SEATTLE, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1942

Johnson, Gleason Head Annual Debate Tourney

Co-Chairman Warren Johnson and Bertha Gleason announced that the Catholic High School Northwest Forensic Tournament sponsored by Seattle College Gavel Club, will be held December 4. This quadruple state tournament will be attended by High School speakers from throughout Washington, Idaho, Oregon and Montana.

There will be contests in three types of speaking, one in Oregon style debate, another in oratory and an extemporaneous speaking contest. Announcements are being sent out this week to the numerous Catholic High Schools of the Northwest.

Eliminations will be held at Seattle College in the morning and afternoon of Saturday, Dec. 4. A dinner will be served followed by the finals and awarding of the trophies. A party and dance will end the day's festivities.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mr. Johnson and Miss Gleason, co-chairmen, are to supervise the debates, Bruce Smith and John Reed. Overlooking the oratory will be Mark Oliver and John Krueger. Housing will be handled by Tony Buhr and Adeline Chamberland. Marion Carlson and John Daily, business committee; Ruth Butler and Kay McHugh, the dinner committee chairmen, will gather the food for the dinner.

HIKERS DEPART TO SAVE CROPS

Seattle College is doing its part to save the apple crop S. C. students, under the leadership of Gene Voiland, president of the Hiking Club, left Thursday afternoon for Yakima.

The purpose of the trip is to aid in the war effort by picking apples in the Central Washington district. The students of the trip will work in Cordon's Acres, an apple orchard just outside the Yakima city limits.

The Seattle College Hiking Club usually spends its weekends in the near-by mountains, but this week it is exerting itself in the more strenuous work of apple-picking. Voiland said that only one truck could be obtained and the load limit was set at nearly thirty students.

After driving over to Yakima on Thursday afternoon, following a big send-off from the college, the apple-pickers will work all week-end. They will return to Seattle late Sunday evening. It was announced that if the Seattle College students turn out to be good pickers, later trips may be made into the apple country.

"Seattle College is trying to add its bit to the war effort every way possible,"

Nurses Dine in Style As New Fountain Opens

This attractive modern tea-room, which is host to 200 guests a day, is under the supervision of Sister Zepherin, seen here behind register.

The beautifully furnished Providence Hospital Tea Room, under the capable direction of Sister Zepherin, is now ably handling the food wants of more than 500 doctors, internes, graduate and student nurses and visitors of the Providence Hospital. Completely-equipped with the latest in lunch-room furniture, the room has a bleached mahogany counter and fifteen tables. Large mirrors and Venetian blinds lend charm and distinction to the tea room.

Complete lunches and dinners as well as short orders and "just a cup of coffee" are served. Their hamburgers and waffles have become a by-word around the Hospital. Sodas, malts and cold drinks are also much in demand. The Tea-Room opens at 6:30 a. m. for breakfast and is busy serving customers until the 10 p. m. closing time. Besides members of the Hospital staff, visitors of the patients and friends of the Hospital, many of whom are regular customers, has served. Sister Zepherin estimates that over 22,000 people have been served since the Tea-Room has been in operation.

Sister Zepherin is assisted

chairmanship of John McKay. Admission will be 10c. During the game, popcorn, donated and popped by Providence nurses, will be sold for 10c a bag, 2 for 15 cents. Columbus nurses are donating the punch which will be sold at 5c per glass.

For those not interested in basketball and for all to exercise after the game, the Junior Class, under the chairmanship of Gene Voiland, has taken over the bowling alley. Bowling will be at 5c per frame. Tentatively, the Sophomore Class is to have charge of the badminton courts at 5c per game, 11 point game. To the freshmen has been entrusted the big order of publicity. Freshman chairman of publicity is Chuck McHugh.

At approximately 9:00 the drama club, under the direction of Bill Bates, will present a skit in the K. C. Council chambers. Plans now also call for the appearance of Victory Square's Honor Guest of the day. The glee club will present their numbers at this time.

At 9:45, the War Chest Dance will take place, under the sponsorship of AWSSC and Mary McCoy. No boy will be allowed to dance with a girl unless he first presents her with a ticket. This ticket he will purchase outside the door at 5c per ticket. At 11:30, votes will be tabulated and the queen presented with her crown.

Every student is urged to get behind and in front of this drive and push and pull it to a glorious conclusion. Show Seattle that this is a case where the heart is willing and the body is not weak.

Knights Soon To Accept I. K. Pledges

The Intercollegiate Knights, established at Seattle College since 1938, is swinging into action again. They are fulfilling their motto of "Service, Sacrifice and Loyalty," this year, just as they have in the past. They have already been active selling "beanies" and sponsoring the Frosh Mixer during Frosh week. They also ushered at the Mass of the Holy Ghost. One of the projects which they will try to fulfill this quarter is the establishment of a "Roll of Honor" in the corridors of Seattle College for all the members from the College that are now in the armed forces of the United States. They will also try to establish in the chapel a candle which will remain burning at all times for the students in the service. In the late winter quarter or the early spring quarter, the Wigwam Chapter of the IK's will sponsor a regional convention of the Intercollegiate Knights to be held in Seattle. Representatives will attend this convention from Washington, Oregon and Canada.

The IK's are composed of Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors as active members and Seniors as honorary members. Applications for membership into this organization are being taken from members of the Sophomore and Junior classes during the period from Monday, Oct. 12, to Monday, Oct. 19. Applications will be accepted from the Freshman class at a future date. Officers of the Intercollegiate Knights are John Ayres, Duke, John Powers, worthy scribe, Jim Layman, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Ed Hardman, Sir Baron. Other members are Dick McGuire, John Deignan, Tony Buhr, Bill Powers, Bob Parent, Don Nelson, Fred Young, and Jim Christenson.

Junior Class Elects Officers,

At 12:30 on Thursday last was held the first official meeting of the Junior Class. Chairman of the day was Gene Voiland who informed the class of the resignation of Bob Mahaney, president, to enter the armed forces. The only business of the day was the election of officers. Gene Voiland was chosen to guide the craft "Junior" for the coming year with John Ayres ably assisting as vice president. Jim Pettinger was voted to keep a tight hand on the class funds while Art Doran was unanimously selected as Sergeant-At-Arms. Ber-nice Gaffney and Mary Ellen Nachtsheim secured an even number of votes for the office of secretary and it was decided that final balloting on these two aspirants will take place at the next meeting of the class.

President Gene Voiland spoke of plans for the Junior Activities Day and also of the Junior Prom. A second class meeting will be held in the near future, time and place to be announced in the Spectator and on the bulletin board.

College Goal Set At $1,000, Nurses, Students Cooperate On Completing Big Drive

By MARY ELLEN NACHTSHEIM

With bated breath and a gleam in their eye, S.C. Students are anxiously awaiting Monday and the sale of War Chest tickets. This drive is the testing ground—the proving ground—for the eyes of the University and the City of Seattle are upon Seattle College. The University has set $2,000 as a goal. Seattle College has set $1,000. The cooperation and hard work of every student will be needed to reach this goal.

On October 23, the college, going "all-out" in a big way, will sponsor its annual Activities Night where each student and former student will be able to come and show off to everyone the greater Seattle College. That evening will be crammed with action from start to finish. All phases of college life will be displayed. Everyone interested will have a chance to prove himself and show what he can do.

To start the evening, the Seniors, under John McKay, will sponsor the basketball game to begin a 7:00 p. m. From then until 9:00 p. m. other forms of sports will be shown. There will be bowling under the direction of Gene Voiland, Junior, and John Krueger, Sophomore, will be in charge of badminton.

At 9:00 p. m. there will be a short program arranged by Bill Bates. It will include a brief skit by the Drama Guild, a few renditions by the Glee Club, and possibly a star from Victory Square.

As the University of Washington will be holding the same type of activity on this evening, and for the same purpose, there will be representatives from there present. Of course, Seattle College students will be at the University as our Ambassadors of Goodwill.

Following the program, the Women Students will be hostesses at a "nickel" dance. To dance with one of the women students, for one dance, it will cost any gentleman a five-cent piece. Here is where the War Fund will certainly boom, because all nickels will go to the drive. Therefore, to dance will not only be for pleasure, but for Victory.

The hospitals, not to be left out of the activities, will furnish the various forms of nourishment. Columbus nurses will serve the "always refreshing" punch. The Providence girls will sponsor the popcorn and candied apple booth. Both should make a big hit at this affair.

All the publicity for this War Chest Jamboree will be handled by the Freshman Class in conjunction with the publicity department of Seattle College, headed by William Bates.

During the next week, tags will be on sale by members of the AWSSC for admission to the K. C. Hall on Activities Night. All proceeds will be given to the Drive. On Friday evening the Knights, in full splendor, will be on hand to receive admissions.

War Chest Drive and the Seattle College Activity night. Chairmen for the various committees were appointed. The meeting was opened by Tony Buhr, president of the ASSC who is acting as chairman pro tem until class officers are elected.

Elections were held to choose the Barn Dance chairman from the Freshman class. The majority of Freshmen cast their votes for Frances Brennan and Joe Malone.

The subject of the War Chest Drive was given attention at the meeting. Activities night planned for the College as a part of the War Chest Drive was explained to the students by Mary Ellen Nachtsheim chairman in charge of arrangements.

Miss Nachtsheim informed the group that the Freshman class had been given charge of publicity and she appointed Chuck McHugh as Freshman chairman for the task.

Frosh Meeting Held October 12

The second Freshman class meeting of the year was held at noon last Monday, October 12th. Plans were discussed concerning the Barn Dance,

You and Your Religion

We see posters telling us that the "man behind the man behind the gun" is just as important towards winning the war, as the soldier at the front. This is not only true in physical warfare but also in spiritual warfare. The soldiers at the front in this battle are the priests, sisters and brothers that dedicate their whole lives to the service of Christ in the work of the Missions. We at home, men, women, and children; young and old; are the ones "behind the gun."

As every man (or woman) in the war industries are not shipfitters, or riggers, or riveters; so there are also different types of work for us at home. We not only help by actual prayer, that is vocal prayer, but also by offering up little (or big) hardships and doing something positive besides. As more is expected of a War Worker than not breaking tools and being on time for work, so is more expected of us. We must perform acts of virtue—instead of just controlling your temper, be cheerful about the situation; instead of just being on time for class get to school ten minutes earlier and make a visit; instead of bluffing through a class, spend an hour or more in preparation and miss that good radio program. That is just a sample of what can be done. You can probably think up better ones that will fit you. Work especially next Sunday, for it is Mission Sunday.

To keep going strong after the newness wears off, we need an ideal to look up to and to imitate. Last week, to be exact on October 3, we celebrated the feast of the Patroness of the Missions—St. Theresa, the Little Flower. You might ask why one who spent her life in a cloister, and did not play a part on the active mission fields in China, Africa or Japan, should be chosen Patroness of the Missions. The reason is this: while on earth the Missions were the object of special prayer and she promised herself that "she would spend her heaven in doing good upon earth and after her death she would let fall a shower of roses." Who could we choose for an ideal that would be easier to follow than she in the everyday things of life. She won her heaven by doing little things.

The Student Observer

By JIM BAIRD

I am beginning to wonder what kind of students we have around here. Certain persons have stated that they are opposed to the Amendment to the Constitution not because of any fault in the Amendment itself, nor because of any wish to retain the present governing system, but because they believe that this change would result in the formation of a dictator over the Student Body.

BATES' BOYS

"Oh, we know how it will turn out," they say. "Bill Bates will have his boys elected from the Classes and the Major Clubs, and then he'll run the school through them." ...I can just see Mr. Bates reclining on a throne in the tower room, sending out orders to his slaves on the Student Council. The Council will no doubt be composed of such members as John Powers, John Ayers, Gene Voiland, Don Nelson, Bill Powers, Lee Clark, and other prominent student leaders. And of course they will obey his ultimatums without question. Of course.

That, my dear friends, is the asinine objection that certain persons give to the Amendment. I would like to see any man, even Franklin himself, give orders to the group of students I have mentioned. Include Roscoe Balch in that group, and an angelic messenger from the realms of light would have a difficult task to perform, if he wanted to cram anything down their throats.

DIABOLICAL PLAN

And yet these simple-minded children persist in believing that this Amendment is merely a diabolical plan of Mr. Bates, designed to entrench himself so firmly in power that not even a revolution could remove him.

Under the present government, it is quite easy for an orator to sway the students so that a majority will do his will. But show me the silver-tongued speaker that could sway Mr. Bill Powers, once that gentleman had made a decision.

Still, some persons insist that Bill Bates will be able to do this. I don't think there is any chance of persuading them that our intentions are honorable.

Previews and Reviews

By TED MITCHELL

Amending any constitution is a tough job. It is inherent in this sort of a document that it be considered a sacred cow which should not be altered. This is all well and good for it promotes a stabilization of government and is for the general welfare. But suppose a time comes when the constitution is no longer capable of handling the government of the organization it is designed to protect. Then it is time to inspect the document to discover its weaknesses and to strengthen them.

We of the constitutional committee feel that the present constitution is screaming for a change to cope with the problems of a growing Seattle College. We feel that the proposed amendment will solve the problems and give Seattle College a better and more representative form of government.

The amendment will approach the question of lagging school spirit at a new angle, through the clubs. By combining the major organizations and classes into a student council the component part will be strengthened and so will the student body as a whole. In the not too distant future when the registration lists become really large each student will have an opportunity for his say in school government through his representatives instead of being drowned in a multitude of would-be orators.

At least look the proposed amendment over and draw your conclusions from the facts. If you think, as we do, that it will fill the job, vote for it at the next student body meeting.

Addenda: With perhaps the greatest question facing the nation being the rubber shortage, it is unfortunate that two of the leaders of S. C.'s student body should come out in last week's Spectator in favor of holding the Barn Dance ten miles outside of the city, basing their stand on the flimsy grounds of tradition. ... With the Maestro now in the Army, Glenn Miller and his Swing Band are now off the air with Harry I Can Blow Louder Than Anybody Else James taking their place ... a slight improvement.

Despite the cold and wet, Virginia Cooper, Margaret Morrier, and Pat Elliott lent their photogenic countenances to the Post Intelligencer in order that the junk pile nonchalantly residing at the corner of Twelfth and Marion might be glamorized.

Speaking for Myself

By Bill Bates

Since this column is named Speaking for Myself, I'm going to do a little bit of just that. What I want to speak about is the proposed ASSC constitutional amendment. There has been a lot of talk about the amendment: and that's good. The talk is however, based on half-truths and facts little known or understood: and that's bad. It is a healthy sign around S. C. to see all this argumentation concerning the bill; it means the students are finally waking out of their lethargy and are actually interested in the future of their school. The unhealthy sign is the completely illogical reasoning exhibited by certain critics of the bill.

As a member of the constitutional committee, it is natural that I should be in favor of the bill. I am willing to back its worth with any and all arguments at my command. Already, Freshmen have asked me, as well as the other members of the committee, to explain the features of the plan to them. All of us are anxious to give our reasons. Ted Mitchell, the prefect of the Sodality, Editor Joe Eberharter, Jim Baird and I can give you the straight dope without clouding any issues with red herrings that are already being pulled across the path of a really good idea. If you are interested in your College, you'll be interested in the passage of this amendment.

Here and There: The Providence and Columbus nurses are stepping out this year and will be turning in a swell job at the S. C. Activities War Chest Rally. A vote of thanks from the rest of the S. C. student body is in order. ... A Friend of mine tells me that it isn't your position in life that makes you happy—it's your disposition. How about it? ... With returns in from all class elections, it looks like a big year for the classes as well as the ASSC. ... To my way of thinking, S. C. should turn in at least six hundred dollars on the War Chest Campaign. ... Seattle College male students are soaking up culture like sponges: the opening night of the Symphony season saw no less than sixteen S. C.ers ushering at that event. ... Miss O'Brien was also there. ... As one of the originators of the Barn Dance, I can easily see, what with the war and rationing, the need for a hall closer to S. C. than the traditional Dick Parker's Pavilion out on the Everett Hi-Way. No one should argue this necessary war-time move.

The S. C. Drama Guild, as other, more enlightening, columns will tell you, met last Monday eve. At the witching hour of eight, some thirty-three Collegians rallied around and voted themselves a full quota of officers. That duty being duly dispensed with, the assorted members bespoke themselves of future plans. Many and varied were the suggestions; enthusiastic were the schemes. The main impression this broken-down reporter (by the way, that is the definition of a feature writer: a broken down reporter) garnered was the tremendous spark present in that group. The younger members jibed well with the holdovers and the future of the Drama Guild was labeled as being full of promise. Other students are still acceptable. This gauntlet has been laid down: there will be no students acting in the major productions who are not in the D. G. Sign up while you can.

And From My Point Of View

Lee Clark

... I think the Frosh Class ought to be congratulated for choosing some good chairmen for the Barn Dance. Co-chairmen Francis Brennen (of the Tom and Bill Brennens), Joe Malone, and sophomore Jim Layman have to be good, though, to put on a good dance now. You know ... C'est la guerre ... Apologies go to Dr. Werby for my calling her skirt a Cameron plaid. She hasn't been sleeping well at night thinking about poor Buchanan turning over in his coffin ... Being a feature editor is nice, if you like "D's". I don't. Scenes in the Cavern: (with apologies to Marian Carlson) Gene Plumb—as ever, heckled by John McKay—measuring his girth, as he called it, just to show the boys he is getting in shape ... Carl Swanson and Jim Wilson placing bets about the bones of the hand. Ask them, if you like, but be sure you have your metacarpals resting on your Gluteus Maximus Region ... "Jughead" Sonniland playing John Alden for Pius Caputo. Why don't you speak for yourself, Pius? ... Roscoe Balch with that perplexed look on his furrowed brow. Roscoe, is it draft board, books, or—? Huh? ... Phyllis Parker packing T-square, slide rule and Eshboch. Yes, they've done it again. We have a woman engineering student ... Sheila Mueller playing. Do some people ever go to class? ... people doing homework. How about inaugurating a People-Should-Be-Able-To-Eat-Lunch-In-Peace Club? ...

I'm wondering ... who John Brown is. His name is all over my desk in the Chemistry class ... how Johns Read and Daly and Gene Brown kept on singing at the Spectator party with Jim Baird razzing their every note. Even if they did go flat, Jim, you know it isn't polite! ... when Jim Baird will cease to be a topic of conversation for the Spectator ... if my successor will have any reporters for the "Gossip Column." Apply, "The Tower" ... whom the Frosh will elect for officers ... how well the proposed amendment to the constitution is being received ... if we're going to have to give up the hikes when gas rationing comes into effect.

BEASLEY SAYS

The Prep-O'Dea game is on the morrow as we begin this article. It would be rash to pick the winner. In fact, the teams have nothing to do with the result. They may sweat and swear and swivel hips and scrunch bones and the coach walk many miles between the 30-yard lines with hands deep in pockets or raised to the high heavens but all these efforts are nullified—in this game the victory depends on the good old intangible factors. In the present situation these factors are two-fold and neither appear in the official lineups.

One is Vic Sr., the proud parent of the perennial pigskin lugger, Vic Jr. Together they form a combination disastrous to Prep hopes. Vic Jr. pounds the line with evident ferocity; Vic Sr., is best on wide sweeps. From his vantage point on the wings he sends from his glowing cigar a smoke screen which effectively aids maneuvers in that section. No rival half sprints down the sidelines with more speed than does Vic Sr. He is on top of every play. He is the first man down field on a punt and in every pile-up he suffers more acutely than does the tackle with a cleat in his mouth.

Factor Two, Intangible Two, is Beasley. Like Factor One, Beasley too is partial, for Prep is his Alma Mater. Beasley doesn't throw any blocks in the opposition but he does wield a very effective jinx on the Irish. He has never seen Prep lose. Of course they have lost—not very often—but Beasley wasn't there. He recalls back in '28, O'Dea, a powerful team with the Dowd Twins. Prep had but a victory over St. Alphonsus Hi of Ballard. (The 30 boys were dismissed for good after this game.) Ed Olney, now a fireman—a tackle of mammoth proportions—replaced the injured Prep full-back and in the oozy mud of Washington Park carried the O'Dea team over the goal-line for a 13-7 win.

About '35 O'Dea was unscored on all season but Wally Carroll flipped a 4th down pass to Jack Naughton and that was all for Budrick, Lui, and Schimf. A couple of years later, Wally Carroll went all the way on the kick-off and it looked like the predicted landslide. But Tom Branigan was too enthusiastic in his blocking, the play was called back and Prep just did manager to secure the touchdown, winning a close one.

So we can forget the two teams. The big question is—can Beasley again jinx the Irish? Can we keep Vic, Sr., in the grandstand? On these issues only the result depends.

HIKERS CONQUER MELAKWA; SWIMMERS DARE COLD WATER

The Hiking Club, piping into two cars and a "luxury liner," on Sunday the 11th headed for Lake Melakwa 50 miles from Seattle on the Sunset Highway. At the wheel of the "luxury liner" was Bob (G. I. Pants) Parent and a load of forty well packed hikers.

Talking, singing, and cries of pain came from the "luxury liner" until Joe Beasley gave the word to be quiet. He said, "If we keep quiet the toll man may believe that our load is made up of the three in the front seat, thus saving money." A loud whistle at a passing soldier spoiled this insidious plot.

Pulling in at Deny Creek at 11:00, all gladly pulled each other from the cushioned seats. Tall, muscular Joe Beasley gave a talk in which he asked the group to stay together on the trail. Cay Mayer, Bob Parent, Tim Hurson, Bob McIver, Gene Voiland and Bob Marilley were instructed to go ahead and make ready for the feast. He then instructed the group to follow him up the trail, since he wanted to slow down Vivian Loggins, Frank McDonough, and the three Read brothers as well as speed up Roscoe Balsh, Betty LaBrasseur, and "Biff" Fallon. Mr. Beasley, expounding with some last-minute advice said:

"Don't waste your wind talking—You might need it for walking."

The trail was as good as the hikers have seen all year. Going up the Denny Creek valley for a mile, it then started to climb, and climb it did, for about four miles. The tired feeling of the trip was for-

Saturday classes will begin Saturday, Oct. 17, 1942. There will be three classes, starting at 9:00 and ceasing at 12:00. The subjects will be as follows:

9 to 10—Philosophy of Education by Fr. McGoldrick, S. J.
10 to 11—History of Political Science by Fr. Conway, S. J.

11 to 12—Course in Dante, by Fr. La Motta, S. J.

gotten when the group arrived at the top and saw beautiful green Lake Melakwa below. It was surrounded on all sides by rugged peaks, two of which were 5300 feet in height.

Tim Hurson, needing an axe for a fire, yelled across the lake to some Boy Scouts camping, and asked if he could use it. Tim built the fire without the axe.

Coffee was served by Gene Voiland and those assisting rationed out the sugar. About this time a loud splash was heard in the water. Most of the group thought someone had fallen in, or Chain Peak had collapsed, but in a couple of seconds two heads popped out of the water. Yes, one was Joe Beasley and the other was an unknown beaver.

Soon an ambitious group with Dick Read as scout, climbed the saddle of Chain Peak to get a glimpse of Snow Lake. Upon arriving at the top the group was well rewarded by the beauty of the rugged country. Below was Ice Lake and in the distance Gem Lake.

The group started home at five o'clock, and boarding the "luxury liner" an hour later, rejoiced at the swell hike and the fact that no one got lost.

FOOTBALL

As a weekly feature of the sports page, we will present stories and articles concerning the athletic achievements of other colleges that are members of the same educational system.

Last week-end we saw Catholic colleges and universities on the long end of a number of football scores. Our sister institutions made a good showing from coast to coast.

At Berkeley the Santa Clara gridmen staged a successful invasion. Jess Freitas sparked his team to a victory over the University of California with his potent pigskin pitching. A pass to Dewing in the first quarter gave the Broncos a touchdown and an early lead. Santucci converted and the visitors had enough points to stay ahead. The Golden Bears, pre-season favorites, dropped the contest, 7 to 6.

Also using the air route, Notre Dame rolled over Stanford with an impressive 27 to 0 victory. The touchdowns all came via Angelo Bertelli's passing arm. He completed 14 out of 20 tosses and figured prominently in the Irish win.

"Where is the sports editor," they chorus with interrogation splattered all over their cherubic maps.

"I am that person," I say, noting a look of amazement and disappointment.

"Well, we wanna write sports," they chirp.

And so, schoolmates, I put it up to you. I have a small squad of men to write sports. Help me out. Let's have more intramural basketball, handball, and volleyball. We also have wonderful material for a boxing team. So put my boys to work. I'm MORE ??

Drama Guild Chooses Officers, Plans Schedule

The first meeting of the newly organized Drama Guild was held in Room 117 at 8:00 P. M. on October 12. Bill Bates was elected to the presidency, and proceeded to conduct the meeting. Bates demanded that everyone introduce himself, before completing the elections. Lillian Perry was elected Vice President; Barbara Cordes, Secretary; and Dick Munger, Treasurer. After much discussion it was decided that the meetings are to be held every second Wednesday, alternating with the Mendel Club.

"At one time, the Drama Guild was a vital and popular part of Seattle College, but in the last couple of years it has become, with the exception of two plays a year, void of activity. This year, the Guild is widening its scope, in that writing, designing, make-up, and radio work will be an important part of its future plans," said Lillian Perry.

The Club decided that anyone can join, but only members can take part in its productions. "All interested in any field of this organization are requested to attend the next meeting, which will be on October 28," according to Secretary Cordes.

The plan is to recite a continuous rosary, a decade a day. The meditation requires less than ten minutes of the noon hour.

Most of the students in the college are members of the Sodality, and as such all should take an interest in this activity.

Anyone wishing to lead the meditations is welcome to do so, and should contact Dick
