SEATTLE
UNIVERSITY

TO THE 2015 GRADUATES OF SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

*To the 2015 Graduating Students of Seattle University, Congratulations on your graduation from Seattle University.
Welcome to KeyArena for your commencement ceremony.*

As you graduate from Seattle U., please don't think of yourselves as going out into "the real world." Don't do this because it diminishes your past years of study, experience, work, service and friends as if they are not "real." Also don't go out into "the real world," because if you think of it that way you are in danger of losing or selling your "real self" to a job, a career or to greater independence and self-support. Especially don't go out into "the real world," because how your parents and families have raised and supported you and continue to love you is quite "real."

The goal of a Jesuit education is to keep the student in the real world, to bring the world more and more to him or her, to learn about this world, to be in ever deeper contact with it and to commit oneself to serve it with one's education. Jesuit education is a "worldly education," equally about learning concepts and making contacts. Just think of the very real issues and the very real people you have engaged during your university years. Don't lose that. That's real.

The heart of a Jesuit education is the education of who you really are, whoever you are, your real self or person. The humanities, the liberal arts, the core curriculum aim not only to lay a foundation for life-long learning, but to help you to discover, to respect and to be grateful for your unique life, or self, or person...whatever we call what is most real of you. Don't go out from that, don't lose it. Stay in, make your home, make friends and love others and perhaps one special other from the very real person you know yourself to be.

Commencement is the beginning of a new stage of your life, not the commencing of a new life. Congratulations, therefore, on how far you've come and how far you are going to go as you stay true to the real world you now know more deeply and love more truly. As president I congratulate and thank you; as Jesuit priest, I bless you and pray for you.

Sincerely,

Stephen V. Sundborg, S.J.
President

ABOUT SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic institution that today is the most racially and culturally diverse, the most genuinely urban, and the largest multidisciplinary independent university of the Northwest.

Inspired by the Catholic intellectual tradition and the Jesuit philosophy of education, Seattle University forms independent critical thinkers rooted in the humanities and open to finding God in all things. Responding to the Jesuit imperative that calls for "the service of faith and the promotion of justice," Seattle University students are challenged to address issues of poverty, injustice, discrimination, violence and environmental degradation with competence, compassion and creativity.

At the heart of every undergraduate, graduate and professional program at Seattle University is an intellectually rigorous education delivered by excellent faculty whose attentiveness as teachers is rivaled only by their commitment to generating new knowledge as scholars. In partnership with their students, Seattle University's dedicated faculty and their colleagues create a vibrant, educational experience that comes alive in the classroom, campus and community, and develops character and leadership.

As SU President Stephen Sundborg, S.J., has often said, "Only the alumni of Seattle University can tell us whether we are fulfilling our mission." It is through their actions that our alumni most clearly attest to the power of an SU education. They are leaders in banking and business, in publishing and politics, nursing and nonprofits, engineering and education. Today, we welcome our newest graduates into a special group of women and men who are excelling in their professions and working to build a more just and humane world.

THE HISTORY OF GRADUATION CAP AND GOWN

The academic apparel—gown, hood, and cap—donned today by both faculty and graduates reminds us that in this commencement ceremony we celebrate our students as accomplished scholars who now join the ranks of their professors and others who have earned their university degrees. Indeed they become part of a cadre whose membership stretches back to medieval Europe.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when European universities were first taking form. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric; with few exceptions, the medieval scholar had taken orders, made vows, and perhaps been tonsured. Gowns were mandated by religious affiliation but were also a necessity in the unheated university buildings. Hoods at first covered the tonsured head but eventually a skull cap became the normal headpiece and the hood evolved into a cape that could be pulled up during unpleasant weather. Eventually the hoods became entirely ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

Some say the academic cap is a sign of the freedom of scholarship which evolved from the cap worn in ancient Rome by freed slaves. Scholars first wore it as a symbol of the master's degree and it existed in various forms; stiff, soft, square, and round with a tuft in the center. Today's tassel is believed to be an elaboration of the tuft. England's Oxford University originated the mortarboard style cap worn by our graduates today.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles varied widely as they still do in Europe today. In the late 19th century an Intercollegiate Commission met at Columbia University and adopted a code of academic dress which regulates the gowns and prescribed the colors which represent the different fields of learning.

Today the American Council on Education's, Committee on Academic Costumes and Ceremonies is charged here in the states with the standardization of American academic apparel.*

Mark K. Shriver

Mark K. Shriver is president of Save the Children Action Network, where he leads an effort to mobilize Americans around two goals: ending preventable maternal, newborn and child deaths globally and ensuring that every child in the U.S. has access to high-quality early childhood education.

Shriver joined Save the Children in 2003, serving as Vice President for U.S. Programs until 2013. In that capacity, he created and oversaw the agency's early childhood education, literacy, health, and emergency preparedness and response programs in the United States. He also led a national coalition that convinced Congress to create the National Commission on Children and Disasters.

Previously he started the innovative Choice Program for at-risk Maryland youth and served in the Maryland

House of Delegates. Jesuit-educated, Shriver attended high school at Georgetown Preparatory School and earned a bachelor's degree from the College of Holy Cross. He received a master's degree in public administration from Harvard.

Shriver has earned a number of awards for his commitment to the rights and well-being of children, including honorary doctorates from Wheelock College, his alma mater Holy Cross and Loyola College in Maryland.

Shriver's late mother Eunice Kennedy Shriver founded Special Olympics and his late father R. Sargent Shriver created the Peace Corps and led President Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty. Mark Shriver's book, A Good Man: Rediscovering My Father, Sargent Shriver, was published in 2013. He is currently writing a book on Pope Francis.

2015 UNIVERSITY HONORS PROGRAM

The Seattle University Honors Program was founded in 1958. The two-year cohort program takes an historical approach to the humanities and the social sciences as a way of exploring and critically engaging the depth and breadth of ideas that have shaped human civilization. The program stresses the integration of knowledge in a vital challenging learning community, embracing the true spirit of Jesuit education. After completing the University Honors Program, students pursue degree requirements in a specific major.

2015 CORE HONORS PROGRAM

The Seattle University Core Honors Program was founded in 2004. By bringing highly motivated students into a cohort group that pursues its Seattle University Core courses together, the Core Honors program permits more advanced study in these courses than would otherwise be possible. In maintaining this cohort over three years of study, Core Honors creates a learning community in which each member contributes to the learning experience of the others. In pursuing a rich and vital experience of liberal education in the humanities and social sciences, Core Honors embodies in a special way Seattle University's commitment to education for values, leadership, and service.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT
GRADUATE SPEAKER

Killian Noe

For nearly three decades, Killian Noe has lived in and led a number of intentional communities throughout the world. In 1985, she co-founded Samaritan Inns, an intensive, transitional and longer-term healing community for men and women recovering from homelessness and addiction. A comprehensive response to homelessness and addictions, Samaritan Inns has become a national model and has received scores of awards for excellence and innovation in supportive housing and treatment.

After nurturing Samaritan Inns for 15 years, Noe moved to Seattle in 1999 and co-founded the New Creation Community, an ecumenical faith community committed to contemplation and action and to addressing the widening gap between the world's rich and poor.

In 1999 she founded and currently leads Recovery Café, a therapeutic community and school for men and women recovering from homelessness, addiction and other mental health challenges. Recovery Café provides ongoing support that begins where traditional treatment programs end. Ninety percent of its members report that Recovery Café has helped them maintain sobriety and has given them a deep sense of belonging.

Noe has received many awards and recognitions, including being honored as a distinguished alumna by Yale Divinity School in 1998 and Wake Forest in 2015. She is also an author having written Finding Our Way Home: Addictions and Divine Love.

Noe is a member of Seattle University's Board of Trustees and an adjunct professor in the School of Theology and Ministry. In 2012, she received the Red Winged Leadership Award from the Albers School of Business and Economics.
