Bangasser Elected ASSU President

By MIKE PARKS

Tom Bangasser was elected student body president yesterday, outpolling Jim Picton, 845-543.

Bangasser polled a higher percentage of votes, 60.8, than any other winner in recent years.

Steve Riggs and Joe Beaulieu were elected first and second vice president, respectively. Riggs beat Gerry Sheehan by a margin of almost 2-1. Beaulieu beat Don Legge, 805-578.

IN THE CLOSEST ASSU race, Peter Gumina beat Brent Vaughters, 678-631, to become the treasurer-elect.

Jim Codling was elected publicity director. He defeated Gail Matthiesen, 888-489. The new ASSU secretary is Terri Pagni. She beat Sue Miltner, 723-627.

Carol Moergeli, a junior from Tacoma, defeated Patricia Frangello in the AWS presidency race.

DIANE FAUDREE was elected AWS vice president in the election's closest race. The first count of ballots showed Faudree the winner over Jane Cunningham, 370-368. The recount gave her a four-vote margin, 371-367.

Karen Disotell beat Kay Smith for AWS secretary by 31 votes, 391-360.

TOM BANGASSER
ASSU President

STEVE RIGGS
ASSU First Vice President

Caroline O'Shaughnessy was unopposed for AWS treasurer. She polled 682 votes. Rose Bertucci, the only candidate for AWS publicity director, polled 667 votes.

Only 1408 ballots were cast in the ASSU election, 96 less than in last year's final. Coeds cast 765 ballots in the AWS election.

THE ASSU president-elect is a 20-year-old junior from Seattle majoring in accounting. Bangasser has been second vice president this year. He beat four other candidates in last week's primary.

Steve Riggs, first vice president-elect, is an economics major from Bellingham. He is a 20-year-old junior.

Beaulieu is a transfer student from Grays Harbor Junior College where he was student body president. He is a 21-year-old political science major from Raymond, Wash.

GUMINA, a junior, is a 21-year-old economics major from San Francisco. He is currently finishing out a term as president of Alpha Kappa Psi, business fraternity.

Terri Pagni, the secretary-elect, is a 20-year-old sophomore from Seattle majoring in journalism. She has been senate secretary this year.

Jim Codling has been vice president of Spirits this year. He is a 20-year-old junior from Seattle majoring in commerce and finance.

Francis Sheed, World Famous Catholic Layman, To Speak on 'Realities of Reunion' Sunday

By DORENE CENTIOLI

Francis Sheed, lecturer, publisher and author, will speak on the "Realities of Reunion," at 7:30 p.m., Sunday in Pigott Aud.

One of the world's best known Catholic layman, Sheed will discuss the probable development of the ecumenical movement and what might be expected in the way of Christian reunification.

HIS LECTURE is being sponsored by the University in conjunction with the theology department.

Australian-born Sheed was graduated from Sydney University. With his bachelor of arts in Latin, French and English and his bachelor of law, he went to England to practice law.

While in England, he became interested in the Catholic Evidence Guild of Westminster, whose purpose is to teach Catholic Doctrine and explain the Catholic point of view on the street corners. He became master of this guild for four years.

In 1926, he married Mary Josephine (Maisie) Ward. Together they founded the Catholic publishing house of Sheed & Ward in London. Six years later, they opened a branch in New York. Also that year, Sheed's family took up residence in this country.

AS A PUBLISHER, Sheed has printed

the work of his early contemporaries and friends, G.K. Chesterton, Hilaire Belloc, Christopher Dawson and Alfred Noyes. He has also written books about these authors.

Sheed is the author of numerous religious books, the most recent ones being "To Know Jesus" and "Theology for Beginners." Many religious works, including "The Confessions of St. Augustine," have been edited and translated by him.

In 1944 he received the Christian Culture Award from Assumption College in Massachusetts for his outstanding exposition of Christian ideals. The Holy See conferred the title of Doctor of Sacred Theology on him in 1956.

New Financial Board Bill Before Senators Sunday

By PETE WEBB

A bill to override the veto of the new financial board will be considered at Sunday evening's senate session. The meeting will be at the Xavier Hall Snack Bar in the regular quarter rotation of meeting places.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Terry Dodd, would establish a board of the present ASSU treasurer, the ASSU treasurer of the preceding year, the ASSU president or his representative, and two senators appointed by the ASSU first vice president.

THEY WOULD "be responsible for approving all budgets for allotments to groups and organizations subsidized through student body fees, and overseeing the expenditures of all student groups and associations under ASSU jurisdiction."

The board would present a budget to the senate for consideration before the second regularly scheduled meeting in May. It would then meet at least once in fall and winter quarters to review the budget. The bill differs little from the bill vetoed and stands a chance of being passed and vetoed again.

The proposal to grant a scholarship in the name of The Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., will be on the agenda again after it was postponed for a week to allow the senate to read some new amendments included by Sen. Brian McMahon, originator of the measure.

A scholarship committee of five graduating seniors would make a selection of a junior who has participated in an outstanding manner in "the many phases of student life (academic, social, spiritual, athletic, etc.). Neither grade point nor financial need shall be a criterion for selection."

IT IS EXPECTED the bill will be passed this Sunday to allow the committee to be appointed and make a selection in spring quarter, as the bill provides.

Also to be considered are:

—A bill to make the senate swearing-in ceremony at the last meeting of spring quarter.

—A standing rule requiring authorizations of expenditures to contain the exact amount authorized.

—An amendment to the Election Code. The change sought by Sen. Denney Penney would require a contender seeking endorsement to have written consent of the endorser and the use of his endorsement.

MUN to Sponsor 'Wild Strawberries'

"Wild Strawberries," a Swedish film written and directed by Ingmar Bergman, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 9 in Pigott Aud. Admission price is 75 cents.

Bergman's character study centers around the life of Dr. Borg, played by Sjöström. The two female leads are Ingrid Thulin, Dr. Borg's daughter-in-law, and Bibi Andersson, a young traveler who meets Dr. Borg.

The film is in Swedish with English subtitles.

The last film of the MUN Foreign Film Festival, 400 Blows, will be shown Friday, March 12.

S.U. Calls for Library Bids; Deadline Set for March 30

S.U. called for bids on the new library Wednesday. The building is estimated to cost $2,800,000. The bids will be opened March 30, with an effort to get construction started by April 8, the last day The Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., will serve as president.

The five-story building, of steel and concrete construction with marble facing, will be located on the block bounded by 10th and 11th Avenues and Columbia and James Streets. It will have space for 500,000 volumes. Our present library has about 117,000 volumes.

THE FIRST FLOOR will have seminar rooms, a small audio-visual auditorium, and a book and art shop display area. The focal point of the structure, a circular internal staircase, will open onto a wide plaza on the first floor.

The second floor will contain the administrative offices, check-out facilities, catalogues and reserve book areas. Open stacks and study areas will be on the second, third and fourth floors. The fifth floor will contain storage facilities.

The actual cost of construction is estimated at $2,150,000; with landscaping, furnishings and other factors bringing the total to $2,800,000. The public subscription fund yielded $1,100,000, and with a federal grant of $849,558 and a loan of equal amount, brings the total raised to over $2 million. Students voted three years ago to repay the loan with a $6 per quarter assessment.

ROBERT CROSS, the University librarian, said the library is already acquiring microfilm for use in the new facility, which will make such items as rare books available to all students.

THE INTEGRITY of Seattle U., and even more, the integrity of Sports Illustrated, was marred by the magazine's coverage of the university's recruiting and admissions practices.

Let it stand once more: the three basketball players were expelled for failing to report a bribery attempt, not for "allegedly fixing a game," as Sports Illustrated reported.

In addition, the editorial told the nation that a basketball player can be admitted to S.U. from high school with "F's in all courses of study except one D in physical education (as a freshman) and A's in physical education as a sophomore and junior." The editors neglected to report that the player's junior college record was the University's basis for admission.

SUCH DISTORTED reporting demonstrates the costly dangers possible with an inter-collegiate basketball team.

Perhaps insufficient time has passed since the incident for the university to begin evaluating the collegiate basketball program objectively; yet we believe that S.U.'s failure to win an NCAA bid, combined with the Sports Illustrated editorial have provided the climate for an assessment of the purposes of big-time basketball.

The program has brought us good teams and bad, victory and defeat, and national publicity of the best and worst variety. Without ever questioning ourselves about the purpose this old and familiar program serves, we tend to accept it as a fact of life.

Should we not wonder whether basketball is taking resources which could be used better elsewhere—whether, for example, the ends that we have sought through supporting big-time basketball could not be served at least as well by investing in more and better qualified instructors, recruiting outstanding high school students, and increasing academic scholarships? It is possible that the university might discover great benefits from such an effort to build its reputation through academic rather than athletic investments.

WE INSIST that our intention is not to stack the deck either for or against big-time basketball. But we are suggesting that now is the time to take the long, hard look at some alternatives.

Why do we have big-time basketball? Is it doing what we want it to do? Has it served the purposes originally set out for it, so that it is no longer necessary? Could some other program serve the same purposes more effectively?

WE THINK the university owes it to itself to find out.

Review:

Russian Film Acclaimed

By MARY KAY HICKEY

There was nothing unusual about "Ballad of a Soldier" except its outstanding quality.

More of a vignette than a fully developed drama, Tuesday's Russian offering in MUN's foreign film festival was a portrait of a 19-year-old soldier trying to get home on a scant four-day leave. He is at home less than an hour, but the four-day journey pushes the boy over the brink and into manhood in a way the front could not.

Like "The Red Badge of Courage," it is an initiation story, but this one is far gentler. The soldier, Aloysha, becomes briefly involved with a soldier who intends to desert his wife, a peasant woman driving a truck, a family in a train wreck—and a girl on the train with whom he would have fallen in love, had there been more time.

THIS IS THE kind of film that, had it been bad, would have been terrible. The young here has not a vice, and nothing could save the film from becoming saccharine except the actor's and director's gift for understatement. Any one of the minor events could have been made big and heart-rending and a delicate artistic balance would have been destroyed.

Instead, the whole story is in the young man's face as the minor incidents make their impression. Particularly in the (almost) love story and in the meeting with the mother, one forgets subtitles, movie screen—everything but the human encounter.

The girl's characterization is less subtle, but certainly not overdone. The brief appearances of the other women in the story illustrate the particular gift of most non-Hollywood moviemakers.

THE FILM is peopled with people rather than victims of the make-up man. Only a few touches of humor suffer from the subtitles. The banter doesn't seem to translate.

Technically, the only thing of note is the photography in the opening scene, where Aloysha is fleeing a tank and the camera angles around until the scene is upside down.

The effect of terror provides striking contrast with the rest of the film in which the screen is filled with faces which measure the real experience of war in terms of life and love.

This Weekend

Panel to Discuss Activities

Discussion, Ballet

This week's Saturday Night Discussion begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Bellarmine Snack Bar.

The topic for discussion will be the college student's social activities.

A panel will consider the following questions: "What is the proper realm of social activity for the college student?" "Can the college student be considered mature enough to create and be responsible for his own social activities?" "To what extent does the University administration need to act as a 'foster parent' for the college student?" The panel consists of Miss Agnes

Tickets are available in the ASSU office for the Ballet Folklorico of Mexico which will be presented at 8:30 p.m. tonight at the Opera House.

Karen Disotell and Tom Bangasser are taking orders. The tickets are $3.

This is a return performance for the ballet, which appeared in Seattle during the 1962 World's Fair.

Championship Today:

Dogs Nip Psi's For Third Place

By MIKE McCUSKER

Jim Hanscom carried the Dogs to a third-place finish in S.U.'s intramural basketball league yesterday. Hanscom delivered 19 points as the Dogs, runners-up in the 2 p.m. league this season, downed Alpha Kappa Psi 42-36. Alpha Kappa took second in the 1 p.m. circuit.

The intramural championship will be decided today when the Red Onions and the Rogues clash at 1:30 in the S.U. gym.

HANSCOM popped in the game's first 8 points yesterday as the Dogs ran off to a 10-0 lead. Enoch Maffeo got Alpha Kappa on the scoreboard with a two-handed set shot. But the Dogs' tall front line of Hanscom, Mike McCoy and Mike Stevens dominated the backboards and powered them to a 27-13 halftime advantage.

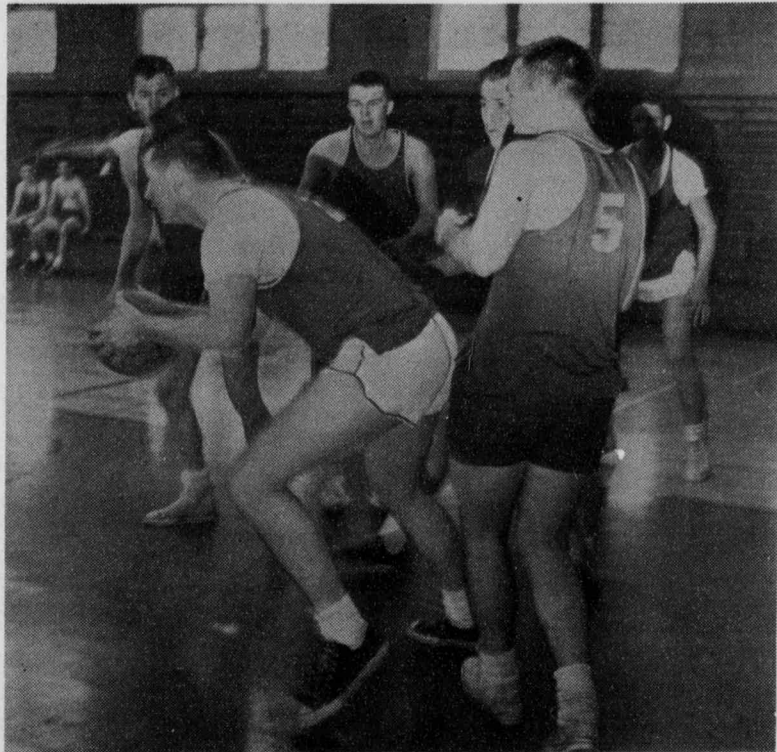

Hanscom had 13 points himself, and stopped several Psi fast breaks by blocking shots.

Ken Crowder and Steve Hopps sparked a second-half spurt that made the score 35-28. Then, Hanscom hit on a short jump to make it 37-28 with 5½ minutes to play. The Dogs maintained a 6-point lead from there.

CROWDER was high for Psi with 14 points, 11 coming after the half. Maffeo and Mike Chastek each scored 6, and Hopps 5. McCoy tallied 13 for the Dogs.

Wednesday, the Terrors knocked off the Goldfingers 51-34 to tie them for first in the freshman division. The same teams (7-1) will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m. for the title.

Leading the victors were Hurley DeRoin, 15 points, and Kevin McDonald, 13. Dave Farinella scored 12 for Goldfingers, and Tom Gorman had 11.

LET'S GO! George Jacobson of the A K Psi intramural basketball team is shown grabbing a rebound against the Dogs in an intra-league contest.

Ten Coeds to Compete In Basketball Tourney

Ten S.U. coeds will travel to Ellensburg, Wash., this weekend to play in the Pacific Northwest Women's Basketball Tournament.

The girl's team, which has a 2-2 record, will be competing against such teams as the U.W., SPC, the University of British Columbia and Gonzaga.

About 20 teams will be competing.

The 10 girls making the trip to Ellensburg are Carol Moergeli, Pam McNulty, Mary Therese Gundacker, Janice Jorgenson, Joanne Jorgenson, Nancy Dent, Jennifer Palmer, Dianna Sanders, Susan Lees and Donna Torpey.

Two S.U. Net Stars To Sit Out Season

Steve Hopps, top S.U. netter last year, and Tom Gorman, the No. 1 prep tennis star last year, will not play on the S.U. tennis squad this season.

The reason for the decision to sit out is that if both played this year they could not compete in the NCAA post season tournament as a doubles team.

THE NCAA RULES state that no freshman may compete in varsity competition at an NCAA tournament, making Gorman ineligible for post season play. Hopps, a junior who has competed two years on the varsity level, will sit out to be eligible to team up with Gorman in tournaments next year.

Hopps and Gorman are considered capable of championship tournament play in doubles competition.

REGARDING the players lay off, Coach Cliff Hedger said "It's all right for them to sit out. Our squad won't be as strong but it will be better next year. The decision was up to them and Ed O'Brien."

O'Brien, S.U. athletic director, said that Hopps and Gorman are a good combination and that it would be a shame for them not to compete together. He added, "It would be good for the school if they compete in the NCAA nationals as a doubles combination."

There will be a meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the S.U. gym for everyone interested in the tennis team.

S.U. to Defend Title:

Drill Team to Compete in Meet

The Chieftain Guard, S.U.'s precision drill team, will seek to defend its title in the second annual City of Seattle Invitational Drill Meet Saturday at Sand Point Naval Air Station.

S.U. will enter two 20-man teams. They will face tough competition from six other teams. Included in the list of entrants is the highly touted Oregon State team.

THE FIRST S.U. team will be commanded by Dave Lum and the second will be under the direction of Perron Cornell.

Also competing for top honors will be Idaho State, Gonzaga, Whidby Island Naval Station, and Air Force and Naval ROTC units from the U.W.

The meet is hosted by S.U. and sponsored by the Department of Washington Reserve Officer Association. Brig. Gen. George Murray, Jr., president of the association, will act as head judge. He will be aided by judges representing the Air Force, Navy and Army.

TROPHIES WILL be given to the top four finishers. Most sought after trophy will be the 42-inch revolving trophy which is awarded for first place. A trophy will also be awarded to the top individual commander.

The S.U. unit has also been asked to supply color guards for the NCAA College Division Tournament which is being hosted by Seattle Pacific in town this weekend.
