SEATTLE UNIVERSITY
A Tradition of Excellence

Commencement | KeyArena | June 12, 2011

There is no more powerful affirmation that we, as a university, are fulfilling our mission than when you, our graduates, go forth to do wonderful things.

TO THE 2011 GRADUATES
OF SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

To the 2011 graduates of Seattle University,

Welcome graduating students, families and friends to the 2011 Commencement of Seattle University here in Key Arena. You are winners on this court today!

Recently a graduating student who had transferred from another university to Seattle University made a remark which has stayed with me and on which I would like to reflect with you today. She said, "At the other university I learned about the world; here at Seattle U, I have learned about myself." She was proud of this difference in her education here: its personalized quality, its emphasis on values and life choices, its individual empowerment, its focus on service and using one's education for others, and its honoring of each student's spirituality. I hope that each of you has experienced this kind of education at Seattle University and that it continues to nourish and support you in the years ahead.

The former head of the Jesuits once said the goal of a Jesuit education is "a well-educated solidarity" with the world. We want our graduates not only to know the world but to identify themselves with their brothers and sisters of the world and to be in personal, knowledgeable, caring solidarity with them. That is how we seek to bring "person" and "world" together.

As president of your university I am proud of you this day and I am eager to see you will live out your Jesuit education in a "well-educated solidarity" in fulfillment of your values and in service of others.

Stephen V. Sundborg, S.J.
President

ABOUT SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic institution that today is the most racially and culturally diverse, the most genuinely urban, and the largest multidisciplinary independent university of the Northwest.

Inspired by the Catholic intellectual tradition and the Jesuit philosophy of education, Seattle University forms independent critical thinkers rooted in the humanities and open to finding God in all things. Responding to the Jesuit imperative that calls for “the service of faith and the promotion of justice,” Seattle University students are challenged to address issues of poverty, injustice, discrimination, violence and environmental degradation with competence, compassion and creativity.

At the heart of every undergraduate, graduate and professional program at Seattle University is an intellectually rigorous education delivered by excellent faculty whose attentiveness as teachers is rivaled only by their commitment to generating new knowledge as scholars. In partnership with their students, Seattle University’s dedicated faculty and their colleagues create a vibrant, educational experience that comes alive in the classroom, campus and community, and develops character and leadership.

As SU President Stephen Sundborg, S.J., has often said, “Only the alumni of Seattle University can tell us whether we are fulfilling our mission.” It is through their actions that our alumni most clearly attest to the power of an SU education. They are leaders in banking and business, in publishing and politics, nursing and nonprofits, engineering and education. Today, we welcome our newest graduates into a special group of women and men who are excelling in their professions and working to build a more just and humane world.

THE HISTORY OF GRADUATION CAP AND GOWN

The academic apparel—gown, hood, and cap—donned today by both faculty and graduates reminds us that in this commencement ceremony we celebrate our students as accomplished scholars who now join the ranks of their professors and others who have earned their university degrees. Indeed they become part of a cadre whose membership stretches back to medieval Europe.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when European universities were first taking form. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric; with few exceptions, the medieval scholar had taken orders, made vows, and perhaps been tonsured. Gowns were mandated by religious affiliation but were also a necessity in the unheated university buildings. Hoods at first covered the tonsured head but eventually a skull cap became the normal headpiece and the hood evolved into a cape that could be pulled up during unpleasant weather. Eventually the hoods became entirely ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

Some say the academic cap is a sign of the freedom of scholarship which evolved from the cap worn in ancient Rome by freed slaves. Scholars first wore it as a symbol of the master’s degree and it existed in various forms; stiff, soft, square, and round with a tuft in the center. Today’s tassel is believed to be an elaboration of the tuft. England’s Oxford University originated the mortarboard style cap worn by our graduates today.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles varied widely as they still do in Europe today. In the late 19th century an Intercollegiate Commission met at Columbia University and adopted a code of academic dress which regulates the gowns and prescribed the colors which represent the different fields of learning.

Today the American Council on Education’s, Committee on Academic Costumes and Ceremonies is charged here in the states with the standardization of American academic apparel.*

HONORARY DEGREES

Japanese American students forced to leave SU during World War II

Seattle University confers honorary bachelor's degrees on a group of Japanese Americans who, in 1942, were required by federal order to leave the university. The honorary degrees recognize the work they did as students and the academic achievements they likely would have realized had they been permitted to continue at Seattle University. Honorary degrees are awarded to the following individuals:

John Fujiwara: Fujiwara found success as a photographer for the Boeing Company, a position he held for 30 years.

Ben Kayji Hara: Soon after his incarceration, he volunteered with the Army and served overseas. He died in Tokyo in 1945.

Shigeko (Iseri) Hirai: Hirai completed a nursing degree and later moved to Chewelah, Wash., where she farmed seed potatoes with her husband.

Dr. May (Shiga) Hornback: Dr. Hornback moved to Montana to avoid incarceration. After earning a PhD in nursing she became professor at the University of Wisconsin.

Lillia Uri (Satow) Matsuda: Matsuda completed a nursing degree and for many years worked as a nurse in Illinois and Seattle.

June (Koto) Sakaguchi: Sakaguchi moved to Colorado to finish her nursing degree and later moved to Milwaukee, Wis., where she raised her family.

Mitsuo Shoyama: Shoyama earned a nursing degree at St. Boniface Hospital in Manitoba, Canada, and went on to a long nursing career in Kamloops, British Columbia.

Caroline (Kondo) Taniguchi: Taniguchi continued her nursing education in Colorado and worked at several hospitals in Chicago as a medical records specialist. She lives in the San Francisco Bay area.

Madeleine (Iwata) Uyehara: Uyehara continued her studies toward a nursing degree in Colorado and later worked at a blood bank before moving to Milwaukee, to raise her son.

Joanne Misako (Oyabe) Watanabe: Years after her incarceration at Camp Minidoka in Idaho, Watanabe returned to Seattle, where she raised eight children.

Tom Yamauchi: Yamauchi had a successful career with Boeing and the Northrop Corporation.

Colette (Yoshiko) Kawaguchi: Kawaguchi was incarcerated at Minidoka and lived many years in Chicago before returning to Seattle, where she lives today.

2011 CORE HONORS PROGRAM

The Seattle University Core Honors Program was founded in 2004. By bringing highly motivated students into a cohort group that pursues its Seattle University Core courses together, the Core Honors program permits more advanced study in these courses than would otherwise be possible. In maintaining this cohort over three years of study, Core Honors creates a learning community in which each member contributes to the learning experience of the others. In pursuing a rich and vital experience of liberal education in the humanities and social sciences, Core Honors embodies in a special way Seattle University's commitment to education for values, leadership, and service.

Awarded to the student or students who most closely realize the Matteo Ricci College ideal; one who marvels at the wealth of human experience, yet wonders at its meaning; is open to diverse explanations, yet demands critical reflection; acknowledges any truth, yet questions its value and relevance; serves the human community, yet asks whether its values accord with the continuing revelation of the divine to humanity.

HONORARY DEGREE

Tun Channareth | Global Anti-Landmine Activist

In 1982, as a soldier resisting the Khmer Rouge regime, Tun Channareth had his life change in an instant. He stepped on a landmine near the Thai-Cambodian border and lost both legs. Since then he has made it his life's mission to travel the world as an anti-landmine activist. At this year's graduate commencement ceremony, Seattle University will recognize Channareth's tireless and important work by awarding him an honorary degree.

In 1997, Channareth was chosen to accept the Nobel Peace Prize on behalf of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines (ICBL). As an ambassador for ICBL, he urges governments around the world to remove landmines. In 2006, the year the United Nations declared April 4 the International Day for Mine Awareness and Assistance in Mine Action, an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 people were killed or injured by landmines, according to a UN report. Nearly 20 percent of the victims were children.

Channareth was nominated for the university honor by Albers School of Business and Economics professors whose students had worked with him during a recent service-learning tour in Siem Reap, Cambodia. His advocacy continues every day within his own country as he spends much of his time working at the Jesuit Service Center in Siem Reap, building and delivering affordable wheelchairs for landmine victims throughout the country.

"Every day, in large and small ways, Mr. Channareth lives out the values of our university," says SU President Stephen Sundborg, S.J. "He is a true person for others."
