Frosh Digs Treasure From Sidewalk Crack

EUREKA!

Mike Dolan, S.U. freshman, found the Port Seattle hidden treasure about 10 a.m. Wednesday. The treasure was in a crack where the sidewalk from Buhr Hall meets the Pigott mall. Commenting on his hunt for the treasure, Dolan explained, "There was some residue (a mixture of dirt and leaves) over this crack, so I scraped it away with my ballpoint pen and there it was!"

Dolan hasn't decided yet what he'll do with the money, but he stated, "Some of it will go back into Homecoming when I buy my bid for the dance."

The total amount of the treasure was $112. Spirits originally hid $100 and Nudelman's added $12.

S.U. to Receive $1 Million Soon

The backlash of problems in the estate of Mrs. Loretta Emard has finally been unraveled and worked out so that S.U. may expect to receive $1 million tax free within nine days.

Reconciliation of the $2.5 million probate case has come after over a year's deliberation. These proceedings were principally concerned with the validity of Mrs. Emard's will, drawn up on Oct. 8, 1963, four days before her death.

The contestant of Mrs. Emard's last will, Mrs. Patricia Borer, so-called foster daughter of the decedent, claimed that Mrs. Emard lacked testamentary capacity shortly before her death.

She further asserted that the decedent's earlier will of 1953, to which she was the sole beneficiary, should supercede the latest one.

Reading Program:

'Presidential Power' Selected

Presidential Power by Richard Neustadt has been selected as the next book to be discussed in the reading program. The discussion, sponsored by Alpha Sigma Nu and Gamma Pi Epsilon, will take place some time in February.

PAPERBACK editions of the book will be sold in the bookstore and at the Chieftain within the next two weeks. A question sheet will be provided upon purchasing the book to help guide the reader in his analysis of the author's point of view and personal message.

The author, Richard Neustadt, is a professor of political science at Columbia University. He has worked closely with three presidential administrations, and presents his observations in the book.

Presidential Power concerns exactly what its title suggests—the amount of power allotted today's chief executive, and how he exercises it during his term of office.

Budget to Be Ready Jan. 31

Kip Toner, ASSU treasurer, said Wednesday that the ASSU student activities budget should be ready for the senate's approval on Jan. 31.

Toner said that two items—the intramural allotment and the Junior Prom allotment—are hampering the work of the financial board at this point.

THE JUNIOR Prom committee, headed by Bruce Walker, junior class president, has asked for a $1,500 allotment. Toner, who insists on referring to the dance as the "Christmas Formal," claims that the financial board must have an exact figure of expenses and income from the committee before deciding on an allotment.

The dance was on Dec. 4. Toner charged Wednesday that Walker told him that he would not co-operate with him (Toner).

Walker claims that a final post-dance report, with exact financial figures, will not be possible until the committee has received bills from all the firms with which it did business.

TONER said the people involved in the intramural program were co-operating with him. He said the board just wanted to find out where the money will be spent.

Meanwhile, the board is having internal difficulties.

Roy Angevine, a senior and a member of the board, got up and walked out of Tuesday afternoon's meeting.

ANGEVINE had made a motion that the financial board allot $1,000 to the Junior Prom committee and let the committee obtain any additional money it needs from the senate after the budget has been considered.

Angevine said Toner ruled the motion out of order. Angevine protested, but to no avail. He then walked out of the meeting in protest.

Toner told The Spectator Wednesday he does not foresee anything which would delay the presentation of the budget to the senate beyond Jan. 31.

As a rule, the budget is presented to the senate in fall quarter.

Two hundred Catholic and Jewish community leaders will Elections for a new general of the Society of Jesus on May 6, this year in Rome will be attended by Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of S.U., Fr. John Leary, S.J., president of Gonzaga University, and Very Rev. John Kelley, S.J., provincial of the region Province.

THE 50 SENIOR members of the Oregon Province met in solemn session at Spokane last weekend to appoint two electors to represent the province along with the provincial.

The Father General is not only the official mediator between the Holy Father and the Society, but within the order he has the last word on the administrative difficulties and personnel problems. The former general, Very Rev. John Janssens, S.J., died on October 5, 1964.

ATTENDING THE meeting from S.U. were Fr. Lemieux, Fr. Vincent Conway, S.J., librarian emeritus, Fr. James McGoldrick, S.J., dean emeritus; Fr. Edmund McNulty, S.J., vice president in charge of finance; and Fr. Daniel Reidy, S.J., Fr. Francis McGarrigle, S.J., Fr. William Weller, S.J., and Fr. Gerard Bussy, S.J., all of the philosophy dept.

Late Regent Leaves $25,000 to S. U.

S.U. was recently bequeathed $25,000 from the will of Mrs. Albert Schafer, who died Dec. 27. Mrs. Schafer was the first female member of S.U.'s Board of Regents.

The Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., president of S.U. and Fr. Frank Costello, S.J., academic vice president, represented S.U. at the funeral services for Mrs. Schafer at St. John's Mission Church in Montesano, Wash. A resident of Montesano, Mrs. Schafer was instrumental in establishing the mission church there.

APPOINTED TO the Board of Regents in 1956, Mrs. Schafer resigned in 1961 and was made an honorary member. She retained the status until her death.

The $25,000 Mrs. Schafer left S.U. in her will is not her first donation to the University. She also contributed $25,000 toward the construction of the Bannan Bldg. and $34,000 for the construction of an auditorium in the new library.

MRS. SCHAFFER also established a permanent $25,000 scholarship fund for high school seniors and students currently attending S.U. The sum was invested in various stocks, and dividends are distributed as scholarships on the basis of achievement and financial need.

Mrs. Schafer was also a major contributor to the Forest Ridge Convent Building Fund

'Gentleman' Robs L.A. Building

The arts and science dept. office in the L.A. Bldg. was robbed last Saturday night.

Fr. John Fitterer, S.J., dean of the dept., said, "The thief was a 'gentleman' in that he didn't disturb the drawers or wreck the office. All that he was interested in was the petty cash."

The thief apparently entered the building through a window he had smashed with a rock. He examined the arts and sciences dept. office and the adjoining development office, taking some petty cash and a box of postage stamps. Then finding the rest of the offices locked, he quit, leaving the offices he visited in perfect order.

Sunday morning Burns Detective Agency, our campus police, and the City Police began investigations into the burglary.

letters to the editor

berkeley protest II

To The Editor:

Steve Dickerson's letter in the Jan. 8 Spectator charges that the Berkeley "protestors are students who 'discovered' . . . that God no longer exists, and so they were free to grow beards, practice free love and picket." He dubs them "anarchistic-minded."

I hope that Dickerson checks his facts more carefully for his classes than he does for letters to the editor. To mention just three of many sources, see the New York Times for Dec. 6 (a column by Turner) and Dec. 20, 1964 (an analysis by Heckinger in the News in Review section) and the Saturday Review for Jan. 16, 1965. They do not support Dickerson's conclusions.

We who have lived and worked with these students know that, whatever may have been their errors and whatever may be true of isolated individuals, it cannot fairly be charged against them as a group—or even against any substantial number of them—that, as Dickerson charges, (1) they have "discovered" that God no longer exists, (2) they practice free love, or (3) they are "anarchistic-minded."

There were, after all, nearly 1000 of them who engaged in the sit-ins. Is it Dickerson's point that his blanket indictment applies to that many students?

And what is his implication in lumping all these charges together? That there is something reprehensible about beards? Is some connection between atheism and is some connection between atheism and civil disobedience? (This would be news to Martin Luther King.)

In contrast with a prior generation of college students who cared little for anything but material security, these students are deeply concerned about the lawless administration of the law in civil rights matters, the relation of law to morality in education and economics and politics, and their own responsibility as emerging adults in a complicated and far from perfect society.

To suggest that the Berkeley students committed error is certainly a reasonable contention. But to condemn them for error committed on an issue as lofty as free speech and the place of a student in his university is to miss an issue of vital concern in our time. And to try to support that condemnation with groundless defamations is to blind oneself to issues that need to be faced.

Let Steve Dickerson inform himself on the facts and take any position to which reason leads him on the issues. But let him have the integrity not to muddy valid questions with unfounded charges and let him ask himself honestly whether he is expressing anything more than that old cause of wars and oppressions—the unreasoning fear and hatred of people who are felt to be somehow different and distant.

Freedom Only Goes to the Brave

By BILL MURRAY

Dr. Stefan Possony, director of the Hoover Institute of War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford University, spoke Wednesday on "The Future of Freedom" to a nearly filled Bannan Aud.

In his lecture, sponsored by the S.U. Discussion Club, Dr. Possony stated that freedom has been under increasing attack during the last 40 years, and that today it faces greater dangers than ever. He attributed the increasing threats to freedom to two main sources—an "undue commitment to political dogmas," and apathy on the part of the citizenry.

"DOGMA," SAID Dr. Possony, "clouds the mind, and induces the victim to suspend the rules of evidence. We must liberate ourselves from cheap ideas of 'progress,' and realize that social and political progress is neither inevitable nor permanent."

According to Dr. Possony, many public information media are becoming vehicles for indoctrination; certain viewpoints are never represented.

DR. POSSENY

This, he said, is not always due to bad will, but perhaps due to a lack of understanding on the part of newsmen, who may not fully grasp the issues. Or it may be due to a citizenry which is not committed enough to freedom to make its views known.

"The threat to freedom," Possony said, "starts in your own mind, in your own soul." It is easy to figure out a strategy to win the cold war with the Soviet Union, he said, but the government can't automatically absorb this concept. It is dependent on individuals who care enough about the future of freedom to work for it.

THAT IS, to become informed on the issues of the day, and write letters to newspapers, to the Congress and to the White House.

If you are going to believe in freedom, Dr. Possony summed up, you can't believe that it will automatically prevail, or that it will inevitably fail. "The cowardly lose freedom; only the courageous maintain it."

"the way to wealth is as plain as the way to market. It depends chiefly on two words, industry and frugality; that is, waste neither time nor money, but make the best use of both. Without industry and frugality nothing will do, and with them everything."

Grace Comes to Theology

By KATHY ROBEL

Next fall's schedule of classes will list a few eye-openers under "theology," for instance, "The Dead Sea Scrolls," or "Modern Protestant Theology," or even "Reformation Theology" and "Christian Writers of the Fourth Century" and "Archaeology of Palestine."

Eventually, courses in comparative religion, Jewish history and theology, Newman's theology, contemporary moral problems, and many others equally as intriguing will be added to the agenda for S.U.'s proposed major program in theology, beginning next fall quarter.

ONE OF THE FIRST students to enroll with Fr. Webster Patterson, S.J.'s new program was Mary Jane Lagozzino, 32, who says she woke up one morning in Chicago wondering, "what am I doing . . . my work is like a play . . . what are my goals, my values . . . ?"

Whatever the answers were, she decided to go back and get a college education after 13 years in business, working for some of the major recording industries in the country.

Born in Seattle and graduated from Franklin High in drama, Miss Lagozzino chose S.U. "because I wanted a better understanding of my religion—but within a discipline, to see the total picture better." Her decision to major in theology (she is presently registered in English) arose from a discussion with Fr. James King, S.J., when she realized that for the first time, serious theology study is now open to laymen.

"I GUESS I'VE always had a natural habit of relating all my courses, whatever they are, to theology," she said, adding that for this reason the major in theology suits her perfectly. "It's for my own good, my own personal enthusiasm. Without that, I don't see how anyone can teach."

Commenting on the reaction of the clergy to lay theologians, she said, "In my own experience, priests and religious welcome it. It isn't at all that priests are ineffectual," she noted, "but that a lay theologian can teach by example as well, facing the same problems as 'ordinary' people do, while carrying his religion with him every waking moment."

Miss Lagozzino will graduate in 1967, and hopes to continue her theological studies at Marquette. "I'm surprised more students aren't interested in theology," she commented. "The more you study it, the more you realize what it is you have."

Majoring in theology will require a student to have taken 44 hours of theology courses, 12 hours of ancient and 12 hours of modern languages, plus all the other core requirements in social science, math or physical science, philosophy, history, English and fine arts.

Some S.U. students have grabbed the challenge, and signed up with Fr. Patterson. A tentative listing includes Doug Shore, Joe Schneider, Charles Leibentritt, Carol Ann Duescher, Ron Peterson, Maureen Gruber, Joseph Clark and Miss Lagozzino.

FROM S.U. ALONE, Marquette accepted Dick Otto, Randy Lump and Gary Hubbard for graduate studies in theology. Also, some S.U. students will remember Miss Sonya Quitslund who taught here last summer. She is presently studying and teaching at Catholic University of America, and determined to teach theology, eventually, in secular colleges, or possibly get a degree in Protestant theology from a Protestant graduate school.

"Wherever I can," says the lady theologian, "I want to show that theology is not simple moralizing but immediately relevant to all of life."

Sports Editorial Silent Cheering?

By RICHARD HOUSER

Cheering during the S.U. basketball games this season has been extremely poor—especially at the frosh games. The freshman cheerleaders have been doing an excellent job against all kinds of adversities—lack of student participation and the complete lack of interest in the frosh team.

IN LATER YEARS this apathy among students may grow to encompass the varsity teams as well.

At the present time the rooting section is getting quieter and quieter at the varsity contests.

On Jan. 15, the Chieftains clobbered the West Texas State Buffaloes, 103-57. During the contest the cheering was so sporadic the players probably wondered if the fans were still there. It was so quiet at times that it was possible to hear what the coaches were telling their players.

ANOTHER POINT is the lack of student enthusiasm while the songleaders perform their intricate patterns. In other years students have lent the clapping of their hands to the routines.

This season few fans could have gained sore palms from the silence emitting from the rooting section.

The question is not who is to blame—the students or the cheerleaders—but what can be done to alleviate the situation.

SPONTANEOUS cheers have poured forth at times but these infrequent outbursts of noise are not enough. There needs to be more enthusiastic cheering by the students at the frosh games and better leadership at the varsity level.

This and co-operation of all involved—students and cheerleaders—will produce a more spirited rooting section in the future.

Chiefs, Idaho:

By DON SPADONI

The Chieftains go after the Idaho Vandals at 8 p.m. tonight in the Coliseum. The contest promises to be a fast-moving one with both teams excelling in the fast break.

Although the Vandals are 4-9 for the season, assistant S.U. coach Lionel Purcell says the Vandals could live up to their nickname. "The Vandals have fine personnel but they haven't been playing well. They are the type of team to be cautious about since they're long overdue for a good game."

S.U. WILL be trying to improve its 10-6 record and will start the five men most responsible for the Chieftains' last two victories.

Tom Workman and Rich Turney will take the forward positions. Malkin Strong will go at the post while Charlie Williams and Peller Phillips will start at the guard spots.

"These five have been a good combination but we'll use substitutes because of the expected fast pace," Purcell said. "The reserves have been doing well."

LEADING the Vandals and opposing Williams will be 5-foot-11 guard Jim Skaife. He will be one of the best guards S.U. will meet this season, according to the Chieftains' coaches.

Idaho will be helped by the rebounding leader of the Big Sky Conference, Chuck Kozak. The Vandals' top scorer is 6-foot-7 Tom Moreland. The other Vandal stars are guards Ed Haskins and John Rucker.

Last year the Chiefs stopped Idaho 75-69 and 63-57.

Purcell commended the Chieftains for the improvement shown in the last few games but said that it wasn't due to anything new. "We have been running the same patterns and plays all season but they are finally beginning to click."

Scrappy little S.U. guard Mike Acres broke his nose in Tuesday's practice. He will be ready for possible action Friday night along with L. J. Wheeler, who has been ill for 10 days.

S.U.'s freshman team, the Papooses, will meet the Highline Thunderbirds in the preliminary contest tonight at 6 o'clock. The Papooses will play Skagit Valley in an away game Saturday.

CHIEF SPIRIT: S.U. freshman, Charles Herdener, is pictured in the special red and white striped sports coat he bought and S.U. hat which he wears while cheering in the student section at every home game. Herdener says he likes to "initiate styles."

ROTC 1 Wins:

Rogues Show Strength in Runaway Win

By CHUCK HATHAWAY

The Rogues showed their strength in a runaway victory over the ROTC 2 team 72-25 in yesterday's intramurals.

The ROTC 2 scored the first basket but the Rogues were in complete control of the game seconds later. The Rogues' scores came fast and often, with the halftime score being 36-13.

THE ROGUES' success can be attributed to a well-balanced attack captained by Walt Hansen who scored 15 points. Joe Shepard, Bob Herness, and Gary Meisenburg tied for second high scorer with 14 each. The Rogues' height marks them as a team to watch in the 2 p.m. league.

In the other contest yesterday, the ROTC 1 five put on an impressive come-back show, nipping the Horngunners 36-34.

Dennis Barker led the winners with 15. Mark Frisly scored 17 points for the Horngunners.

In the freshman intramural league play Wednesday night, the Happy Hops, Goldfingers and Non-Drinkers scored easy wins.

THE HAPPY HOPS utilized a stringent defense to stop the Pinewood Ballerinas 34-22. The high scorer for the Ballerinas had only 9 points. A combination of another tight defense and Tom Gorman's 14 points led the Goldfingers to a 34-26 win over the Terrors.

The third game of the night saw Bill Sadler and Bernard Bluhm of the Non-Drinkers pour in 16 and 13 points respectively for a 55-44 win over the Hustlers. Jaime Duyungan collected 12 points for the Hustlers.

Bowling Results

Tom Hanses rolled the men's high game in yesterday's intramural bowling with a 213. Harry Anarde was second high, scoring 210, while Fr. Francis Logan had a 201 game.

Jan Witte was high roller for the girls, knocking down 146 pins. She was followed by Cinci Wagg, 140, and Dolores Paschke, 136.

The Crypt Kickers are leading the bowling league with a 7-1 record.

NURSES GET BLUES: Mary Caldwell (l.) and Valeria Kautzky, sophomores, are shown modeling the new uniforms the S.U. nursing students will wear this year. The uniforms were changed from the traditional white to a blue and white pin stripe pattern. The outer apron will remain white. The lettering on the cap was changed from maroon to scarlet to conform with the new school colors adopted last year.

Library Contest Winner To Receive More Books

The Broadway Bookstore will soon award $25 worth of books to the S.U. student with the best personal library. The student will then be eligible to compete for a $1,000 award presented for the best personal library collected by an undergraduate student attending a four-year college or university in the U.S. Any student interested in the contest should submit a list of the titles and authors of at least 35 books he owns to the director of the bookstore, Mrs. Genevieve Weston, before 4 p.m., Jan. 27. A panel of S.U. faculty members will select the winner. The rules state that the collection may be a general library, a collection centered on a subject or a collection of works by a single author or a group of authors.

In Bellarmine Sunday:

Heavy Schedule Faces Senate

The student senate will meet at 7 p.m. in the Bellarmine Hall snack bar Sunday to face a heavy schedule of business. Sen. Russ Niles, freshman, has introduced a bill asking that election of Spirits' officers be in spring rather than in fall quarter. This would allow more freshmen to voice their vote in that club's annual elections.

ALSO before the senate is a motion to grant S.U.'s Young Democrats admission to S.U.'s Political Union.

The senate has been asked to approve six appointments. The appointees and offices to which they have been appointed are: Phil Hasenkamp, general counsel; Jane Grafton, executive secretary; Terri Pagni, senate executive secretary; Anne McKinstry and Dave Pelton, chairmen of transfer orientation, and Mary Helen Whipple, executive secretary.

THE SENATE will also consider a bill setting up regulations for the disposal of unused ASSU scholarships. The bill would return unused scholarship money to the senate general fund.

Other items under consideration include:

—Approval of the Homecoming committee's contract with the Max Pillar orchestra at a cost of $475.

—An allotment of $300 to Model United Nations.
