POST-LENT 'MIDNITE MASQUERADE' PLANNED

Prize Awarded for Best Costumed Couple April 10

By JOANNE CARROLL

It's time to get out costumes for the Senior Class-sponsored "Midnight Masquerade." April 10 is the date set for this dance, which replaces the annual Mardi Gras. The new name was chosen by the senior committee, under the chairmanship of Don Ley.

The first post-Lenten dance is scheduled for the Friday following Easter. With music by Jerry Tucker, dancing will be at Dick Parker's Pavilion from 9 to 12:30. Selection of the best costumed couple will be made by the committee and prizes will be awarded.

Joan McMahon and A. J. Stewart are in charge of decorations. They are assisted by Bob Kelly and Claire Schumacher. Lorena Deschamps is chairman of the program and ticket committee, assisted by Don Levesque. Publicity will be handled by Jack Johnson, Dave Lembecke, and Marion Michael.

"It is hoped," says Don Ley, "that we may re-establish the Mardi Gras Dance this year to the position it once held as the greatest dance in the spring. Anyone who hasn't really 'let their hair down' since the Barn Dance is urged to 'dig up' any old idiotic costume and come on out to join in the fun."

Programs will be printed on actual eye-masks that can be worn. High point of the evening will be the unmasking at midnight, accompanied by confetti and a raft of balloons.

Tickets may be obtained for $1.75.

Spring Fashion Preview Tonite At Norselander

"Suddenly It's Spring," Fashion Show sponsored by AWSSU, will be presented tonight, at 8, Norselander Hall.

Co-chairmen Pat Keeling and Marcia Dodson promise showing of the most recent spring styles for coeds and men students. Entertainment and refreshments will also be included in the evening's program.

Both women and men students may attend the show. Admission price is 75 cents.

Choir Sponsors Lenten Concert In Gym Monday

Under the direction of Carl Pitzer, A Capella Choir will present a Lenten Concert of Sacred Vocal Music, Monday evening, March 30.

This complimentary program starting at 8 p. m. in the Seattle U gym will be highlighted by the singing of the "Seven Last Words of Christ," written by Dubois, and selections from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."

The A Capella Choir will be accompanied at the organ by Walter Aklin, head of Seattle U's Music Department, and at the piano by Miss Sandra Pinsonneault.

Featured soloists for the evening will be Patricia Welch and Pamela Haas, sopranos; Richard Clayberg, tenor, and Ralph MacFarlane and Robert Suver, baritones. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Registrar's Office Reports 366 Drop; New Machine Added

The Registrar's office reports a drop in enrollment for spring quarter. 2,089 were enrolled for winter quarter day school. This quarter shows 1,723 students, a loss of 366.

New Machine Added

A recent addition to the Registrar's office is a new machine for photostating transcripts. Formerly it was necessary to handle the transcript three times, but the new machine enables the work to be done in one process.

A Phi O Plans Spring Mixer, Blood Campaign

Activities which will fill the Alpha Phi Omega's calendar this quarter include the initiation of the spring pledges, a blood bank drive, a mixer, and the sponsoring of the Drama Guild night.

An extra boost will be given to the Student Union Building Drive by adding A Phi O's share of the profits from the sale of the basketball programs. This will total about $800.

A Phi O's next major project is the blood drive. A bloodmobile will be stationed at SU April 30 and May 1. The Red Cross will have the Bloodmobile open from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. those two days, enabling all students to bolster the drive.

In May A Phi O will sponsor one night of the Drama Guild production. (Continued on Page Four)

Seniors Must Sign For Comprehensives

Seniors are reminded that they MUST sign up soon for a date to take their comprehensives. Cards for this purpose are available in the Registrar's office.

Kappa Gamma Pi For Grad Coeds

Kappa Gamma Pi, national Catholic women's honorary, will initiate its new pledges at a banquet to be held April 13.

This honor society, composed of graduates of Catholic colleges, chooses its members on the basis of high scholastic achievement and service to the school through activities.

The number of members selected to Kappa Gamma Pi may not exceed ten per cent of the graduating class. A candidate to this national honorary must have attended the nominating college for two consecutive years.

Beatrice Ortman Dignam, '51, is the president of the SU chapter of Kappa.

Specs of News

This Saturday the Pinoy Club will feature three movies on the Philippines at its joint meeting with the Filipino Club of UW. Mr. Conrado de Castro, an official of the Philippine Consulate here and a member of Pan Xenia, will show these films. Refreshments will be served at the meeting, which will take place at 8 p. m. in Room 123.

Wallace Falls is the destination of the coming Hiyu Coolee Hike, Sunday, March 29. Hike distance will be about three miles each way with a climb of 900 feet. Busses will leave from the north end of the mall at 9:15 a.m. Fee for the hike is one dollar and students are reminded to bring their lunches. Further information can be obtained from the first floor bulletin board.

ASSU Constitution Undergoing Change By Judicial Board

In order to clarify some of the present ASSU regulations, the Judicial Board, under Chief Justice Theresa Schuck, is planning revisions in the school constitution.

These changes are subject to the approval of the Assembly Board, then the student body. The constitution, completely revised, will be printed immediately following the spring election.

The proposed improvements are within the constitution itself and in the statutes of the ASSU. The statutes are the small operating laws passed by the Student Assembly or simply the constitution put into practice.

Vice-Presidential Membership

In the constitution, one suggested change points out that membership for the vice presidential candidate in the Association, for one full year before nomination, may include the quarter in which he is nominated. Only active members of the Association shall be permitted to become members of any student organization or take part in the activities; and only those carrying a minimum of ten hours and with 2.0 or better are eligible for any office.

High School Seniors Offered Chance in Retail Selling at SU

Five Seattle high school students majoring in Retail Selling will be eligible for scholarships at Seattle University or the University of Washington next year.

Mr. Edward Phelan, Retail Trade Division of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, informed Mr. John Mykut, SU Commerce and Finance department, of the scholarships recently.

Students from schools not offering the retail selling course will be ineligible.

Name Sought for New Building

Pondering over their entries in the "Student Union Building Naming Contest" are, from left, Bill Holland, Phyllis Carver, Ed Rubatino, and Vic Levesque. Names may be submitted at the switchboard any time before April 10.

Extension

If you haven't entered the Student Union Building naming contest yet, you have only two weeks until the April 10 deadline. Every student is urged to turn in a name. Your entry might be the one that's permanently affixed on this new campus building for the students. Give it a try, anyway, and leave your idea at the switchboard.

Don't forget your date tonight to see the newest spring fashions for both men students and coeds. The AWSSU fashion show, "Suddenly It's Spring," will be staged at the Norway Center of Norselander Hall. Only 75 cents, it includes entertainment by Pat Rice and Sandra Pinsonneault, and entertainment. Committee chairmen and members have worked hard to produce a worthwhile show this year. It deserves your support.

The first SU "Career Day" was held by the Commerce and Finance Department in Buhr Hall Tuesday. C & F classes were suspended to enable students to hear talks and join in discussions with well-known Seattle business leaders. Purpose of the morning's talks was to aid C & F majors in the selection of their specific careers.

Following the program a luncheon was held in the College Club for guests, C & F faculty, and the student moderators.

Other SU department heads might well imitate this helpful attempt to aid students in the choice of their careers.

Supply and Demand

Nestled high in the Pyrenees between France and Spain lies the tiny republic of Andorra, which has perhaps one of the highest per-capita automobile registrations of any nation in the world. Oddly enough, though, one really doesn't see many cars about. The answer lies in the fact that in Spain there is a tremendous demand for French cars, but there is also a law that prohibits the entry of autos from France for sale. However, no such law exists regarding Andorra. Sooo, the (ahem) "dealers" merely stop in, en route to Spain, and register their cars in Andorra. Thus while the number of French cars entering Spain is small, the number of Andorran cars is little less than phenomenal. Incidentally, one of the Andorran government's major sources of revenue is the manufacture and sale of license plates.

Culture Will Out

Have you ever read a story and suddenly realized you were reading with a dialect? I often do, and the other night the magazine story I was reading was coming out in what I should like to think were the lilting rhythms of a Welsh dialect. Somehow everything about the story seemed to demand it, so I flipped over the page to see who had written it. And there was his name: "Alun Llewellyn," as Welsh as daffodys and leeks. Intuition!

It Irketh Me

There's only one thing worse than going to a movie that has been advertised to the high heavens as the greatest, only to find that is merely another of Hollywood's cornballs with a hopped up publicity campaign. That one thing is seeing a good picture first and then running across one of the high-powered ads on it in the paper. I'll give here just one example. The film: "King Solomon's Mines"; the comment in the ad: "Forbidden love of a jungle goddess!" Like I say, it irketh me.

Who, US—I mean WE?

It was an unusual thing to say, but there's a lot to it. The occasion was the A Phi O banquet and the speaker was Glen Nygren, director of student affairs at the U of W. He suggested that those men who managed to get by without serving a term in the service would find one day that they had missed one of the major experiences which have become an integral part of our civilization.

And, apparently it's true. We almost automatically think of the Greeks and the Romans as soldiers, because war and military training were, well, just a part of life in those times. It won't take much more than a quick squint at our country's history in the past half century to show that the venerable ancients were pikers by comparison. But still . . . Who, US?

Pater, Dimitte Illis

Jesus Christ
bows in sacrificial offering, condemned by His chosen ones to death.

Yet, lovingly He pleads:
"Father, forgive them."

As His sight grows faint
He agonizingly envisions decades of rejection by men.

Earnestly He cries:
"Father, forgive them."

His all-searching gaze reaches even to 1953;
and He suffers anew
for our sins.

Mercifully He exhorts:
"Father, forgive them."

Yet, in the midst of suffering
Christ finds solace;
for He offers eternally
the Mass,
where daily He may intercede:
"Father, forgive them."

CAREER SERIES

Natural Science?

• WALTER R. CARMODY
Professor of Chemistry

"Should I major in science?" This is a question asked by many freshmen registering for the first time in college. The question is pertinent because the selection of the right hole for the square peg is one of the most important decisions a student has to make. In order to make a decision intelligently one should know something of the qualifications for a successful career in any given field and the rewards associated with it.

Qualifications for Career

First, what are the qualifications of a scientist as far as interest and ability are concerned? A characteristic of many scientists is that they are primarily interested in and curious about "things" rather than people. A variety of abilities is demanded by the several branches of natural science. Students of some mathematical ability may find interest and success in one of the branches of physics or in physical chemistry. Those less inclined toward mathematics would probably be more successful in biology, organic chemistry or bio-chemistry.

In all branches of natural science there is one ability that is essential to a successful career. That is the ability to think clearly and reason objectively from cause to effect and from experimental facts to logical conclusions.

Second, what remuneration may one expect from a career in science? As far as material rewards are concerned the picture is encouraging. The salary scale is comparable to that of business or of the other professions. During the past fifty years science has been a rapidly expanding field.

The chemical industry, for example, has doubled in size roughly every five years, and the process is still continuing. As a result, jobs and the opportunity for rapid advancement have always been available for well trained graduates in science. A recent survey indicates that the need for chemists in industry at the present time far exceeds the supply that will graduate from our colleges and universities in June.

Vocational Satisfaction

Then we must not overlook the more intangible rewards, which to many of us are just as important as the material ones. These include both the joy of having a vital and interesting job that is a challenge and worthy of one's best effort, and the satisfaction of accomplishment when a particularly difficult assignment is well done. I believe that such rewards are more often realized in scientific work than in many of the other professions. Even the simplest analysis in the laboratory involves problems that may be a challenge to the ingenuity, the imagination and the skill of the laboratorian that possesses a mind trained to grapple with such problems.

When prospective students in science ask if a career in that field is an interesting one I can truthfully reply, "I have been working in chemistry for more than twenty-five years and during that time I have never experienced a dull moment."

Senior Spotlight

• CHARLOTTE VAN DYKE

Who is the liveliest sparkplug at Seattle University? That's easy. Its name is Marion Helenkamp and trying to keep up with her is an all-day job.

Her energy extends particularly along journalistic lines. She is this year's Aegis editor, and last year's associate editor, and of course, is a member of Gamma Sigma Alpha, journalism honorary.

It's small wonder that she is an honorary member of Spurs and is secretary of Silver Scroll. Ever since she graduated from Garfield High School, here in Seattle, and entered SU, she has had a helpful finger in every pie.

Marion, who was born in St. Louis, has limitless enthusiasm and a tremendous reserve of ideas for making things, including many of her own clothes. One thing she can't do, though, is float. She says, "I can swim fine but I'm so thin that when it comes to floating . . . well, there's jus' nothing to hold me up."

MARION HELENKAMP

From being co-chairman of dance, carnival or fashion show committees or taking active part in Sodality to cutting up in classes and sliding down the floor on a banana peel in a mock basketball game, Marion has laughed her way through college.

She couldn't believe it last year when she was nominated for A.S.S.U. secretary. She was sitting (as quietly as possible) next to Mary Ann Sullivan when her name was mentioned. She was so surprised that she jumped up with "Oh! I can't! I can't!" Fortunately for Seattle U Mary Ann quieted her down and assured her that she could do the job. That's an understatement, for, as Mary Ann says, "Have you ever tried to hold Marion down?"

For the past four years Marion has been learning how to do everything in the library from finding a book to losing it. She plans to continue at the University of Washington for an M. A. in Librarianship, but as far as Marion is concerned, that is in the far distant future. There is still another quarter in which she can wrap herself up in activities at Seattle University. And without a doubt, she will.

Opportunity Knocks or Could This Be You?

• HUGH FERGUSON

How many of the graduating seniors have noticed the section of the Registrar's bulletin board located closest to the Madison St. entrance? On this board are all sorts of notices from other universities and colleges which the average student passes off as some sort of lure to steal our students. It isn't an act of treason against the school if students, especially senior students, read these notices. On the contrary, it can be a very beneficial act for both the school and themselves.

It is beneficial to seniors because it will tell how a graduate school will pay their tuition and include a substantial fund for expenses in return for their teaching basic lessons to those new in their field. It is also beneficial to the school since an undergraduate school's recognition as a center of learning is based on the number of graduates taking master's or doctor's courses at other centers of learning.

Requirements for Grants

Qualifications for these teaching fellowships are about the same in all schools. A student must be in the upper fifth of his class, have some ability as a leader, be a graduate of an accredited college and be fit to teach.

All types of courses are available to the student by the universities offering fellowships. Some of the outstanding colleges and universities offering these fellowships, scholarship, and assistantships are old, time-honored names such as Duke, Fordham, Harvard Business School, Mills College for Women, and Boston University.

Notre Dame offers courses in Arts and Sciences and Engineering. She is able to make these possible for a large number of students by making available 275 teaching fellowships and also a number of grants in aid. Help ranging from full university fellowships and scholarships to tuition and veterans' scholarships are available at Northwestern, while George Washington will provide a law school education for a graduate if the student is accepted and keeps up a "B" average.

Not only seniors but all of us are urged to start thinking about the advantages of postgraduate work. As students today we will be the leaders tomorrow and the way to leadership is through study.

Baseballers Ready for WSC Opener Apr. 2

By AL WILLIAMS

Gunning for another NCAA baseball berth, the 1953 edition of Seattle University baseball is rounding into shape as fast as weather permits, with daily workouts at Broadway Playfield.

The letterman-loaded Chiefs are facing a tough 28-game schedule, again meeting all the Northern Division teams except Oregon. SU's regular slate will open April 2 in Pullman against WSC, then shift to Moscow for a Saturday date with Idaho. The Chiefs move back for a Monday, April 6, contest with WSC again at Pullman, then return to Seattle for the home opener, a twin-bill with UBC Saturday, April 11.

The season highlight will of course be the doubleheader with Washington on Saturday, May 2, at Sick's Stadium. Coach Al Brightman will be looking for more of the brand of ball that beat the Huskies (Northern Division co-champ), 2-1 and 9-1, last year. Another high spot is the game with Oregon State, defending Pacific Coast Conference champion, whom the Chiefs edged, 6-5, last season in Corvallis. SU meets the Beavers April 25, again in Corvallis.

The UW and OSC wins, coupled with 18 other victories, gave the Chieftains an NCAA playoff berth against Fresno State last spring. Only six members are missing from that squad. They are shortstop Johnny O'Brien and centerfielder Eddie O., now with Pittsburgh, who plastered the ball for .433 and .431 averages, respectively; and hard-hitting first sacker Les Whittles. Third baseman Bob Fieser graduated, and Albie Anderson is not turning out. Pitcher Tony Manca is not attending SU.

Returning lettermen include pitchers Ernie Pastornicky, John Kelly, and Bob Ward. Fastballer Pastornicky and Kelly each held Washington to one run last year. Veterans behind the plate are hard-hitting Ed Garay, Bill Lagried, and Bob Clark.

Experienced Don Ginsberg and Frank McBarron appear set at first; veteran Bob Carlson is available for second; and Jim Gallwas is working at third. Bill Collier will apparently move into the vacant spot in center, while Chuck "Botch" Guinasso, a .400 hitter last year, is in right. Shortstop and left field positions are wide open, although none of the team spots are really definite, and veterans could be moved out.

Dick Naish, an Army vet, and Jack George, from Prep, are battling for the shortstop job; while freshmen John O'Brien, of O'Dea, and Fred Behm, of Roosevelt, are in the running for second and third. Freshmen Ken Hayne, from California; Art Hatch, of Marysville; Wayne House, of Vashon; and Carlo Leonetti, of Prep, give added mound strength.

Bob Anderson, from Everett J.C., is looking good as a catcher; while Jim Burns, of Garfield, could be the left fielder. Also looking for outfield berths are Dan Zender, Cal Bauer, Darrell Steffus, Bernie Bakenfohr, Don Maddox, and Gail Forbes.

Joe Faccione, former SU player and Fort Lewis coach, is the new assistant baseball coach.

Ski Men Face Tough Test at Utah Tourney

Seattle U skiers will face their toughest competition of the season Friday through Sunday as they enter the National Intercollegiate meet at Ogden, Utah.

The Chiefs were invited because of their wins in the Alpine Combined, the Downhill Slalom at the Banff International Collegiate meet, and the District Championships at Kimberley, B. C. Washington and WSC are other northwest representatives.

Those who left Tuesday for Ogden were Coach Karl Stingl, Dick Schwaegler, John Ryan, Jim Hopper, Clarence and Irvin Serwold, Dick Kritzman and Don Walker. Kritzman and Walker are in their final SU competition, both being graduating seniors.

O'Brien, Gordon Receive Honors

Seattle said good-bye to the O'Briens last week end, but not before "Shots" was presented with another award. This was the Paul Bunyan Plaque, given by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce for his efforts on the Chieftain hoop squad.

Johnny was judged the individual who did the most to bring favorable publicity to the city of Seattle.

Jack "Flash" Gordon, SU athletic publicity director, won an award for his publicity campaign in behalf of Seattle U and O'Brien, which he directed.

Godes Breaks O'Brien Marks

The SU Papooses climaxed another successful season with a 26-7 record, plus the winning of the Northwest AAU Tournament.

Under the coaching of Les Whittles, former SU player, many ball players have developed into varsity material for the coming seasons.

The star of the Papooses, big Bob Godes, with 653 points, broke almost all the Papoose records formerly held by Johnny O. Cal Bauer and Tommy Cox have that "know how" that could put them on the varsity five next year. Don McDougall, Al Giles, and Larry Sanford are fine prospects for anybody's ball club.

Below are the season statistics for the Papooses.

Girls' Halls Get New Signs

IKs Bob Weher and Darrell Brittain tack up a new sign while Nancy Skeate, Ceil Dolan, Ann Carroll, and Ruth Finlen, of Mitchell Hall, look on.

IKs Construct Name Plaques For Women's Resident Halls

By HANK BUSSMAN

Newly constructed name and address plaques will adorn the women's halls next week, it was announced today by Honorable Duke of IKs Jack Gahan.

Constructed and presented by the Wigwam Chapter of the Inter-collegiate Knights, the plaques are two feet high and three feet wide. The base bears a natural finish, the raised letters are Chinese red. Halls receiving plaques are Bordeaux, Campion, Caroline, Mitchell and Sarazin.

Essay Contest Offers Prizes To Korean Vets

The American Veterans Committee, Inc., is sponsoring an essay contest for Korean conflict servicemen and veterans. The subject is, "What the United States Should Do Now about the Korean Conflict."

The essay contest is open to any citizen of the United States currently on active duty in the armed forces of the U.S. in Korea or adjacent waters thereto, or who has performed duty in such armed forces in such geographical area since June 27, 1950.

National prizes will be $250 for first place, $100 for second place, and $50 for third place.

Essays must be received in the national office of the American Veterans Committee, 1751 New Hampshire Ave. N.W., Washington 9, D. C., before midnight (EST), April 7, 1953. Essays must not exceed 2,500 words.

Under the carpentry and ingenuity of Darrell Brittain and Bob Weher, the project was adopted in order to unify the identification of the women's residence halls. It has been felt that many halls had no distinctive markings and that the new signs will prove decorative and directive.

"The close of ushering for basketball games does not mark the finish of our activities," stated Gahan.

Spring quarter IK plans include attending a national convention, sponsoring an all-school carnival and a tri-service club picnic, participation in the song-fest, and further ushering at Seattle U activities.

MORE ABOUT ASSU Constitution Undergoing Change

The final paragraph of the constitution has been revised to say all clubs must submit three copies of their proposed constitution with the clause stating their activities are subject to the ASSU instead of "charter or constitution." The charter is their certificate of membership in the association and is given to the club after approval of the constitution by the Assembly Board.

One of the changes in the statutes is to quarterly instead of monthly meetings for the Activities Board. Another says that the punishment for not attending the board meeting will last for the duration of the quarter after the meeting. This punishment will include no publicity of any type on campus.

Student Publicity Handled By Public Relations Office

By ANNE LIPPERT

"Tell us you've been elected president of Drama Guild. Your club is sponsoring a mixer? We want to know," says Robert E. Giblin, SU publicity head. "The SU Public Relations Department is interested in your activities, elections, and events." Set up to "put SU on the map," they hope to do this by letting people know what you've been doing.

The department depends upon the students and the thirty-three student organizations for the information they need. Dances, speakers, and banquets provide good publicity copy. Unless the Public Relations office is told of these events they don't get the news coverage they should.

A student might feel he's "tooting his own horn" by letting the office know he's a 4.0 student or A Phi O president. Hometown newspapers want news of native sons and daughters, and the mention of your activities not only lets the folks at home know you're doing all right, but publicizes SU and your organizations.

Seattle 'U' Reports

In their aim to acquaint the public with the growth of Seattle University, the Public Relations Department uses many means of communication. One of the newest of these is Seattle U Reports, a quarterly brochure sent to Seattle businessmen, telling of the progress of our expansion program. Father John Kelly, S. J., director of the department, has been chiefly concerned with this portion of the publicity campaign.

Mr. Robert Giblin as Director of Publicity is in charge of all student publicity. Besides his work on the quarterly report, Mr. Giblin handles all advertising in national and local magazines and newspapers. Other duties include the publishing of brochures and bulletins for both the day and evening schools.

During spring quarter the department plans to meet with the publicity heads from all clubs on campus. Through meetings, the office hopes to gain not only better news releases from the students but also ideas for features in the daily papers. More and better publicity for SU is their object.

Robert E. Giblin, SU publicity director, is pictured working in his office, Warren West Hall, on campus. Mr. Giblin graduated from Marquette University, Milwaukee, 1948, with a Ph.D. degree. Before coming to Seattle U he worked on newspapers in Spokane, Rochester, New York, and Milwaukee.

Sodality Assists 'Jesuit Missions' Procure Funds

Members of the Sodality have been active this week assisting Father John McCumiskey, S. J., associate editor of "Jesuit Missions," in the mission campaign he began on campus early this week.

The sodalists will make the mission envelopes available to all students who may be interested in helping the 1114 American Jesuit missionaries throughout the world.

Father McCumiskey, a native of Chicago, in his task of making known the work of his brother Jesuits, has visited most of the 27 Jesuit colleges and universities in the country.

Talks to Classes

In his talks to SU theology classes, Father urged the students to pray every day and to offer up acts of self-denial and mortification for the missionaries. Citing grace as the most necessary element of success, he also pointed out the need for financial aid.

Two SU Grads Awarded Naval Ensign Diploma

Two Seattle U graduates were among 840 young men who received their ensign's commissions at the Navy's only Officer Candidate School, Newport, R. I., March 6.

Frank E. Loonam, Jr., 1950 graduate in Industrial Engineering, from Tacoma; and Joseph L. Ward, 1951 Business Administration graduate, from Seattle, were presented their gold-trimmed caps before a crowd estimated at over a thousand.

These new officers will join other OCS graduates already serving on every type of combatant and non-combatant ship in the fleet.
