Spec Meeting
The presses have begun to roll again as the Spectator starts another year of publication. A weekly paper, it requires a large staff.
The end of last year left a number of positions open in departments of the staff. Incoming students who are interested in feature writing, advertising, circulation, art, photography, rewrite, and reporting are urged to attend a Spectator meeting on Monday at 12:10 in Room 118.
The Spectator is the official news organ of the student body, and circulates to students, alumni, high schools, universities, and friends of Seattle College. Offices are located in Room 401 of the Liberal Arts Building. It's yours. Support it!

Professional Coach To Head Chieftains
The basketball season at Seattle College will open this season with a professional coach at its helm. The name of the coach is being withheld until next week. Bill Fenton, two year letterman will assume the position of basketball manager.

Former Collegians Greet Peace From All Fronts
The war is over and we all pray for and look forward to the speedy return of all our boys to their homes and school. Many have already come back. Many haven't. Let's all ease their way back by telling them about home.
Boy! The little mail bag sure filled up over the summer. There are letters with good news, a few with bad, but they're all calling out for a word from the gang, so let's start with:
Ensign Francis Edward Byrne
USS L S M 457
c/o F. P. O.
San Francisco
Ed is a gunnery officer aboard a Landing Ship Medium and has been on sea duty in the Pacific around Leyte. Here's an interesting paragraph from his letter:

"Last night we saw a spectacle that can never be equalled in all of the movie lands on earth. The news that Japan has surrendered, or rather, has made a peace offer, came over the radio at about 2000, and then the whole harbor went wild. Whistles started to (Continued on page 4)

Constitution Restricts Eligibles For Prexy Chair

Since the death this summer of the ASSC president, the problem of a successor to the office has become important in College politics. In the event of a vacancy, the constitution provides for a special election to be held within one month after the appointment by the Advisory Board of a president pro tem. In this case, vice-president Bill Conroy has been given the position.

Concerning the question of who is eligible for the presidency, June Peterson, Chief Justice of the Judicial Board, points out that "only those persons who were eligible for nomination at the spring elections will be eligible for nomination for the position at this time, since the constitution specifies that a candidate to the presidency must be a male student with 110 college credits at the commencement of the quarter in which the regular annual election is held. He shall have the intention of graduating the following spring and he must have been an active member of the association for at least one full scholastic year preceding such election."

As was decided during last spring's election, consideration will be given to eligible veterans who had been in service during the preceding year.

Under the above limitations, the students known to be eligible for nomination to the office of president are Otto Vogeler, Tom Pettinger, Bill Fenton, and Jack Morrison.

NOTICE
The student body meeting originally scheduled for today has been postponed until further notice.

Five Members Added To Faculty, For Fall Term

The office of the president this week announced the addition of five professors to the faculty for the fall quarter. The new teachers include Dr. Echo Pepper who will replace the Rev. Leo Gaffney, S. J., in the mathematics department. Now on a year's leave of absence from the University of Illinois, Dr. Pepper will teach calculus and lower mathematics.

The former principal of Bellarmine High School in Tacoma, the Rev. A. Barrett Corrigan, S. J., will temporarily take over the department of education. Father Corrigan, whose home is in Seattle, graduated from Seattle Preparatory School and then went to Gonzaga University in Spokane where he received his degree in education.

Father Edelman Appointed
The Rev. Joseph Edelman, S. J., will teach psychology to students at the college and philosophy to student nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital in Tacoma. A missionary priest, Father Edelman was among a group of Jesuits who came to the United States from Japan prior to the war. Members of a Jesuit Mission Band, these

All-School Picnic At Suquamish To Climax Frosh Doings

The freshmen will become full-fledged students on Sunday when the ASSC stages its all-school picnic at Suquamish as the final activity of Freshman Week. Dancing in the Suquamish town hall and an afternoon softball game will be attractions of the day.

Co-chairmen Dick Jasper and Tom Pettinger announce that students should bring their own lunches, which will be topped with free ice cream and pop served later in the afternoon.

To cover transportation expenses, a fee of 50 cents will be charged each attendant. The ferry will leave Colman Dock at 10:15 Sunday morning. Mass will be offered at eleven o'clock in St. Peter's Church at Suquamish for the convenience of picnickers who were unable to attend earlier.

Freshmen To Dance At Annual Welcome Mixer Held Tonight In Rose Room at K. C.

"Let's Get Acquainted" will be the password at the Freshman mixer to be held this evening in the Rose Ballroom of the Knights of Columbus Hall. As important as the magic watchwords of Ali Baba, the words must be uttered by each veteran College student before he can pass a freshman, insist the co-chairmen, Joan O'Neill and Colleen Floyd.

Students will mix and dance from 8:30 until midnight. Slacks for the boys and skirts and sweaters for the girls, is the costume for the evening. Lapelled miniature blackboards, chalked with the attendant's name, will introduce each old and new student.

Tickets can be obtained at the bond booth or from a salesman. A special rate of 35 cents is offered the freshmen. For the other students, 50 cents is the price.

Katie Morrison has been appointed to head the hosts and hostesses. Publicity is in charge of Dorothy Merz and Bonnie Beezer. The co-chairmen have invited all the college men and women, old and new, to take a part in the first social event of the autumn term..

Registration Numbers Total Nine Hundred

Although registration figures are not yet final, approximately 900 students are attending Fall Quarter classes at Seattle College. Large numbers of freshmen and ex-servicemen are responsible for the upped enrollment, Miss Ruth Brand, Registrar, reported yesterday.

A total of 250 Cadet nurses from Columbus, Providence, and Virginia Mason Hospitals are continuing their affiliated classes. Over 30 student nurses have arrived from Sacred Heart Hospital in Walla Walla for a quarter's work in nursing education.

Registration officially closed on Monday, September 24, but it is expected that the late registration of out-of-town students will add to the increase.

The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is celebrated each morning in the chapel at 7:25.

Commerce Club To Link College With Business

Newly organized, the Commerce Club is an effort to link academic and practical business knowledge. The club has named the Rev. Father Small, S. J., as its honorary president and Dr. Paul Volpe, head of the College Commerce and Finance Department, as its moderator.

The officers are Ed Hein, president; Bill Arntz, vice-president;

A Bargain

Today is a great day for the Spectator because we are starting our thirteenth year. We have been selling our wares to Seattle College men and women since 1932. As a welcoming note, we would like to begin this year by chatting with the incoming students.

Sales-talk is not our policy. Because we have reason to believe in our College, we want to share a little secret with you. Seattle College can embed into your very nature the ability, the ingenuity, and the ideals to solve great problems. You are now eligible to extract some of its greatness. The first peacetime freshman class in four years, you have reason to believe in yourselves. Buy these opportunities before you leave. You may never see such a bargain again.

A Deathblow

Like the ambition of many a youth rendezvousing with destiny, the desire to become a chemical engineer brought a typical American boy to Seattle College. Outwardly he was an average youth, but inwardly he harbored a powerful soul which sparked activity often, even during his freshman year. And that radiant soul carried him through Navy specialized training, and then returned him as a veteran to S. C. His soul burned ever brighter and last spring he was elected president of the associated students. But during the summer, adventure took his life. That soul of ingenuity and ideals had taken leave.

There need not be, but there will be, a material memorial to Edward Wiener because his memory, like the immortal spirits of Bill Bates and Tony Buhr, will live on forever. Seattle College has ironically lost a student body president. But now a fact which few knew, can be revealed. It was in God's plan to take Ed Wiener away from Seattle College anyway, because that soul, which four years before had coveted chemical engineering, had quietly gathered holiness, and the invincible Ed Wiener was going to be a Jesuit.

Lest we forget,

"Uncle Harry," a drama with a lion's tail ending, opened last week at the Orpheum. It seems that the Hays office would not let the killer-hero go free, he must be punished. On the other hand the hero must be rewarded in some manner. Well, they could not let go. Let the killer go free and the Hays office would have hold of the studio's tail! The public would complain if the hero did not receive some kind of reward. Universal tried a compromise of sorts. It satisfied only Bill Hays, not the public and assuredly not Universal.

George Sanders and Ella Raines were delegated the star roles. He plays a dress designer, has a weak character, and is run by his sisters, especially Geraldine Fitzgerald. When a fresh wench (Ella Raines) shows him that life is meant to be lived, it appears unexpectedly that Sanders has all the time been hiding the makings of a man. Sister Geraldine does her selfish best to stop the romance, and her best is very good.

While the movie itself, of the contemporary psychological type, is fair, the acting of Geraldine Fitzgerald as Sanders' sister is excellent. Fitzgerald really stars in the show, with Sanders doing the best he can with a poor role. Geraldine's role is the only one that does not leave the public rather indifferent. In fact, it is the only very bright spot in the movie. You may remember her from "Shining Victory" and "Wilson" where she made minor parts stand out and showed the makings of a star. Hollywood thought so too and offered her the starring role in "Rebecca," which she turned down, because it would take too much of her free time.

From where we sit, this looks like a great year at the College, with registration figures breathing down the neck of the all-time high, 1400. That was back in 1941, when Pearl Harbor was just another gem of the ocean to collegians, and defense plants were what Father Nichols was raising out beyond the tulip beds, and khaki was a color, not an ensemble.

We don't expect it to be just that way again, and maybe it's just as well, but it's nice to dust off all the old pipe-dreams we shelved "for the duration" and oil them up for use. So pass the elbow grease; it's time for postwar planning.

Just offhand, wonder how many new students have asked the registrar this year what the "16" means on the class admittance cards. For three years now I've been going to inquire, why doesn't somebody turn that thing right side up, and avoid confusing the freshmen? (And the sophomores and the juniors and the seniors? Amen.)

.. ..

It took two years to do it, and the Navy almost fouled up the works, but S. C. finally has her Beasley back. Full of dynamic plans and unfortunate puns, he promises to add a pre-war zest to our post-war schedule of activities. Incidentally, if you want to make a hit with the Beaz, mention that you know Father Gilmore. They developed a close friendship in Havre last year.

(Hope this compensates for oversights. If I only had a picture—!)

Prize picture at Goldmeyer this summer was Joann O'Brien decapitating a fish in the cleaning process, and then screaming at the still wriggling body, "Oh, you poor little fish! You're out of your head!"

Apparently someone has been checking on Doc McLane's golf game lately, and figured he could use a few tips. They claim he spends too much time putting, and lacks drive in his strokes. (After all, Doctor, life is not all Shakespeare and Spencer, and September is as good a time as any to brush up on your game.

We'll have to hand it to the Navy, they must have something when S. C.'s own Barrett (Rugged) Johnston will forego the blessings of liberty and sign up for four more years. Well, three months at San Diego didn't change him any. It's just made him a little bit more so. We'll miss you in the dark room,—Chuck.

The past summer has wrought many a change in the lives of S. C. alums. VJ Day for some brought induction into the service, for others discharges from same. Some got married, others set about to raise a family, and still others took long road trips, to the soothing refrain of "Fill 'Er Up!"

But the war has only begun for Sky Henehan. He got a job.

It looks like it's up to the upperclassmen to do the honors and see that the frosh have a whirl of a good time at the mixer tonight. Guess that includes us, gals. You know the old routine: "No, really, I'm not dancing tonight. You run along and get acquainted with that shy little freshman over there."

Hmmm. It's not that we mind for one night, you understand. But acquaintanceships sometimes have a tendency to be so darned habit-forming.

Isn't it appalling how quickly you pick up facts in College? Why, I had only to attend one class to find out that a gaping hiatus is not the same as a gaping hyena.

Speaking of speed, you can tell S. C. has hit a new stride when you see the classrooms packed on the first day of school. It wasn't so long ago that students regarded classes during the opening week as just an unconfirmed rumor.

Everything was going fine till someone brought it to my attention, and since then nothing seems to fit quite right. The weather couldn't be better, classes are running smoothly, and the cavern even opened this week. Still it all lacks the traditional stamp of approval. Where, tell me where, can our Elder Statesman be?

Father Logan Heads Muscle Department

The Rev. Francis Logan, S. J., has been named to head the physical education department for the coming year. A veteran of sport circles, Father Logan founded the famous Hiyu Coolee hiking club which since its inception six years ago, has become one of the most popular activities at the College.

In the first official release from his new office, Father Logan declared that the Chieftains, the S. C. basketball team, will play college competition this season. The kind of teams contested will depend largely upon the material available at Seattle College this fall.

Father Logan this week outlined an intramural schedule to provide students with extra sports conditioning throughout the year.

Triple Mixers Relax Summer Quarter Students

Relaxation from deep topics of study and from long hours in laboratories came to summer school students in the form of three mixers staged in the Engineering building. The first dance, "The Lazy-Bone Leap," was headed by Bill Mullen and Jeanne Eschbach and netted a sum of $41 for the Reading Club.

The Lettermen sponsored the second mixer and chalked up $18.75 for their treasury. Bill Mullen's rendition of "Has Anybody Seen My Gal," featured the intermission. The final dance was under the direction of Otto Vogeler, aided by Mendel Club members.

Four Faculty Members Given Leaves To Study

Four college professors have been granted leaves of absence, the Rev. Harold Small, S. J., President of the College, revealed this week.

The Rev. Leo Gaffney, S. J., left last week for Stanford University to begin two years' work in advanced engineering. Father Gaffney has been teaching elementary engineering and mathematics at S. C. for the last three years. He also acted as head of the photography department, supervising the publication of the senior yearbook last year, and as moderator of Hiyu Coolee, the hiking club.

The Rev. James B. McGoldrick, S. J., head of the Department of Education, will take a Sabbatical leave for the fall quarter, to complete a collection of psychiatric case histories which will be included in his textbook concerning the fundamentals of psychiatry. Working now from Portland offices, he is collaborating with the Rev. Leo Robinson, Jesuit Provincial, and Commander John R. Cavanagh, U.S.N.M.C., who was on the faculty of Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., and also had a private psychiatric practice in Washington.

The Rev. Francis McGarrigle, S. J., Dean of the Graduate school will continue to give a series of lectures in psychiatry at Manhattanville College in New York. For the past few months he has been speaking at Spiritual Conferences in Detroit and Montreal.

The Rev. John Sullivan, S. J., who taught philosophy at Seattle College last year, has left to teach at the Philosophical House of Studies at Mt. St. Michael's in Spokane.

Behind the Sports Scene

with JACK GOURMAN

(An outstanding track and baseball star, Jack Gourman, new sports editor of the Spectator, is majoring in English at Seattle College. Discovered by talent scouts at Garfield High, he saw action with the baseball and track teams at the University of Alabama last year. Choosing first to complete his education, he has declined pro offers from the Yankees, Cubs, Browns, and the Athletics. Familiar with a roster of comrades including many of the contemporary great American athletes, Jack will keep readers of the Spectator posted on the people in the passing parade of sports.)

The Portland Beavers with brilliant pitching won the Pacific Coast League championship. Throughout the season the Beavers looked invincible behind the ace balls of pitchers Jake Mooty, Ad Liska, Roy Helser, Don Pulford, and southpaw Moosor. Having viewed all the teams in action, I predict the following players will represent the All-Stars:

P. C. L. Forecast
Catcher—Bob Finley (Seattle)
Pitcher—Bob Joyce (San Fran.)
Pitcher—Joe Demoran (Seattle)
Pitcher—Guy Fletcher (S'ram'to)
Pitcher—Don Pulford (Portland)
Pitcher—Red Adams (Los Ang.)
1st Base—Lary Barton (Portland)
2nd Base—Bob Gorbould (Seattle)
3rd Base—Freck Owen (Portland)
Shortstop—Johnny O'Neill (Port.)
Outfield—Rip Russel (Los An.)
Outfield—Joyner White (S'c'm'to)

Gridiron Prospects for 1945
As king football once again takes over the reign as supreme sportmaster through the nation, Army and Navy dominate the gridiron picture with an outstanding galaxy of stars. Army has such football greats as speedy Glen Davis, bone-crushing Doc Blanchard, and none other than Shorty McWilliams, the so-called Southern Express. The line predominates with the superior strength of De Witt Coulter, Hank Foldberg, Herschel Fuson, Captain John Green, Bill Webb, John Nemetz, Dick Pitzer, and George ("Barney") Poole.

Navy also can bolster a magnificent array of talent in such blitz-boys as Bobby Tom Jenkins, Clyde Scott, Ralph Ellsworth, Bill Barron, and Jim Pettit. If the expected Bob Kelly of Notre Dame is on hand, he will certainly offer Navy added backfield punch. Such line greats as Jim Carrington, the old Fordham great, Leon Bramlett, and Captain Dick Duden give Navy's forward wall a rosy outlook.

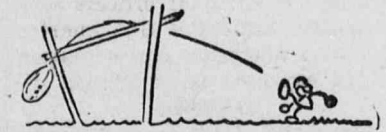

The East will be able to boast spectacular civilian teams at Yale, Pittsburgh, Holy Cross, and Cornell.

Football in Dixieland should be thrilling, with Tennessee, Alabama, Wake Forest, North Carolina, Louisiana State, Duke, Georgia Tech and Georgia tackling heavily on the Southern fields. Alabama will be dangerous with the renowned long passes of the great Harry Gilmer, whom I have seen in action a number of times. Buster Stephens of Tennessee, Gene Knight of L. S. U., Al Perl of Georgia, and Vaughn Mancha of Alabama stand out as strong contenders for All-American honors.

The Midlands will improve this year with Oklahoma and Missouri leading the Big Six Conference for laurels. As usual Oklahoma A&M, and Tulsa highlight the Missouri Valley Conference.

The Midwest can offer five great teams which will receive nationwide acclaim. Ohio State, Minnesota, Michigan, Notre Dame, and Purdue will be the toughest to beat. Marquette, Michigan State and Indiana look strong for knocking off the big teams.

Southern California with many veterans back from last year's Rose Bowl team, will loom again as king of the coast. California, U.C.L.A., and Washington furnish strong opposition for the title.

This Week's 20 Best
(1) Army; (2) Navy; (3) Ohio State; (4) Minnesota; (5) U.S.C.; (6) Duke; (7) Tulsa; (8) Illinois; (9) Indiana; (10) Alabama; (11) Georgia; (12) Notre Dame; (13) Okla. A&M; (14) Tennessee; (15) Cornell; (16) Wake Forest; (17) Purdue; (18) St. Mary's; (19) Michigan; (20) Yale.

Predictions for Tomorrow
Okla. A&M over Arkansas; Auburn over Maxwell Field; T.C.U. over Baylor; Penn over Brown; Cornell over Bucknell; U.S.C. over Cal; Kentucky over Cincinnati; Georgia over Clemson; Columbia over Lafayette; Holy Cross over Dartmouth; Denver over Kansas; Duke over Camp Lejune; Miss. over Florida; Geo. Tech. over North Carolina or upset; W.S.C. over Idaho; Notre Dame over Illinois; Indiana over Northwestern; L.S.U. over Rice; Marquette over Wisconsin; Mich. over Mich. State; Ohio State over Missouri; Navy over Villanova; Okla. U. over Nebraska; Wash. over Oregon or upset; Tennessee over Wake Forest, and Purdue over Great Lakes.

Advanced Studies Pursued During Summer Quarter

For many students summertime meant lolling in the sun or working in the war industries, but for approximately 825 men and women the three vacation months meant attending the summer session at the College. About half of the scholars were members of religious orders who were studying for advanced degrees.

Several professors were added to the staff to teach the special summer courses. The new instructors, who were appointed for last quarter only, included Father Francis Lindekugel, S. J. philosophy; Mrs. M. J. McKillop, bacteriology; and Father Bernard Nixon, S. J., chemistry.

Sport Activities To Cover Bowling, Swimming, Volleyball; Leagues for Men and Women

By the REV. FRANCIS LOGAN, S. J.

Elsewhere on this page is found the sport activities for the fall quarter. Pick out some sport you like and stick with it. Only in this way will the program work out satisfactorily. Following are a few notes which may help you.

Bowling, basketball, and volleyball are on a league basis. It is hoped that teams will be sponsored by various organizations and clubs, such as the Lettermen, Sarazin and Bordeaux, Hiyu Coolee, Mendel Club and the Freshmen. Teams will meet once weekly, perhaps twice depending on the number of entries.

A very attractive rate has been offered by Broadway Bowling, 219 Broadway N. This supposes that we use the alleys in the afternoon and especially that we provide our own pin-boys. This will be the responsibility of the club captains. Play begins on Monday, October 8th. In the meantime the alleys are open at a rate of 12 cents per game, and with the usual conditions for those who wish to practice or benefit by instructions which the management offers to beginners. Five players form a team. Their number will be limited, so hurry.

Bill Conroy and Dorothy Merz will sign up teams or individuals who wish to join teams.

Basketball Looms Again

The pre-season basketball league, with one game weekly, offers a good chance to sharpen the old eye. Games will be called at 1 p.m. promptly. Contact Bill Fenton.

Golf enthusiasts may obtain student rates at three municipal links by getting golf cards from Father Logan whose office is in the Science Building, second floor east.

It is hoped that at least four teams will be formed for volleyball.

be arranged for these teams n they show promise. Otherwise an all-star aggregation will be chosen to represent S. C. in this sport. First practice will be Monday at 1 p.m. in the K. of C. gym. Those interested in volleyball or badminton contact Elaine O'Neill.

Riding Club Revived

As regards riding, the station wagon from the Olympic will again offer the same service, transportation plus riding. The student rate is $1.25. We must have eight in the group. See Jeanne Tangney, equestrienne.

There is a small fee for women's swimming, slightly more for those who wish private instruction. Swimming suits and towels will be included in this fee. Colleen Floyd will sign you for this class.

Arrangements also have been made for men's swimming. A nominal fee gives unlimited use of a fine pool. See Father Logan.

Bowling on Wednesday is on a social basis with no league games scheduled for that day. Collegians will have their student rate until 5 p.m.

And finally, if you can't bowl or swim or golf or ride—there's always Hiyu Coolee. Lamp him and limp.

Weddings

O'Neill-Jesmer
Lieut. (j.g.) and Mrs. Gordon Joseph Jesmer were married last month at the chapel at the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Florida. The bride, the former Miss Rosemary O'Neill, received her education at S. C. where she was prominent in music circles. The newlyweds are making their home in Texas.

Barnes-Acheson
Miss Eileen Barnes, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Barnes, was married to Flight Officer John Acheson, U. S. A. A. F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Acheson, in St. James Cathedral. Both the bride and bridegroom attended the College.

Fischer-Timmen
A former student at S. C., Miss Josephine Fischer recently became the bride of Lee H. Timmen, Jr. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fischer.

Clynch-Thompson
Miss Jeanne Clynch was married recently to Lieut. Robert Thompson, former student of the College, in Ocean Beach, Calif. Lieut. Thompson, a member of the Marine Corps Reserve, was stationed at Camp Pendleton this summer.

Anderson-Dissel
Blessed Sacrament Church was the scene on June 20 of the wedding of Miss Irene Anderson to J. Kelton Dissel, U. S. A. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Burns, the bride attended the College.

O'Brien-Johnson
A Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Army Nurse Corps, Miss Maryellen O'Brien was married to Staff Sergeant David O. Johnson, U. S. Air Corps, on June 20, in St. Anthony's Church, Kent. The bride is a graduate of Seattle College and Providence School of Nursing.

Commerce Club

Jack Youngberg, secretary, and Jerry Schwegman, treasurer.

The objectives of the club are to provide a social meeting place and promote intellectual interest in business and economic matters. The organization will give members a chance to come in personal contact with business men and thus learn to orient their academic knowledge along practical lines.

Business men of the Northwest will address the club and attend round table discussions. The meetings will be held downtown. Commerce and finance majors, economic majors, and others selected by the club members as outstanding or of special ability, will be given membership.

Father Small declared that the Commerce Club is "a wonderful chance for men to enter into big business properly, studying and talking with those already engaged in it. There is no better place than Seattle to start, for this city is the hub and heart of trade with Alaska and the Orient."

According to Doctor Volpe, the club will be "the forerunner of a large commerce and finance department as well as a start for the young men just going into business."

Missing Persons

Among the students we will miss seeing around this fall are Vince Beuzer who left in August for the Jesuit novitiate at Sheridan, Ilene Clark, who is a postulant in the Holy Names Order, Fred Dore who is studying law at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. Bill Mullen who will attend the U. of W. Law School, Dick Beaudoin and Chuck McHugh who are transferring to Gonzaga, and Kay Merz who will be a medical tech at Tacoma General Hospital.

Uncle Sam Also Approves

It was recently announced that Seattle College is on the list of educational institutions approved to train returning veterans under provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights. Not bad!!!

Knowables

Some of the students that you Frosh should get to know are:

Kay Hanley — our vivacious Irish AWSSC president.

Al Anderson—prefect of the Sodality. He usually has something to do with the organizations around here.

Bill Fenton—president of the Lettermen's Club.

Jeanne Eschbach—the slave driver or—editor of the Spec.

Bill Conroy—our very efficient vice-president of ASSC.

Leon Carria—Hiyu Coolee president. You've probably followed him up a mountain trail at one time or another.

Jeanne Tangney—now she's the head of the publicity department. Otto Vogeler—he's leader of the doctors-to-be.

New Combinations

A number of engagements of former S. C. students were announced this summer, and among them are Betty Ann Lucid to Ens. Jack Terhar, U. S. N. R. Jack is a Business Administration graduate of '42. Lieut. Genevieve Dore to Capt. James Gordon. Lt. Dore is a '44 graduate of the SC School of Nursing. Both are on duty at present in the Pacific. Ens. Kathleen Forhan to Ens. Eugene Corr. Ens. Forhan is a '43 graduate of the SC School of Nursing.

Alaskan Jaunt

If any others from SC had gone to Alaska this summer, they would have found a welcoming committee consisting of Al Anderson and Bob Truckey. According to the tales they tell, Nome is a very rugged place!

Father Logan Returns

The Rev. Francis Logan, S. J., has returned to Seattle College after an absence of two years to the position of Director of Physical Education. Father Logan plans to revive a great many athletic activities which formerly were found at the College. In addition, he has been appointed moderator of the hiking club, and of the Associated Students of Seattle College.

The Rev. Arthur McNeil, S. J., who since receiving his Ph.D. in chemistry from the Catholic University of America has been on the faculty at Gonzaga University, will teach in the temporary absence of the Rev. Claire Marshall, S. J. Father Marshall is recovering from an illness and is expected back by the end of October.

A memorial Requiem High Mass was offered during the summer for Capt. Charles E. Dougherty, an army flyer killed in a Leyte plane crash. He was a cum laude graduate of Seattle College in 1939.

Word also came of the death in action of Pvt. Ernest Kozlowski, a veteran of the Spanish Civil War, who was killed at Leyte in December.

Robert Marilley has been reported dead, but the report has not been confirmed. Forced to bail out over Yugoslavia, some of his crew parachuted to safety.

Leader of an Air Squadron off Okinawa, Lieut. Warren McNett, USN, was killed when his plane exploded last April 28. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon McNett and the father of three children.

Lieut Comdr. Jarlath Lyons is presumed dead by the Navy Department. He has been missing since his plane plunged into the ocean in the South Pacific.

Heading back toward Chicago last Wednesday from his thirty day leave, his second in two months, was Charles Barrett Johnson, ex Hiyu Coolee prexy. Barrett reported that "the Navy is really swell" and proof of his conviction lies in his re-enlistment into the regular Navy for four more years. He will attend radio tech school for eleven months, which is equivalent to two college years, and hopes for a RT3c rate. His address now is:

Charles Barrett Johnson, S1c (RT)
