Senate Amends Election Code

By MIKE PARKS

In a marathon 3-hour-15-minute meeting last Sunday, the student senate raised grade point requirements for class, senate and executive offices and passed the Merit Scholarship Act of 1964.

The new g.p.a. averages to take effect at the frosh class election fall quarter are: 2.25 for senate candidates and all class offices and 2.5 for all ASSU and AWS executive offices.

THE ASSU MERIT Scholarship Act of 1964 will provide $250 awards for each of six students on the basis of loyalty and service to the ASSU and on financial need.

The senate also passed a bill concerning the budgeting procedure for the ASSU. The senate deleted the portions which the judicial board had declared unconstitutional in an informal opinion.

IN OTHER ACTION the senate changed the name of the cultural committee to the special events committee. They postponed a request by Joe Robinson and Maureen Gruber for $150 apiece to attend the institute for the Association for International Development in New York this summer. The request will be considered again next Sunday.

The senate also took action on the bill designed to eliminate the hour gap from candidates' requirements for senate office.

THE NEW SYSTEM is based on quarters completed rather than hours. Under the provisions of the senate's action: Candidates for senior senate seats and class offices must have completed not less than seven quarters at the time of filing; candidates for junior class and senate offices must have completed not less than four and not more than six quarters at the time of filing; candidates for sophomore offices must have completed not less than two nor more than three quarters at the time of filing and candidates for freshman class offices (fall quarter election) must have completed not more than one quarter at the time of filing.

The senate suspended standing rule 18 to pass three other bills. It allotted $500 for the president's banquet, invited a member of the U.W. Board of Control to next Sunday's meeting and sent a letter of condolence to the family of Edwin Leahy, who died last week. He was the father of Dan Leahy, S.U. junior.

SEN. DICK TWOHY and Sen. Brian Mc Mahon introduced an amendment to the ASSU constitution calling for a complete revision of the senate. The two have proposed a senate composed of 14 members including the president of the Associated Men Residents, the president of the Associated Women Residents, the president of each of the classes, two representatives from the activities board, the president of AWS and five at-large senators.

Twohy and McMahon invited the senators to revise the proposal in order to improve it.

'Naughty Marietta' Costumes Colonial

Progress on the music dept.'s production of "Naughty Marietta" is beginning to jell, according to Molly Malone, general production manager.

As in previous years, the cast will make its costumes. Fashioned after dresses worn in the Colonial period, the girls' costumes will include peasant blouses and full skirts, natural straw hats and the traditional puritan shawl with lots of lace.

MEN'S COSTUMES will be patterned after "Davy Crockett-type buckskins," said Molly, "and after the dress military uniform of those days."

"We're trying for realism this year, rather than stylizing. More than anything else we're striving for authenticity," she explained.

Molly said there is generally good organization this year.

THE CHORUS, made up of 14 men and 21 women vocalists, is the biggest in several years of productions. Carol Crozier, who plays Marietta, was a finalist in the San Francisco Opera Company auditions in Seattle last week.

Production chairmen are: Daryl Spadaccini, tickets; Carol Crozier, sponsors; Bob Voelker, staging; Jim Hasslinger, scenery; Terry Lango, publicity; Virginia Freeman, programs; Joan Burtlehaus, properties, and Lynne Curtis, make-up.

The two new secretaries will join Karen Disotell, sophomore, who was recently elected ASSU secretary. Jane and Terri will receive a one-third tuition scholarship, while Karen receives two-thirds tuition.

Allison is a native of Redmond, Wash. She is a member of the Math Club, Gamma Sigma Phi and Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary. She will work for a master's degree in mathematics.

Few details are available on Grubenhoff's award. According to a letter received last week, the award is a $3,000 National Defense Education Act fellowship to the University of Wisconsin.

Grubenhoff was graduated last year in languages. He has been attending the University of Madrid on a Fulbright scholarship. The native of Zillah, Wash., was graduated summa cum laude. He will study Hispanic culture at Wisconsin.

Another Plan, But...

A bill introduced by sophomore senators Dick Twohy and Brian McMahon at last week's senate meeting is the most important motion that the senate will act upon during this session.

Twohy and McMahon proposed an amendment to the ASSU constitution which would result in a complete overhauling of the senate structure. Their plan calls for a senate composed of 14 members, including representatives from three groups which are, as yet, non-existent: the Associated Men Residents, the Associated Women Residents and the Associated Men Students.

THE SENATE WOULD ALSO include the presidents of each of the classes, two representatives from the Activities Board, the president of the AWS and four at-large senators.

The proposal, according to McMahon and Twohy, is designed to correct two basic faults in the structure of the present senate: (1) That the senate is now too large and unwieldy for effective action, and (2) that the senators are, at present, elected to represent groups with which students do not, in reality, identify themselves (namely, classes).

THE PLAN CAN certainly be improved upon. The question now is whether the senate will take action on senate reform which has been kicked around for so long without tangible results.

We hope it will.

Crossing the Line

By MIKE PARKS

What is it really like to be a Negro in the Deep South? Does any white man know? Can any white man know?

These were the questions that haunted a white native of the South, John Howard Griffin, a student of medicine, sociology and interracial relations.

GRIFFIN SET out to answer these questions for himself. His method is unique to this day. He decided to have his skin temporarily pigmented so that he could "pass for black."

For six months he lived in the South as a Negro, following the wind, looking for a job, keeping a journal of his experiences. His journal now has been published in book form under the title, Black Like Me.

In pigmenting his skin black, Griffin crossed the color line more than physically. As a Negro, he inherited the problems that the Negro has faced for four centuries.

WHILE HE was looking for a job in the big cities of the South, Griffin was often less concerned with whether he got a job than where he would be able to get a drink of water or where he could find rest-room facilities.

For the segregationist, the most devastating thing about Griffin's book is it destroys the theory that the Negro is by nature inferior to the white man. For Griffin himself experiences a loss of personal dignity and integrity as a Negro.

By his experience Griffin has shown the total injustice of racial bigotry as it is practiced in the South. Here is a white man, respected by his community as a scholar and a good citizen. In reality he changes nothing of himself except the color of his skin, yet to his fellow citizens he becomes a completely different man.

HERE IS a white man who may use all the public facilities and private entertainment facilities in any southern town. Yet as a Negro the same man must pass these places by without so much as a glance. Here is a man who cannot even get a drink of water at a lunch counter in New Orleans.

The book is valuable because it helps the reader understand the Negro's condition in the South today. The high crime rate, poor housing conditions and low moral code are put into a more enlightening perspective.

THE BOOK is especially valuable for the northern white who hears so much about the Negro problem in the South but who knows neither who nor what to believe.

The book is the April selection for the student Reading Program. The books were all sold in two days according to Dick Twohy, program director. However, copies are available at other Seattle outlets. The book sells for 50 cents.

By WINNIE WYNHAUSEN

SCENE: The steps of the Seattle Opera House. Hundreds of graduates have just filed out, diplomas in hand. Now they are lined up for auction.

BARKER: Step right up, folks. Get your graduates now. Get 'em while they're new and shining, packed full of ideals, and pedigrees in hand. Hey, Joe, bring a sample up here for all the friendly folks to see.

(Joe brings a gowned graduate forward.)

BARKER (to young man): Tell the world about yourself, son. What's your major? What can you do for my clients? Or can you do anything? Come on, boy—let's hear it!

GRADUATE: I'm a language major. I'll teach you to speak in different tongues. I'll...

CLIENT: Hey, you—language major, do you know double-talk?

GRADUATE: I've been four years to college.

CLIENT (to barker): A smart one there. I'll take him. (To graduate) I'll show you what real double-talk is. What do you think of that?

GRADUATE (mumbles to himself): Think... mustn't forget... no translation... (to client) Think? In what language, sir? French, Spanish or German?

CLIENT: In English. C'mon. And don't get clever.

BARKER: Next major sign in, please.

GRADUATE: I graduated in mathematics.

BARKER: Let's hear some offers from the businessmen. You've got yourselves an IBM expert here. He'll show you...

GRADUATE: I'll teach you the approach to God through input, output. It's simple. You see, good = + and bad = -. Feedback is the payoff. It's elementary. All you do is...

BARKER: Quiet! I haven't sold you yet. If you give the secret away, you'll depreciate. What do I hear for this mathematician?

CLIENT: Ten dollars!

BARKER: Sold to the man with the agnostic look in his eye! Next.

YOUNG GIRL: I'm English. I'll bring poetry into your sordid lives. I'll bear lyric beauty, wisdom from the world's greatest literature, quotable quotes for every occasion—all this and more.

BARKER: Sold! Well, folks, time's about up. Let's have the rest of the majors sing their own praises. All right, in turn—sing, sing you majors, sing for suppers.

CHORUS:

POLITICAL SCIENCE: I'll teach you how to rule the Land of Coca-Cola.

SOCIOLOGY: I'll tell you how the sociable set lives!

HOME ECONOMICS: And I'll teach you how to BE sociable.

PHILOSOPHY: BE? I'll show you the unfathomable mysteries of being.

PSYCHOLOGY. And I'll explain the mystery away! (All keep singing, louder and louder. Some dance.)

BARKER: Okay, okay, shut up now! Folks, that's all for this year. Take your pick. We'll have a fresh batch in next year, same time, same place, same majors!

S.U. and Vikings Split

By RICHARD HOUSER

The S.U. Chieftains split a double-header yesterday with the Portland State College Vikings, losing the first game 5-1 and winning the second 8-4. S.U. now has a 9-4 record.

In the first contest the Vikings opened up the scoring with a quick run in the first inning. The Chiefs countered in their half of the inning with a tying marker. In the sixth the Vikings got hold of four consecutive hits and broke the game wide open, scoring four runs.

THE SECOND game was a wild affair with three home runs over the left field fence. Bob Jones, Viking left fielder, blasted the first homer in the first inning, scoring John Woodward from first, giving the Vikings a two-run lead.

S.U. came back in the second with Mike Demond smashing a double into right center. George Vanni, the next batter, moved Demond and Larry Buzzard home with a double to center.

In the third inning Bettineski led off with a single. Buzzard followed with another base hit, moving Bettineski to second. Demond poked the ball into short right for a base hit scoring Bettineski and Buzzard.

DEMOND went to second on the throw into home. Harry Lambro got on base on an error by the shortstop. Demond scooted home on the play, scoring the third Chieftain run of the inning. Vanni then boosted the ball over the fence for a two-run homer, scoring Lambro.

In the top half of the fifth inning Portland State tallied two runs to cut the Chieftains' lead to two runs. In the Chieftain half of the inning Demond cut loose

In Friday's game S.U. lost to the U.W. 4-0. Sophomore pitcher, Lonnie Sherrick from the U.W., blanked the Chiefs on four scattered hits.

THE HUSKIES scored with single runs in the second and third innings. The U.W. scored its final runs in the sixth and seventh. Les Uyebara, shortstop, and Jim Langus, third baseman, led the Huskies in hitting.

George Bettineski, S.U. outfielder, grabbed three hits for the Chiefs.

The next game on the Chiefs' schedule is a double-header against the University of Puget Sound at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at White Center field.
