TO THE 2008 GRADUATES OF SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

As you graduate today from Seattle University, I ask you to consider that it makes all the difference in the world whether or not you live your education with gratefulness. I hope, first of all, that on this day your gratefulness extends to all who have supported you while at Seattle U, particularly your parents and families. Expressing this gratitude is one of the best ways for you to experience the fullness of today.

Secondly, I know you are aware from a speech I frequently give that with your university degree you are one-of-a-hundred in this world. I'm sure this means for you that you are deeply aware of your educational privilege and that you'll serve others motivated not by obligation, but because it's a calling.

I believe that a person who lives a university education with gratefulness is really one-in-a-million who transforms one's life into creativity, joy and—hopefully—praise of God.

On this special day, please know the gratefulness of all of your professors, advisers and staff for the privilege of participating in your Seattle University education.

Congratulations on your graduation.

ABOUT SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit-Catholic institution in the heart of a vibrant, diverse metropolitan city. With more than 7,500 students, Seattle University is the largest independent university in the Pacific Northwest. Students benefit from our unwavering commitment to educating the whole person, to the resources bountiful in an urban location, and opportunities to apply lessons learned in the classroom to work in their fields, in the community and beyond.

One of 28 Jesuit-Catholic universities in the country, SU cultivates intellectual and spiritual development and personal and professional growth through its high-caliber faculty, small class sizes, challenging curriculum and focus on social justice. U.S. News & World Report consistently ranks Seattle University in the top 10 for best universities in the West.

A commitment to academic excellence underscores the SU experience. Teaching, strengthened by active scholarship and engagement, is a faculty priority. Small class sizes and individualized attention to students help them meet the rigors of their courses.

With an emphasis on experiential learning, students enhance their classroom experience by working on projects with local companies, internships in schools, firms and hospitals, through study abroad and community outreach.

The true measure of the university's excellence is the success of its graduates. Our alumni are leaders in banking and business industries, in publishing and politics, nursing and nonprofits, engineering and education and many more fields.

THE HISTORY OF THE GRADUATION CAP AND GOWN

American academic costume—also known as the academic regalia or dress—has its origins in the ancient European universities. As the story goes, it was devised to distinguish academic persons, such as doctors, licentiates, masters and bachelors from other parts of the population. Gowns probably were a necessity because of unheated buildings, and hoods were needed to cover the heads of medieval scholars. Most universities issued strict regulations concerning the design and use of academic dress.

As they were founded, colleges and universities in the United States adopted the three principals of academic dress—gown, hood and cap—from their European counterparts. Although some common standards and practices were observed, no uniform code or system existed until late in the 19th century.

The flowing gown comes from the 12th century and is symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it cloaks any dress of rank or social standing. The gown worn for the bachelor's or master's degrees has no trimmings. The gown for the doctoral degree has velvet down its front and three bars of velvet across the sleeves in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline pertaining to the degree.

The wearing of the cap was a privilege won by freed slaves in ancient Rome; the academic cap today is a sign of the freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity it carries. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book, although some authorities claim that the mortar board or cap is a symbol of the masons, a privileged guild. The color of the tassel that adorns the cap denotes one's study discipline.

The hood is an inverted shield with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the university. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree; the color of the lining of the hood designates the university from which the degree was granted. The length of the hood varies by academic degree. The hood for the doctoral degree is the only one with panels at the sides.

Sisters of Providence, Mother Joseph Province

Honorary Degree Recipient | Undergraduate Ceremony

The Sisters of Providence are Catholic women of faith who respond to the need of society's poor and vulnerable populations. The work of the Sisters of Providence, Mother Joseph Province speaks to the principles of service and social justice that are pillars of Seattle University.

Inspiration for their work comes from Blessed Emilie Gamelin, who founded the order in Montreal, Quebec, in 1843. Gamelin was a young widow who devoted her life to serve the poor, hungry and infirm around her.

In 1856 Mother Joseph of the Sacred Heart and four other sisters traveled to the Pacific Northwest to establish schools, hospitals, care homes and orphanages. The province—a melding of the former St. Ignatius and Sacred Heart provinces—was formed in 2000.

Sister Shirley Smith, who graduated from Seattle University's nursing program in 1960, will accept the honorary degree on behalf of the Sisters of Providence. Provincial Superior Margaret Botch S.P. will speak at the undergraduate commencement. Both women have been with the Sisters of Providence for more than 50 years.

Chancellor Dr. Charles Mitchell

Honorary Degree Recipient | Graduate Ceremony

Thoughts of a career in education first started to percolate in Dr. Charles Mitchell's mind when he was in junior high school. While he earned accolades for his success as an athlete, it wasn't until a teacher told him how gifted he was academically that he began to seriously consider teaching.

After high school he went on to the University of Washington, where he earned a bachelor's degree. Following college he went pro, playing for NFL teams the Denver Broncos and the Buffalo Bills. During the off-season he continued to pursue his interest in education, and when he retired from the game he accepted a job at Seattle University as the head of its multicultural student division. In the evenings he took classes and earned his master's degree in education administration in 1974. In 1981 he joined Seattle Central Community College as dean of students and by 1987 was the college's president. Since 2003 Mitchell, has served as chancellor for Seattle Community Colleges.

Chancellor Mitchell is known for opening doors and providing opportunities for others to achieve success.

"I feel I have an obligation to give back. Certainly I wouldn't be where I am now if not for the people who have helped me."

We don't accomplish anything in this world alone ... and whatever happens is the result of the whole tapestry of one's life and all the weavings of individual threads from one to another that creates something.

SUMMA CUM LAUDE

Awarded to the student or students who most closely realize the Matteo Ricci College ideal; one who marvels at the wealth of human experience, yet wonders at its meaning; is open to diverse explanations, yet demands critical reflection; acknowledges any truth, yet questions its value and relevance; serves the human community, yet asks whether its values accord with the continuing revelation of the divine to humanity.

2008 CORE HONORS PROGRAM

The Seattle University Core Honors Program was founded in 2004. By bringing highly motivated students into a cohort group that pursues its Seattle University Core courses together, the Core Honors program permits more advanced study in these courses than would otherwise be possible. In maintaining this cohort over three years of study, Core Honors creates a learning community in which each member contributes to the learning experience of the others. In pursuing a rich and vital experience of liberal education in the humanities and social sciences, Core Honors embodies in a special way Seattle University's commitment to education for values, leadership, and service.

The 2008 degree candidates who completed the Core Honors Program are:

THE JOANN MCFADDEN
GRADUATE STUDENT
EXCELLENCE AWARD
Jennifer Ugale Mercado

The JoAnn McFadden Graduate Student Excellence Award recognizes and honors an outstanding graduating MSN student who reflects the Seattle University mission. The graduate student demonstrates excellence in leadership abilities and manifests commitment to service through involvement with college, university, and community activities. The award honors the memory of JoAnn McFadden, a former graduate student in the College of Nursing, who herself embodied these characteristics.
