Homecoming Nominations Open

Nominations for the 1962-63 Homecoming Court will continue from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. today in the Chieftain and the first floor of the L.A. Bldg. The general rules are as follows:

1. ASSU voting procedure will be followed.
2. The ballot system will be used, and students will need their student body cards.

3. THE NOMINEES must be registered, full-time students at the time of the nominations (taking 12 quarter hours). They must also be planning to enroll at S.U. for winter quarter.

4. The number of votes received by finalists will be kept secret.

ALL STUDENTS are qualified to nominate two girls for each of the four classes. The names of the 20 girls receiving the most votes in each class will be announced in the Friday edition of The Spectator.

Thursday, Nov. 15, students will go again to the polls for the primary election. At this time, each student will vote for five girls in each class.

In case of a tie, the top six girls will remain among the candidates to eliminate the need for a re-run.

THE FINAL vote will be Dec. 6. Each student will vote for two girls from the freshman, sophomore and junior classes and three from the senior class.

The Homecoming queen will be chosen by a board of alumni from among the three seniors.

Frosh to Cast Ballots In Election Struggle

Primary elections for freshman officers and senators will be tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Polling will be on the first floor of the L.A. Bldg. and in the Chieftain.

STUDENT BODY cards must be presented in order to obtain ballots, according to Mike Reynolds, election board co-ordinator.

Following the closing of the polls, ballots will be counted in the Chieftain conference room. The counting will be open to as many observers as space will permit. Results will be posted in the ASSU publicity case at the entrance to the Chieftain as soon as they are verified, Reynolds said.

THE TOP two candidates for each position will compete in the final election.

Candidates and the positions for which they are running are: President: Steve Graddon, Roger A. Hennagin and Bob Alexander.

Vice president: John McManus, Chuck Riggs, Bob Ramseth, Dick Ambrose, Larry Kraft, Frank Barrett and Ken Uhrich.

SECRETARY-TREASURER: Judy Peterson, Sherrie Wickman, Andrea Bahlay, Patti Walker, and Jack Gallivan.

Candidates for senate position No. 1: Robert H. Coffey, Jerry Lester, Donna Tebaldi, and Mike Parks.

Position No. 2: Mary Helen Madden, Kathy Keeley, Lynn Dunphy and Mike McBride.

Position No. 3: James E. Warne, Robert B. Henderson, Brian McMahan, Sheri Levesque and Arthur Kritzer.

Position No. 4: Jerry Kasprick, Richard Alba, Sue Denman, Barbara Schaffer, Herman Marciel and Pat Kelch.

POSITION NO. 5: Steve Hopps, Tom Campagna, James V. Spencer, Mary Vermilya and Norma Stansberry.

Absentee ballots were available to those who requested them 48 hours prior to the election. They must be completed and returned before the polls close.

Blood Shortage Pertains to S.U.

A serious shortage of all types of blood has been reported by Mrs. Mary Hanna at the King County Blood Bank.

S.U. HAS no credit in the pool at present so any student needing transfusions would have to replace the blood.

Students interested in donating blood should be in general good health, without head colds. Also, they should not eat any fatty foods for four hours before donating.

DONATIONS WILL be received at the Blood Bank, located at the corner of Terry and Madison, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., Monday and Thursday. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, the hours are from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Coed Wins First Place In Columbia Basin Tourney

Andrea Bahlay, freshman majoring in nursing, won first place in the woman's extemporaneous speaking contest at the Columbia Basin Forensic Tournament last weekend in Centralia. Twenty-six colleges and universities from Washington and Oregon participated in the tournament.

IN THE PRELIMINARIES this weekend, Andrea gave three speeches: "India, Where Now?" "Western Germany—Its Importance as an International Community," and "South East Asia—Its Importance as an International Community." In the finals her topic was "The Alliance for Progress—Can It Do the Job?" She had 45 minutes to prepare for each of these seven-minute talks.

Andrea participated in speech and debate for four years at Machebeuf High School in Den-

FOOD DRIVE: Members of the Alpha Phi Omega food drive select items which will be distributed to needy families during the Thanksgiving holidays. They are (from left): Bill Reed, Bob Coffey, Mick Schrek, Al Cleary and Pete Ferrai.

The annual Alpha Phi Omega food drive, soliciting food for needy families for the Thanksgiving holidays, begins this week.

THE DRIVE, which is organized and carried out by the pledges of the service group, will continue until just before Thanksgiving. According to Dick Ambrose, chairman, all pledges are supposed to participate.

A barrel will be set up in the Chieftain for the use of students who wish to contribute food, Ambrose said. He added that the group also will arrange for picking up contributions. Boxes will be provided around campus for names and addresses of persons who wish to contribute.

LAST YEAR the A Phi O pledges fed 20 needy families, totaling 157 persons. The families are recommended by the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Besides Ambrose, members of the drive committee are: Bill Reed, publicity director, and Bob Coffey, co-chairman.

East German Jesuit 'Tours' Berlin Wall

By JIM NAIDEN

Part I:

The fourth in the series of Saturday night discussions featured Fr. Raimund Grieger, S.J., a member of the East German Jesuit Province. Father lectured on the situation behind the wall that divides East and West Berlin.

Father began by asking the members of the audience to think of themselves as East German students in order that they might have a better psychological insight into the nature of the problem. Through the medium of color slides, he began a tour of the divided city which he aptly called the "gunpowder box of reality."

BEGINNING WITH the burning of the Reichstag in August, 1945, Fr. Grieger reviewed the modern history of Berlin. It was at this time that President Truman, Prime Minister Atlee, and Premier Stalin concluded the final wartime agreement which set up the four-power occupation of Berlin and Germany itself.

Since 1945, Father added, the situation has become more complex as a result of the establishment of the independent West German Federal Republic, an amalgamation of the American, British and French occupation zones. The Russian zone is now the German Democratic (Continued on page 2)

Legislation Causes Controversy

By MIKE PARKS

Sen. Paul Hill's resolution, calling for a major change of the rules governing the workings of the senate, proved to be a source of considerable controversy at that group's one-hundredth meeting last Sunday.

The bill provides that all legislation by the senate will be read twice, first at the meeting of its introduction, and secondly at the meeting following its introduction. It provides that discussion and voting on the bill will take place only at this second meeting unless immediate action is deemed necessary by a majority of senators.

WHEN INTRODUCED at the previous meeting, the bill had been given a harsh reception by the senate and the fact that it was postponed until this meeting proved to be the deciding factor in its eventual passage. Discussion at this meeting lasted nearly an hour. As the advantages of the bill were enumerated repeatedly during the course of discussion, several senators who had originally opposed the bill announced that they were in favor of it.

Sen. Mike Reynolds, who remained steadfast in his opposition to the bill, explained his vote with the following comment: "Senators have always had the opportunity to postpone decisions . . . but the postponements were nearly always due simply to cold feet, and the delay never resulted in any better understanding of the issue involved. . . . The bill gives the senate no power it did not have before and it does provide a hindrance to passage of efficient, valuable legislation."

SEN. HILL FELT that the bill was necessary because, "It allows the senators to consider any bill exactly as it is worded thus insuring that they have a better understanding of a bill before they vote." He also commented that the bill, " . . . in effect will allow future legislation to be available for the scrutiny and comment of interested students."

In other business, leadership conference co-chairman Dan Regis gave his final report. He expressed his confidence in the value of the conference and asked that the senate establish a committee to study its results.

A motion to this effect was made later by Sen. Reynolds and will be considered next week.

Wally Toner, ASSU 2nd vice president, gave a report on the work of the Cultural Committee. He emphasized that the committee was especially pleased with the interest shown for the Saturday night discussion series.

FOR THE SECOND week in a row, the senate cleared its chambers for an executive session during the meeting. The action this week was occasioned by the resignation of Phillis Mullan, a junior class senator. After the chambers had been reopened to spectators, the senate voted not to accept the resignation. According to Bob Burnham, senate chairman, this refusal will not affect the status of the resignation.

When asked about possible appointees to fill the vacancy, ASSU president Jim Bradley declined comment except to say that he would make an appointment by Christmas.

A report on bills to be considered at the next senate meeting will appear in Friday's issue of The Spectator.

Second Thoughts

Everyone expects more from a Catholic student . . . except another Catholic student. Think not? Then think again. How many times have you heard conversation like this:

"Hey, somebody swiped my sheets out of the laundry room."

"YAH, SAME thing happened to me last year. Happens all the time."

Or this:
"Anybody seen my books? I left them in the Chief ten minutes ago and now they're gone."

"Well you oughta know better than to leave them lying around. Somebody probably took them."

STUFFING BALLOT boxes (look at the measures the election board felt they had to take this year to insure an honest election), stealing poster tripods, cheating on exams, "borrowing" items in the dorms—all these things are taken for granted by students of college life, and nobody gives them a second thought.

It's about time somebody did give them a second thought . . . like . . . "What the devil is going on around here—what is going on in a Catholic university when some students come out of a moral theology test, bragging that they cheated—what is going on at Seattle University when Mass is going on every noon just above the cafeteria where some student is stealing books."

IT'S ABOUT time we students . . . we Catholic students, began expecting more from ourselves and those around us. It's about time we stopped. Period. And thought about exactly what things we are taking so lightly for granted.

Everyone expects more from Catholic students. Let's stop selling ourselves short.

'Golden Fleecing' Moves Rapidly

"GOLDEN FLEEING," by Lorenzo Semple, Jr. Coe Tug, director; Gene Keene, sets. At the Cirque Playhouse.

PRINCIPALS: Bruce R. Black, Karl Scribner, Bill Davis, John Zapp, Brenda Pesola, Margaret Kennedy, Phil Canup, Scotty MacDonald.

By CHRISTEL BRELLOCHS

"Golden Fleecing" closed Saturday night at the Cirque with a bang. Props disintegrated audibly, a fuse blew and the company's feline star escaped into the lap of the audience at the end of the second act.

CONSEQUENTIAL ACTION centers around a "get-rich-quick" theme. The main characters, two officers from the missile carrier USS Elmira and a mad scientist, plan to outsmart a roulette wheel in a Venice casino with the help of an IBM computer, a stolen signal light and a New York gambler reminiscent of Nathan Detroit.

Women, one of whom is unfortunately an admiral's daughter, complicate the dialogue and the main objective of the on-shore spree. The crisis occurs when the words espionage, court-martial and "let's give the money to the Navy Relief Fund" are uttered. Nobly, the mastermind, Lt. Howard, relinquishes the dough to marry the admiral's daughter. They live happily ever after.

"GOLDEN FLEEING" staged by the Cirque as "theatre-in-the-corner," enveloped the audience with its good if rather slapstick humor. The eye-catching set, gold bar, gold TV and gold statue of Elenora Duse, appropriately reflected the title of the play and the ridiculousness of the theme.

The comedy moved at a rapid pace, power-packed with incidental props such as big foot long cigars, lots of water (the Venetian canal was right outside), and towels.

THE TRIO OF main characters portrayed by Bill Davis, Bruce R. Black, and Karl Scribner kept the play at its slapstick best.

Brenda Pesola, who portrayed the wide-eyed admiral's daughter, seemed uncomfortable on the stage and sometimes over-emphasized the wide-eyed and went easy on the acting.

THE OTHER female lead, Margaret Kennedy, did an admirable job with a little rich girl part.

"Golden Fleecing" amounted to an evening of good, light entertainment mainly because the cast enjoyed making an audience laugh—and it did.

Reasons for East Berlin Exodus

Republic, or Communist East Germany. Berlin is 110 miles deep in East Germany. Consequently, Khrushchev was correct when he called it "cancerous" to the Communist empire, particularly to East Germany. According to Father, this is the basic reason for the construction of the Berlin Wall. Now the population of West Berlin is isolated from the East Berliners.

FATHER EMPHASIZED that the Russians violated the Potsdam Treaty by making East Berlin the capital of East Germany. Having the seat of the East German government in Berlin facilitates the carrying out of directives from the Russian embassy there, he pointed out. The Russians would like the world to believe that East Germany is independent and does not rely on the Russians for maintenance of order. This is hardly the case, he said.

Fr. Grieger then compared the bleak, desolate buildings and the sparse population of East Berlin streets with West Berlin.

IDEOLOGICAL regimentation was another reason for leaving East Germany. In 1958, when Communist party chairman Walter Ulbricht ordered the "socialization" of East German higher education, 1,600 professors and scholars fled to the west. The total number of refugee teachers from East Germany prior to August, 1961, was about 70,000. Here, Father elucidated his argument.

"The regimentation, as you can see, is too much for many people to withstand. The indoctrination itself is thorough. Beginning with the kindergarten level, the child is taught to read and write such simple sentences as 'The Party is always right,' or 'There is no God.'"

Father pointed out that some parents will try to counter this deluge of propaganda by instructing the child otherwise. Thus, children from the primary levels on up are cautioned against believing their parents on matters of ideology. Father said these "schools of atheism" teach hatred and no love; however, comradeship in the march toward the perfection of Socialism and eventual evolutionary attainment of pure communism, as envisioned by Marx and Engels, is stressed earnestly.

Challenge of Careers Offered as Argument

"Careers in Government Service vs. Private Industry" was the subject of a panel discussion Monday in Bannan Aud. sponsored by the Engineering Club.

CLIFF DIAMOND of the Bonneville Power Administration presented the argument for government careers in science and engineering. He emphasized the challenge of new fields for research and job stability derived from lack of competition with other industries.

Ted Johnston, of the Boeing Company College Relations Division, pointed out that the research facilities of private industries are "dedicated to no product but to basic knowledge."

BOTH SPEAKERS offered the argument they felt was most important and persuasive—the challenge of their respective careers. If the professional man gets into a rut, there is no motivation or enthusiasm to stir his imagination, they concluded. Diamond said, "The only difference between a rut and a grave is the dimensions."

Who's Who Out Today

The Who's Who will go on sale at noon today in the Chieftain, according to Roy Angevine and Bill Higgins, co-editors.

This year's listing of names, addresses and phone numbers of S.U. students will cost 50 cents. The book, published by the I.K.'s, is approximately 80 pages long and uses the new school colors, scarlet and white, on its cover.

2nd Round to Start:

Race for Playoffs Shapes Up

By JIM HALEY

The first round of intramural football play ended Friday. The race for the Western and Eastern League spots in the playoffs has started to take shape, with the Tartars and Wastemakers now leading their leagues.

THE BOYS appeared to be heading unscarred toward a Western berth in the playoffs, but were defeated by an eager Tartar squad 12-0 last week. The Hoosiers were favored over the Eastern pack when they were downed by the Wastemakers 28-20.

From all indications, the battles in the respective leagues will be between these four teams. The Menehunes and Geldings are mathematically in the running, however.

SECOND-ROUND action will begin tomorrow when the Geldings and the Boys vie at 1:10 p.m., and the Hoosiers and Shamrocks knock heads at 2:10 p.m.

Friday, the Tartars and Colts will play in the Western League, and the Sexless Six will go against the Menehunes in the Eastern section.

In last Friday's games, the Tartars downed the Barflies 22-0 and the Shamrocks beat the Sexless Six 6-0 in the last games of the first round of intramural football play.

THE TARTARS did all their scoring in the first half under the leadership of quarterback Mike Gazarek. Gazarek threw one pass to Bill Russell and two more to Jeff Sullivan for the touchdowns. Two of the extra point attempts were good.

The Barflies threatened to score late in the second half, but were stopped by the Tartar defense. The Tartars are still unscored upon.

IN FRIDAY'S second game, neither the Shamrocks nor the Sexless Six scored in the first half. With only 7 minutes left to play, Shamrock quarterback Jim Rodeen scampered 55 yards for the only score. The conversion failed, and the score stood at 6-0.

Papoose Basketballers Face Difficult 31-game Schedule

By BRUCE WALKER

In all the hubbub concerning the much-publicized S.U. Chieftains, Clair Markey's Papooses are not to be overlooked. This basketball team, with high school All-Americans, a star performer of last year's Pan-American games and assorted "All-Staters" has a vast amount of potential.

Markey, now in his third season as Papoose coach, feels that the key to success this year is "hard work." "The squad has been working together quite well thus far and the team morale is very fine," said Markey.

THE PAPOOSES open a rugged 31-game schedule on Dec.

4, against Olympic J.C. "We'll be out to grab this game in revenge for seven consecutive defeats suffered in Bremerton in recent years," Markey said.

The schedule will include 16 games with J.C. teams and 15 with Northwest Basketball Association teams. NBA is the new name for the AAU in which the Papooses have always competed.

THE NBA competition has always proved to be the toughest for the Papooses. In this league, they'll be playing against former S.U. standouts, Ray Butler, Don Ogorek and Tim Cousins. This tough competition will benefit the team members in preparing for their crack at a varsity berth next year.

Four members of the squad will not be able to play against the junior colleges because of eligibility regulations. Bill Estep and Vic Napoli have both played one year of J.C. ball.

DOUG PARKER, who was out winter quarter last year because of illness, and Teo Cruz, the tall center from Puerto Rico, also cannot play against the J.C. teams. The whole squad will be eligible for all the NBA competition.

Markey is concentrating on basic fundamentals, with drills emphasizing defense.

"The team should do fairly well in their efforts to better last year's 13-12 record," concluded Markey.

GOLF AND TENNIS

This week's round of intramural tennis will put Larry Fahey vs. Jim Rodeen, Jim Ahlbrecht vs. Brian McMahon, Steve Hopps vs. Jerry Harnish and Bruce Walker vs. Bob Alexander.

Linksman Chris Mitchell will vie with Frank Gartland and Tom Plemmons will go against Joe Desimone.
