Randy Lumpp New Spectator Editor

Judy King To Assist

Randy Lumpp will be editor-in-chief of The Spectator next year; Judy King will be managing editor. The appointments were made early today by Fr. Francis J. Greene, S.J., newspaper adviser and head of the journalism department.

Lumpp and Judy, both juniors, will take over their executive positions next fall.

THE NEW EDITOR, a philosophy major, comes from Wheat Ridge, a suburb of Denver. Judy, a journalism major, is from Spokane. Both carried editorial jobs on the paper for the past two years. Lumpp was news editor this year and chief photographer last year; Judy was associate editor after a year as feature editor.

After graduation from Wheat Ridge High School, Lumpp attended Regis College (Denver) for one year before transferring to S.U. Judy entered S.U. after graduation from Holy Names Academy in Spokane.

The new "Chief" is in the senior honors seminar, Sodality, philosophical and literary society, and is on the judicial board. He was on the fall and winter honor rolls this year.

JUDY, NAMED best dressed girl on campus last year, won the Frank M. Baller scholarship this year as the outstanding journalist in the junior year. She also won The Spectator Best Writing award last year.

"There has been an awakening of a proper university spirit in student affairs this year," Lumpp commented. "I believe The Spectator has contributed greatly by stimulating the student body."

"Next year," he continued, "we intend to boost this even further. We will stress depth reporting, we will draw attention to student problems and we will write for the mature college student."

Lumpp said he hopes to focus more on world-wide political affairs and cultural materials.

"We are going to do all we can," Lumpp said, "to get more students into the active production of The Spectator."

Four Sophomores Win in Primaries; Final Elections to Run Thursday

In the two senate primary elections yesterday, four freshmen were voted into the senate finals.

Roy Angevine and Winnie Wynhausen won out as Position No. 2 finalists. Bill Eisinger and Sheila Purcell were victorious for Position No. 5.

Jim Van Sickle, election board coordinator, said there were only 20 votes separating all three contestants for Position No. 2. Dorene Centioli was eliminated by eight votes.

A TOTAL of 291 students voted in the election.

Final elections for all senate seats and class offices will be next Thursday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Chieftain, and from 8 a.m. to noon in the L.A. Building.

Among the campaign activities scheduled next week is a question-and-answer period for junior class office candidates at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in Ban-nan 501.

The Spectator will allow each candidate for senate to have 120 words to answer the following questions: Should S.U. join N.S.A.? Should the proposed political union be adopted? Should the senate representation be reorganized?

Articles should be turned into The Spectator before 1 p.m., Monday. Senate candidates who would like their picture in next Wednesday's Spectator should be in the Chieftain lounge at 12:45 p.m. today.

Political Union Plans Voiced

By JIM HARNISH

An organization is being formed here which will unite the efforts of at least three political groups to bring more political speakers to campus.

According to John Fat-torini and Joe McKinnon, presidents of the Young Republicans and Young Democrats, respectively, this new group will consist of three or more caucuses representing different political views. The union will combine the efforts of the Y.D.'s, the Y.R.'s and any other groups not aligned with the Republicans or Democrats.

THE PURPOSE of the union will be to have a unified force to work together to bring political speakers to campus, sponsor debates on current topics or prepare symposiums on political topics.

The Y.D.'s and Y.R.'s will continue with their regular club functions outside of the union.

Presently, the Y.D.'s and Y.R.'s are the only groups that sponsor political speakers. Many speakers do not want to speak under the tag of one of the parties, Fattorini said. With the union the speakers will not be sponsored by either political group. Fattorini said that with this unified force, S.U. can bring more and better speakers to campus.

THE UNION will be made up of the different interest caucuses headed by an executive board. The board will consist of the union's officers, three presidents of the caucuses and three faculty members. It will be the board's job to decide what activities the union will sponsor.

There are only two other political unions on the coast, Fattorini said. Stanford was the first and the U.W. started one this year. There is a grow-

Editorial

Shed the Cautious Cloak

Conservative indecision will never spark a university's student body to move ahead.

The student senate has been overly conservative and cautious in coming to a decision on joining the National Students' Association.

A SENATE committee has been investigating the pros and cons of joining N.S.A. for over six months. Still there is no decision. In a few weeks, the new senators will take over and the experienced outgoing senators will leave the senate chambers with the facts and values of much discussion. The new senate will have fruits of the old senators' work but they will not have the experience and familiarity of the facts for making a decision.

By now, every student who is interested enough to want to know something about N.S.A. has been handed all the available facts on the organization. The senators and the students know the facts.

LET'S MAKE the decision now!

The problem of making the decision probably stems from ignorance of the good N.S.A. will do for S.U. It would be impossible to point out the particular advantages now because S.U. is not a member. The most practical way to find them out is to join.

The cost of one year would be $100 for dues plus the cost of sending two delegates to the national convention in Ohio this summer.

Let's shake off this overly cautious cloak and join N.S.A. Only then will we have the first-hand facts by which we can judge for ourselves the worth of N.S.A.

Temple University News (Philadelphia)

The Temple student council has submitted a proposal to the university administration to allow for unlimited class cuts for students with a 3.0 average or better. The administration in turn has approved the measure with some revision. Temple President Gladfelter said "a regular attendance (for) able students is not essential to their advancement. (They are) not likely to cut because they want to keep their average high." "The purpose of such a program is to permit the student to proceed at his own academic pace."

College Times (Los Angeles State)

Los Angeles State has voted to drop N.S.A. affiliation because "it provided no benefits and offered no programs to the school." An N.S.A. representative at the student board meeting stated that "N.S.A. was not to program events, but to serve as an adjunct to student government. It is up to the individual schools and their representatives . . . to take advantage of what N.S.A. offers."

Loyolan (Los Angeles)

"A new organization is being formed on the Loyola campus this semester. It is called the Loyola Student Freedom Forum; its purpose is to promote anti-Communist action among Loyola students."

The Colorado Daily (U. of Colorado)

"The USNSA will sponsor six low-cost student travel programs this summer. The programs will include trips to Latin America, Japan, France, and Italy, a Politics and Economics tour to Western Europe and a Catholicism-in-Contemporary-Europe Study Tour." The tours will feature interviews, study, and lectures by and with persons well informed with the problems. The Catholicism tour will be led by a priest. Accommodations are often with families in the countries visited.

U.N.—Man's Hope for the Future

Sounding Board is an opinion column which is open for student comment pertaining to issues on the campus, local, or international level. By JIM PRESTON

Human life is a "vale of tears." We seem to be hanging in suspended dislocation, supported by a thin thread, certain of only one thing . . . the thread will someday break and death will be the only reality. Individual man lives in "continual fears, and of violent death; and the life of man, solitary, poor, nasty, brutish, and short."

But there is hope for man if he joins with his fellow man and forms a peaceful society. If one man could not keep the peace over his fellow man, then men joined together in a great multitude may be able to keep the peace.

THE PEACE that was not secured by the efforts of one individual nation, can be secured if the one joins hands in a collective effort of the many nations.

This is the theory behind the United Nations. And if a common universal law is established so that man may know his rights and obligations, then the scourge of war will be alleviated.

But there are those who would wish to see the world remain an armed camp, individually existing in a brutish state of nature. There are people who believe, because they want to believe it, that a universal standard of law cannot be implemented. They say that this is totally impractical.

HENRY M. JACKSON, Washington junior senator, is a respected American. He believes that the U.N. has a limited role in keeping the peace. He also believes that its present importance should be limited and not expanded. He says, "Everybody talks too much. It is a world disease. Sometimes it seems that the appropriate legend to place above the portals of the U.N.

might be: "Through these doors pass the most articulate men and women in the world."

THIS IS JACKSON'S view. He has, no doubt, many arguments to substantiate his case. I am, however, not concerned about the past and what the U.N. has failed to accomplish. Yet, I do not mean to say that the study of the past is not important. By studying history, there are many things that we can learn: that man has always made war against his fellow man; that a balance of terror has never worked for long; that our hope does not and cannot exist in bigger and better means of destruction . . . that we must try a new way.

TO THOSE CYNICS who would answer that the League of Nations has been tried, and thereby draw a comparison between the League and the U.N., I answer that the League was never given support, not even by the country of its origin. War comes easily, but peace is difficult to achieve.

Adlai Stevenson, another distinguished American, and the head of the American delegation at the U.N., says this to the charges leveled against the U.N.:

"But are they true? They seem to be born at best of serious misconceptions about the world which the Powers and the U.N. have alike to live in. At worst, they are the product of malice and pique. And whatever the motive behind them, they do not stand up to closer examination."

I DO NOT ASK that, through the U.N., we shall have a "new Jerusalem" tomorrow. But I say, let us try now, let us make the effort today, and let the effort involve our total resources, body and soul.

I ask that the same spirit of dedication, which we seem to have in pursuit of victory in war, be applied in pursuit of a lasting peace.

Hanstke, McHugh, Haggard Receive Graduate Grants

By JAN KELLY

Three S.U. June graduates have been granted scholarships or assistantships for graduate work in their fields.

CAROLINE HANSTKE, senior majoring in psychology, has been awarded a graduate assistantship at Fordham University, New York City. The assistantship will provide room, board and tuition for all of next year.

In return, Caroline will do 10-12 hours of counseling with a member of the graduate faculty each week. She will also do course work in psychology.

At the completion of the year, Caroline who is from Manitouwadge, Ontario, Canada, hopes to have her master's degree. She hopes to go on for a doctorate, probably specializing in clinical psychology.

LARRY MCHUGH, Seattle senior graduating in electrical engineering, has received a one-year, $1,500 scholarship to Cornell University, Ithica, N.Y. His studies will be in their two-year business administration program.

McHugh would like to go on for the second year, but the scholarship for that year will depend on his performance the first year. He will earn his masters degree if he completes the second year.

McHugh then tentatively plans to earn a masters in engineering and then pursue a career in engineering management.

GARY HAGGARD, who finished S.U. in March, has been ganted a teaching assistantship in mathematics at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Haggard will be paid half-salary as a teacher and will take a maximum of 21 credit hours each year of the two-year course. He may have his masters at the end of the second year.

Letters:

Candidate For Senate Disagrees

Dear Editor:

I feel obligated to express my views pertaining to a statement appearing in the last edition of The Spectator (May 2). Therein, it is stated, "One of the main points discussed in Sen. R. Leo Penne's seminar on senate reorganization was that the senators are not responsible to any particular group."

This unqualified statement was construed by myself and other readers to mean that those in attendance at the Leadership Review, last Saturday, particularly Sen. Penne, endorse the opinion that senators have no responsibility to their electors. This is not true.

Sen. Penne stressed, "Successful reorganization should be aimed at adequate representation." Precisely, because all senators are representing their respective classes they are responsible to their constituencies.

Intramural Thinclads To Ramble Tomorrow

By GERRY HANLEY

S.U.'s weekend athletes will get a chance to get the kinks out of their muscles, tomorrow, when they compete in the year's first intramural track meet. The meet will begin at 1:30 p.m. on the Garfield practice field, Empire Way and Jefferson St.

Twelve track and six field events have been scheduled, according to Dave Nichols, assistant intramural director. Both boys and girls will compete.

THE MEET will start at 1:30 with the men's shotput and high jump. At the same time the women will compete in a softball-throwing contest.

Eight events have been scheduled between 2 and 3 p.m. The boys will test their endurance in the mile run at 2 p.m. They also will compete in the softball throw. At 2:10, the men's 220-yard dash will be run, followed by the men's 60-yard dash at 2:20. The men will compete in the 440-yard dash and the broad-jump at 2:30. The men's and women's 60-yard dashes and will conclude the hour.

THE DAY'S program will be concluded with five events. At three o'clock, the girls will compete in the 440-yard relay and the 880-yard run at 3:10 and 3:20 respectively. At 3:30, the women's 220-yard dash will be run, followed by the men's 880-yard relay at 3:40.

The final events will be a mixed relay. However, if insufficient interest is shown or the time runs out, this event will be canceled, according to Nichols.

Points will be awarded for the first four finishers in the individual events and the winners of team events. These points will go toward season trophies, to be awarded after the May 13 track meet.

Nichols said that anybody needing transportation should meet at Xavier Hall at 1 p.m.

Weekend Softball:

Cabals vs. Unbeaten Wetbacks

S.U. intramural softball action moves into the midway point this weekend with two contests in each league.

American League play today pits the Cellarettes (1-1) against the Pike St. Chambermaids (1-1) at 1 p.m. at Broadway, and the Spartans (0-3) vs. the Barflies (0-2), 1 p.m. at Washington Park.

TWO NATIONAL League tilts are scheduled for tomorrow at Broadway. The Menhunes (1-1) meet California (0-2) at 9 a.m., and the Cabalists (1-1) take on the Wetbacks (2-0) at 11 a.m.

Strong hitting, plus the pitching of Bob Jensen and Ed Pearsall, have given the Wetbacks an unmarred record. Pearsall and Frank Edel provide power at the plate, and Jerry Tardie insures a sound infield at short.

THE SAME combination brands the Ratpack as the team to beat in the A.L. With Sam Butsch and Fr. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., on the mound, and Jim Schaecher, Lou Spear, John Hardy and Des Wytman's spelling trouble with the bat, the Pack should be hard to catch.

Tuesday could decide the story in the American circuit, when the Ratpack tangles with the Misfits (2-0), who rely on the hurling of Jon Jacobson. The N.L. showdown shapes up for May 19, when the Paul Miller-led Giants (2-0) and the Wetbacks match slants.

Papooses Trip E. J. C., Face Huskies Monday

S.U.'s frosh golfers face their biggest test of the season, Monday, against the U.W. frosh at 1:30 p.m. on the Papooses' home Inglewood course.

Wednesday, S.U. humiliated E.J.C. for the second time this season, 15½-2½, on the losers' Municipal course. Medalist Jon Akin fired an even-par 72.

CRACK! Pat Byrne bangs out a hit in Tuesday's intramural softball game. Byrne pitched a four-hit game, but his Spartans lost to the Pike St. Chambermaids, 2-1, in extra innings. Pat Campbell is looking on.

Rain-Soaked Chiefs To Battle Bulldogs

With a 10-day layoff behind them, Eddie O'Brien's Chieftain baseball crew will hope for a better break from the weatherman for tomorrow's double-header against Gonzaga in Spokane.

COACH O'BRIEN has named a 15-man squad to leave this afternoon. Making the trip are Rudy D'Amico, Jim Arnsberg, Frank Keenan, Denny Hodovance, Jerry Schatz, Steve Wandzilak, Jack Fitterer, Mick McDonald, Frank Michael, Glen Mattison, Steve Hunter, Rich Kayla, Dan Salceda, Bob Neubauer and Harry Lambro. Assistant Coach Bob Jacobs and Manager John Dougherty will join the team.

"They gave us a couple of good games over here," said O'Brien of the last Chieftain-Bulldog outing, which S.U. swept, 4-3 and 11-2.

"We'll have our two best pitchers going. Keenan (3-3) and D'Amico (2-0) will pitch these two," he remarked.

THIS WILL be the Chief's first game since Apr. 25, when S.P.C. was a 14-2 victim. Wednesday's U.W. game was postponed because of "wet grounds" and re-scheduled for a May 15 twin-bill. Last Thursday's P.L.U. double-header will be played Thursday at Parkland.

S.U. Yachts To Compete

Vice-commodore Mike Cassinelli and Fleet Captain Mike Solon will skipper the S.U. Yacht Club's two boats in the regional championships of the National Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association at Bellingham, today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Commodore Vince Muscolo and Secretary Toni Wagner will be crew members.

WESTERN Wash. will be host for the event, which also pits U.W., U.B.C. and U.P.S. S.U. ranks third in Northwest standings for the season.

The regatta will be run on a double-elimination, round-robin basis. The top two schools qualify for the national championships in Newport, Calif.

Council elections will conclude the regatta on Sunday. Muscolo, Solon and Toni Wagner have been nominated for regional offices.
