Students, Faculty Vie In UGN Competition

By SONJA VUKOV

Highlighting Seattle U's UGN drive this year which will officially open October 2 and run through October 27 will be the contest between the faculty and students. Last year saw a tie between these two groups for the coveted UGN student-faculty trophy.

Summing up the student version of the contest is Jim Plastino, student chairman, who remarked, "Last year's drive provided the most smashing success in the university's history, but we're not stopping there. We are all out to top last year's mark, and I know that the students intend to get full possession of the student-faculty trophy."

The students are sponsoring the fall quarter's first two mixers to be held consecutively the next two Friday nights. The entire proceeds of these dances will go toward fulfilling their pledge to outwit the faculty in attaining their goal first or surpassing it by a greater margin.

Patterned closely after last year's success, the drive will continue to operate on a quota system. This year's over-all university goal has been increased 8% over the previous year and now stands at an all-time high of $2,088. The faculty's assigned quota is $835.20 and the student's quota is $1,252.

Friday, Sept. 28, at the Encore Ballroom, 13th Avenue and Pike Street.

With the music of the Miles Vaughan orchestra and featured vocalist for the evening Thea Scott supplying the mood, SU students will be provided with three hours of dancing entertainment beginning at 9 p.m.

Admission to the mixer, the first of the school year, will be $1.00, with proceeds going to the UGN.

Vaughan's orchestra, a home-grown musical group which has played to many and varied groups in this area, will be joined by a Scottish lassie, Thea Scott, who came to this country in 1950 and has since entertained audiences throughout the United States.

Arrangements for the dance have been organized by Jim Plastino, UGN student chairman on campus, and his committee of Ron Cass, assistant Chairman; and Joan Bailey, publicity. Helping this committee will be the APO's, the Spurs and the IK's, all under the leadership of Pat Dennehy.

AEGIS Pictures Begin Oct. 1

Ray Whiteside, Aegis editor, announced today that senior pictures will be taken on the following dates: October 1, 2, 4, 8, 9, and 11. The photographer will be there from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The charge for annual pictures will be $1.50. Caps and gowns for the photos will be available in the lounge.

This will be the only period during which senior pictures are to be taken. The editor urges seniors not to wait until the last day.

Ray added that he is planning a larger annual with some new features. This year John Talevich is the advisor and Rev. Robert Carmody, S.J., is the faculty moderator. Jon Arnt is the Aegis photographer.

Freshmen who have not purchased the required green beanie are reminded that the same will be available in the ASSU office on Monday, Oct. 1.

Campus Parking Rules Published

Realizing that the student parking situation will be a major problem this coming year, the Rev. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., Dean of Students, announced the following regulations concerning campus parking.

Cars may be parked on Madison St. between 10th and 11th Avenues next to the Student Union Building; on the south side of Madison, west of Broadway, between 8 a.m. and 12 noon when the meters are not in operation; and in streets adjacent to the university.

The center parking between Spring and Marion on 11th Avenue may be used only between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Cars left in that area after 3 p.m. will not only be impounded but will jeopardize the parking privilege granted by the City of Seattle. Parking north of the posted sign is strictly prohibited and cars left there will be towed away at owners' expense.

XAVIER PARKING

Fr. Rebhahn added: "There is to be no parking in front of Xavier on the north side of Spring. All cars parked in the area marked 'No Parking' on the south side of Spring are in very grave danger. And further, the Johnson's Mortuary parking lot is not incorporated in or affiliated with Seattle University and therefore is not available for parking."

Mass, Confession Schedule Released

Rev. Louis Sauvain, S.J., student chaplain, announced that Masses in the student chapel on the second floor of the LA Building will be at 5:50, 6:20, 6:50 and 7:25 each morning. Confessions will be heard each day from 9 to 9:30 a.m., 10 to 10:30 a.m. and 11 to 11:30 a.m.

SU Sophomore named national Teens Against Polio chairman in March of Dimes Drive. See Page 6 for story.

President's Message

It is a pleasure to welcome to Seattle University the Freshman Class of 1956. We hope that you will thoroughly enjoy your years at Seattle U, and that you will take fullest advantage of the opportunities that are yours. Your college years will be, and should be, among the best and happiest years of your lives. They are also among your most important years—for your future depends pretty much on what you do here.

REV. A. A. LEMIEUX, S.J.

Also we are pleased to welcome back the upper-classmen. We know that you will be pleased with the construction presently in progress of our new Commerce and Education Building, and the closing of Spring Street; and the integration of the street into the campus. Within several months, the new student parking lot on 11th and Cherry will be ready for use by the student body.

In the name of the faculty, then, we welcome all once again, and invoke God's blessing on all of you—that the present scholastic year may be a fruitful and happy one. We urge that all of you—among the other things that you hope to derive from college, consider that your first and most important responsibility to yourself will be to ground yourself in a sound, constructive and christian philosophy of life.

—FATHER PRESIDENT

Commerce and Finance Construction Highlights Campus Development

By JUDY McMANUS
Associate Editor

Topsy had nothing on SU! With the commencement of construction on the new Commerce and Education classroom building, the Seattle University development program continues to grow.

Work on the structure will begin Monday, Oct. 1, 1956, and is expected to be completed by August 15, 1957. The site is on East Marion between 10th and 11th Avenues.

The glass-fronted five-story building will be constructed at a cost of $1,014,000.00.

It will house the administrative offices of the Registrar, Treasurer, Veterans Administration, Psychological Service Center, and of the Schools of Commerce and Finance and Education. Also included is an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500.

Designer of the classroom building is John Maloney, Seattle architect. The contractors are Cawdrey and Vemo. The Ballard Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc., will be the mechanical contractors, with City Electric and Fixture Co. the electrical contractors.

The most dramatic change in Seattle University's exterior this summer was the closing of Spring Street to traffic between Madison Street and 11th Avenue.

A new mall will replace the former city thoroughfare. Grass will be planted in the sidewalks on Spring Street which are now being torn up. There will be a three-foot Roman-brick wall behind the Madison Street sidewalk. The triangular space between the brick wall and the Liberal Arts Building will be landscaped with some of the shrubs and trees taken from the new excavation for the Commerce and Education Building.

Blocking the 11th Avenue end of the mall will be a curb with an entrance for deliveries.

It is possible that a Seattle University marker will be placed on the Madison Street brick wall.

MEMBERS OF SPURS provide a colorful backdrop for the Freshman Class as they filed out of the gym last Monday after the welcoming assembly of Frosh Week. A full slate of activities for the green-beanie newcomers included orientation, fashion show, cruise and moot court for offending Frosh.

EDITORIAL

Speaking of goals

As we were saying when we were so rudely interrupted by summer vacation . . .

It's always a wise policy to establish a goal before you begin to work. The Spectator has many goals. We hope to have your support and cooperation in meeting them. We plan to be versatile.

Our most important goal is to inform students of collegiate activities. We believe that an informed student body is off on the right foot both scholastically and socially.

The editors of the Spectator, as in the past, intend to voice their opinions when situations arise which, in our judgment, deserve editorial comment. Students are reminded of the letters-to-the-editor column which is available to those who disagree with us. We welcome your opinions and your criticisms.

We believe it is essential, in this, our first editorial of the new school year, to underscore the Catholic influence inherent in our university. The Spectator will seek always to reflect that spirit.

We would also remind members of the student body of the opportunity which the Spectator provides for students who desire to express themselves through the media of a campus newspaper. No better training in journalism is available in higher education than that which is received in the process of publishing a college newspaper. It is your opportunity to make the printed word your word.

In closing, the editors welcome potential newsgatherers to Seattle University.

Come on in — the ink is fine!

A dollar well spent

A college education, already a costly item, is becoming more and more of an expense. This is a fact that few can argue.

And dance chairmen, being students just like the rest of us, are equally aware of this mounting burden. Therefore, they always attempted to keep the admission price for dances down to a workable minimum.

There are rare exceptions, however, when a raise in price is necessary. Such is the case with tonight's UGN Benefit Mixer at the Encore Ballroom.

The United Good Neighbors drive, Seattle's financial campaign to aid its sick and needy, is viewed as being of the utmost importance by this university. Seattle U has its UGN quota, and it must be met.

That quota was raised eight per cent this year, making the 1956 goal $2,088. Besides this, the cost for all bands and orchestras in this city took a 40 per cent increase last month.

With the addition of these two new financial problems, the UGN committee on campus saw no other alternative than to charge a dollar for its first dance.

Considering the circumstances, and the cause for which the money is going, we heartily endorse the raise in price established by the UGN committee.

In this day and age, a dollar isn't really so much, and we feel that you will agree with us that it is a dollar well spent.

EDUCATION

Starving for God

If you read any college catalogue this fall you might be surprised to see a so-called face-lifting in the curriculum.

In the September 15th issue of "America," the national Jesuit Catholic weekly review, this subject was treated very thoroughly in a lengthy article written by Helene Margaret, entitled "Young People Starving for God."

A problem rises when you analyze these attempts, and discover that the courses being offered are for the most part the same things that were taught twenty years ago with a different title and number. This sort of thing not only discourages possible converts, but it will probably confuse the student, and embitter him.

Miss Margaret's final conclusion was made after studying the results of a college survey, whose purpose was to discover what the religious disposition of the students was, and if there had been an increase in interest shown toward religion.

The results were not encouraging. When asked if "religion was their main impetus toward ethical behavior, 63 per cent of the students answered "No." Asked if "religion was an important part of their everyday life," 47 per cent answered, "Not very."

It would seem that we have a dilemma, the modern college students need leadership in their attempt to understand God, and the statistics show that the faculty is at a loss to help them. The blind are leading the blind.

Demo Delegate Reports

EDITOR'S NOTE: Don D. Wright, a senior at Seattle University, was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. In the following article, Don, who is managing editor of the Spectator and head copyboy at the Seattle Times, writes a first-hand account of his experience.

As a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, I experienced eight days of personalities and events which I shall remember vividly all of my life.

Any attempt to set all of these memories down in print, would fill a novel of modest size. But certainly the highlights of my august August adventure can be written in the space available.

For a native Washingtonian, the trip to Chicago was memorable in itself. As the convention train passed through the rugged beauty of Western Montana, the Harriman forces were taping posters on every available wall. As we rode east across North Dakota's Badlands, the Stevenson supporters were pinning buttons on the porters, the conductor, the stewardess, and unsuspecting passengers. Moving swiftly along the legendary Mississippi River, delegates harassed each other relentlessly on behalf of their candidate. As the delegation descended from the train in Chicago, the harassment was lifted for a time and a blanket of heat was lowered in its place. Many of us suspected that it wasn't the heat. It wasn't the humidity. It was the convention.

Entering the lobby of the Morrison Hotel, laden with Stevenson buttons, I was stopped by a reporter and a photographer from the Chicago "Sun-Times." The reporter informed me that I was the youngest delegate to the conven-

ASSU Corner

Hello and welcome back! These words can be heard throughout the vicinity of SU. For this reason, each fall at SU has a wonderful effect on people. These "hellos" are genuine, and "welcome back" means just that. I, too, would like to add my "hello" to the new Freshmen and to my many returning fellow students.

This next year will be filled with many things—some a continuation of old practices, along with introduction of new ideas. Look for a strong intramural program, an attempt to collar the wonderful back-to-school spirit for the whole year, and a continual reminder at all times and to the entire student body that SU is a UNIVERSITY!

All over the United States students are returning to school sites and buildings. In this way we are no different from these, but very few schools truly have the spirit that we at Seattle U possess. The factor that makes the difference is the way in which you, the student body, support your school.

The ASSU office will always be on the lookout for the best for SU. Any ideas or suggestions from you, the students, will be greatly appreciated.

The ASSU invites you, the student body, to help us to keep SU at the top! I, as Student Body president, wish to say simply, "Hi, and welcome back!"

—BOB MARTIN,
ASSU President.

REQUIESCAT IN PACE

The Faculty and Student Body of Seattle University wish to offer their sincerest condolences to Louie Miller and his family on the death of their mother. She will be remembered in our prayers.

tion! The next day my picture appeared in their newspaper, looking like an advertisement for Adlai Stevenson!

Seattle University also was represented at the convention by Betty June Stafford, sophomore. Betty June, active in the Young Democrats of Washington, attended the convention as an observer.

It was Saturday, Aug. 11, and the city was bursting with convention-goers. We attended a reception for New York's Governor Averell Harriman and later met Adlai Stevenson and Senator Estes Kefauver.

In contrast, we ended the evening in an atmosphere devoid of politics, at Chicago's renowned Blue Note, listening to the sound and the fury of Stan Kenton and his orchestra. (Kenton's music fills the room, then pushes out the windows and the walls.)

Sunday we attended a reception for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, given by Adlai Stevenson. It was the first time in my life that I saw 10,000 people standing in a reception line on a very warm Sunday afternoon—or anytime, for that matter.

On Monday morning the Washington delegation held a caucus. For me, the event was a critical one. Due to a clever bit of political in-fighting, I lost my status as a delegate. But thanks to some maneuvering of my own and thanks to some ardent supporters, I was re-seated as a delegate from Seattle. I had experienced my first political war. Fortunately, I was not the casualty.

Entering the amphitheater for the first time, I was struck by the sensation that at this point it was official. I was a voting delegate at a convention which would nominate a candidate for president of the United States.

The Washington delegation was seated toward the rear of the auditorium, behind the infamous television tower which rose in the center of the amphitheater. The result was strained tempers and sprained necks on the part of many delegates.

In the roll call of states the following morning, the Territory of Alaska yielded to the State of Washington, permitting Senator Henry M. Jackson to nominate Senator Warren G. Magnuson as Washington's favorite son nominee for president. The demonstration by the Washington delegation was joined by delegations from all over the nation. Magnuson thanked the delegates and withdrew his name—then dramatically urged the delegates to nominate Adlai Stevenson (much to the surprise of the delegation—especially the Harriman supporters).

The moment which I hold high-

What we mean to say is that if there is anything which puzzles you or on which you have heard varied opinions then ask. We want to find out the answers and tell you via the column.

Perhaps you feel there is something that needs public airing. Please call it to our attention. All answers and discussions will be written for you, the student.

Obscure points not concerning you will not be discussed, only those which have a definite influence on you.

The third purpose of this series will be to cover various phases of Sodality life. This may include a glance into the progress and activities of the Sodality Probation groups. Also information will be given as to the topics for discussion, for the week in the groups.

The Sodality is beginning another successful year under the advisordship of Father Francis Lindkugel, S.J. We want you and your interest to make it the biggest success possible.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

'And the Rains Came'

• MIKE GALVIN

This column will be devoted to the human interest stories around school, or maybe an interesting personality on campus who for one reason or other has done something that is worth writing about.

There are many such people, but first you have to find them and then try to convince them that what they have done is interesting.

Secondly, after working for a paper such as the Spectator you soon realize that if people have any complaints, gripes, or criticisms of some person, place, or thing on campus he will usually bring it to the Spectator office for a trial run, and if it gets by us, it can withstand anything. I might not print what you say, but I'm always good for free sympathy, and maybe a cup of coffee.

To get things rolling, since school is just getting under way and most of the new students have not as yet found their way to their classrooms, let alone the Spectator office, I shall give you a few helpful hints as to what you can expect in the following year.

This week's column will be devoted to a not-too-scientific report on one of the deepest problems you will be faced with during the coming year. It has nothing to do with classes, grades, women, or basketball—it is an expose of Seattle weather.

For you out-of-town students who have not already heard, it only rains once in Seattle, from October to May. This treatise will prepare you for the grim, gloomy, RAINY days ahead. Now that you have paid your tuition or made arrangements to pay it later, you are settled in Seattle and there's no way out. Then the rains will come.

After two or three months of steady downpour you will have come to the conclusion that you have made a terrible mistake, but don't become depressed, you still have three wet months left.

The best advice I can give you is to take up some indoor sport, anything will do, and at this point I will leave it up to you as to the nature of your indoor sport, or hobby, for fear of censorship from our glorious and fearless editor-in-chief, Ann O'Donnell.

Now back to the problem at hand, if you haven't already guessed it, I'm going to outline a four-point plan that will at least keep you from drowning the coming months.

POINT ONE . . . Instead of buying a car, purchase a canoe. They are cheaper and much more comfortable. If you can't obtain a canoe I can loan you an old diving suit that I bought from graduating senior last spring. Think of the fad you might start, college students all over America will be impressed with your attempt to be different. Different?

POINT TWO . . . For Marycrest girls only. During the rainy season we have lost many girls who for one reason or another have strayed from the route to school I'm about to outline. Never leave by the front door; I repeat, this is most dangerous! When the monsoon does come the water will rise to astronomical heights, especially in front of Marycrest. Leave by the back door, swim to Madison street, stop and catch your breath, then swim to school. If it's raining too hard, swim underwater!

POINT THREE . . . For you more stubborn souls who doubt me, here is a true report from a Los Angeles correspondent who has been plagued by Seattle weather for the last three years, every time he comes back to Seattle in the fall. He says, "The weather in Seattle is like the northern division of the Pacific Coast Conference—it is so pure—yet all wet."

POINT FOUR . . . Now that you have been completely brainwashed, here is one more thing to remember—I suppose the weather could be worse. I don't see how, but I guess it's possible.

New Faculty Members Announced by President

• SUE HOHL

New additions to the faculty for the coming year have been announced by the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of Seattle University.

Six new instructors have been added to the School of Arts and Sciences, now headed by the Rev. John A. Fitterer, S.J., dean, and also newly appointed head of the Classics Department. They include Mary Lou Day, instructor in Home Economics; Chu Chiu Chang and Andre L. Yandi, mathematics instructors; Elaine P. Herzog, instructor of Chemistry; Rev. Charles Wolleson, S.J., English instructor, and Rev. Webster T. Patterson, S.J., instructor in Theology. Father Patterson has recently completed advanced studies at Gregorian University in Rome.

The School of Commerce and Finance augmented its teaching staff with Wilbur J. Ramey, assistant professor of Marketing, and Richard C. McAllister, associate professor of Accounting.

Samuel E. Fleming, former superintendent of Seattle Public Schools, will be an instructor in the School of Education.

The School of Nursing enlarged its staff with the addition of Sister Jean Wilfred, F.C.S.P., and Mrs. Frances Boley, instructors in Maternal and Child Health; Miss Barbera Floyd, instructor in Medical and Surgical Nursing; Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, instructor in Nursing Arts, and Miss Jean Werner, instructor in Operating Room Nursing.

Maj. Arthur E. Synder and Capt. Curtis C. Norton, assistant professors of Military Science; M/Sgt. Gordon F. Brown, administrative NCO, and M/Sgts. Joseph T. Gardiner and Bernard L. Malcolm, instructors in Military Science, are among the new ROTC staff.

Psychology Head Named

The Department of Psychology has undergone much revision, with Rev. Louis B. Gaffney, S.J., replacing Rev. James E. Royce, S.J., as director of the university's Psychological Service Center. Father Royce continues as head of the Psychology Department. Another appointment is Dr. Gerald J. Mc-

BIENVENIDA, AMIGO!

From the sports desk of the Spectator, we wish to extend a hearty welcome to all new students, coaches, faculty members, new basketball players (here's hoping that they are seven feet tall, broad and brawny and agile as cats), and last but not least those of you that have been around for awhile and hope to be around for a few more years.

Those of you interested in sports as a form of relaxation from the everyday grind will be glad to know that Seattle University offers a well-rounded program of athletics on both the varsity and intramural levels.

Basketball holds the top position, followed by baseball, tennis and golf, in our varsity athletic program. Intramural athletics consist of competition in touch football (six-man), basketball, softball and bowling. Then on the fringes of varsity and intramural sports, there is a ski club, sailing club, and a very popular hiking club called "Hiyu Coulee" which rounds out a well-organized recreational program.

TELEVISION BASKETBALL

Are you tired, irritable and worn out from fighting crowds, stormy nights and heavy traffic at basketball games? Would you like to sit at home in an overstuffed chair, sipping a cold glass of root beer, and watch basketball at its best? You have an opportunity to do just that by voicing your opinion concerning your likes and dislikes of programing, to the directors of the local television stations. If you would like to see the Chieftains from your own living room, then don't delay . . . write today to the TV stations, urging them to carry Chieftain basketball. In case you're new, our local stations are KING, KOMO, KTVW and KTNT.

Good luck to Coach Royal and his Huskies when they tackle the Golden Gophers.
Goodnight, Bobby!

Vince Cazzetta Named New Papoose Mentor

In a private capping ceremony, John Castellani, varsity basketball coach, smiled broadly as he placed a Frosh beanie on the head of the new Papoose coach, Vince Cazzetta.

A soft-spoken, highly experienced Vincent Cazzetta arrived last week end to accept the freshman basketball coaching position at Seattle University, succeeding Eddie O'Brien, who resigned during the summer months.

The appointment was announced by Athletic Director John Castellani, a long-time friend of the personable coach from the East Coast.

The 31-year-old mentor who will also be an instructor of PE has an outstanding career behind him. After receiving his degree in physical education at Arnold College in Milford, Conn., in 1950, he obtained his Master's Degree from Columbia University in 1952.

After his education was completed Cazzetta instructed in the New Britain and Hartford, Conn., school systems after which he became basketball coach, assistant football coach and assistant athletic director at Wilbraham Academy in Wilbraham, Mass.

Interested in becoming a member of the Four Aces? The Seattle University intramural bowling league is starting again and all students interested, regardless of experience, are invited to join. Coaches will be provided, and the league divided into four member teams.

Bowling will last throughout the fall and winter quarters, will all matches slated for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday afternoons at the Broadway Bowling Alleys, 219 Broadway North—just a hop, skip and a ten-pin from the campus. Hopes are for teams which should finish matches by 3 p.m. A one-dollar fee takes care of shoes and three lines of bowling each week.

Although no champions are expected to develop, it promises to be a great deal of fun and an excellent means of gaining much needed relaxation and exercise.

All those interested are asked to come to the Broadway Alleys at 1 o'clock next Wednesday, Oct. 3. It is important that you be present at this meeting, since teams will be formed at that time.

Trout Lake or . . . bust!

The first Hiyu Coolee hike this year is Sunday, Sept. 30, with the destination Trout Lake. The hiking distance is 2¾ miles each way, with a climb of approximately 500 feet.

Nine a.m. is the time, and the north end of the LA Building is the place where the bus will leave. Hikers will return at approximately 7:30 p.m. to the same place. The bus cost is $1.00.

It is suggested that hikers wear old clothes and hiking boots, if possible. They should also bring a lunch to eat at noon at the lake.

This is a very good opportunity for some of the freshmen to get acquainted with others in the school, and for all who like hiking to have a great time.

MORE ABOUT

Vince Cazetta

Cazetta is Catholic and single.

"Because of John and my friendship, our style of playing is almost exactly alike and it will no doubt continue to be that way during my stay at SU," the new coach stated.

Among his other duties with the 1956-57 basketball squad will be to scout for head coach Castellani against some of the strong foes that the SU five faces this year.

"About the only thing I ever heard about Seattle before a few months ago was the rain and the O'Briens, but since then I have come to like the school, the city and the people," remarked Cazetta.

He continued, "I have only met the players in an informal meeting and they all seem to be very pleasant, determined gentlemen. Our first turnout is on October 15."

Among some of the top candidates for places on this year's starting Papooses are Don Ogorek (6-5), South Bend, Ind.; Don Piasecki (6-1), South Bend, Ind.; John Kootneko (6-2), Mission City, B. C.; Dean Alderice (6-3), Snohomish, Wash.; James McDonald (5-10), Jersey City, N. J.; Bob Siwarga (5-10), Perth Amboy, N. J.; Martin Palmer (5-9), Laupahoe-hoe, Hawaii, and John Pericin (5-11), Seattle Prep.

Gil Martin, Vet's Club president, announced today that membership cards will be distributed during the first meeting which will be held in two weeks.

Other officers elected during last spring quarter are as follows: Tom Kelley, vice president; John Gizzo, treasurer; Darlene Russell, secretary; Gary Kish, sergeant.

HAPPY-JOE-LUCKY presents STICKLERS!

STUCK FOR MONEY? DO A

Stickler!

STICKLERS ARE TICKLERS and a mighty soft way to make money! Just write down a simple riddle and a two-word rhyming answer. For example: What's a ball player who gets a raise? (Answer: richer pitcher.) Note: both words must have the same number of syllables—bleak freak, jolly dolly, vinery finery. Send your Sticklers, with your name, address, college, and class, to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Don't do drawings! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we use in our advertising—and for hundreds that never see print. And remember—you're bound to Stickle better when you're enjoying a Lucky, because Luckies taste better. Luckies' mild, good-tasting tobacco is TOASTED to taste even better. Fact is, you'll say Luckies are the best-tasting cigarette you ever smoked!

izing teen-agers in the fight against polio.

She has been an active worker in Teens Against Polio since this phase of the March of Dimes was initiated during the Emergency Drive of August, 1954, when she helped raise polio funds as a representative of Girls' State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. At that time, she helped organize teens in Yakima County. During the 1955 and 1956 March of Dimes, she served as Washington state chairman of TAP.

Mary is an education major and is a member of the Totem Club. She also participates in school dramatic productions.

Accepting the national Teens post, Miss McLane said: "In 1957, Teens Against Polio faces a double duty. First, we plan to make sure everyone knows how important it is for everybody to be inoculated with Salk vaccine well before the next polio season. Second, we will do our part to help the polio patients now with us by working for the March of Dimes this January. And we're going to keep on proving—as we have proved for the past three years—that young people can have fun and do a worthwhile community service at the same time."

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McLane of Yakima, Washington.

Students who are interested in working with the Volunteers for Stevenson - Kefauver will meet Monday evening, Oct. 1, at 8 o'clock in the Chieftain lounge.

The purpose of the meeting will be to organize a Students For Stevenson group here on campus, according to Don Wright, chairman.

The Paul West Quintet is being reformed and jazz musicians who would be interested in joining the group should contact Fred Lanouette at FR. 5746 or on campus.

Miles Vaughan

The Miles Vaughn Orchestra, featured band at the UGN mixer Friday night at the Encore Ballroom, has an unusually large repertoire of over 500 tunes. Members of the band include Ray Holmes, piano; Bill Thompson, drums and vibes; Lynn Beller, sax, vibes and clarinet; Arlin Saff, tenor sax; Jim Blake, baritone sax; and Miles Vaughan, trumpet.

Official Notices

Students are requested to watch the bulletin board outside the Registrar's Office for important notices. Classroom changes will be posted there.

IT'S FOR REAL!

by Chester Field

"To catch a man," said Violette
"The wisest gals play hard to get!"
To seem remote and quite aloof
She sat six years upon the roof.

"It doesn't seem to work," she said
And so she clobbered them instead.
She shrugged, "I do the best I can Unconscious or not, a man is a man!"
