CONGRATULATIONS TO THE GRADUATES OF THE CLASS OF 2017

To the 2017 Graduates,

Commencement from Seattle University is a fulfillment of what our university is all about. Today we celebrate your hard work in earning a Seattle U. degree, and you move forward to live out the mission of Seattle University. So congratulations on your graduation, and thank you for all that you have contributed to your fellow students and to our mission. I often say that only our alumni can tell us whether or not we are fulfilling our mission, because that mission is shown in how they live their lives, their commitments and service. So welcome to this new role as alumni of Seattle University. I thank you for choosing Seattle University, and I thank your families and loved ones for supporting your educational journey here.

I'm proud that our commencement speakers today are such extraordinary people, with Sherman Alexie, Native American novelist, at the undergraduate commencement, and Maggy Barankitse of Burundi, international humanitarian, at the graduate commencement. I hope their words will inspire and energize you as you look to your future.

While all commencements are occasions for grand celebration, this is a particularly important one because it marks the conclusion of our 125th anniversary year and celebration of Seattle University's history. The first commencement from the College did not take place until 1909, with only three graduates! So you can see we've come a very long way from then, as today we graduate about 2,000 students on the undergraduate and graduate levels. We are very proud of our long history and the continuity of the values we have espoused and lived out throughout our existence. Values such as care, academic excellence, diversity, faith, justice and leadership. I hope that this anniversary year has been an especially enjoyable one for you.

When I review the history of Seattle University, I om humbled by the sacrifices of so many persons who have dedicated themselves to this university. I am confident that I join with you in humble gratitude to all of the faculty, staff, directors, advisors, coaches, mentors, who have had special influence on you in your experience as a student here. I hope you might take the time to express a word of gratitude to whamever has been particularly important for you at Seattle U.

My other experience in reviewing the history of Seattle University reveals so clearly how much our university continually evolves and meets new challenges to become an education for new eras, serving new needs. I hope that you will remain connected and supportive of Seottle University as we continue to evolve for the students of the coming decades.

Finally, the history of Seattle University invites me to pray for all those of our past and present. Please be assured of my prayers for you, our graduating students.

Again, congratulations on your commencement on this historic weekend for Seattle University.

Sincerely,

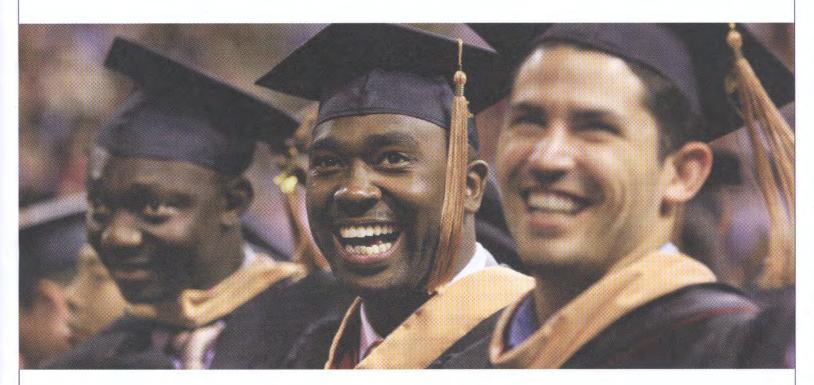

Stephen V. Sundborg, S.J.

ABOUT SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic institution that today is the most racially and culturally diverse, the most genuinely urban, and the largest multidisciplinary independent university of the Northwest.

Inspired by the Catholic intellectual tradition and the Jesuit philosophy of education, Seattle University forms independent critical thinkers rooted in the humanities and open to finding God in all things. Responding to the Jesuit imperative that calls for "the service of faith and the promotion of justice," Seattle University students are challenged to address issues of poverty, injustice, discrimination, violence and environmental degradation with competence, compassion and creativity.

At the heart of every undergraduate, graduate and professional program at Seattle University is an intellectually rigorous education delivered by excellent faculty whose attentiveness as teachers is rivaled only by their commitment to generating new knowledge as scholars. In partnership with their students, Seattle University's dedicated faculty and their colleagues create a vibrant, educational experience that comes alive in the classroom, campus and community, and develops character and leadership.

As SU President Stephen Sundborg, S.J., has often said, "Only the alumni of Seattle University can tell us whether we are fulfilling our mission." It is through their actions that our alumni most clearly attest to the power of an SU education. They are leaders in banking and business, in publishing and politics, nursing and nonprofits, engineering and education. Today, we welcome our newest graduates into a special group of women and men who are excelling in their professions and working to build a more just and humane world.

THE HISTORY OF GRADUATION CAP AND GOWN

The academic apparel—gown, hood, and cap—donned today by both faculty and graduates reminds us that in this commencement ceremony we celebrate our students as accomplished scholars who now join the ranks of their professors and others who have earned their university degrees. Indeed they become part of a cadre whose membership stretches back to medieval Europe.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when European universities were first taking form. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric; with few exceptions, the medieval scholar had taken orders, made vows, and perhaps been tonsured. Gowns were mandated by religious affiliation but were also a necessity in the unheated university buildings. Hoods at first covered the tonsured head but eventually a skull cap became the normal headpiece and the hood evolved into a cape that could be pulled up during unpleasant weather. Eventually the hoods became entirely ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

Some say the academic cap is a sign of the freedom of scholarship which evolved from the cap worn in ancient Rome by freed slaves. Scholars first wore it as a symbol of the master's degree and it existed in various forms; stiff, soft, square, and round with a tuft in the center. Today's tassel is believed to be an elaboration of the tuft. England's Oxford University originated the mortarboard style cap worn by our graduates today.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles varied widely as they still do in Europe today. In the late 19th century an Intercollegiate Commission met at Columbia University and adopted a code of academic dress which regulates the gowns and prescribed the colors which represent the different fields of learning.

Today the American Council on Education's Committee on Academic Costumes and Ceremonies is charged here in the states with the standardization of American academic apparel.*

MARGUERITE "MAGGY" BARANKITSE

Marguerite "Maggy" Barankitse has dedicated her life to helping others—particularly the most vulnerable children and families in Burundi, Africa, whose lives are marred by ongoing civil conflict. Her work, through her Maison Shalom ("House of Peace") organization, provides a sense of safety and real hope to young people there.

In 2008, Barankitse was at Seattle University to accept a $1 million prize from the Opus Foundation, given annually to a faith-based humanitarian leader and their organization.

Located in central Africa, Burundi is a little-known country with a long history of ethnic strife between the Tutsis and Hutus. Barankitse understands deeply the human toll of the conflict.

On Oct. 24, 1993, she was working for the Catholic bishop of Ruyigi, in eastern Burundi, Africa, when ethnic Tutsis stormed the bishop's residence and killed 72 Hutus. Amid the chaos and confusion, Barankitse was able to save 25 children that day and from that point on was committed to helping the youngest survivors and victims of violence. It has become her life's work.

"I believe it's a mission, it's a vocation," Barankitse said during her visit to Seattle U. "I am full of hope. This is the hand of God at work."

In addition to the Opus Prize, Barankitse is the recipient of several awards for her humanitarian efforts. This includes the 2016 Aurora Prize for "Awakening Humanity and the Prize for Conflict Prevention from the hands of Kofi Annan." Barankitse was forced to flee her country to Rwanda, where she resides today and where she continue to operate Maison Shalom.
