President's Message

Welcome back to campus! Enrollment figures and a spirit of enthusiasm among the students promise another fine year.

We know that you will be pleased with the physical changes of the campus—the appearance of the new Men's Hall; the conversion of Vets' Hall into consulting offices for the faculty, and the construction of the new Faculty Building.

We believe that these forward-moving changes are indicative of the spirit of our Student Body, of our Faculty, of our Administration. Together, we are interested in building a truly great center of Christian wisdom and culture to be carried on in an atmosphere of warm friendliness and personal interest in the student, as an individual whose qualities of mind and heart are to be developed and enriched.

Our Freshman Class is the largest since the peak enrollment of the G.I. period, and enrollment in the resident halls is the highest in our history. These are an indication that here at Seattle University we have already begun the up-trend in student population expected in colleges within several years. This is another indication of the driving spirit of the university.

In the name of the Faculty, then, we welcome you all once again, and invoke God's Blessing on you all that the present scholastic year may be a fruitful and happy one. We urge that both upperclassmen and freshmen as well, among the other things that they hope to derive from college life, consider that their first and most important duty to themselves during their college years, will be to ground themselves in a sound and thoroughly Christian philosophy of life.

Campus Renovations and Building Near Completion

By TOM DeMAN

Extensive renovation to several buildings, the opening of Xavier Hall and the near completion of the faculty house have taken place during the past four months, giving the entire SU campus a new look to returning students.

Xavier Hall, the new men's dorm which opened its doors to the first student September 21, presents the most noticeable change. Excepting exterior landscaping and a few interior finishings, the four-story building is completed.

Outstanding features are the main entrance lounge, snack bar, the men's recreation room and a small chapel at the south end of the lounge. The men will eat their meals in The Chieftain.

Priests who have been appointed as advisers are Fathers Owen McCusker, S.J.; James O'Leary, S.J.; John Harington, S.J., and James Reichmann, S.J.

Loyola Hall, the new faculty house, is not scheduled to open until later in fall quarter. However, all major work on this building is complete. Jesuit faculty members are still residing in their old quarters. Plans call for making these buildings into additional classrooms in the near future.

Vets Hall, the Liberal Arts Building, the Science Building, McHugh Hall and Marycrest are several other buildings on campus which have seen extensive renovation during the summer.

Vets Hall, formerly housing 55 men students, has been transformed into offices and classrooms. Education and theology departments are now housed here and the five classrooms will be used by a variety of instructors from various departments.

McHugh Hall, next to Marycrest, has been completely remodeled from a men's dorm to a women's dorm to take care of the overflow at Marycrest. A small, comfortable parlor, TV room, new furniture, and private phones (Marycrest phone number) have been installed for the convenience of the twenty-three living there.

Even Marycrest, the modern women's dorm opened only last year, could not escape some remodeling with eight new rooms being added to the structure due to the increase of out-of-town students.

Faculty and Students Vie For Trophy In UGN Drive

"With the need greater than ever before, we are hoping that Seattle U will respond with unparalleled enthusiasm to the 1955 United Good Neighbor Drive," stated Jim Plastino, student chairman for the year's UGN drive.

With competition as an added incentive, the drive will operate on a quota system. The faculty's assigned quota is $750.00 and the students' quota is $1,150.00. The unit that comes the closest to its goal, percentage-wise, will be declared the winner, and awarded the UGN student-faculty trophy which will be a perpetual award. However, if both units surpass their goal, the one with the largest percentage over its goal wins.

Thermometers will be placed in the LA building, and will register daily the progress of the race.

Educational UGN director for the entire King County area is the Very Rev. Albert A. Lemieux, S.J., president of Seattle University. Dr. Charles S. LaCugna, lieutenant general, will direct the educational division UGN drive, which includes three colleges: University of Washington, Seattle Pacific College, and Seattle University.

Launching the drive at SU is Mr. J. W. McLelland, colonel, who is in charge of campus activity. Helping him are Mr. Robert Larson, faculty chairman, and Mr. W. L. Guppy, faculty advisor, who will supervise the student drive.

Mixer Tonight Climaxes Frosh Orientation Week

The first social event of the 1955-1956 school year is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 30, at the Encore Ballroom, 13th and Pike. Jerry Tucker and his six-piece band will provide the music from 9 to 12. Donation for the dance is 75 cents and all proceeds go to the UGN Fund Raising Drive.

Chairman for the dance is Jim

Plastino, assistant chairman is Ron Cass and Ed Laigo is handling the publicity. Other committee members are Dick Lyman and Helen Hoolahan, assisted by Spurs, A Phi O's and IK's.

Jerry Tucker and his band, well known throughout the Northwest and a great favorite at SU, got their start as a band five years ago at Gaffney's Lake Wilderness Resort. The band played there for two seasons after which they toured the Northwest. For the past three years they have played for the Officers Club at Fort Lawton every Saturday night. The band consists of Jerry Tucker, arranger and tenor sax; Dick Halverson, alto sax; Harry Apitz, tenor sax and trumpet; Brad Young, piano; Perry Barth, drums, and Harry Case, bass and trombone.

The mixer will culminate Freshman Week. Saturday night, the Frosh were entertained with a movie and refreshments in the Chieftain Lounge. An all-day cruise on Puget Sound and Lake Washington was enjoyed Sunday by the new students.

Monday, Orientation Day, the students were welcomed to Seattle U by Fr. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., University president; Jim Ray, ASSU president, and other faculty and student leaders. That evening, a college-wear style show was presented at Marycrest sponsored by the AWSSU.

New Faculty Named By Father Lemieux, S.J.

By SUE HOHL

New additions to the faculty for fall quarter have been announced by the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of Seattle University.

Returning in a new capacity are several former Seattle University graduates. Dr. Theodore Chihara, class of '50, has returned to the Mathematics Department with a degree from Purdue University. Fr. Louis Sauvain, now student chaplain and head of the Spiritual Directors, is in the Philosophy Department. In the same department are Fr. John E. Gurr, S.J., and Fr. James Reichmann, S.J. Fr. Gurr, who has a PhD, taught here in 1950 and was moderator of the Spectator. Fr. Reichmann, with an MA from Gonzaga, has spent the last five years studying in Europe. He is a vice prefect of Xavier Hall.

Seattle University's new publicity director, Mr. John Talevich, class of '49, acquired his MA at Marquette and spent several years at Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa, both as director of publicity and

Variety Show Tryouts Slated

Mu Sigma, music honorary, has announced plans for the 1955 variety show. Titled "Kaleidoscope," the show is scheduled for November 11 and 12. According to Ron Randall, publicity director, tryouts for the production will be held October 4, 5, and 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre on lower campus.

Singers, musicians, dancers, actors and comedy teams are needed for the show. For backstage work, set designers, costume designers, lighting men, and stage hands are also needed. Anyone with experience or who would like to learn is asked to see Don Le Quet, Sandy Pinsonneault or Ron Randall.

Judicial Board Tests Will Fill Five Vacancies

Five positions on the Judicial Board have been declared vacant by Chief Justice Mike Weber. Three sophomores and two seniors will be selected to serve on the nine-man board which interprets the school constitution and presides over Student Body elections.

Students wishing to apply for these positions will be interviewed by the chief justice on October 27 in the ASSU office from 12:15 until 2 p.m. Candidates will be tested on their knowledge of the school constitution and the principles of student government.

Assembly Board Nominations Set

ASSU Vice President Warren Barnabey announced that petitions for Assembly Board are available in the Student Body office.

Five members are elected from each of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes. The petitions containing 30 student signatures must be handed in no later than October 6. Election is October 10.

Activities Board will meet October 6. The board, composed of the presidents and heads of student organizations, sets the activity calendar for fall quarter. Each club is required to have a representative present at the meeting.

Club Open House is slated for October 12. Applications are available in the ASSU office and must be turned in to Co-Chairmen Don Barrett or Bob Larsen by October 6.

Booths and displays will be set up in the Chieftain lounge and cafeteria in order to give new students an opportunity to join campus organizations.

Attention, Frosh
Freshman Class meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 12 p.m. in the gym. All Freshmen are required to attend.

The Door Is Open

Come on in, Frosh! We call this place home. And home it will be to you too after the exciting and often startling experience of crossing the threshold from high school to college life. It may take awhile—but don't let that stop you. Slow progress is better than a quick jump when you realize the odds.

Don't let that old stereotype of a slap-stick collegian fool you. Sure, we have our fun but it has taken some of us one or two years to realize where "fun" fits into our schedule. It's not listed on the class bulletin, you've probably noticed. No credit hours, either, for that extra-curricular play.

The first week has been hectic, the second will quiet down, and the real test comes in the third. (And we're not talking about mid-quarter exams, although they'll appear too.) This is where a backlog of wasted hours will catch up, or a backlog of hours well spent will be evidenced.

Of course we're not saying that all good times are taboo, we've had some pretty good ones ourselves since coming to SU. But you'll soon be able to distinguish the good ones from the wasted. Dances, parties, meetings and shows crowd the year's agenda and all are a vital part of college life.

Let's all aim for the top this year. We've got a top-notch faculty, experienced student leaders and an able student body. We may not all hit 4.00 but we can aim—and have a good time too.

The Spectator offers an opportunity for travel (around campus), advancement (somebody has to be editor), congenial companions (that's us), and no pay (only capitalists want money) to students who would like to find out what goes on behind our closed doors (besides looking at curtain-less Xavier).

We need reporters, typists, general handymen and somebody who knows some good jokes to fill Spectator positions. No experience necessary. Will train. Applications accepted immediately.

The Man in the Dog House

• JIM SABOL

Hello:

Now, I know that isn't a very original greeting. I've sat here these five minutes trying to whip up a snappy opening. You know—something fresh, original. First week of school, first issue of the Spectator, new faces, classes; you expect a clever little opening line to start the whole thing off. But that's all that came out. Just "Hello." Oh, don't think it isn't sincere. It's a real warm hello all right. It's just that I wish it could have been snappier. We'll try to do better next week.

Oh yes, there'll be a next week all right. And the week after and the one after that. This thing is here to stay. You old readers know the disgusting regularity of this stuff. You new readers—I'm going to direct the rest of these remarks to the newcomers—in fact you old readers may leave now. (No! No! Not really. I need you. If you think graduation hurts the Chieftains you should see what it does to the number of my readers: down 50%! Yep. Only five left. (The editor, my wife, me, and a dear, dear friend and one who needs a little coaxing.) Hmmm. Let's see now, I need one more parenthesis mark right here.)

At any rate, hard as this may seem to believe, this is Seattle U's oldest column—quit looking around, I mean this one—now entering its fourth year under the same title on the same page (except one short stint in the want ads.) You don't believe it? Well now, that brings us to another point. You see, we run this thing to encourage new reporters. Readers take one look and say, "Igratz! I can do better than this myself." And they do. This ol' piece has been responsible for more new writers.

One thing though. We get a kick out of calling those transcendental booster hats "frosh beanies." Pulled well down over the ears, the really popular style, they're about as beanie as Father Gaffney's smoky mountain. Hang onto your hats though. They come in mighty handy during basketball season. They also come in handy for straining vegetables, straining hair, or just plain straining a point. Lots of value for a buck there.

ODD ODE: Twinkle, twinkle, little hat,
You are not so small as that.
Crew cut, long hair, any style,
You will cover it by a mile.
On all heads, both round and flat,
They can't be missed where you are at.

President's Corner

When asked to write a welcome message to all students, both new and returning, my first thought was, "Welcome them to what?" This year we have a program to fit the needs of every student.

For the past few years this institution has been building in all fields. Academically, we have one of the finest teaching staffs one could find anywhere. Spiritually, we have a tradition and a close-knit devotion that cannot be surpassed. Socially, we have grown from the ranks of the "run of the mill" to the point where we now have a system of activities which encompasses an interest for every walk of life. It is our duty as officers of this association to devote our time to see that a well-rounded schedule is a part of every student's life. We feel this year we have obtained that well-rounded schedule.

With the loyalty and support of everyone, this year shall be Seattle University's biggest and best. I, on behalf of all my officers, say, "Hello and welcome! We're glad to have you!"

Please remember that if you have any problem you want solved, the ASSU office door is always open to you. Best of luck in the coming year.

Sincerely yours,
JIM RAY,
ASSU President

First Nighter! NOTES off the cuff. JIM PLASTINO

• RON RANDALL

Wednesday night found Seattle society and music lovers turning out in large numbers for Rossini's "Barber of Seville" at the Moore Theatre. The opera was presented by the newly formed Northwest Grand Opera Association.

Dr. Bartolo, as interpreted by the master Salvatore Baccaloni of the Metropolitan, was as you would expect the pompous guardian of Rosina. Janice Pearl portrayed Rosina quite weakly. There seemed to be much lacking in her performance. "Figaro," sung by John Lombardi, was delightful and colorful. He did complete justice to the role of matchmaker.

William Parsons as the Count Almaviva did a creditable performance, although his voice seemed a little weak for Grand Opera. John Gurney, basso, looked like a Mongolian high priest, but sounded like a thunder storm when singing the role of Basilio the wily music master. The incidental role played by Charles Gonzales, the "Regimental Generale," was very good, as was the Count's servant, Alvin Elyn. Both carried their own with the comedy which was rich and light throughout the performance. The orchestra, though loud at times, was admirably conducted by Eugene Linden.

Observed at the performance from SU were the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J.; Frs. Philip Soreghan, S.J., and James P. McGoldrick, S.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaCuga, Mary Kay Schaaf, Janet Hopps, Janice Morgan and Don La Quet.

Imagine the unparalleled joy and enthusiasm that was created among the Student Body officers, Mu Sigma and the Drama Guild recently when they learned that this columnist would be back for another round.

Student Body President Jim Ray was very happy about the whole thing. He said, "Jim, this is a sheer delight. Now I'll never have to worry about losing my humility."

Don LaQuet, president of the music honorary Mu Sigma, was heard saying, "Yes, our problem of finding a good press agent is now solved. This is almost unbelievable."

Mrs. Emmett Egan, the Drama Guild's director, was by far the kindest though. She left a bouquet of red roses on our typewriter after we had finished writing our first article. (This is an old theatrical tradition.)

Seriously, however, we do appreciate all the kind words of welcome for "Notes Off the Cuff."

For the benefit of the incoming Freshmen, we write about Seattle U.—from student body government to plays and musicals.

It's always interesting to begin the year by talking about our student body officers.

Firstly, as of this writing, peace and tranquility are the keynotes of this new administration. There's yet to be a squabble among the officers, and if we all hold our breaths, this can last until the end of the year. Anyone who took part in the activities of Freshman Orientation Week is able to testify to the fine job produced by the new leaders.

Sodality Furthers Catholic Action

"University men and women are certainly not on the border of Catholic Action, but hold a place which is, in a certain sense, the first, and has always been so called by the Pope. Just as, to adopt an image from military life, it is the military academy which holds first place in the Army because it is from it that good leaders, good officers, and a good general staff must be provided. From among the university men and women, therefore, the Holy Father is waiting for a good general staff for Catholic Action."—Pius XI.

Catholic Action is that force whose goal it is to bring to the world a consciousness of man's duty toward God. It is this group from whose ranks heroic Saints emerge daily and are called upon to unselfishly dedicate their efforts to the cause of the Mystical Body of Christ. Catholic Action is the sparkplug of that body, the helper of the hierarchy of the Church and the servant of our Lord.

The yoke of Catholic Action is laid upon all of us when we become members of the Mystical Body through baptism and confirmation. Like any other force, to be effective, Catholic Action must have leaders, and those leaders must come from Catholic universities.

The Seattle University Sodality, through its extensive program for personal sanctification and lay apostolate work, graduates Catholic leaders into a world that is badly in need of them. Its members are proud to be Catholics and prouder yet to be able to show their faith with others.

program for this year's officers is good press relations—and nearly all of them seem to have it. All of which goes to show that times do change.

This fall's UGN drive on campus should be a history-maker for Seattle U. It will mark the first time that the students have had a chance to compete with the faculty in anything. Certainly there's no better motive for a student-faculty race than the United Good Neighbors Drive.

And so, all for the cause of charity, the student body and faculty will meet in competition for the first time, and the race is bound to arouse more than passing interest from all parties concerned.

And, as if that weren't enough, the two halls—Marycrest and Xavier—will also be involved in a race, with the winner receiving the UGN Inter-Hall Cup.

Last year we did quite some, talking about this business of big name bands. Seattle U saw the advent of a new era, socially, when two big names came to campus in 1955.

So, from here there's only one way to go—up, naturally. And, at the risk of getting old and tiresome, we'll say it again: SU will have a big name band on campus this year.

No one knows just who the band will be yet, but the ground-floor plans have been laid for the appearance of one of the top five bands in the nation. Those bands under immediate consideration are Les Brown, Ralph Flannagan, the Dorsey Brothers, Les Elgart and Harry James.

SU Sets TV Series

Philosophy and history will be featured topics in Seattle University's fall educational television series which begins Oct. 3 on station KCTS (Channel 9). Two faculty members will appear in the program.

The Rev. Michael Toulouse, S.J., instructor in philosophy, will offer a course entitled "Metaphysics." The lectures will be given on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, Oct. 3 to Dec. 9, from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

The series will cover the Aristotelian system of thought, the nature of reality and its attributes and a methodical investigation of the fundamental aspects of reality and its primary divisions.

The Rev. Joseph P. Donovan, S.J., chairman of the History Department, will present a series of lectures on the Crusades. They will be seen on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 4 to Dec. 8, from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Fr. Donovan will present the history of what are called "The Crusades," or in general, another phase of the East-West struggle from the 11th to the 14th centuries. An introductory summary of the social, religious, political and economic conditions of 11th century Europe as motivating causes will be followed by a more detailed account of each Crusade.

Textbook for the metaphysics series will be Renard's "Philosophy of Being." A copy may be secured by mailing $3 to Evening Division, Seattle University, Broadway at Madison, Seattle 22, Wash.

Fr. Donovan has prepared a special syllabus for his lectures on the Crusades. It may be obtained by mailing 25 cents in coin to the above address. Neither of the courses offer college credit.

Law School Exam Set for Nov. 12

The Law School admission test which many leading American law schools require will be administered at numerous centers throughout the country the mornings of November 12, 1955, February 18, April 21, and August 11, 1956.

The test, in which nearly 10,000 applicants participated last year, is prepared and supervised by the Educational Testing Service. It features objective questions measuring aptitude and ability rather than acquired information.

Applicants can find out from the schools of their choice whether they require the test, and when it should be taken. Bulletins and applications for the test should be obtained four to six weeks in advance of the desired testing date from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, N. J.

Arrangements for each can be completed only if the application is received at least ten days in advance of the desired testing date.

Mademoiselle College Board Contest Opens

Mademoiselle magazine is now accepting applications from undergraduate women for membership in its 1955-56 College Board.

Mademoiselle's College Board Contest offers a chance (for the freshman as well as the senior) at winning one of the twenty guest editorships—a month on the staff of Mademoiselle—or placing as one of the fifty runners-up. All seventy of these top girls in the contest get a head start on their careers.

Those who are accepted on the College Board do two assignments during the college year. Assignments give College Board members a chance to write features about life on their campus; to submit art work, fashion, feature, fiction or promotion ideas for possible use in "Mademoiselle"; to develop their critical and creative talents; to discover their own abilities and job interests.

College Board members who come out among the top twenty on the assignments win a Mademoiselle Guest Editorship and will be brought to New York next June to help write, edit and illustrate the August College issue. They will be paid a regular salary for their month's work, plus round-trip transportation to New York City.

While in New York each Guest Editor takes part in a full calendar of activities. She interviews a celebrity in her chosen field, visits fashion workrooms, newspaper offices, stores and advertising agencies, besides working daily with the editor to whom she is assigned. The twenty guest editors get help in finding positions in their special fields, and many join Mademoiselle's own staff. In addition, the fifty runners-up find their work in the contest a good recommendation to magazines, newspapers, book publishers, advertising agencies, stores, top employers in fashion and art. All seventy may receive personal letters to use when applying for jobs.

November 30 is the deadline for applying for College Board membership. Choose one of these four ways to apply: (1) Write a brief critique of August or September or October or November "Mademoiselle"; (2) Draw a cartoon series on any phase of campus life or illustrate at least one article or story published in "Mademoiselle" during the past year; (3) Describe and illustrate an ideal week-end wardrobe for a girl at your own college; (4) Do layout or copy or both for at least one promotional piece encouraging students to enter the College Board Contest.

Successful candidates will be notified of acceptance on the College Board before Christmas; the first College Board assignment will appear in Mademoiselle's January issue.

For further information see your Dean of Women or the August, September, October or November issue of Mademoiselle.

LESSER WINS USGA TITLE

— AP Wirephoto

By AL KREBS
(News Editor)

Seattle University's Pat Lesser, barely squeezing through in the early rounds and then firing red-hot golf in the final rounds, won the United States Women's Amateur Golf championship this past summer.

She won her championship by administering a crushing 7-and-6 defeat to Jane Ann Nelson, a spunky school teacher from Indianapolis, in the 36-hole final played on the Meyer Park Country Club in Charlotte, N. C.

Miss Lesser, barely 22 years old but already a golfer who has gained national attention, took charge of her match with Miss Nelson on the back nine of the morning round over the hilly and tricky 6, 413-yard course to lead 5 up at the 18-hole mark.

Except for one "nightmare" hole, Seattle U's outstanding coed golfer played sub-par golf all the way. The 37-37-74 par proved bothersome to all the field except Miss Lesser, who consistently beat it during the week's match play.

For six holes, the final looked like anybody's match. At the eighth, the "big hole" of the match, Miss Lesser knocked to the green and was charitably credited with an eight. If she had parred the hole, she would have been two under par for the day.

The turning point of the day's play was the 14th. Up to that time Miss Nelson still was in the game in spite of her putting troubles. But at that hole, for the second time, she hooked a drive into the rough and found her ball close to the base of a tree. She had to chip out into the fairway, knocked her next shot into a trap and wound up with a fat six. Pat three-putted there for the first time and won the hole with a bogey five.

Then on the 17th and 18th, a couple of holes Miss Nelson had played well all through the tourney, Jane took two more sixes and Miss Lesser won them with a par and a birdie.

The real crusher came on the 20th hole. There Pat holed out a 90-foot chip shot from off the front edge of the green for an eagle three to beat Jane's birdie and take a 6-up lead.

Twice the Hoosier school teacher managed to cut into that margin. That though was as far as she got, as SU's coed golf ace took the 25th with a par as another of Jane's middle-sized putts refused to drop, built up her biggest lead at the 26th and played out the string.

As champion, Miss Lesser succeeds Barbara Romack, who was knocked out in the second round. Pat came through the toughest half of the draw, beating Mary Ann Downey, Barbara's conqueror; Mrs. Jane Crum Coveington and Polly Riley on the way to the finals.

Miss Lesser is something of a golfing oddity. She isn't a stylish swinger, twisting her body into the swing too soon, but she gets distance with low screamers that roll and roll. During the Women's USGA she was a putting demon—talking to the ball in endearing terms and trying to steer it into the cup with contortions.

She's dedicated to the game, playing in every women's amateur since 1950—when she was junior

Summer Tourneys See SU Golfers

Golfers from Seattle University had a successful season, according to golf coach Rev. Robert Rebhahn, S.J.

Patty Lesser won the United States women's amateur golf title along with the Western amateur title.

Gordie MacKenzie fired his way into the semi-final rounds of the Washington State amateur championships in Spokane along with high honors in the Hudson Cup in Seattle. The Hudson Cup matches amateur golfers against the professionals, and the amateurs won.

Chuck Briggs had probably his biggest golfing thrill in defeating Hillman Robbins, 1954 Intercollegiate champion, in the NCAA golf championships in Knoxville.

Harold Jacobson won the Olympia golfing title, and participated in many other Northwest meets.

Dick Masterson, who won the city amateur championship in 1954, placed high in this year's rounds, along with high honors in the Washington State amateur tournament.

A new freshman addition may prove valuable to Seattle University's golf fortunes—Dan Barkley won in the fifth flight of the California amateur championships this summer at Pebble Beach.

Chieftains Face Tough Hoop Slate

Al Brightman, varsity coach and new schedule maker, announced this week that the 1955-1956 basketball schedule for the Chieftains is probably one of the strongest in the history of Seattle University.

The Chiefs play a 26-game schedule this season, with 16 home games and ten contests on the road. Included in the schedule are two eastern powerhouses, Dayton University and St. Francis of Loretta, Pa.; three teams from the newly organized California Intercollegiate Conference, Santa Clara, St. Mary's and San Jose State, and a bid to the all-college holiday tournament at Oklahoma City.

St. Francis and Dayton both did well this year in the National Invitational Meet in New York's Madison Square Garden. Dayton finished in the runner-up spot, while

St. Francis, eliminated in an overtime game by Dayton, proved to be one of the crowd's favorites.

The California Conference was recognized as a major college loop this year by the NCAA. The University of San Francisco was conference champion last season and the Dons went on to capture the NCAA tournament title.

Probably the toughest of all assignments for the Chiefs will come in the all-college tournament at Oklahoma City, December 27-30. Tournament teams include Pennsylvania, Oklahoma A&M, Tulsa, Loyola of New Orleans, Texas Tech, Idaho State and Oklahoma City.

San Francisco, winner of the all-college meet last year, will not defend its title, having accepted a bid to the Christmas tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Janet Hopps Back With Net Titles

Janet Hopps, Seattle's tennis queen, invaded many Eastern tennis courts this past season and fared well in the majority of the tournaments held throughout the country.

The Seattle University senior battled her way to several high honors and received recognition as one of the nation's top women tennis players.

Janet successfully defended her national women's intercollegiate tennis championship in St. Louis, winning the event for the second straight year.

Instead of competing in the Indianapolis City tourney, Janet chose to participate in the Missouri Valley meet in Kansas and won it.

In South Carolina's clay court tourney at Greenbrier, S. C., Janet won the women's single and doubles.

Mid-July found Janet in the national clay court quarter-finals at Atlanta, Ga.

Continuing her tour, Janet reached the quarter-finals in the Pennsylvania State crass courts, at Philadelphia. There she recorded one of the nation's longest marathon matches, defeating the Mexican star, 18-16, in the first set.

She played in the Eastern Grass Courts at Orange, N. J., where she reached the quarter-finals.

The Manchester Invitationals and the National Doubles at Boston were next on her list.

One of sixteen selected tennis players invited to the Maidstone Invitationals at East Hampton, N. Y., she reached the quarter-finals before bowing out.

Her earliest time for bowing out of a tournament was in the National Singles at Forest Hills, N. Y. She lost in the opening rounds to Barbara Breit, the sixth ranked woman tennis player in the nation.

She also played in the Mixed Doubles in the Nationals at Forest Hills.

Eddie O'Brien Frosh Mentor

Eddie O'Brien, one of Seattle University's more famous alums, returns to campus this week to assume his new position of freshman basketball coach. Eddie replaces Bill Fenton, who also served in the dual capacity as athletic director until his resignation early last year.

Rated as one of the best all-around basketball players in the nation, Eddie will skipper the Papposes in their 1955-1956 Northwest AAU League play and their frosh and junior hoop slate.

At Seattle University, Eddie acted as team captain for two years. As the middleman for the Chiefs, Eddie, a guard, was the team's consistent No. 2 scorer behind his All-American twin brother, Johnny.

Here is the Eddie O-Log of scoring:

Season	G	FG	FT	PF	TP	Av.
1950-51	26	106	102	82	314	12.1
1951-52	37	137	119	124	393	10.6
