YOUR CONCERN:

Parking and Elections

Parking is certainly a problem at SU. You, the student, know this and the ASSU officers also realize it. Just what is being done about it?

At present we are discussing the situation with the city officials and trying to obtain any changes that might alleviate the problem.

We ask that you be patient and adhere to the parking hours posted on the various streets until some final action can be taken.

We will attempt to keep you well informed and do whatever is possible to lessen the parking problem at SU.

Memo to all students interested in the welfare of Seattle University: Assembly Board elections will be held Tuesday, Oct. 9. Since the Assembly Board renders many decisions which vitally affect student life on campus, the importance of voting for carefully considered candidates cannot be over-emphasized. Be sure to voice your opinion when the polls open Tuesday morning.

BOB MARTIN,
ASSU President.

Mass of Holy Ghost Celebration Set Oct. 10

By LOIS WHITESIDE

This year's annual Mass of the Holy Ghost, a solemn high Mass, asking God's blessing on the coming school year, will be offered on Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 10:30 a.m. in St. James Cathedral. Most Reverend Thomas A. Connolly, Archbishop of Seattle, will preside.

Campus Clubs Plan Open House Wed.

Seattle University's organizations and clubs will hold their annual Open House next Wednesday, Oct. 9, in the Chieftain Lounge.

The program, under the co-chairmanship of Leo Shahan and Jim Higgins, will get under way at 7:45 p.m. The primary purpose is to acquaint the students with the clubs and activities on campus.

Representatives from each club will be on hand to explain the details of their organizations and answer any questions that prospective members raise.

This function is free of admission, and all students, both old and new, are urged to attend. Every student has the opportunity to join a club of his choice.

"We would especially like to see the Freshmen and Sophomores turn out," commented Leo Shahan, "because we feel that the future of Seattle U. as an organization lies in their hands."

A tentative list of the clubs participating includes Spurs, A Phi O, Mu Sigma, Intercollegiate Knights, Math Club, Sodality, Young Democrats, Young Republicans, Science Club, Engineering Club and the Nursing Club.

Parking Worry? Join Car Pool

The second annual Alpha Phi Omega car pool registration will take place on Friday, Oct. 12. Any student interested can sign up in the Chieftain from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The plan will be substantially the same as last year. The city will be divided into numbered sections. Drivers who sign up will be contacted and given from one to four riders.

According to co-chairmen Bob Ibsen and Jim Higgins, each group will make its own arrangements as to time and financial reimbursements. The plan is again open to all students and faculty members.

Faculty members and seniors are to meet in academic attire, at the Boren Avenue entrance of the Columbus Hospital nurses' residence at 10:00 a.m.

In order that all students may attend the Mass, the 9 o'clock class will be dismissed at 9:45 a.m., the 10 o'clock and 11 o'clock classes will be canceled. The 12 o'clock and 1 o'clock classes, however, will be held as usual.

Celebrant of the mass will be Fr. Philip Soreghan, S.J.; Deacon, Fr. Leo Gaffney, S.J.; Subdeacon, Fr. James Royce, S.J. The sermon will be preached by Fr. F. J. Marien, S.J., of Mt. St. Michaels, Spokane, Wash.

The music, sung by the Seattle University Chorale under the direction of Carl A. Pitzer, will include Joseph J. Gallucci, Jr.'s "Mass in Honor of St. Pius X"; the Offertory hymn, "Ave Maria Motet," by Gallucci; and the Communion hymn, "Ave Verum Corpus," by Mozart. Janice Morgan and Paul Horiuchi will be soloists.

Other officers of the Mass will be: assistant to the Archbishop, Fr. Harold Small, S.J.; Deacons of Honor to the Archbishop, Fr. Fred

CAPS AND GOWNS

Seniors may pick up their caps and gowns for the Mass of the Holy Ghost in the basement of Xavier Hall from 1 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 9, and from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 10. A $5.00 deposit will be collected, refundable in full if returned by 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 10. Those bringing gowns back late will be penalized $3.00.

Harrison, S.J., and Fr. Francis Wood, S.J.; master of ceremonies at the throne, Fr. Lawrence Willenborg, S.J.; at the altar, Fr. Louis Sauvain, S.J.; and cross-bearer, Fr. Owen McCusker, S.J.

Aegis Editor Calls Staff Volunteers

The first Aegis staff meeting will be held tonight, October 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Xavier lounge. Editor Ray Whiteside invites anyone who is interested in working on the yearbook to attend this meeting.

Last days for Senior pictures are October 4, 8, 9, and 11, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the third floor lounge of the Liberal Arts Building.

Cleaning up the Chieftain cafeteria for the final UGN mixer, "Autumn Leaves," are committee members (l.-r.) Pat Dennehy, Ron Cass, Jim Plastino and Joan Bailey.

'Autumn Leaves' Friday Ends UGN Dances

By SONJA VUKOV

The Chieftain, hub of all campus activity during SU students' waking hours, will soon have its tables (and undrunk-coffee cups) cleared away and musty cigarette smoke replaced by an atmosphere of crackling "Autumn Leaves." The occasion for this temporary renovation is SU's second UGN Mixer which will be held there on Friday night, Oct. 5, from 9 p.m. to midnight.

This Friday will be the first and only time that the Chieftain will be used for any type of dance.

Another innovation highlighting this mixer is the music which will be provided by a new group, the Overton Barry Quartet, new at least to Seattle U students. Featured guitarist with this combo is SU's own John C. Smith.

Mr. Berry plays the piano while Bill Lee takes over the difficult bass scores written by Overton, with the distinctive jazz beat rendered by Dennis Trout on the drums. Peggy Griffiths adds to the appeal of this quartet with her vocal selections.

Sodality Plans Orientation

Sodality begins their fall quarter schedule with an orientation meeting Thursday, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. for students interested in becoming Sodality members.

Any Catholic student is eligible for membership. Noel Brown, Prefect, stated: "All interested in joining, especially new students and freshmen, are invited to the meeting."

At the meeting, prospective members will be introduced to the Sodality way of life by the Rev. Francis Lindekugel, S.J., moderator.

Vice Prefect Ed Raftis will explain the new probation program. There will be two meetings of probation groups each day at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. In addition, week-end meetings will be organized if there is enough interest in them.

An entertainment program will follow the formal meeting.

Donation will be 75¢, all proceeds of which go to the student portion of the UGN drive currently being conducted on campus. Refreshments will be sold at the dance under the sponsorship of the AWSSU.

Co-chairmen of the dance are Jim Plastino and Ron Cass, while Joan Bailey is in charge of publicity.

Pat Dennehy will direct the three service organizations who will lend their assistance Friday evening; namely, the A Phi O's, IK's and Spurs.

MOVIE

"Pete Kelly's Blues," starring Jack Webb, Janet Leigh and Peggy Lee, will be shown in the Lounge Sunday night, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is 35 cents.

Campus Good Neighbors Reaches 39% of Goal

Proving again that Seattle U students recognize the value of such a worthwhile project as the UGN drive, their attendance at the Benefit Mixer last Friday probably made it the most financially successful dance ever held by a campus group.

"We are deeply grateful," expressed the student UGN staff, "at the reception that the students gave to the raise in price for the UGN Benefit Mixer, and it was because of this that we are able to get off to such a wonderful start."

Consequently, the students in their rush to reach their goal of $1,252.80 have gained 39% of that amount to date. This figure puts them 9% ahead of their total figure raised at the same time last year.

The Faculty have not begun their portion of the drive to date, which places them 39% behind the students. However, their kick-off is planned for the latter part of the week of October 8, when a great part of the intense competition will be in progress.

Assembly Board Elections Slated Tuesday, Oct. 9

Nominations for membership on the ASSU Assembly Board open today, Thursday, at 12 noon. All those interested must register in the ASSU office by submitting a petition of 30 signatures before 1 p.m. Monday, Oct. 8. Petitions are available in the office.

The election, open to all sophomores, juniors and seniors, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 9, between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Votes may be cast in the Chieftain and at the Information Booth in the Liberal Arts Bldg.

Each class will elect five representatives from the candidates. Students are reminded that presentation of student body cards is necessary for voting.

Board Duties

The Assembly Board is the legislative group of the ASSU. Meeting at least once a month throughout the school year, it approves all presidential appointments and removals, grants and revokes charters, and approves club constitutions. It has the right to override a presidential veto by a two-thirds majority vote.

Pat Galbraith, ASSU vice president, urges all students who have had experience in student government and legislative organization to register as soon as possible.

Students Offered Reduced Rates at Seattle Theatres

Student admission cards are now available, making it possible for movie fans to pay junior admission prices at the Evergreen and John Hamrick Theaters.

The student cards which must be presented at the box office in order to have the reduction in rates, are now on sale for $1.00 in the Chieftain. The student cards may not be used for road shows, and are in effect until June 30, 1957.

Only one card is allowed each student and may be used at the following theatres: Fifth Avenue, Paramount, Coliseum, Orpheum, Music Hall, Music Box and the Blue Mouse.

The second UGN activity under the sponsorship of the students will be the "Autumn Leaves" mixer which is to be held this Friday in the Chieftain. Classroom collections have been scheduled to begin on Monday, Oct. 15.

Racing for the coveted Inter-Hall Cup are Marycrest and Xavier Halls, who have now been assigned their individual quotas. Xavier's goal under the chairmanship of Cal Crow has been set at $130, while Mary Ann Onorato is organizing the Marycrest residents to win back the trophy in reaching their goal of $240.

The Student-Faculty Trophy is going on display in the Mu Sigma showcase starting October 8, and the Inter-Hall Cup is currently on display in the two halls.

In order that all concerned may check on the progress of their particular competitive group, the progress thermometers will be put up the first of next week. They will be located by the switchboard in the LA Building and can be viewed from then until October 27.

EDITORIAL

Charity is obligation

United Good Neighbors Drive is presently under way on campus. Seattle University as a private institution serving the public of Seattle and King County, as well as the State of Washington, has a community responsibility to help support the activities of this worthwhile enterprise.

The institutions which benefit from the generosity of UGN donors include privately supported groups which could not operate without this additional aid.

To give or not to give? This is really not our choice. As students of a Catholic institution, as Christian men and women, we have a duty and obligation to support charitable enterprises.

The directive comes not only from the UGN campus chairman but from Him who said, "Whatsoever you do unto these, the least of my brethren, you do unto ME."

PRAYER FOR GENEROSITY

Dearest Lord, teach me to be generous.
Teach me to serve Thee as Thou deservest;
To give and not to count the cost;
To fight and not to heed the wounds;
To toil and not to seek for rest;
To labor and not to ask for reward,
Save that of knowing that I am doing Thy will.

JUDY CAREY

"Ite missa est"—these are the closing words used by priests at the end of every Mass offered. For many people these words simply convey an idea that the Mass is ended, yet for others, it is something more, something to be taken into a world that needs Christian soldiers. It is an order to go and spread the foods of grace received from the sacrifice just offered; it is an order to practice true Christian charities. "Go, it is your mission."

To a student, this order is directed to the college community where people are busy with intellectual pursuits, where the tune of life differs greatly from any other area in their social order.

Thus it is the duty of the students to apply in every way possible that which the Master of all apostles desires. How will the student go about this? How best can he perform the work of an apostle?

At college, one can always find ways of promoting the apostolate; however, many difficulties arise, and time seems to be lacking in attending to anything but ourselves. Yet, for an apostle the time is always here and now. Deeds of charities are not things that should be put off until one finds it convenient, or when he has nothing else to do. Instead in his every contact, in his every deed, there's always some good that he can do. For example: a kind remark, a friendly smile, a prayer for others are all acts that can be done without time squandering.

A student apostle is one who, armed with the spirit of charity, seeks to aid his neighbors to the best of his ability. This soon becomes for him a way of life; consequently, there's not time skimping, but his whole life is an act of service and good example. In time he grows into a person filled with love and understanding. The Apostle is developing himself while helping others. "For it is in giving that we receive."

Thus, the mission to which he was sent seems to be the stimulus to help him realize his present vocation. His student life is his vocation and through it he will find his salvation. A life spent in perfecting oneself through service to his fellowmen is most practical and meritorious. After all, this is our end — TO BE A SAINT AND APOSTLE.

It's a woman's world

M. E. SULLIVAN

My first time at the polls was an outstanding experience. Reminds me somewhat of starting school each year and writing on summer activities, or on my trip to Blank the capital of Blah.

Something akin to the feeling you get on the morning of a test you haven't studied for grips you as the little curtain slides around you, leaving you with only the view of other people's feet for company. Possibly many people have felt the same sinking feeling—despairing at their own snail-like manipulation of the levers, while their well-informed peers trip-trap in and out of the booths with hardly a moment's hesitation.

So you've read the advertisements in the newspapers, given a halfheartedly attentive ear to radio speeches and scanned the mailbox accumulation pamphlets before tossing them into the wastebasket. I knew one thing: I was going to vote the straight party ticket. I hadn't thought my political views would be changed in the course of changing my name, but being a sort of happy-go-lucky non-partisan type Democrat my views were susceptible to propaganda. My husband changed both my name and my political views. I am firmly convinced of this: one cannot remain non-partisan and know what they want.

Since the party controls the majority of decisions it's up to the individual to evaluate the party, what the party stands for, and the platform resolutions. Of course you don't have to agree with my views: that's what sells coffee in the Chieftain; something to grow cold as the discussion grows hot. I've come to the conclusion that being a good voter isn't just a matter of not getting your fingers caught in the voting machine. It just takes practice, persistence and prudence.

REVIEW:

Giving the boys tea and sympathy (?)

AL KREBS

"Years from now . . . when you talk about this . . . and you will . . . be kind."

After playing 91 weeks on Broadway under the stigma of condemnation, Hollywood in one of its more conservative moods has adapted "Tea and Sympathy" to the screen, the finished product currently playing at the Music Hall.

In a slightly watered-down version of the prize-winning stage production, director Vincent Minelli has successfully brought together again Deborah Kerr, John Kerr and Leif Erickson, the same three who gained so much stardom on Broadway with the play.

"Kindness" is the trait, though, that provides the picture's downfall with the Legion of Decency, as that group has classified it objectionable in part because it tends to create sympathy for immoral actions.

This trait, however, is well portrayed in the person of Laura Reynolds (Deborah Kerr), wife of a New England prep school dorm master. Her only job is to provide a little tea and sympathy to the boys in the house but she becomes attached to a sensitive young student, Tom Lee (John Kerr), who is known to his classmates as "Sister Boy Lee" because he sews, plays tennis with short feminine strokes, etc. By using this theme the picture softens the blow of homosexuality which the boy was accused of in the Broadway production.

Persecuted not only by his schoolmates but by his own father and Laura's husband, the latter two being old classmates, the boy clings to his only friend, the woman he loves, Laura. Finally in an effort to prove his masculinity he dates Ellie Martin (Norma Crane), a poor college student's answer to Mammie Stover.

During the evening he tries to kill himself and the entire affair only adds to his miseries. Finally Laura, realizing the boy's misery and the utter distastefulness of her husband's attitude, goes to Tom with a sort of sympathy that is a good deal out of the realm of that called for by a dorm master's wife.

If not the best picture of the year from an all-around point of view, it certainly should rank near the top as Deborah Kerr again demonstrates why she is considered one of the world's leading actresses. Kerr and Erickson are also outstanding as the male leads in this MGM production.

Along with the mistreatment of the moral tone one finds himself disappointed with the audience. It becomes obvious why the powers that be hesitate to put on film popular stage productions. They must no doubt feel American audiences do not seem to have the maturity to know what is drama and what is low comedy. Certainly that is evident in the darkened rows of the Music Hall while viewing this highly moving story.

Not that this review is condoning immoral actions but with Miss Kerr providing such a passionate plea of kindness in the closing scenes of the movie we find ourselves following her desire of being kind but in this case to the picture.

Jack Jarvis, P-I city editor, was kind enough to let us publish one of his famous cards this week. This card is not meant for the student who works hard at his studies, is conscientious, or anyone who takes an active part in school functions. It is designed to appeal to people like myself who really shouldn't be in college due to a definite lack of brains.

Mr. Jarvis realizes this and so do I. If you feel that you also belong in this category and wish to belong to the club, all you have to do is come up to the Spectator gently on this project and here's hoping it's the huge success it should be.

When asked what he thought of the Freshman Class, Oaksmith declared, "I think they are a very fine group, but they will never replace people."

After five minutes of conversation with this year's Publicity Director, one can tell that he has definite ideas on everything from politics to potato chips.

To report on the many aspects of Oakie's personality and work would be practically impossible so we are going to run an "I Like and Dislike" from Oaksmith:

He likes Ike, potato chips, week ends, holidays, coffee breaks, Kim Novak.

He dislikes white bucks, people who ask why, California weather, filter-tip cigarettes, teachers who change textbooks every quarter.

office and pick up a membership card. "No dues, meetings, or speeches," as Jarvis would say.

In my constant efforts to muddle up campus thinking, I have decided to report on two of the most likeable people you will meet around SU.

Cathy Corbett, AWSU president, came into our office Monday, sat down at the chair opposite my desk and proceeded to tell us in 20 minutes about the activities of the women students of whom she is in charge. Then, and then only, did she talk about herself, and for a very short time, in very few words.

I believe this is the greatest compliment I could give her, because many of the people I am forced to deal with are suffering from the great "I" complex.

Her greatest concern seems to be "my girls."

Oakie Oaksmith also came into the office this week and told us about the proposed plan of the SU Publicity Department about inviting a high school band and basketball team to each one of SU's home basketball games. This, I think, is a step in the right direction, because it will not only popularize SU with the Seattle public high schools, but it will be added entertainment for the SU students. The band could also represent the opposing team. Oaksmith and his collaborators are working very dili-

UNITED GOOD NEIGHBORS

Spectator SPORTS

By JOHN MINGUS, Sports Editor

One of the difficulties facing an editor of a weekly college paper is that most of the news comes out at the wrong time, making it difficult to really have something solid before others put it into print. Since our deadline is Wednesday and the World Series begins on the same day, we have a definite problem.

Now we could write the baseball commissioner and protest the scheduling of the series which makes it difficult for our staff to meet the deadline, but we don't think that approach would be quite proper. So then, we must make certain adjustments. In this particular case, we will throw all caution to the wind and predict at nine o'clock Wednesday morning that the Dodgers will bomb Whitey Ford, starting Yankee pitcher, out of the box, and go on to win the opener.

We will go further out on the limb and predict that Brooklyn will win the series not so much on over-all ability, but by having the added advantage of a fortuitous scheduling of the series.

INTERSECTIONAL WEEK-END

Top billing for this week-end on the football scene goes to the Stanford Indians from Palo Alto, who travel to Columbus, Ohio, where they will meet the Buckeyes of Ohio State.

Coach Woody Hayes and his crew, defending Big Ten champs, are out to avenge a 6-10 defeat at the hands of Stanford last year. Considering the fact that Stanford will be stronger experience-wise and that the Buckeyes are without their ace halfback Hopalong Cassidy, we give the nod to Chuck Taylor's Indians.

Other games which should add thrills to week-end football will be: Michigan over Michigan State, Pitt over California, and Washington over Illinois. (The Huskies are about due again.)

Joe Pehanick, former Chieftain kingpin, is saving his nickles and dimes for the cigars that he will be passing out in a few months when his wife Julie gives birth to their first child. . . . Glancing around the Chieftain this week, we noticed a few ex-basketball players who have returned to finish school. . . . Welcome back Jack Johansen, Cal Bauer, and Larry Sanford. . . . Another note, Larry Sanford is due to leave for the Army early this winter. . . . Lest we forget! We wish to extend a hearty welcome to a returning veteran and a student of long standing at Seattle U. Welcome back, Bob Klug!

Goodnight, Tommy!

Intramural Sports:

• General

With intramural football taking over the sports picture next Tuesday, we get off to a bang-up start in athletics this year. At first glance, it might appear that everything is disorganized as any disorganization can get disorganized, but, believe me, there is beneath the surface a system to our madness, or vice versa.

To a great majority of students, there appears to be little change in the intramural program at Seattle University. There is the same tough football league as in the past. No doubt, there will be the usual poor officiating at games. From this situation comes the question, "Why isn't something being done to improve these conditions?"

For the first time in years, plans are under way to improve and expand the intramural program. At this moment, we cannot give you a complete idea of what is going to be incorporated and what is not, but we can say that Mr. Joe Page will make you very happy with a well-rounded program which may include tennis, golf, volleyball, organized girls' activities, along with the old standbys of football, basketball and softball.

Consult your sports page for further information concerning the intramural program. Should you have any suggestions, do not hesitate to make your ideas known to the sports editor.

• Football

Intramural football players will clash for the first time at Broadway Playfield Tuesday, Oct. 9. This year the football league will be under the direction of Mr. Joe Page, director of intra-mural sports.

There is a serious shortage of referees to officiate at games. Any persons interested in officiating should contact Mr. Page in the Athletic Office.

Students are reminded that Friday, Oct. 5, is the deadline for entries in the football league.

Activities Planned:

Young Democrats, Students for Adlai

Young Democrats of Seattle U will hold their first meeting on Monday, Oct. 8, at 8 p.m. in the Chieftain Lounge.

Agenda of the meeting includes discussion of political activity for the coming elections and plans for Open House. Students who are interested in the club are urged to attend.

Also, Ann O'Donnell, club prexy and co-chairman of the State Young Voters for Rosellini, announced a meeting of the latter group on Friday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the headquarters at 919 Second Avenue. She urged all SU Young Democrats and other interested students to attend.

Thirty-six students turned out for the organizational meeting of the Seattle University Chapter of the Students For Stevenson last Monday, announced Don D. Wright, chairman.

The following committee chairmen were appointed: Ann E. Hurd and Mark Ruljancich, who will distribute Stevenson buttons and silver replicas of Adlai's famous shoe with a hole in the sole.

Adoreen McCormick will be responsible for campaign literature and Jim Murphy will be campus coordinator. Publicity director for the group will be Fritz Heirich.

The meeting, held in the Chieftain Lounge, featured the Rev. Michael J. Toulouse, S.J., as guest speaker. Wright read a congratulatory telegram to the SU group from Goodwin Chase, of Ellensburg, chairman of the Washington Volunteers for Stevenson and Ke-fauver.

Gavel Club Sets Tournament Plans

The Seattle University Gavel Club held its initial meeting of the year last Monday and immediately began work on a full scale of activities. Brian Cullerton, prexy, announced his fellow officers for the current year. They are Ann Moloney, vice president; Elizabeth Ciceri, secretary, and Bill McMennamin, treasurer.

Scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 10, is an exhibition debate on the topic of the Guaranteed Annual Wage in America. All students are invited to attend the event.

Also slated for the coming year is the annual high school debate tourney. The tentative dates are December 7 and 8.

Mr. J. Robert Larson, again acting as club moderator, disclosed that invitations have been received to three major forensic tournaments during the fall quarter. Meets at Washington State College, Pacific Lutheran College and Stockton College in California are on the agenda.

Any student with or without previous debating experience who is interested in forensic activity is asked to sign up at Open House.

IT'S FOR REAL!

by Chester Field

IF I HAD A MILLION!

"Life," he cried, "is so unfair
I should have been a millionaire!
I'd drive a car, a white Jaguar with leopard trim and built-in bar,
Complete with blondes and red heads too,
A movie queen or two would do . . .
I'm lazy, crazy, debonnaire
I'd make a perfect millionaire!"

"Instead," he sobbed, "at twenty-five I'll have to work to stay alive!"

MORAL: If you are $999,999.00 short of being a millionaire, but you like your pleasure big, Enjoy the big full flavor, the big satisfaction of a Chesterfield. Packed more smoothly by Accu-Ray, it's the smoothest tasting smoke today!

So, try 'em. Smoke for real . . . smoke Chesterfield!

"I feel like a Coke.
Do you?"

DRINK

Of course. Most everyone does—often.
Because a few moments
over ice-cold Coca-Cola refresh you so.

It's sparkling with natural goodness, pure and wholesome—and naturally friendly to your figure.
