ASSU Activities Free For Student Senators

Student senators will be permitted to attend any activity sponsored by the ASSU or one of its committees free of charge in the future, according to the terms of a law passed by the senate at its meeting Sunday.

However, "wherever the effectiveness of any such activity may be jeopardized by the exercise of this title," the privilege can be suspended or limited by a committee composed of the senate and four members of the ASSU executive branch.

UNLESS RESTRICTED, the senators will be able to attend events sponsored by such committees as Homecoming, special events and frosh orientation.

The controversial law, which had been introduced in a different form last June, passed easily after a half-hour of debate.

(The Spectator erred Friday when it reported the motion was to grant ASSU passes to executive officers as well as senators. The executive officers already have passes for activities sponsored by all campus organizations.)

THE MEETING did not adjourn until 11:06 p.m., but the start had been delayed from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. to permit members of the senate to attend the rosary for Bill Watson. Watson died Friday morning of leukemia. He was president of Bellarmine Hall last year.

The senate approved five of ASSU president Mick McHugh's appointments during the meeting. Mike McBride was approved as election board coordinator after a lengthy executive session. Sue Miltner and Steve Hopps were approved as co-chairmen of University Day (Oct. 18) and Tom Campagna and Marge Passanisi were approved as co-chairmen of Homecoming '65.

ASSU publicity director Andy McClure, announced the appointments of Carolyn Smith and Dan DeLeuw as the new cheerleader and songleader to replace Lynn Dunphy and Jay MacIlwaine, who did not return to school this fall.

THE ASSU EXECUTIVE officers gave their first reports of the year.

In his report, Kip Toner, ASSU treasurer, outlined the expenses from the student body general fund last year on a month-by-month basis.

McHugh in his report said that S.U. hopes to be able to begin using Catholic Memorial Field a few blocks southeast of the campus for the spring intramural softball program. The play-field is owned by the Archdiocese of Seattle.

Toner also announced that he purchased four new IBM electric typewriters for use by the ASSU. He said the new typewriters will be used by the ASSU senate secretary, the ASSU secretary, the treasurer and that the other may be used by the AWS. The cost of the machines, $1,487.20, will be defrayed over a period of three years.

TOM BANGASSER, second vice president, announced his office is preparing a handbook for members of the activities board. The book will contain rules for clubs sponsoring events on campus, procedures, diagrams of the campus auditoriums and a checklist for those sponsoring a campus activity. He said the book will also include information on various auditoriums and entertainers in the Seattle area.

The senate also heard reports from Andy McClure and Bruce Weber, directors of the special events committee.

A motion to rescind a bylaw to the ASSU constitution was left in the legislative records committee.

Two motions to alter senate standing rules were dealt with. One was tabled and the other was withdrawn by the author.

Traditional Mass Opens Year

The Mass of the Holy Spirit will be offered for the student body at 10:30 a.m. next Wednesday at St. James Cathedral.

This has been the traditional opening of S.U.'s academic year. Seniors are required to attend in caps and gowns. The faculty will also be present in academic dress.

SPEAKER AT THE Mass will be Fr. Edward Caffrey, principal of DeSales High School, Walla Walla. Fr. Caffrey was born in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, was graduated from Gonzaga Prep and attended Gonzaga University before entering St. Edward's Seminary in Seattle. He was ordained in 1957. The topic of his sermon has not yet been

BACK TO "PURITAN PUNISHMENT": Sadistic sophomores sneer sardonically at subpoenaed freshman Robin Guay. The "stocks" antic was part of Frosh Enforcement Day, Friday afternoon.

Ex-Kennedy Aide to Speak

John Kenneth Galbraith, economist, author, member of Kennedy's "brain trust," and most recently ambassador to India, is slated to appear on campus Monday, Oct. 19. His talk, to be held in Pigott Aud., is being co-sponsored by the local Young Citizens for Johnson and the S.U. Young Democrats.

The six-foot eight-inch diplomat was professor of economics at Harvard when he was tapped by Kennedy to serve as his economic adviser. He was subsequently appointed ambassador to India, a post he recently resigned to resume teaching at Harvard.

Galbraith, known for his provocative, unorthodox thinking, rejects the "ivory-tower" role of the economist in favor of practical politics-economics. As ambassador to India, he challenged Indians to decide for themselves what type of economic program would best fit their country. His keynote was his policy of the "Natural American" as opposed to the "Showy

GALBRAITH

American," the "Ugly American," or the "Quiet American."

In his prize-winning book, The Affluent Society, Galbraith maintained that the American economy has passed the stage where an urgency of production exists.

Increased production, he feels, satisfies only "needs" that have been manufactured by advertising, while our non-affluent public services need more resources.

According to Galbraith, there is no danger in big companies, since other companies develop to counter-balance the power concentrated in one country.

Galbraith is now campaigning for Johnson, having served as a key figure in the past three Democratic presidential campaigns, as a speech writer and adviser to both Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson.

During his career he has served as consultant to the Department of Agriculture, American Farm Bureau Federation, and editor of Fortune magazine. He is holder of the President's Certificate of Merit and the Medal of Freedom, and is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

LBJ Hits Barry's Farm Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The campaigners had this to say yesterday:

President Johnson, booed for the first time during his campaign, told a Raleigh, N.C., crowd that ending the farm subsidy program as Goldwater proposed would bankrupt one-fifth of the nation's farmers.

In Hickory, N.C., William Miller discounted a survey that showed the GOP national ticket was lagging behind expectation in the South.

Van Dinh to Detail Crisis in Viet Nam

The Hon. Tran Van Dinh, the former acting Ambassador of Viet Nam to the U.S., will speak on "The War in Viet Nam" Oct. 27 on campus.

Van Dinh's lecture is being sponsored by the special events committee, who added his lecture to scheduled events this summer.

CURRENTLY chief Washington correspondent of the Saigon (Viet Nam) Post, Van Dinh also considers himself a diplomat, poet and artist. He was educated at Que Hoc College and Hanoi University.

During the years 1957-1960, Van Dinh was Vietnamese Consul General and Minister Plenipotentiary to Burma. He was also an observer at the U.N. in 1958, at SEATO meetings in New Zealand in 1959 and went on study and observation tours to Latin America, Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Israel.

THE VERSATILE Van Dinh was named Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S. in 1963. This took place after Madam Nhu's father, Tran Van Chong, resigned.

TRAN VAN DINH

Most recently, Van Dinh has been designated Minister Plenipotentiary and Consul General of Viet Nam to India.

Fr. Edmond Morton, S.J. dean of the graduate school, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by Fr. James Ryan, S.J., deacon; Fr. Francis Bisciglia, S.J., sub-deacon; and Fr. Gerard Steckler, S.J., master of ceremonies.

In order to make attendance possible for the whole student body, all nine o'clock classes will be dismissed early. Ten and 11 o'clock classes will be cancelled.

SENIORS ARE reminded that attendance is compulsory. The Broadway Bookstore will accept cap and gown orders all day Friday. Rental fee is $2.

Gowns may be picked up the foyer of Pigott Aud. between 8:30 and 9:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 14. All gowns must be returned to the foyer before 1 p.m. that day.

Dr. Davies Resigns MUN Post

Dr. Margaret Mary Davies, Assoc. Professor of Economics, has resigned as moderator of the Model United Nations Club.

Dr. Davies cited lack of funds allocated to the club as the primary reason for her resignation. Since her appointment as moderator to MUN four years ago, funds allocated to the MUN have steadily declined. In 1963-64 there were no funds allocated by the ASSU. To continue the functions of the club, Dr. Davies and the members spent the greater amount of their time attempting to raise funds.

WHILE DR. DAVIES was moderator, MUN sponsored a symposium on the United Nations in 1962, and a symposium on Sub-Sahara Africa. Both were on the S.U. campus and attended by students from nearly 30 colleges in the Northwest.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs and Ira Hirshmann, authority on refugees at the U.N., were brought to campus by the MUN. Various programs and discussions concerning many aspects of international affairs have been sponsored by the club.

LAST SPRING MUN sponsored a series of four foreign films. Proceeds from this project helped to finance S.U.'s delegation to the Western Mock United Nations in Spokane.

The club was appointed to the Executive Board of the Western Mock United Nations, composed of 110 colleges and universities of the 13 western states.

Real Purpose Rejected

The resignation of Dr. Margaret Mary Davies as moderator of MUN indicates the need for the senate to examine the value of ASSU organizations.

The history of academically oriented clubs, like MUN, Fragments, the Gavel Club has, in the past years, been a struggle of survival of the fittest—financial aid composing the primary survival principle.

IN A UNIVERSITY community the primary concern of the student senate should be to promote academic activity. If, however, the academic function of an organization is destroyed and replaced by fund raising activity, as Dr. Davies indicated in her resignation, the senate too, is defeating its purpose.

MUN, Fragments, the Gavel Club and Teatro Inigo have substantially contributed to the intellectual development on the campus and deserve the financial help of the senate.

WE FEEL THAT the senate's attention is not premature since they will be faced with requests for allotments in the coming year.

We regret the resignation of Dr. Davies. We hope that the senate profits to reflecting and evaluating ASSU organizations who build the reputation of the university and further intellectual activity of the students so that these organizations may have their due financial recognition.

I support Lyndon Johnson for President because I believe that his positive domestic and foreign policies offer a rational means for the attainment of the national interest.

I will not support my argument with a polemic attack on Sen. Goldwater—The Saturday Evening Post has already done so—nor by chastising the responsible elements in the Republican Party for a signal lack of courage in opposing his nomination. Nothing has been or can be gained by adding more rubbish and invective to a already shabby campaign.

THE SMOKE from such idle irresponsibility beclouds the issue. Is Goldwater's "choice not an echo" philosophy a truly rational alternative to Johnson's program? A singular rejoinder would be Adlai Stevenson's opinion of those individuals who "have to be dragged, kicking and screaming, into the Twentieth Century."

The Goldwater view exemplifies a basic negativism which relates the most difficult problems of modern society to a textbook, 25-words-or-less solution. He states, "My aim is not to enact new laws, but to appeal to old legislation," How can Goldwater expect the American people to support such a philosophy?

NOW I WOULD be the last person to deny the Senator the right to modify his past position on Social Security and the U.N. But it should be an insult to everyone's intelligence when Goldwater attempts to rewrite the dictionary to a suddenly-acquired and tenuous attitude.

Contrast such childishness to President Johnson's willingness to face the problem of an imperfect world—a nuclear world in which those too quick to act quickly become the dead. The essence of Johnson's strength is the sober realization that the "American Way" is not necessarily a panacea for the nationalistic aspirations of all nations. He offers instead a reasoned program for domestic development and international cooperation.

THE TRITE PHRASE, "a choice, not an echo," is hardly a substitute for a workable policy, and there is no rational choice between the very junior Senator from Arizona and the President of the U.S.

Exchange Students:

Okay by Them in America

S.U. is beginning to take on all the characteristics of an international brotherhood center.

The latest additions to S.U.'s "internationalia" are four exchange students from Argentina, and they're unanimous about school: "We like it here . . . everyone is so friendly . . . we feel at home."

There are two senioritas, Lilia Sonora, 26, and Dora Di Marco, 25, and two seniors, Jorge Porchetto, 21, and Guillermo Margrassi, 28. To hear the four of them talking at once, fourth quarter Spanish classes seem like fourth grade.

LILIA WAS graduated from El Salvador University in Buenos Aires with a Master's degree in English, and has taught English for five years. "School in Buenos Aires," she says, "is much different from school in Seattle."

Dora also graduated from El Salvador U., with a B.A. in English. She has no time to be homesick, she says, spending her free time in the mail room, looking for letters.

PORCHETTO IS a political science graduate, interested particularly in the "mechanism of political campaigns and lobbies."

Among the differences between Argentina and the U.S., he noted the lack of vending machines which he thinks "make it too easy to spend money." Argentina also allows students to vote at 18.

Porchetto enjoys the great national sport of girl-watching.

A third-year student in sociology, Margrassi thinks students here seem very young, but admits that this may be due to the casual dress and manner of S.U. students.

All four of the enthusiastic Argentinians are convinced that an exchange program is a wonderful opportunity for teachers, and would like to convince everyone of its importance. They shouldn't have any difficulty.

EL FUTBOL, NORTH AMERICAN STYLE. Guillermo Margrassi, Jorge Porchetto, Dora DiMarco, and Lila Sonoro try out another different U.S. custom. In Argentina, football is what is known here as soccer.

Cruz to Play in Olympics

Teo Cruz, the six-foot-eight S.U. student, will finally get a chance to play basketball.

Cruz will go to the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo and play for the Puerto Rican team. He left for San Francisco Monday night with Lou Rossini, coach of the Olympic Puerto Rican team and head basketball mentor of New York University.

CRUZ met the rest of the team in San Francisco and will arrive in Tokyo today.

Since the start of his career four years ago, Cruz has yet to play any great amount of basketball.

After he transferred from a preparatory college for New York University, he was ineligible to play against college teams as an S.U. freshman. In the summer of 1963 he played in a Puerto Rican league. The league was under a NCAA ban to college players since 1951 making Cruz indefinitely ineligible for college ball.

WALTER BYERS, NCAA president, reversed the decision making the Puerto Rican team of amateur status in early January of last year. The ruling was made retroactive to include Cruz, the only player affected by the reversal. But Cruz did not play because he wasn't carrying enough academic hours.

This season could be different for Cruz. Rossini feels confident that Cruz has improved and "matured" in the last few months. Rossini coached Cruz for three weeks in Puerto Rico this summer and says that Cruz has developed a stuffing attack.

He feels that Cruz needs more patience under the boards to develop his timing. He said

Cruz should repeat his plays until he knows exactly where his next step will be.

ROSSINI'S RECORD for last season was 17-10 and his teams of the last seven years have had better than a .700 winning mark. He thinks that Puerto Rico can end up in the first eight, automatically qualifying for the 1968 Olympics. He says, "If everything goes right, the team could finish as high as fifth."

Cruz wants to play for the S.U. varsity this season. He has coach Bob Boyd's permission to take the first few days off practice. The Chieftains start practice Oct. 15 and Cruz will be back Oct. 24.

The Chieftain discipline is just what Cruz will need, said Rossini. Cruz will need detailed work, which he can get with the Chieftains.

Cruz had to obtain a leave of absence from the school and from his teachers. Of course Cruz made an understatement when he simply said, "I'm happy to go, be able to play in the Olympics."

S.U. Intramural Bowling to Begin

Intramural bowling begins at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Rainier Lanes. Teams will be made up at this time. All interested are invited to come.

Among the highlights of last year's bowling action was the women's high game, a 207 by Carole Measure. The high series was a 523 by Mary Whipple. Mary also had the best women's average with a 146.

For the men it was Gerry Lemmon with a high game of 243 and John Zavaglia with a series of 620. Larry Fulton had the best average with a 181. The Pineapples won the team title with a 22-10 record.

In the spring quarter rolling Fran Coloroso led the women with a 501 series and Donna Torpey had the high game with a 201. Fr. Leo Eckstein had a 242 high game for the men, while Ray Liedtke had a 610 series. The Giants landed on top for the team title with a 21-11 record.

SU SPORTS

SOMETHING'S FISHY! S.U. sophomore Ann Koch is with her 48-pound salmon caught at La Push, Wash., a few weeks before school began. Fishing for the first time, Ann took 53 minutes to land the monster. It will probably require about as many weeks to eat it.

Girls' Sports Expanded

The S.U. intramural women's sports program has been expanded. Volleyball is scheduled to begin on Oct. 12 in the gym. Newcomers to the fall program are women's field hockey and the Lady-Be-Fit hour.

The field hockey will be played at Broadway playfield on Wednesday afternoons from 1-3 p.m. Since this is a new sport to the S.U. campus, an introductory meeting is scheduled for today in P303 at 1 p.m.

The Lady-Be-Fit hour is a new innovation which will convene in the gym starting Oct. 15 from 1-2 p.m. It will consist of 30 minutes of exercise and 30 minutes of badminton.

UCLA's Woodin Will Visit Here

John Woodin, the NCAA basketball coach of the year and head coach of the nation's championship team, UCLA, will be at S.U. for a basketball clinic Oct. 31.

Woodin will be the featured speaker at the S.U. gym before approximately 250 specially invited high school coaches and assistants. He will talk on the zone press, which UCLA used to beat the Chieftains 95-90 in an NCAA Regional game last year. He will also discuss the teaching of the techniques of basketball and coaching philosophy.

Earlier in the clinic, Bob Boyd, S.U.'s varsity coach, will speak on pre-season conditioning and team offense. Lionel Purcell, S.U. assistant coach, will explain the S.U. fast break.

Two Memorials Established For Deceased S.U. Grads

Two 1963 S.U. graduates and the twenty-seventh general of the Society of Jesus died recently.

William Frederick Watson died of leukemia Oct. 2, and Larry F. Lowrey died of Hodgkin's disease, Sept. 25.

Both former students' deaths came after long illnesses and both knew last year they were going to die.

DICK TWOHY, president of Bellarmine Hall, announced Saturday that the Bellarmine council has renamed the "Man of the Year" award for dormitory residents the William Frederick Watson Memorial, in memory of Watson who was last year's president of Bellarmine.

The Bellarmine council felt that the battle Watson fought would be an inspiration to all men on the campus. The plaque will be a continuing standard and eventually have 24 names.

IN MEMORY of Lowery, the Larry Lowery Scholarship Fund is being established at S.U.

Burial was at Holyrood for both young men.

Rev. Jean Baptiste Janssens, S.J., the 27th general of the Society of Jesus, died in Vatican City Monday at the age of 74. He had suffered a stroke the previous Wednesday and had been in charge of Roman Catholicism's largest religious order for the past 18 years.

A Requiem Mass was said at noon yesterday in the Chieftain lounge by Fr. Armand Nigro, S.J.

EACH MEMBER of the S.U. Jesuit faculty will offer three masses for Fr. Janssens.

Rev. John L. Swain, S.J., a Canadian citizen, becomes acting head until a new general is elected.
