Senate OK's Fee Boost

The senate decided to leave the fee for the student parking lot at $5 a quarter Sunday.

This is an increase from last year's rate of $4 a quarter or $10 a year.

Kip Toner, ASSU treasurer, told the senators he had been advised that the senate has the power to control the fee. He wanted it raised because the loan by which the ASSU purchased the parking lot could be paid off this year.

THE FINAL VOTE was 9-6 in favor of the motion to leave the rate at $5 a quarter.

One of the highlights of the meeting was a visit by the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of the University. Father Lemieux said it was the first time he had been invited to attend a senate meeting.

Father spoke for a minute or two on the role of student government in Jesuit higher education.

HE THEN PULLED his chair up to the senate table and he and the members of the student senate carried on a dialogue about problems that lasted well over an hour.

Among the topics discussed was the problem the senate continually faces—how to handle the purse strings as fairly as possible.

Father Lemieux told the senators the administration often faces much the same type of financial crises. It was suggested during the discussion that a partial solution to the problem is sharing the costs of semi-academic clubs between the students and the administration.

SEN. DICK TWOHY later introduced a motion asking that a committee of students meet with the administration to discuss the problem. The motion will be studied by the senate's appropriation committee this week.

In other senate business, Mary Donovan, a senior and three-year veteran of the judicial board, was approved as chief justice. She had been appointed by Mick McHugh, ASSU president.

Sen. Brian McMahon reported that the senate's appropriations committee decided to study the proposed allotment of $50 to S.U.'s Big Brother program for another week.

NO ACTION WAS taken on the motion to approve Dan Leahy as senior adviser to the freshman class. A senate standing rule prevents the senate from voting on an appointment when the appointee is not present. Leahy was not at the meeting.

The senate voted to allot $150 to Margaret Roney who will represent S.U. coeds at a math and science symposium at Massachusetts Institute of Technology next weekend.

Time Change

John Galbraith will speak Monday at noon in Pigott Aud. The noted author and economist is being sponsored by Young Citizens for Johnson and the Young Democrats. He was originally scheduled to appear Monday evening.

University Day Goal:

Visitor Participation Stressed

By MARY K. HICKEY

The usual Sunday quiet will not pervade the campus this week. University Day will mean S.U. open house from 1-5 p.m. for high school juniors and seniors from the Seattle-Tacoma area.

The aim of the co-chairmen of the event, Sue Miltner and Steve Hopps, is to create Monday-to-Friday campus activity in which the visitors may participate.

SCIENCE laboratories as well as nuclear research facilities will be in operation in the Bannan Bldg. All departments in the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Nursing will sponsor exhibits in the Pigott Bldg. Faculty members from these departments will be available to discuss individual programs with the prospective freshmen.

Special departmental exhibits will include the art dept. in Lyons Hall, the honors program in Loyola Hall, journalism in The Spectator Bldg. and speech and drama in Teatro Inigo.

For the undecided, the first humanities dept. will have advisers scattered through the Bellarmine dining hall. Here, coffee and conversation will be featured throughout the afternoon for students, visitors and faculty.

A VARIETY show will be presented in Pigott Aud. Per-

DARK BEFORE DAWN: S.U. student Dale La Fay is shown prior to and after watching the Cardinals' Tim McCarver hit a home run winning the game Monday. La Fay was watching the game on an ASSU T.V. set in the Chieftain. McCarver's three run homer in the 10th caused opposite reactions among student Yankee fans, however. St. Louis will play the Yankees today in St. Louis in the sixth game of the series.

Senior Coed Chosen For MIT Symposium

Margaret Roney, an S.U. senior majoring in mathematics, has been selected to attend a "Symposium on American Women in Science and Engineering."

The perky redhead will travel to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Oct. 21 to take part in the symposium.

SHE RECEIVED $150 from the student senate Sunday night to help defray traveling expenses.

Hailing from Rantoul, Illinois, Margaret has achieved a cumulative g.p.a. of 3.64 and plans to do graduate work in mathematics. She was chosen for the M.I.T. symposium by Miss Agnes Reilly, dean of women, and Dr. Mary Turner of the mathematics dept.

THE ACTIVE CO-ED is currently vice president of Gamma Pi Epsilon, national Jesuit honorary for women, treasurer of Silver Scroll and chairman of the CCD committee for handicapped children.

The symposium will explore the personal, social and economic factors involved in a woman's commitment to a professional career in science or engineering and discuss ways of stimulating the interest of young women in these fields.

Military Excellence:

Seventeen Achieve DMS Standing

Seventeen S.U. cadets will receive the Distinguished Military Student award.

The award is presented to the cadets on the basis of their performance at summer camp. Those cadets who maintain their ranking as a DMS throughout the year will be commissioned as regular officers in the Army.

CADETS WHO DO not receive the DMS rating are commissioned as reserve officers upon graduation.

Each of the seventeen cadets to receive the award received a grade of A for the summer camp program. The program combines class work in military subjects and practical exercises in the field. The cadets are rated on both.

John Doub, commander of the S.U. Raider Company, placed fourth in the final rating of over 1600 cadets who attended summer camp at Ft. Lewis.

THE AWARD will be presented to each cadet in his regular drill period. Those who will receive the award and their present rank are: Cadet Majors, Richard Baker, George Garma, Chuck Kirkey, Thomas Troy, Tony Vivolo and Doub.

Cadet Captains, John Baisch, Walter Boyles, Jack Combs, Ken Crowder, Charles Dynes, Martin Eltrich, Terry French, Fred Labasan, Richard Love, and Larry Yamaura, and Cadet Lt. James Bordenet.

The commander at summer camp makes a recommendation of the cadets to receive the DMS medal. All recommendations are subject to final approval of Col. Robert Leiding, professor of military science.

'Club Open House' Offers New Trophies

By JEWELL DRAKE

Club Open House is scheduled with University Day for the first time this year. The event will be from 7-10 p.m., Saturday in the Chieftain.

Co-chairmen Don Legge and Kathy Johnston will arrange exhibits. Booths will be in the Chieftain lounge and downstairs in the Chieftain cafeteria.

FOR THE convenience of visitors and students, clubs will be grouped by categories. The visitors will see all the academic honoraries together, all the service clubs and all the sports groups.

ASSU will institute a perpetual trophy, to be placed in the ASSU trophy case, and three plaques. The trophies and plaques are now on display in the Chieftain foyer.

THE TROPHY will be awarded to the overall winner. The plaques will be awarded to 1) the perpetual trophy winner; 2) to the exhibit best exemplifying the purpose of the club; 3) to the exhibit showing the most originality.

Judging will be on Saturday evening by a selected committee. Judges have been chosen for their interest in S.U. activities. No students have been named to the committee.

Awards will be based on the total number of points given by the judges. Winners will be announced during the dance intermission.

WINNING clubs will have their trophy and plaques on display Sunday, University Day. Booths will be staffed again on Sunday when high school senior University Day depends upon the participation of the whole student body. He encouraged all to invite high school students to "Come to the Campus" and take part in the activities, particularly the informal discussions in the Bellarmine dining room.

iors and juniors, with their parents and friends, visit the S.U. campus.

Aegis Photos Begin Monday

Pictures will be taken for the '65 Aegis beginning next week. The picture taking for the S.U. yearbook will be on the third floor of the L.A. Bldg. every school day starting Monday and continuing through Oct. 30.

MORNING hours will be from 9 a.m.-noon and from 12:30-2 p.m. The photographer will remain until 6 p.m. next Wednesday for the convenience of off-campus students, according to Jackie Benton, Aegis editor.

Special dress will be provided for seniors, but senior men are requested to wear white shirts. Apparel for underclasswomen are medium colored sweaters. Underclassmen are asked to wear a white shirt, dark suit and a tie.

THE CHARGE for the sitting is $1.55, the same price as last year. Extra organization head shots in different attire will be $1 more.

Students who do not have their pictures taken during this time will not have another opportunity to have a head shot put into the annual, Jackie said.

The Voice of the Turtle

Father Lemieux's dialogue with the senators at last Sunday's meeting sparked a retrospect discussion of the perennial problem of ASSU activities—lack of student involvement.

WHAT PART DO student activities play in the development of the whole man? Father Lemieux made the suggestion that it is the function of student activities to provide a laboratory where the student can apply knowledge gained in the classroom and can prepare himself for his role in society.

The keys to student involvement are 1) Personal contact on the part of the ASSU with potentially interested students; 2) a program of activities that is as interesting and entertaining as it is challenging, and 3) a group of leaders who are willing to give of their ideas, time and energy.

One positive step has been taken toward the solution of this problem. At registration this quarter, all students were asked to fill out IBM cards indicating their preference in student organizations. The cards will be processed and lists of names will be made available to the leaders of various campus groups, who will then contact those interested.

IF THIS ATTEMPT to help solve the problem is to be successful, it will be necessary for the leaders involved to take advantage of the work that has been done for them. Likewise, the students must not expect challenging, interesting activities, without their active participation.

We hope the big men on our campus will not let the student down. And we hope that all students will be interested in being "involved" to make the ASSU and ASSU activities meaningful.

letters to the editor work continues

To the Editor:
 The Model United Nations Club of S.U. wishes to express sincere regret on the resignation of Dr. Margaret Mary Davies, our moderator. Dr. Davies' service to MUN in the last four years has been outstanding. Not only has she given unsparingly of her time, encouragement and advice, but she has also infused into the club a dedication to the principles of MUN.
 Under the leadership of Dr. Davies the club has become an active organization on campus and has sponsored a program of lectures, panel discussions, conferences and a symposium to examine different aspects of international problems. Most important, the club has undertaken serious study of the working of the U.N. with particular emphasis on a different country each year.

 The officers and the members of the MUN are determined to continue the work done by Dr. Davies. We are limited only by concern for the funds needed to foster the work of the MUN.

Insight and Sound

Success Despite Wide Screen

Patrick MacDonald

Jean Anouilh's modern classic play, "Becket," has been faithfully reproduced for the screen in a Hal Wallis production starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole.

Despite the heady splash of Technicolor and the wide, wide screen, the original brilliance of the play comes through. Much of the credit must go to stars Burton and O'Toole and to Edward Anhalt, who wrote the screenplay and had the good sense to preserve much of Anouilh's original work. Anhalt actually did little more than shorten the play for the screen.

RICHARD BURTON is an excellent actor, and even though he relies almost completely on his remarkable voice and his beautiful Welsh accent, his portrayal of Becket is a memorable and moving performance. As the peasant Saxon favored by the king, Becket is a man searching for honor. "Where honor should be, in me there is only a void," he muses.
 When the king makes him

RICHARD BURTON

Archbishop of Canterbury, in a move designed to get control of the Church, Becket "finds" his honor. He defends the Church more vigorously than his predecessor, causing him to lose the favor (but not the love) of the king and ultimately leading to his death. I'm not giving anything away; the story of the Becket-Henry II affair has been in the history books for quite some time.)

 The only flaw in Burton's portrayal is that his Becket, after his conversion, is a bit too righteous to be plausible.

PETER O'TOOLE makes a vivid and touching King Henry II of England. One feels sorry for O'Toole's Henry because he seems too giddy and fun-loving to be the king and because he can't seem to shake his great love for Becket. But Mr. O'Toole is a very talented actor and his performance, though not as memorable as his Lawrence of Arabia, is a brilliant tour de force.

John Gielgud has a small part as the king of France and he gives, as might be expected, a great performance. Others in the large cast include Donald Wolfitt, Martita Hunt, Pamela Brown, David Weston and Felix Aylmer.

"Becket" is currently at the Music Hall theater. It has been playing there for the past four weeks and will probably remain for a good many more.

Focus—Elections '64:

Line to Form on the Right

By JAMES BELL

Barry Goldwater, either through a bad press agent or a hostile press, has become for the American people a symbol of irrationality, of blind and bigoted adherence to a narrow, self-righteous philosophy, a philosophy so important to the Senator that he would risk our prosperity and our lifeblood should his beliefs be challenged.

This is the Barry Goldwater whom many Americans will reject this November. This is the explanation for the contradictory decision most Americans are expected to make this November, the decision to engage L.B.J. as our leader for the next four years.

The decision would be contradictory because L.B.J. refuses to lead, unless it be in a direction counter to America's birthright, and only as a justification for being the richest nation on earth.

L.B.J. IS VERY obviously a master politician, and, in my mind, nothing better. He wants to be President, and hence is determined at least to appear to satisfy the desires of all American people. And being a master politician, he can no doubt make good on many of his promises.

But this is not leadership. Satisfying the selfish interests of each category of Americans does not even approximate an answer to America's real needs.

WE NEED A MAN to lead, not appease us. We need a man who can restore America's mission, a man who knows why America was founded and how it grew. We need a man who believes in us and who realizes the great responsibility that is ours.

Barry Goldwater is that man, and the pity is we are afraid to listen to him. He asks that we once again accept personal responsibility for our own lives, for our debt to other men, to the world and to God. Because personal responsibility means personal blame if we fail, or are failing, we are afraid. We are scared to death at the thought of leaving the cozy, safe shells we have crept into. Barry Goldwater demands something we have tried to relegate to the past—the possibility of sacrificing our personal security and prosperity.

HENCE WE HAVE unquestionably accepted the image of Goldwater as a "ranting, raving demagogue." Hence we accept complacency in L.B.J.'s "responsible mainstream." Hence we continue our blind pursuit of security and prosperity.

We cannot afford to waste another four years. We do not realize how close we are to the tragic point of no return.

Intramural Gridders To Clash Tomorrow

Last year's intramural football champions, the Spartans, will inaugurate the current season tomorrow at 1 p.m. against the Bellarmine Football Deacons. All intramural games will be played at Broadway Playfield four blocks north of campus.

There will be two leagues this year. The 1 p.m. league will have five teams and the 2 p.m. league will have six competitors. Although last year there were some 16 teams, there are only 11 signed up for this season.

THE FIVE teams in the 1 p.m. league and their captains are: Spartans, Charlie Gilligan; Beavers, Mike Kepler; BFD's, Frank Frediani; Fubars, Tony Philipsen; Chieftain Riflers, Jim O'Neill. These teams will play a total of 12 games each.

Comprising the 2 p.m. league are: Menehunes, John Tomita; Frosh 101, Earl Robicheaux; Red Onions, Bob Dunn, Bill Meyer; Bad News, Ed and Bill Heckard; Alpha Kappa Sighers, Bill Rieck; Catholic Boys, Ed Kirsh. Each team in this league will compete in nine games.

THE FIRST part of the league schedule is as follows: Friday at 1 p.m. — Beavers-Chieftain Riflers; 2 p.m.—Menehunes-Red Onions; Monday, Oct. 19 at 1 p.m.—Spartans-Fubars; 2 p.m.—Bad News—Alpha Kappa Sighers; Tuesday, Oct. 20 at 1 p.m.—Beavers — BFD's; 2 p.m.—Catholic Boys — Menehunes; Thursday, Oct. 22 at 1 p.m.—Fubars-Chieftain Riflers; 2 p.m.—Frosh 101—Bad News.

Men's intramural volleyball begins tonight in the S.U. gym. There are seven teams in the league with one team drawing a bye each week. Tonight at 7 p.m. the Welfares meet Hanna's Hitters. The Ineligibles face the Spikers at 7:45 while the Bell-Fours will play the Turkeys. The Donohues draw a bye.

Chiefs Drill In Seclusion

When the Chieftain basketball team opens practice tomorrow, the gym will close. The S.U. gym will be closed to the public and student body from 2-4:30 p.m. each practice day.

THE GYM will remain closed until Nov. 2. According to Bob Boyd, S.U. head coach, "During this closed practice period, the majority of time will be spent on conditioning and fundamentals. It is my belief that a better learning environment along with a more realistic approach to the strenuous conditioning program can be attained by such a move."

Boyd pointed out that the reason for closed sessions was not to hide anything. "Actually," he said, "pre-season conditioning practices are not very interesting and rather dull to watch."

HE ADDED that those who are really interested in the S.U. program should realize that this is a move to better the team rather than to exclude anyone.

Boyd commented that when a player is on display it is more difficult to concentrate and it sometimes causes embarrassment.

P.E. Class-Club:

Girls Practice for Field Hockey

By PAT CURRAN

Field hockey, a new sport on the S.U. athletic scene, has opened new horizons in the field of women's sports.

At the present time about 17 coeds are busy learning the principles and rules of this "non-contact" sport in a P.E. class from 11 a.m. to noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the S.U. gym.

THE NEW SPORT is similar to soccer. A team is composed of five forwards, three halfbacks, two fullbacks and a goalie. The equipment consists of hockey sticks, a small hard-rubber ball and shin guards. The object of the game is to hit the ball through the goal posts with the sticks, thereby scoring a goal.

A field hockey club has been started, also. It meets from 1-3 p.m. Wednesdays at Broadway Playfield.

Approximately 20 girls, both from the class and others interested in the game, are currently hacking, shoving and flailing at the hard balls with potentially dangerous hockey sticks in an attempt to master the game's fundamentals.

THIS YEAR the girls will be mainly concerned with the rules, fundamentals and passing techniques of the game. Eventually, techniques of tackling and blocking will be added to the girls' fund of mayhem.

Next year the intrepid girls hope to join an informal league in which 22 colleges participate. However, Miss Catherine Greene, their instructor, said, "It is extremely hard to develop interest among the student body in anything new such as this."

Since the games should be quite competitive and uninhibited, it is safe to predict a large male contingent of rooters and "experts."

St. Louis Signs John Tresvant

John Tresvant, ex-S.U. basketball player, signed a contract with the St. Louis Hawks last Friday.

After he finished his Chieftain career, Tresvant was the fifth draft choice of the Hawks last spring. He averaged 17.8 points a game for the Chieftains and collected 392 rebounds. He has reportedly been playing often with the Hawks in exhibition games.

The 6-foot-7 Tresvant was planning to come back to S.U. to earn his accounting degree this fall if he had failed to sign a contract.

The home games will be played as a prelude to the Chieftain varsity games in the new Seattle Sports Coliseum.
