Variety Show Opens Tomorrow

Students with activity cards will be admitted free to the Variety Show, '61, tomorrow night, said Dean Zahren, president of Mu Sigma. Admissions for students on Friday and Saturday night will be 50 cents. General admission is $1. Showtime will be 8:15 p.m.

About 16 acts are ready to perform in the show, said Mrs. Mary Egan and Carl Pitzer. The double quartet will sing "A Great Day's a Comin'!" Members of the group are: Pat Butler, Nanci Cook, Carol Crozier, Roberta Cordero, Carlisle Dehner, Pat Gaffney, and Pat Mahoney.

Roberta Cordero will sing "Malaguena," with Paul Pival accompanying her on the guitar. Linda Ross, piano soloist, will play her own arrangement of "Rhapsody in Blue."

The Manhattan Girls will do a comic version of "Two Lost Souls." The dancing group includes Nanci Cook, Sara Jullian, Barbara Lasby, Dianne Solomon and Jeanne Wendell.

Carlisle Dehner will also perform in the act. Mary McNealy is choreographer.

"BARBARA DIXON will do a darling jazz number," Mrs. Egan said. She will perform to "Night Train." Pat Butler and Paul Pival, comic singers, will perform a comic number to "Hernando's Hideaway."

Two S.U. trios singing in the show are the Docsons, composed of John Codling, Mike Flaherty and Paul Pival, and the Young Men, including Adolfo Salazar, Al Smith and Brian Templeton.

Bob Voelker, baritone, will solo "Without a Song." Mary Greenie will do a humorous monologue entitled "Mama Get Me a Drink of Water." Dean Zahren will sing "Hey There," a number from "Pajama Game."

CAROL COLLINS will sing "I Talk to the Trees." Accompanying her will be a combo composed of Barry Wilcox, Al Smith and Dick Knowles. Pat Butler will sing "Those Were the Good Old Days," a number from "Damn Yankees."

Luz Guerra will do a piano solo. Jack McGann will sing a folk song and play the guitar. Valerie Volta will give an original comic monologue.

STAGE CREW for the show will be Tom Karasek and Tim Sullivan. The show will run about two hours, Mr. Pitzer said.

Quarter End, Final Exams Now Scheduled for Dec. 15

S.U. students will have six extra days to do their Christmas shopping.

The S.U. academic council decided Monday that fall quarter will end on Dec. 15 instead of Dec. 21 as originally scheduled, according to Fr. Frank B. Costello, S.J., academic vice president.

THE CHANGE was made because the annual school retreat was dropped from the fall calendar. Weekend retreats during the year and a general school retreat in Easter week are scheduled.

Students will still have 53 days of school including the final examinations days on Dec. 14 and 15.

THE PRIMARY reason the council gave for closing school early was that faculty members would not have had enough time to get the final grades in to the registrar by the Dec. 23 deadline.

I.K. Who's Who On Sale Monday

The 1961-62 Who's Who student directory will go on sale Monday in the Chieftain for 35 cents a copy. The book includes names, addresses, phone numbers, and campus residence of students in the day school.

JIM VAN SICKLE, president of the I.K.'s who publish the directory annually, said that new features this year include home addresses of out-of-town students and listings in separate sections for men and women. The cover is based on the current Century 21 theme.

Father President Thanks Students

On behalf of the Jesuit Fathers and lay faculty, may I thank all the students who cooperated so generously in making the dedication of the Bannan Bldg. such a success.

The impression created by our students is evident in this quotation from one of many letters we have received:

"The enthusiasm of the well-trained students who showed us through the newly-dedicated Bannan Bldg. was indeed refreshing and stimulating. They truly reflected the spirit and untiring energy expended by the Jesuit Fathers and all connected with the completion of the science building. The students who served in the dining room and who sang in the chorale are also to be complimented for adding so much to the joy of the festivities."

Along with the student groups, may I heartily commend Fr. Evoy and the faculty committee who worked such long hours planning and organizing our two-day celebration, namely: Fr. Bertin, Fr. Cowgill, Mr. Ford, Dr. Schroeder, Mr. Talevich and Fr. Wood. The success of the event reflects the thoroughness of that planning.

The students and this committee combined to provide us with two happy and memorable days in the history of the University. Our sincere appreciation to all.

Ann MacQuarrie Chosen AWS Girl of the Month

The AWS Girl of the Month is Ann MacQuarrie, Seattle junior majoring in English, according to Mary Lee Walsh, AWS president. The October selection was announced to The Spectator today.

Ann was nominated for the award by Town Girls, the organization of which she is president. Mary Lee said that under Ann's leadership, the club has quadrupled with a freshman pledge class, and has become an integral part of AWS.

AN HONORS seminar student, Ann is also a member of Silver Scroll, upperclass women's honorary, program chairman of the Sadie Hawkins tolo, co-chairman of the Homecoming on-campus publicity committee, and secretary of the junior class.

As Girl of the Month, Ann

will receive the AWS gold bracelet which will have her name engraved on it. She will wear the bracelet for one month and will be eligible for the Girl of the Year award.

'A Winter's Night':

Pat Monahan, fashion board chairman, told The Spectator that the theme of the show is "A Winter's Night." It will be staged in three acts, "Cocktails for Two," "Sophisticated Swing," and "Dancing and Dreaming."

S.U. COEDS modeling semi-formals in the first act are: Nancy Nichol, Sharon Morrissey, Lee Heagerty, Pat Monahan, Agnes Gerber, Kay Lynch, Sherry Doyle, Tina Johanssen, Nicky Crutz, Darlene Schroedl, Molly Marx, Mary Zohn, Valerie Andrews, Sue Ditter, Sondi Maleville and Kristian Jacobson.

The girls who will model short formals in the second act are: Mary Lee Walsh, Maddy McGill, Jeanne Pierone, Ginny Thorne, Joanne Clark, Linda Eickholt, Alice Helldoerer, Lynn Sedgwick, Ann MacQuarrie, Valerie Volta, Ann Mohr, Coke Duni, Linda Duni, and Valerie Andrews.

Pat said the fashion board appreciates the large number of girls who volunteered for the show, but they were not able to include all interviewees because of repetition of colors and styles.

Congratulations!

Congratulations are in order for the student senate for a wise and constructive move—the termination of S.U.'s participation in the Confederation of Northwest Catholic College Students.

Upon appraisal of the contribution that the organization has made to S.U., or anyone else, for that matter, during the last few years, it is abundantly clear that the student body can spend its funds more effectively elsewhere.

GONZAGA U., which withdrew last year, showed itself much less patient in conceding that the group is not of a scope that can be beneficial to schools that have passed through the embryonic stages of student government.

After almost a full year of preliminary consideration, we feel that the decision is neither rash nor ill-advised. On the contrary, it will not benefit S.U. alone. The remaining colleges share many more of the same problems among themselves than they do with the larger universities.

THEY WILL no longer be faced with the stumbling block of trying to understand S.U.'s goals and methods, nor will they have to submit themselves any longer to our well-earned advice.

Good Luck!

We hail the coming of Fr. James Connors, S.J., to S.U. At last there is some promise that the long-standing dearth of active drama on campus will be rectified.

"ONE DOES NOT learn to swim by swimming in troubled waters." These words of Cardinal Newman emphasize the importance of acquiring an acute and proper vision of reality under competent direction.

THE CONSCIENTIOUS student will avail himself of all means at his disposal to accomplish this goal during his university education. Drama is one of the most vital and potent of these means. In fact, to us, the thought of a university without dramatic art is unthinkable.

Yet there has been an obvious lack of initiative on the part of all toward the formation of a theatre group at S.U.

THE LONG-AWAITED establishment of the S.U. drama movement now affords the opportunity to atone for this artistic apathy. We heartily urge an awakening of the student body toward this end, and we wish Fr. Connors and his Thespians good fortune in accomplishing it.

Senators Approve Dates, Judges

By CHUCK VERHAREN, Chief Justice Larry Heber swore in the five freshman senators and senior senator Ned Flohr at last Sunday's session. The chair commended the senators on their irreproachable attire—tie and coats for the male senators, "high heels, I guess, and whatever else" for the females.

President Dave Irwin in his officer's report commended the frosh senators for "one of the cleanest campaigns we've witnessed on this campus."

THE GRAND OLD man of the senate, R. L. Penne (jr., Seattle) with three consecutive terms to his credit, will finally take the parliamentary procedures course from Dr. LaCugna. (Seriously!)

Turning to old business, the senate decided upon the dates of the winter quarter calendar after an hour and a half of haggling. The following dialogue illustrates the unnecessary amount of nervous tension and mental fatigue produced by the dates. Chairman Fischer, ruling on voting rules: "The chair is out of order." Sen. M. Flynn, further out of order: "Way out!"

The senate then saved the students of S.U. $350 yearly by voting to withdraw from the Confederation of Northwest Catholic College Students. Sen. R. Burnham (jr., Seattle) pointed out that CNCCS' purpose—to promote and provide mutual understanding and counsel among the member schools—could not be furthered by S.U. since S.U. has reached a more advanced stage of development than the other members.

SEN. M. REYNOLDS (jr., Portland) added that the confederation had no concept of proper parliamentary procedure: "Each of these meetings (at an executive meeting at S.U. Oct. 28-29) was kind of a moderately controlled fiasco." Sen. N. English (sr., Los Altos) declared in her inimitably effervescent style that even when she was a freshman the schools in CNCCS were "too much less far along in development than we were."

The senators then shooed the spectators out of the senate gallery to approve Stan Stricherz, Larry McHugh, seniors, and Joan Berry, Bob Dunn, sophomores, as new members of the judicial board.

SEN. M. J. SHEPHERD introduced a motion to grant $301.84 from the ASSU general fund to C. J. Michaelson for cheerleader outfits. The senators were not given any time before the session to consider the motion, and the question was not thoroughly resolved to the satisfaction of such senators as R. L. Penne (jr., Seattle) and B. Irwin (fr., Seattle, who abstained on the motion. In previous years the Pep Club paid for the uniforms, but currently that club is $167 in the hole. During discussion on the motion, it was suggested that the money be loaned to the club rather than donated. Michaelson pointed out that the athletic budget may provide half the cost of the outfits if extra revenue can be gotten by televising the games. Neither suggestion was adequately considered.

PENT-UP SIGHs of relief terminated the three-hour session, stifled as it was in the bog of parliamentary peat and winter date mish-mash. However, for all its arid loquacity, the senate should be commended for deciding at all on the dates, and more importantly for dropping CNCCS affiliation.

CNCCS Membership Rejected by Senate

S.U. has officially withdrawn as a member of the Confederation of Northwest Catholic College Students (CNCCS). The senate voted to drop out of the organization Sunday night.

Schools in the confederation are Portland, College of Great Falls, Mont., Carroll College, Helena, Mont.; Marylhurst, Portland, and Holy Names, Spokane.

LAST YEAR, S.U. paid $400 for dues and convention expenses. This year $350 was allotted for S.U.'s CNCCS activities. The $350 will go back into the ASSU general fund.

Mike Reynolds, senior voting delegate, explained that CNCCS' purpose is to be a united force of Catholic student conviction in the Northwest. They discuss topics on student government, national and international affairs, and church affairs.

Bob Burnham, junior student senator, told the senate that S.U. has been considering dropping from CNCCS for more than a year. The other colleges in the group have nothing in common with S.U., Burnham said, except that they are all Catholic schools.

CNCCS said last spring that they were going to revamp their structure. This made S.U. reconsider dropping out, he said. The only revamping they did was to cut the conventions to one and decided to take stands on national and international questions.

Some of the points brought out at the recent executive meeting here were unbelievable, Reynolds said. Citing some examples, he said that the delegates decided that it would be best not to use words over three or four syllables in their motions.

OMOC Tops East League; Sneakers Upend Butchers

By BOB JORDAN

The first round of intramural football ended Monday with the OMOCs leading the East, and the West muddled by a three-way tie.

On Monday, the Los Monigotes lost to the Kiwis, 8-6.

The key play of the game came after time had run out in the first half and Harry Lambro had intercepted a Kiwi aerial behind his own goal line. He was surrounded by Kiwis as he tried to run it out, and the Kiwis reaped a two point lead which they never relinquished.

IN THE second game the Sneakers sneaked past the Bellarmine Butchers, 14-8. The Sneakers made a touchdown in each half while the Butchers were only able to hack out one in the second. The Sneakers' win gave the West three first place teams.

On Friday, ROTC was leveled, 56-0, by the offensive maneuvers of the Los Monigotes. The Monigotes totaled up their eight touchdowns with four passes, two runs, and two interceptions.

The California Waste-Makers then battled to a 12-0 victory over the Deadbeats. After a scoreless first half, Gary Sanchez broke loose for a forty-yard run and the game's first touchdown. Later, Bill Meyer ran 20 yards for the last California touchdown.

INDIVIDUAL STATISTICS for the first round: Frank Michael leads the league in touchdowns with six; Jim Schaecher leads in interception tions with four, and in touchdown passes, Frank Michael, Dick Sharp, and Bill Meyer are tied with six apiece.

Quarterback Neubauer Named Athlete of Week

Bob Neubauer, junior quarterback of the Los Monigotes, has been named the Athlete of the Week.

In his game Friday against ROTC and his game Monday against the Kiwis, Neubauer showed a deft combination of gridiron skills with his passing and receiving, running and intercepting.

ON THESE two successive days, he threw four touchdown passes which ranked him fourth in the league in this department. However, Dave Nichols, intramural director, was quick to point out that it wasn't only his offensive dexterity that won him the honor but also his defensive play. In these games he snagged enough enemy aeriels to earn him second place in league interceptions.

Vic Menezes, a Bellarmine Butcher, deserved considerable attention for his aggressive line play in Monday's game against the Sneakers.

ANOTHER consideration for the honor was Mimi Burchard, the chief pin tripper of the Specs. Last week, she bowled 189 in one game and totaled a 527 for the series. She is the intramural bowling league's leading woman bowler, with an average of 152.

Basketball In; Volleyball Out

Dale Shirley, assistant intramural director, has announced the formation of a girls' intramural basketball program.

Games will be played between 12:30 and 2 p.m. every Thursday and Friday in the gym. There will be no organized teams, but the girls will team up on a day-to-day basis.

SHIRLEY ALSO said that volleyball has been dropped from the intramural program, due to lack of interest. This will enable gymnasts to meet three days a week—on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

Effects of Peace Corps Far-Reaching, Says Zack

Arnold M. Zack, representative of the Youth Peace Corps, spoke to S.U. students Friday in the Chieftain Lounge about the Peace Corps. He emphasized the far-reaching effects the Corps will have on international relations and diplomacy.

Peace Corps workers are trained to answer questions rather than to argue with trained Communist agitators, said Zack. The first concern of the Peace Corps is to aid in educating people in the countries which apply for aid. Some of the projects include teaching farming methods, medicine, English, Latin, American literature, and government. The countries themselves request the projects they want, he pointed out.

VOLUNTEERS interested in the Peace Corps may obtain applications from Dr. Downey. Applicants then receive a ticket for a test offered in Seattle about every two or three months. About six weeks after the test, the applicants are notified of their status.

A volunteer may express a preference or rejection of a certain project, Zack explained. After acceptance for a project, the volunteer begins training. The training consists of orientation to the particular country's language, needs and customs; a review of basic principles of American government and a physical fitness program.

ABOUT 20 per cent of the volunteers "wash out" during the training, reported Zack. But, he reported, some of these go into training for other projects. Others become recruiters. Those who graduate then leave for the country to which they have been assigned.

ARNOLD M. ZACK

Zack envisions a chain reaction to be initiated by the Peace Corps. Participants may enter the foreign service, continue to serve the government of their assigned country, or use their Peace Corps experience in industry, he said.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace. So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Sigafos.

Blossom, an impecunious freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and round as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—joys far beyond their paltry price: rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily moroser.

"Accept these Gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom.
"Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom.
"I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom.
Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three slacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies abed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom.
"You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom.
"You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."
