a cap was a privilege won by freed slaves in ancient Rome, and so the academic cap is a sign of the freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book, although some authorities claim that the mortar board or cap is the symbol of the masons, a privileged guild. The color of the tassel on the cap denotes the discipline.

Heraldically the hood is an inverted shield with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the college. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree; the color of the lining of the hood designates the university from which the degree was granted.

Centennial Award Winners

The alumni winners were chosen as representative of the nearly 27,000 Seattle University alumni across the nation and the world. The winners represent a great diversity in their careers, ages, college majors, interests, ethnic backgrounds and family lives. It is a diversity similarly reflected among the entire Seattle University alumni population. But a common thread shared by all alumni is the Jesuit education they experienced at Seattle University and the outgrowth of that experience today.

The Centennial Award winners were chosen by committees formed in each of the seven schools and colleges from nominations submitted by alumni and faculty members. Criteria for selection included that the winners be graduates of Seattle University, and that they display outstanding service to others, exceptional leadership or uncommon achievement.

Matteo Ricci College Award for Excellence

Recipient: Rebecca McNamara

Award to the student who most closely realizes the Matteo Ricci College ideal: one who marvels at the wealth of human experience, yet wonders at its meaning; is open to diverse explanations, yet demands critical reflection; acknowledges any truth, yet questions its value and relevance; serves the human community, yet asks whether its values accord with the continuing revelation of the divine to humanity.

Sears-Roebuck Teaching Excellence Award

S. Kathleen LaVoy, Ph.D.

Presented by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation to recognize the importance of teacher competence as a critical element in strengthening undergraduate teaching and learning.

Honors Program Graduates

The Seattle University Humanities Honors Program was founded in 1958. The two-year program is a historically ordered, integrated study of the great thinkers of the Western world, designed to create and stimulate a broad appreciation and a critical awareness of human thought and achievement in the sociocultural context. After completing the Honors Program, students pursue degree requirements in a specific major.
