FREEWAY TO OBLITERATE SEATTLE U

FACULTY INTENDS TO PICK ASSU OFFICERS

In a surprise move late Thursday night, SU faculty chiefs agreed upon some startling innovations in student government policies. The main resolution enacted is the appointment of Student Body officers and the Assembly Bored group by a panel of faculty members.

The closely contested decision came about after a stormy all-night session. Several counts filed against the present student leaders ignited the fires of faculty action.

General charges include uncooperative and insubordinate policies. More specific accusations filed against ASSU prexy Darrel Brittain were eating in the ASSU office, and from the Education Department came 1) uncertified lesson plans and 2) mishandling of audio-visual equipment. (Dr. O'Brien reports, "There's a screw loose some place.")

Button-holed for comment on the situation, Mr. Brittain said, "This puts my mind at ease about a qualified successor to my position."

Fr. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., appeared calm and genial when interviewed. He said, "We certainly want the students to share the largest part in conducting their own affairs. To this end we have decided to hold general elections for Financial Bored positions as well as Department heads. Other faculty members declined to comment on the situation."

Fearlessly forecasting the outcome of this spring's appointments, the Spectator names Flip Smith, Jack Dawson (Vets Hall contingent), Karen Forestein, and Jackie Judy sure winners, with Mr. Brittain as a dark horse reappointment selection.

The Registrar's office announces that the winter transcript grades are "all balled up." New transcripts are now being issued from the switchboard booth.

Comprehensives Are Too Comprehensive

Results of the first Senior Comprehensive Test taken by 1954-55 graduating seniors was released by the Sucker Center. It was disclosed that grades were far above the standard established for colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Statistics (based on a comparison of Seattle U seniors with other students in the country) reveal that Seattle U seniors possess a high degree of intellectual intelligence that excels that of other students.

There can be only one logical explanation for the superior intelligence of Seattle U students—they diligently devote their entire time to studying, forsaking all social life and extra-curricular activities that would thwart their purpose.

It was brought to the attention of the Sucker Center that this predominance of intellect is unfair to other college and university students. Consequently, certain handicaps have been drawn up in an attempt to remedy the situation. They are:

1. Seniors are forbidden to study for the Comprehensives.
  2. Each senior is permitted to take the test only twice.
  3. If a senior fails, he will not be allowed to graduate from Seattle U.
  4. Number of exam questions is extended to 200 questions.
  5. Maximum time limit for completion of the test is 30 minutes.
  6. To qualify for honors, a student must obtain a grade of 980.
- These new regulations are effective as of spring quarter 1955.

Plastino to Warble In ROBERTA?

Mu Sigma, in a startling announcement, named Jim Plastino to play the feminine lead in "Robert." After much debate the directors came to the decision early this morning. They were forced to admit that Jim's voice has most unusual qualities.

Bud Christy, president of the group, had made it known that the music honorary would do anything to get a good review.

Ed Stasney, a principal in the cast, says, "It is an unexpected pleasure to work with such an appreciative partner. Jimmy has nothing but praise for our group." Brenna Kidney, formally scheduled for the part, notes the best range for his voice is to be found in the Cascade section. There it can reach great peaks.

During tryouts, James failed to get the pitch after remarks about his feminine role and was stuck. He was sore after finally hitting the note.

The strangeness of the situation brings a problem of make-up. Marcia Dodson, in charge of this department, promises with the help of her crew to give Jimmy the works. All Mu Sigma members feel James won't be recognizable when they finish him.

Since no other member of the

PRETTY JIM PLASTINO

Spectator staff has Mr. Plastino's background of musical excellence in reporting, his performance is certain to receive high praise. Jim's copy enumerating the tremendous ovations and curtain calls has already been submitted to the printers in anticipation of his own performance. His utter humility is highly striking.

Campus To Be Covered Up By New Expressway

PROPOSED FREEWAY ROUTE
(SU Underneath)

In a surprise move late last night, the State Highway Commission voted to accept a route for the new Everett-Tacoma Tollway, which runs right through the Seattle University campus.

The Seattle University property, which will be condemned, includes the top half of the Liberal Arts Building, the second story of the Science Building, the top six inches of the east half of the Engineering Building, the Lounge, the chimney on Vets Hall, and the new faculty residence (except the basement and Fr. Loulouse's room).

The tollway will be elevated as it passes through the campus, so that except for the above mentioned minor changes in the structures, there will be no real change. Classes will go on in the Science Building as usual, although the ele-

New, New, New! Women To Be In Next Smoker

Mark Horton, chairman of the IK Phi O smoker event to be held in the Memorial Gymnasium April 31, announced today that special dispensation from the Wakuska Lemon Squeezing Committee has been obtained to allow the introduction of feminine wrestlers to the Seattle U fight crowd.

The main event will match the much-awaited clash between the "Gilded Shark," Margie Carrigan, and "Cannonball" Cherie Flink.

In an interview, Margie stated she will use her famed head-spin to throw Miss Flink out of the ring when she tries to use her effective drop-kick.

Preliminary bouts will match Dorothy Schaff and Anita Yourglic, Ann O'Donnell and Terry Kerns, and Diane Flood against Kathy Humes.

One of the most interesting bouts of the gigantic affair will be the semi-windup featuring a tag team match between ASSU prexy Darrell Brittain and AWSSU prexy Barbara Vanderhoef against Jim Plastino and Marilyn Steckler, editors on the Spectator.

The ASSU team has predicted: "We know we will win because we are tuff," and the Spectator side has declared: "Words can never express the confidence that resides in the very heart of our team, and oozes out from every pore."

come under this classification will be asked to kindly return their diplomas.

Other additions and modifications in the announcement announced that only two (2) cuts are allowed in any class. This is to guarantee that no more than one-quarter of each class can receive a passing grade. Furthermore, anyone caught chewing gum, flirting, doodling, sleeping or frolicking on the lawn will be subject to instant expulsion.

Readmission into the school can be accomplished only by the submission of a petition signed by 2,000 suckers, stating that the petitioner is a desirable unalien who is willing to pay a $1,000 reinstatement fee and to quit clowning.

Probe Opens On Files In Student Body Office

Culminating a special investigation spearheaded by the Spectator, the ASSU file cabinets were thrown open and the contents revealed to the public.

In an article printed several weeks ago by a well-known Spectator writer, an inference was made that SU students do not know all that goes on in the Student Body office. Because of the close proximity of the Spectator and Student Body offices, information concerning the "dirty doings" was easily obtained. A rumor has been circulating that the wall between the two offices was wired.

The factual evidence was obtained, however, from the file cabinet. Investigators present at the opening included Sen. Joe McCarthy, Oliver Cromwell, Robespierre, Fr. Bussy (representing the faculty), and the Spectator editor.

In a folder marked, "ASSU, PRIVATE, CONFIDENTIAL," and the Contents of This Folder may not be used against us on the grounds of the Fifth Amendment," certain communiques were discovered which prove that Student Body officers are planning a hurried departure on or about May 1 for a region commonly known as Siberia. Siberia is renowned for its pleasure palaces, casinos, sunshine, and salt-mines.

The jaunt was to be financed by installing turnstiles at each LA Building entrance.

In a statement issued the Student Body officers stated, "This is a plot, planted and nurtured by the Spectator, to discredit the finest administration this university has ever seen. WE SEE RED!"

The investigating committee has assured the Spectator that because of the "dirty doings" uncovered, other campus offices, namely the president's and the registrar's, will not be immune from committee probing.

Refreshments To Be Served

School officials announced a further development in Seattle U's expansion program, viz., an outlet for cool drinks at the Information Booth bar. The development will furnish diversion for Seattle U students as they tire, toward the extended Spring Quarter finals.

The name of this new extension, which will be operated by a prominent local tavern, will be the "Iron Ape." Facilities for faculty members who do not care for bar service will be provided for in the women's faculty lounge under its new name, "Gorilla Room."

The ever popular "Another Shot?" Ryan will serve as bartender, with able assistance from Jeri Vonn, barmaid.

Officials further announced that one of the most popular features of the bar will be the introduction of Seattle's first 19¢ pitcher, and hope that indoctrination in its use will become a school tradition.

Spring Quarter To Go ON & ON & ON

A recent release from the head office announces that spring quarter will be extended until June 27. According to the higher-up what said so, "This is so our academic standards will be so high that no other school will be able to reach dem. Come to think of it, what one would want to?"

Seniors are to take especial note that their graduation date will remain on June 1. Hence, it may happen that some may graduate but not really graduate. Those who

Thru the Peephole

Although it is not the policy of the Peep-Hole to try to sway the reader in regard to political beliefs, the time has come to mention a party of the United States which is constantly growing. And if something isn't done about it pretty soon, they may engulf us and force their dire, devastating, despotic ways upon us.

The party to which I refer is the Hitler Youth Movement. Statistics which were furnished the Peep-Hole by Prof. Joh Mykut and his "Status Quo Statisticians" indicate that the Hitler Youth Movement is steadily growing, and that in 1955 there will be more members of the Hitler Youth Movement than there will be people.

An interesting fact drawn from the "Status Quos" compilations shows that there are two shady individuals that are both registered in the locals of South Amboy, N. J.; Aberdeen, Md.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Seattle, Wash.

Another interesting fact that I ran across while reading the Hitler Youth Movement platform in the "Hourly Worker" was that this foul group supports low taxes, increased public works, states' rights, religious freedom, academic freedom, socialism, capitalism, the eight-day week end, education, equal rights for men, voting, breathing, more employment, less unemployment, the reduction of the national debt, and motherhood. Now ain't that something!

It has been rumored that local members of this nefarious nest of naughty nonentities include Darrell Brittain (The Great), James (Pendergrasp) Plastino, General Kathy Humes, Jim (Labor Organizer and recruiter par excellence) Ray, that *1% 1/2*! (knucklehead that gave me that !*?~!*1/2% grade last quarter), and the comrade who made up the Philosophy Comprehensive Exam in which I placed 76th out of 75.

The student chapter of (I've mentioned it too often and I can't think of a synonym for) Hitler Youth Movement (and if you can think of a synonym for Hitler Youth Movement, O dear reader of this not-illustrious piece of exposaic journalism, please insert your own synonym for Hitler Youth Movement in this space which I have provided for your own synonym for Hitler Youth Movement, as of how and account of because you can't hardly get them kind no more nohow) is defunct.

Therefore, I do hereby urge you to cast your vote with the party that can do so much for you, and don't support such outmoded parties as the Democrats, Republicans, Communists, or the Hitler (oop! synonym). For the name of this party which I am recommending to you, watch this space in your Peep-Hole in 1955.

HE SPEAKS . . .

Fellow Friends, Followers, and Fans:

SU students are asked to drop their prudery and show their spirit. They have been bottled too long. This is the century of extroversion and there is no place for old-fashions to permeate the atmosphere. Though the still days are gone, we must not forget early times, but forge ahead to new goals. What SU needs is more proof that we've got what it takes. Let's turn over a new leaf and model old granddad. What's ailing you?

Further notations center around the presence of a budding young genius in our midst. A star is born at SU. This atom of action is beyond all expectation — so much so that the lead in Roberta has been given to this sparkling personality. To picture this dual personality is to picture a wide smile and sparkling baby-blue eyes. Hedda Hopper would imagine a dream come true. Nor does it cease here. This individual has talents, including acting and journalistic endeavors, that supersede anything existing previously. This latter ability abides in the whole being, in this person's heart and SOLE. Give your real opinions of our new camp's personality by writing letters to this office.

Now to a bit less pleasant matter. It seems a shame that competent positions need be filled by those deserving anything but these same positions. How can you exchange a kitchen apron for copy and ink, etc.? Newspapers have long ceased to be adorned with frills and such, but are instruments of spreading local and national items of importance. Something must be done to counteract this outrage. We must act at once, while there is yet time.

PUZZLE

This week's puzzle was donated by a member of the Physics Department who is leaving these hallowed walls shortly for greener pastures on the other side of town. In a last mad attempt to gain fame, he devised the puzzle guaranteed to baffle even Fr. McGoldrick. Briefly the puzzle is this:

If it takes two nickles to get one candy bar from the machine in the Chieftain, and three nickles to get one candy bar from the machine in the Science Building, but only one nickle to get two candy bars at Safeway, is there any reason why you should buy your candy at Tradewell?

Now isn't that simple! To qualify for first prize, a candy factory, you must work out the puzzle in the space above. Turn in the finished puzzle to our Candy Editor — and please don't leave sticky fingerprints.

PEEPS

By THE PEEPER

In order to stimulate intellectual activity and provide a means for intelligent expression of opinion, the PEEP-HOLE has opened its column, "Peeps," to the intelligentsia of Seattle University. In doing this we are of course assuming that there is no one at Seattle University who is not the epitome of intelligence. (Faculty of course excluded.)

The opinions expressed below, although the opinions of the contributors, will necessarily be those of the PEEP-HOLE, because we're just about the nicest people you'll ever have the chance to meet.

Dear Peeper:

I would like to take this opportunity to bring to your attention the many complaints received by our office in regard to the poor quality pictures which are printed in your paper.

One of the reasons that the photos are so bad, I know, is because of the mutual dislike between the photographer, Miss Jan Isn't, and yourself, the editor of the Peep-Hole.

But by diligent sleuthing, I, Babs Gabloon, in charge of Bad Publicity for SU, have discovered the real cause of the faulty photos. Here is my report:

1. The subjects themselves (present company not excluded) are HORRIBLE, horrible. Never before have so many grotesque visages been gathered in one university.
2. The quality of the paper used in printing the pictures is so poor it has but one use, to paper the walls in Robel's Inferno. The paper has been tested in Professor George Seagull's chemical engineering laboratory and his report states, "The quality of the paper is so poor that it could only be used by paper hangers."
3. The photographer's, political leanings are also in question. It is known that she has in the past associated with two Pirates, John and Ed O'Brain. The whereabouts of these two are unknown as they did not report to the spring maneuvers of the Pirates.

In conclusion, therefore, I would like to say that all pictures submitted by said photographer be used at all times in the PEEP-HOLE, since the whole publication stinks anyway.

Pours disinterestedly,
BABS GABLOON,
Bad Publicity Director.

NOTES quite enuff • KIM FABLE

Seattle U will finally get a big-name band! This startling news was released in a surprise move after a rapid chain of events Wednesday afternoon. For two years, I have pleaded, cajoled, argued, and brayed — no, that's not the word — anyway, I had just about given up hope for any big-name band ever to appear on this campus. Now, it was revealed yesterday, my many good friends in that wonderful organization Mu Sigma, aided by the sterling efforts of Darrell Brittain, have succeeded in signing a Latin-American combo led by Gonzales Pistachio Josef Giovanni Svetlana de la Straits of Juan de Fuca O'San Juan. They just don't come with much bigger names.

Notes in a Guff: Mu Sigma is currently dickering with Father McGoldrick for the use of his lapel public address system as used in room 123 for a forthcoming production about a young farm girl named Eliza who invents a new surgical instrument for spinal operations. It's entitled "Eliza and the Lumbar Jack."

Notes Off the Bluff: Mu Sigma is also negotiating with an Eastern theatrical supply company for the construction of a revolutionary new circular stage. This new circular stage should result in some of the most well-rounded productions this campus has ever seen.

Notes Rather Tuff: The script is uncoordinated, lacks polish, and is in general very mediocre. The script has so many inconsistencies that it could not hope to be saved despite the efforts of the drama coach. Most of the solos were rotten and the chorus was off-key, committed many miscues, and culminated their sad performance by falling clean through the flimsy stage. The cast was lousy. Here insert the name of your favorite production:

Notes in a Huff: We sat in on the student assembly meeting last Friday. Well, we didn't exactly sit, we mostly hid under some papers in the waste basket disguised as a cigarette butt. Here, smuggled out for you, are the results of that meeting. Student drinking was the first problem discussed and it was decided that it must stop — student drinking, I mean. Accordingly, the contractors presently working on the new men's dormitory will take time out Monday to remove the drinking fountains from all floors of the LA Building and the entire campus. One exception will be made and that for the fountain on the main floor of the Science Building, since the fluid emanating from that location is not considered drinkable. It was also decided that ASSU must go, as well as that menace Jim Sabol.

Notes in the Ruff: We would be the last to disagree with the majority of opinion, but nonetheless, we feel that Schamoioloff's latest release on a Capitol label (no record, just the label), "I'm Dancing With Knees in My Eyes (because the girl I'm with is too tall)," is rendered with uncommon precision and feeling. Should go all the way.

Half-Nuts: Saturday night, we witnessed one of the better horse operas to play in Seattle in the past two weeks at the Orpheus Theatre. This production was considerably hampered by the inadequate Orpheus stage, which was not sufficiently stable for the horses . . . perhaps you haven't noticed it but there hasn't been any Barn Dance the past seven years. We think this situation should be remedied. We think that whoever Canned this Can bring it back. Can Canning destroy our traditions? Git Offen my Bach! Goodbye, Mr. Sabol.

The DOGGIE In The WINDOW

By JIM PENDERGRASP

It's certainly funny (why aren't you laughing then, you chronic moron, you living personification of simplicity?) how cruel life can be to some poor souls. Take, for instance, the case of my beloved fellow columnist, Jim Plastino. Gads! What a pitiful character.

Now we need not reiterate here the unexcelled virtues of love, sympathy, and charity so inherently manifested in Plastino's personality. One need only read his column to find that out.

So it was that this good man (and I say "man" with certain justifiable philosophical mental reservations) was asked to give a retreat for the "Mentally Maladjusted Club" of Seattle. A few days ago, then, he and his proteges gathered at Port Wine, Washington, to ponder the basic concepts of essence, existence and espionage.

Now as any poor sap knows, Port Wine is located just north of Poodo By The Sea, Washington, and is surrounded on three sides by the Terrific Ocean. Its unabounding beauty and richness of soil make it a literal haven for the nature lover, philosopher and be-bopper. So, with the soulfully intoxicating community of Port Wine as the setting, the three days of contemplation, consideration and concentration commenced. (Zounds! Such a facile use of illiteration astounds even me.)

On the second night Plastino was sitting at his desk placidly pondering Platonic philosophy (Zeke! there it is again). But, unbeknownst to that poor boy, tsk, tsk, a villain had arrived on the scene in the person of the eminent biologist, Dr. Jim Murphy. An extremely well-known personality on campus, Murphy is Serf of the Intramural Knights, President of the Young Republicans and Beau Brummel of the senior class of Forest Ridge High School.

At any rate, Dr. Jim "Humility" Murphy was busily pursuing a wild squid up the beach when he caught sight of the retreat house. It was at that moment that a sinister and devilish plot took form in Dr. Murphy's mind. "Ay," he thought to himself, "this night I shall gain final proof of my theory of conditioned reaction."

His eyes flashing, his heart beating madly, his mouth salivating, the distinguished scientist opened up his bag of goodies. He withdrew from it a gigantic, grotesque Asterias Rubens (Webster refers to this as a starfish). He stole silently into the House of Meditation and made his way to the room of the SU columnist. In the meantime, Plastino was walking in the garden thinking timely thoughts.

Once inside, Dr. Jim placed the sea monster inside the columnist's bed. He then withdrew into the closet, there better to observe what would ensue. Plastino soon returned from his grazing and climbed into his place of repose. Murphy eagerly watched.

Thereupon, my journalistic compatriot immediately felt a crushing weight upon his legs and feet. He instinctively reached under his blanket. When his hand came in contact with the cold, clammy, prickly flesh of the water serpent, he shot out of bed — as if fired from a cannon. A flick of the light switch illuminated the room, and Plastino stood gazing at the beast, frozen with fear.

Consummated with terror and rage, he seized the nefarious Murphy, who had since emerged from the closet, and thrashed him within a yard of his very death. Nevertheless, the scientist managed to escape, complete with his proof of conditioned reaction.

My readers, I exhort you in all sincerity. Beware the ides of March! This evil being is still alive. He has essence, existence, potency and act. He is even today roaming the grounds of this campus. And above all, I warn you, never smile at a crocodile — he may wind up in your bed.

HUMES NAMED ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

FLASH IN THE PAN

ACE'S FACE — Seattle University received news late last night that Flash Skaggs, ace center for the Neutron Bombers basketball team, is set to enroll at SU. Skaggs has been described by Chieftain scouts as a cross between Bill Russell, Tom Gola and Westbrook Pegler.

Kathy Humes??

Miss Kathy Humes, long known for her meritorious endeavors in the Seattle U athletic department, was named today by the Athletic Board as the new director of athletics, succeeding Willard M. Fenton, successful insurance executive.

The 21-year-old Ephraim in her fourth year at Seattle U will assume her directorship today, although certain revisions planned by her will not be incorporated immediately.

In commenting on her new post the comely co-ed stated, "I am overjoyed, I just don't know what to say except..." and immediately launched into a 2,000-word prepared statement on her future plans at the Seattle Jesuit institution.

Primary interest to Miss Humes is the attendance at the basketball games. Her intentions of solidifying this problem is the abolishment of tickets and having one of her newly appointed assistants, Bill Sears, stand in front of the Civic Auditorium just prior to game time shouting, "Free lunch!" or "Free dinner!" as the case may be.

In approaching problems closer to home, the new athletic director looks for an extensive remodeling of the gymnasium. First matter to attend to will be the transferring of all the athletic offices to the Student Union Building.

Adding to this, Miss Humes stated, "We will retain the use of the present gym, but in an effort to help education at Seattle University we will make it into a semi-botany garden, for all those interested in botany."

"Being such an important part of my new program, I have named Stan Glowaski and Bob Clark as my official representatives to see that this project is watered and weeded—in other words, they're going to be plain, ordinary gardeners," she added.

Among many other of her plans for the athletic program at SU will be informal teas during basketball practice, enabling the team to get better acquainted, dating Marycrest girls in order to qualify for the 1955 basketball squad and personal interviews by Miss Humes of all scholarship hopefuls enabling her to tour the United States two and three times a year.

Questioned by this reporter as to the future status of Jack Gordon, Al Brightman, Bob Klug and other sundry individuals of the department, the youthful director emphasized, "They can do whatever they want, as long as they report to me."

Minnesota Grabs Stricklin; Love of Liadowski Great

Dick Stricklin, the season's top scoring threat at Seattle University, has played his last game for the Maroon and White.

The tall talented young sophomore failed to make an appearance on the campus during the enrollment period for the spring quarter at the Seattle institution, and later it was confirmed that he had already left Seattle for Minneapolis on his new Schwinn bicycle, and is expected to arrive there sometime tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Informed sources believe that Stricklin, who stands just eight inches shorter than Wade Halbrook, will enroll at Minnesota and continue his college basketball career there, although Stricklin himself was not available for comment, he had shown a strong interest in Minnesota prior to his enrollment at SU in the fall of 1954. When asked at the time about his decision, Stricklin said, "Let's just say I'd rather be nearer a certain girl at Renton High School."

(The girl later proved to be Ladwiga Liadowski, attractive senior and captain of Renton's tumbling team, whom Stricklin had met at Muscle Beach, Santa Monica, Calif., during what Stricklin himself described as that "delightfully esthetic summer of 1952," according to his roommate and only confidant, Bruce Attebery.)

Why Stricklin left Seattle U is still a puzzle although some quarters feel that varsity coach Al Brightman's objection to Stricklin's playing summer basketball in Mexico might have had something to do with it.

Stricklin was captain, and led the Yucatan League in scoring, with the Cienfuegos team. Words were exchanged between the two over this question, and Brightman cancelled Stricklin's allotment of imported Peruvian cigars as a purely disciplinary measure.

When asked if he could throw any light on the question, Attebery said: "Ladwiga is signing on as a coach at Northwestern when she graduates in June; need I say more?"

At any rate relations have apparently been strained between the two schools, and unless a favorable explanation as to whether or not they approached Stricklin is offered by Minnesota, the Gophers may find themselves dropped from Seattle U's basketball schedule, according to Kathy Humes, athletic director at the Seattle institution.

The Gophers and Chieftains are scheduled for a home-and-home series in 1955.

SU Sailing Club in Gold Cup Races!!

Highlighting a week of surprising developments, the Seattle University Sailing Club announced its intention of sponsoring an entry in the Gold Cup Races Sunday, Aug. 13, 1955. This coincides with their "expansionist movement" of going big-time with major calibre competition.

The Chieftain entry had been long in the discussion stage, but received a definite boost when Fr. Francis Kane, S.J., gave his long-awaited financial approval for this project. Unfortunately the reliable rumor of a tuition boost because of this added expense could not be suppressed.

President Mike Weber of the Sailing Club announced that work on the hydroplane had reached the finishing stages. The craft will undergo extensive testing in the men's pool on Lower Campus before attempting any speed runs. Unknown to the ASSU office, the Miss M.

Monroe II, as the shapely craft is affectionately called by its crewmen, had been considered as a fishing boat for the non-golfing members of the Jesuit faculty.

However, this possibility was eliminated when the Bored of Health condemned the M. Monroe II as being too bilgy in spots. Minor repairs have since been made.

The Sailing Club also made known the BIG-NAME pilot for their entry. He is Santos Eligio Fernandez Hilarion Contreras y Garcia, who was chosen because of his operating experience and proven ability as a "bench jockey" without match. All hands agreed to the suitability of the choice.

This space is respectfully dedicated to the reporter who failed to turn in his assignment for this space. May he rest in peace.

Cox Enters UW; Blames SU Lack of Football

The Athletic Office sadly reported today that Tom Cox, two-year basketball letterman, will not be with the Seattle University team next year.

The event is a hard blow to SU's basketball hopes, but school officials thought that it was a great chance to strengthen athletic relationships between the two schools. Washington officials feeling lost without Cox, jumped at the chance to sign Tom and get the magic name on their roster.

In an interview Tom said, "I hate to leave Seattle U and all my friends, but the offer was too good not to consider, and besides my football talents were not being used here."

Many New York writers and fans of Cox will be very happy to hear the news, as Tom holds quite a reputation as a football player.

Alas! It is "Ave atque Vale" to Tom. May he prosper at UW.

FACULTY GOLFERS OPEN PROFESSIONAL CIRCUIT

Those who concern themselves with the athletic endeavors of Seattle University were busy speculating as to the results of the announcement that emanated from the Athletic Department last night. In a press release Gat Jordan, director of published propaganda, revealed that the school administration has approved the formation of a golf team consisting of two of the more prominent members of the Jesuit faculty.

This fair duo includes these distinguished individuals: Father Rebhahn, S.J., and Father Toulouse, S.J. They will participate in the Masters Tourney at Augusta, Ga., and follow the professional tournament trail for six months.

Father Rebhahn, S.J., openly acknowledges that he is pursuing the title of Outstanding Cleric Golfer of the Northwest, and it is for this express purpose that he has decided to follow the professional tournament schedule.

Father Toulouse, S.J., gentleman Jesuit, philosopher, and outspoken advocate of the Republican Party, based his decision on several solid considerations. He feels he will win more money to help furnish the new Jesuit faculty house in two months of tournament competition than he will collect from the entire city of Seattle during the remainder of the year.

Father Rebhahn, S.J., takes a more realistic stand on Reverend Toulouse's golfing ability, in that he admits his greatest asset is his ability to chatter constantly. As Father Rebhahn, S.J., puts it: "He talks a great game."

ROTC Boys To Sport Real Cool Uniforms

ROTC officials have announced the acceptance of a new uniform which will be requirement for all Seattle University cadets beginning fall quarter, 1955.

The uniforms were designed by a carefully selected board of Foreign Legion veterans. It was hoped that the difficulties entailed by these men in their vast experience on active duty would aid them greatly in their work of designing a uniform suitable for every need.

For long wear the board decided on light leather lederhosen to be worn two inches above the knee. A red bow tie tied under a scalloped white collar and one large leather suspender over one shoulder will eliminate the need of a shirt. Argyle anklets, fatigue boots or low quarters and a German-style combat helmet complete the ensemble.

"The aim of the new uniform is not only to better condition the soldier against the weather but also to save the taxpayers money," stated Sgt. Dean Dizzy, head of the committee, at a recent interview.

On campus Kernel Brass welcomes the uniform as a great conditioner and improvement. "The uniform is so easy to keep clean," stated the kernel. "Inspecting cadets on Wednesdays will now be a pleasure. There is one reminder, however, cadets' knees must at all times be kept spotlessly clean."

To show cooperation offered the new uniform, Miss Unice Marlin, head of the Home Economics Department at Seattle University, stated, "Beginning fall quarter all Home Economics majors must submit three pairs of argyle anklets to the ROTC office before receiving their degrees. Associate degree receivers must submit two pairs. At least one pair must be under size 18."

To show further cooperation, Father Schmit will contribute rabbit fur from the Biology Department which will cause a reduction in the price of yarn for the socks.

At a scheduled meeting Colonel Mally will further discuss the uniforms with cadets. "It is my hope that Seattle University students will accept the uniform with the same response as did colleges throughout Russia. An advancement has definitely been made in progress both in the world of men's fashions and combat performance at the time when this uniform is worn and accepted."

Students are hopefully awaiting the change and most cadets are anxious to purchase their new military wardrobes.

Spitz of News

Free phones will soon be installed in Marycrest Dorm-Hall. The school wishes to announce here that it would be delighted to foot any long distance call bills.

Somebody broke the big mirror in the Chieftain cafeteria. Who dun it? Shame on you!

Vets Hall now has a curfew hour of 7:30 p.m. each evening so those poor little boys can get some sleep. Or was that 7:30 a.m.?

Free training is now available for anyone interested in making $5,000 to $10,000 a day. Those interested are invited to participate in the next meeting of the Linwood Job Co. in First International Bank.

Seattle U's own Powder River Boys will make their debut performance in the Metropolitan Theatre of Neu Yawk, Neu Yawk, on May 6½.

vator will not stop on the second floor unless flagged down.

Fr. Lemieux is not overly pleased with the plan, and when questioned by this reporter said, "Crazy, new-fangled idea might work, and then again it might not."

All is not dismay though. Under the law of eminent domain of the life estate of a school of higher learning, subject to the laws of easement and negotiability of an estate in fee abstract, which was brought to the attention of the administration by Mr. Bell, the school will be able to charge a toll for people using the section of the road above the school.

Father Kain has already signed E. Thomas Revenue, the famed electrochemist, to design the necessary toll stations. The School of Commerce and Finance will count estimates of returns are correct the the money and if the preliminary school will not over $14,798.33 per day.

With the added income to the school, trustees passed a motion which will give a $54.13 cut in tuition to each student, retroactive to fall quarter, 1952.

The new freeway will work hardships on the individual students, as the only means of getting to school will be via the Duwamish tideflats for a $50.00 toll fee.

But parking facilities will be enlarged as eight of the forty-one lanes will be devoted to parking for SU students. Crosswalks will be painted an dthe Vets Club will serve as safety patrol boys.

There can hardly be any question today among unbiased, thinking students that the new thruway will lend an air of distinction to the campus as something seldom, if ever, encountered on more conventional campuses.

Fr. esnojno1 Gets Smart-Man Listing

Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., was voted one of the ten smartest men in the United States last week. The executive directors of the directing board of directors of Dreaders Rigest made this announcement after three years' deliberation.

The name Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., replacing that of Thomas A. Edison, appears in seventh place on the top ten. This coveted honor was justly awarded in recognition of the outstanding contribution of Father Michael Toulouse, S.J., in the fields of sports, philosophy, oratory, science, law and gold. Other names included on this outstanding list are Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and Roy Rodgers.

A ten-page pictorial in the April issue of Dreaders Rigest will portray the life of Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., from the time he was a small protege to the present when he is a large protege.

When told this joyous news, Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., appeared very calm and merely smiled and remarked, "I told you so."

Other honors awarded to Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., have been: Best dressed man on SU campus for the past ten years, permanent membership in the Republican policy-making committee, and movie critic for Evergreene Theatres.

Courses To Be Dropped From Curriculum

In a mass meeting held last week Seattle U students unanimously decided that they were required to take too many hours and that Philosophy and Theology would have to be dropped from the curriculum so that they would have more time to spend drinking coffee in collegiate atmosphere.

Faculty action was taken in a meeting in which the pros and cons were discussed.

Father F. J. Lindekugel, S.J., contended that these two courses should definitely be dropped so that students would be able to uphold the tradition of Social U which is endangered at the presence time.

After heated debate which lasted 24 hours, a vote was taken which resulted in officially dropping Philosophy and Theology from the curriculum.
