Rockefeller Explains Student Aid Program

By JIM HARNISH

A low-flying satellite probably wouldn't have attracted Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's eyes skyward more than the hundreds of S.U. coeds waving out of the windows of Marycrest Hall, yesterday.

Rockefeller visited S.U. yesterday afternoon by attending a luncheon at the dorm. Earlier yesterday, the New York governor talked to students and faculty members at Meany Hall on the U.W. campus. More than 2,000 people attended.

ARRIVING at Marycrest Hall, the governor bounced from his car and shook hands with nearly everyone in sight. He then turned from the 50 or more assembled students to wave vigorously at the hundreds of girls jamming six floors of windows of the women's dorm.

At the luncheon, the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of S.U., introduced Rockefeller.

The governor spoke for a few minutes to the 100 or more guests.

In his brief remarks here, he concentrated on New York state's aid to college students. The governor explained New York's Scholar Incentive plan which makes money available for eligible college students.

ABOUT 60 per cent of New York's college students are in private schools, he said. "Although the law does not allow aid to private schools, we give aid to our students," he said.

ELIGIBLE STUDENTS can receive from $100 to $300 scholarships, depending on the need, to attend the college of their choice. They may also borrow up to $1,500 per year or a total of $7,000 for four years. The state can therefore make it possible for any student with ability and desire to choose freely the New York college he wants to attend, Rockefeller stated.

CONCERNING the New York teachers' right to strike, the governor said that legally they cannot and he feels they shouldn't. Still, he said, 20,000 teachers did strike. He termed it a confused situation, mixed with politics. There is a need for a modification in the law, he added. The teachers knew the money was available for raises but they were told that there wasn't.

When asked whether he favored a legal drinking age of 18, he said, "That's the law that has been on the books for years (in New York State)." He did say that a committee is investigating the statute for possible changes. He said no matter what the age limit, the basic responsibility lies with the family and the good example set by the family.

AT HIS U.W. address, Rockefeller explained that there are not just two political parties in the U.S. He said here are 100 individual parties. During the presidential election these parties unite under the presidential candidate into one Democratic and one Republican party.

Neither party can be labeled strictly conservative or liberal, Rockefeller said. Individual problems cannot be solved with a strictly conservative or liberal solution, he said. A political leader makes a decision as to the soundness of the program rather than because of a conservative or liberal philosophy.

"HE SHOOK MY HAND!" Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York greeted S.U. students with a warm handshake outside Marycrest Hall, yesterday. The governor was on his way to a luncheon given in his honor in the dorm's dining room.

Honor Society Taps 10 Graduating Women

Ten graduating senior women have been nominated as members of Kappa Gamma Pi, national scholastic and activity honor society of Catholic women's colleges.

The women are: Anne Donovan, Mary-Jo Hanley, Mary Anne Hoare, Kathy Kleffner, Patricia McClain, Mena Parmeter, Judy Paulson, Sandy Regimbal, Fran Shanley, Pat Van Amburgh and Gloria Zimmerman.

THE ORGANIZATION'S certificates will be presented to the girls who accept the nomination at the A.W.S. Senior Women's luncheon at 12:30 p.m., May 20.

Nominees for Kappa Gamma Pi must be Catholic women with a 3.5 g.p.a. or above who have shown outstanding leadership in extracurricular activities.

SELECTION of the women was made by a vote of the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of S.U.; Fr. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., dean of students; Fr. Frank B. Costello, S.J., academic vice president; and the deans of the schools.

Candidates Seek Election Recount

A request for a recount of the ballots cast in yesterday's senate-class elections will be registered, The Spectator learned late last night.

PHIL ROGERS, who was defeated by one vote in the race for senior class president, will request a recount of the ballots. If the recount is favored by the judicial board, Mike Reynolds, senior senator-elect, will ask that the elections be declared void.

Reynolds said that all the ballots are not in the ASSU office. In fact, he stated, "I found a ballot on the floor of the Chieftain folded in the form of a paper airplane."

THE NURSING students at Providence Hospital are also disturbed about the elections because they were not supplied with ballots.

Glenn Says Space Payoff Hasn't Started

By RANDY LUMPP

"We haven't even started to get the payoff back from space yet." This statement of Col. John Glenn, the U.S.'s first orbiting astronaut, reflected the general attitude of panelists at the last session of the Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Space, yesterday in the World's Fair Opera House. All of the speakers, except Glenn, were members of high-altitude balloon research and the X-15 project.

In his comments at the end of the discussion, Glenn emphasized that man's curiosity always has urged him toward the unknown and that the search in space is no exception. "We are still establishing the tools" by which we will put together "the big jig-saw puzzle pattern" that comprises space, he said.

MAN CONTRIBUTES most to this search by going into space himself, the astronaut continued, because his adaptability and reliability far exceed what can be done by instruments alone. He added that the Mercury project in which he participated would probably have failed, as many projects in the past have, if a man had not been present to deal with the unexpected.

Glenn also stressed that through space exploration, which he believes will become "less power-limited" and more dependent on man's judgment, knowledge about the universe will help to make useful "not only outer space but inner space for peaceful purposes."

CONCERNING the space race with Russia, Glenn pointed out that the U.S. has orbited 68 space vehicles and recovered 15. He said that although the Russians might be ahead of the U.S. in tonnage, they have only succeeded in orbiting 13 vehicles, of which they have recovered only five.

Other members of the panel, which was entitled "Report on Manned Space Flight," discussed various facets of space research. The Man-High project, Project Excelsior, and Stratolab, all of which are balloon experiments, are designed to investigate space conditions and their effects on the physiological and psychological aspects of man.

ALL OF THESE projects have reached altitudes exceeding 100,000 feet. Much of the data obtained in these experiments, as well as in the rocket-powered X-15, have contributed to making the Project Mercury space trips of the astronauts possible.

Spokesmen for the various projects, besides Glenn, were: Lt. Col. Davis Simons, USAF; Capt. James Kittinger, USAF; Malcolm Ross, Commander, U.S.N. Ret.; Neil Armstrong, NASA research pilot; Cmdr. Forrest Peterson, U.S.N.; Joseph Walker, NASA chief pilot; and Maj. Robert White, USAF.

SIXTY-SIX Spurs and I.K.'s from S.U. ushered during the three-day conference. Copies of many of the speeches given are available on loan at The Spectator office.

Late Votes Delay Election Results

By JAN KELLY

The final totals of the senate-class elections were posted at 4:45 p.m., yesterday, in the Chieftain after a considerable delay in the open ballot-count session.

The delay was caused by a late delivery of ballots to the members of the Spurs and Intercollegiate Knights who were ushering at the Space Conference at the World's Fair Opera House.

JIM VAN SICKLE, election board co-ordinator, neglected to take the ballots down to the students working at the Fair when he reported as an usher. The ballots were received and cast after the elections had closed on campus.

Van Sickle appointed Mike Reynolds to take over his position from noon to 1:15 p.m., the start of the count. As Reynolds was a candidate in the election, the position was then taken over by Nick Berlin, a member of the judicial board.

BERLIN halted the count around 3:30 when the question was raised whether the late absentee ballots should be included in the count. Berlin, Joe McKinnon, another judge, Bob Burnham, ASSU 1st vice president, and Jim Bradley, ASSU president, met to consider the question.

After a telephone conversation with Van Sickle, it was decided to include the ballots in the count. The count was completed in the ASSU office by Burnham, Berlin and McKinnon.

THE RESULTS were as follows:

By JUDY KING

"I'd rather be slapped in the face than stabbed in the back!" This was the statement of one of America's angry young men . . . the Northern Negro.

Many Northerners, shocked by the treatment of Negroes in the South, are angered and puzzled when Negroes in their own part of the country make statements like the one above. The young man who made it is from the deep South and is attending college in Seattle.

NEXT YEAR he is returning to his home state to finish school because, as he said: "At least there I know where I stand. They call you names, but they are speaking to you. Here the whites either pretend you aren't there or they are nice to you to your face and then snicker behind your back."

THIS IS NOT an isolated case. In most Northern cities, Negroes are allowed to ride on buses with the whites, but they are not allowed to buy homes in white residential districts, or even rent apartments in predominately white areas. The attitude of the Northern white toward the Negro is, "We accept you . . . as long as you keep in your place."

What is the place of the Negro in the North? There is not the problem of mass integration in the North as there is in the South. Consequently there is not the urgency to solve the "Negro problem." Because there is relatively little racial violence in the North, the Southern white is "prejudiced" and the Northern white is

"broad-minded." Thus, Negroes in the North are "tolerated."

THEY ARE tolerated because they have kept their place. They haven't caused trouble for their white neighbors. They have stayed in the background and only once in a while does an "unfortunate incident" crop up because a Negro tries to move to a better neighborhood or complains because he was passed up for a promotion by a white man who was not as qualified.

What is the answer? There is no cut and dried solution. People do not change their views overnight. The first thing whites in the North must recognize, and admit, is that their "broadmindedness" is simply prejudice with a smile.

There is a "Negro problem" in the North just as there is in the South, and when it touches the lives of individual Northerners they react just as violently as their Southern neighbors.

"PREJUDICE" is an ugly word in any connotation, but the Negro problem will never be solved until each person examines himself and determines to what extent this blight has touched him.

Southerners recognize that there is a problem. It is imperative that Northerners do the same before they can call the Southerners names and before the "Negro problem" ceases to exist in the North.

Letter Cites Inadequacy Of Girls' Athletics Here

Dear Editor:

This letter is not an attempt to downgrade the curriculum of S.U. but a plea to strengthen it. I understand that the aim of a university is to develop an individual who is able to cope maturely with the problems of life and use practically the knowledge he has attained.

Many students feel that the athletic program for women at S.U. is inadequate for the size and growing needs of the student body. President Kennedy has asked the nation to work with him in building a more physically fit America. More advancements in labor-saving devices plus an increase in ready-made entertainment are partially to blame for the decline in physical fitness. A health program for women students which would be beneficial to both the school and students themselves, is obviously lacking.

S.U. HAS ACHIEVED, academically, the standards which have graduated her from a college to a university—her potential has not yet been realized. Athletically, through her men, S.U. has achieved national recognition. Of its women little can be said in this field.

I do not suggest that physical development be the center of life for female students nor that we should permit intellectual or cultural life to lag, but I do believe that physical vitality and health should be an essential for women as well as men.

Chieftains Take Pair From Pacific Lutheran

S.U. Tennis Team Hopes To Even Score Monday

S.U.'s netters will set out to even the season's record against University of Puget Sound next Monday in Tacoma. A 7-0 whitewashing of Pacific Lutheran University, Wednesday at Evergreen, gave the Chieftains a 7-8 mark to date.

"We lost to them last time, 4-3, so it should be real close," said John Curran, S.U. player-coach. "We're out to get them, but they might be out to stop us. It's getting near the end. We're striking for .500."

Intramural Track Meet Postponed Until May 19

Sunday's intramural dual track meet between ROTC and Xavier Hall has been postponed until May 19, according to Dave Nichols, assistant intramural director. Nichols said that the track meet was postponed because ROTC will be on maneuvers at Ft. Lewis tomorrow and Sunday.

The track meet will decide the school championships. Since last week's dual meet was canceled, only points earned in this meet will count toward season championship trophies.

The Xavier team showed that they had a strong team in their intra-squad competition last Saturday. Only one point separated Xavier and the winning Hawaiians.

WEDNESDAY'S RESULTS:

John Curran beat Jeff Probsfield, 6-0, 6-2; Mike Dowd defeated Dick Purtzer, 6-4, 6-1; Stan Stricherz downed Dale Thompson, 9-7, 6-2; Mike McHugh tripped Jim Mhyre, 6-4, 6-3; and Nick Murphy out-racketed Rod Molzahn, 6-4, 6-0.

IN DOUBLES competition, Curran and Suguro drubbed Probsfield-Thompson, 6-3, 6-1, and Dowd-McHugh polished off Purtzer-Mhyre, 6-1, 6-1.

STEILACOOM, WASH., May 10. (Special)—A warm spring day proved agreeable to the S.U. diamond nine today as they took a doubleheader from Pacific Lutheran University in Steilacoom Stadium, near Tacoma.

The Chiefs utilized a run-an-inning formula to jump off to the first game victory, 8-1, then recording all their runs in the first two frames to take the finale, 6-2. The twin sweep snapped a two-game losing streak and gives the Chiefs a 9-6 record.

FRANK KEENAN (4-4) and Rudy D'Amico (3-1) each pitched seven-hitters and fanned nine in the double victory.

In the first game S.U. scored once in each of the first four innings and four runs in the fifth. Bob Neubauer was the big gun at the plate for the Chiefs hitting four for five with four R.B.I.'s and scoring one run. Keenan collected the only extra-base hit, a double in the fourth.

In the second game both teams did all their scoring in the first two innings with S.U. collecting six and P.L.U., two.

S.U. ACCUMULATED the six runs with singles by Neubauer, Steve Hunter, Rich Kayla and Steve Wandzilak and five walks. P.L.U.'s pitcher, Larry Paulson, gave up 11 walks in the seven innings.

Rudy D'Amico, S.U.'s winning pitcher, clouted the longest hit of the day with a 360-foot blast over the center fielder's head for a triple. He was thrown out heading for home.

The only entry requirement will be an 8x10 glossy photograph to be submitted by next Thursday.

Voting will be in the Chieftain during Tolo Week. The king will be announced at the Cotton Tolo, May 29.

Cloud Chamber Noted by Titov

Gherman Titov, the Russian cosmonaut, toured the World's Fair last weekend and was generally complimentary toward the science exhibits. Titov took particular interest in S.U.'s cloud chamber. A project of Fr. Paul Luger, S.J., head of S.U. physics department, the cloud chamber shows alpha and beta particles and cosmic rays in the atmosphere.

Titov said the display shows "we already receive a lot of radiation by exploding atomic bombs anywhere."

Fr. Luger commented that he wasn't aware Titov had noticed the exhibit but said he knew it must be the chamber from the description given in the Seattle papers.
