Reaction to Nixon at S.U. is Low-Keyed

By KERRY WEBSTER

Reaction on the S.U. campus to the cliff-hanging victory of Richard M. Nixon in Tuesday's presidential election has been generally low-keyed. Most students have taken a "wait and see" attitude toward the new man in the White House.

Nixon support was not high at S.U., a trend which was echoed in other colleges and universities. Only last week, a straw poll of about 400 students indicated their choice to be Hubert Humphrey.

"I am naturally not elated," said Jim Dwyer, president of the S.U. Young Democrats, "but I think that what we must do is fall behind the president, keeping in mind our system of checks and balances."

SHARON Green, head of the S.U. Political Union, commented, "I am disappointed, naturally, since I supported Humphrey, but I think we should give Nixon a chance."

"I think that the best qualified man has been elected," said Mary Jo Logan, ASSU Secretary, "He is more informed in every issue and has made more positive proposals than any other candidate."

"I'm not really that disappointed," Fr. Pat Kenny, S.J., S.U. Activities Coordinator, stated. "Although there have been some doubts about the quality of all three candidates, it is quite evident, even with the bombing halt, that we need some kind of international man in the white house."

RON COLEMAN, president of Alpha Kappa Psi, characterized his first reaction as a "qualified Hurrah."

"I think it was a long overdue victory," he said, "his record as vice-president under Eisenhower speaks for itself."

"I feel sick!" was the initial reaction of Rita Thomas, ASSU comptroller. "I am disappointed," she added, "but I think we should put all of our support behind the new President."

THE STRONGEST reaction to Nixon's victory came from ASSU president Larry Inman, who declared he was "disappointed in people who elect a man who hasn't won an election since 1956, whose own party was going to dump him in 1964, and who couldn't win the governorship of his own state."

"There was a power vacuum in the Republican party," he said, "the party wanted power badly, so they threw together a facade called the 'New Nixon.'"

Fr. Bradley, Toutonghi To Debate

Father Robert Bradley, S.J., Dean of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. John Toutonghi, head of S.U.'s physics department, will debate the topic, "A Citizen's Responsibility Toward the Military" at Campion Tower dining hall Tuesday evening.

The discussion will be preceded by a "Teach-In" which will feature several speakers addressing themselves to the general topic, "The Military and You." The marathon program will last from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The speakers who will participate in the teach in, "The Military and You," will be John Sullivan, leader of the Seattle Resistance, a non-violent protest organization.

SULLIVAN WILL speak on the philosophy of resistance and will be followed by Dave Cheal, a draft counselor with the American Friends Service Committee who will discuss alleged inequities of the selective service system.

'69 ASSU Budget Takes Sharp Cuts

The 1968-69 ASSU budget shows some sharp cuts this year, amounting to about $1,800 less than last year. The cuts were made necessary by a drop in S.U. enrollment, ASSU Treasurer Tom Robinson said yesterday.

The total amount received by the ASSU from activity fees this year was $54,200. Requests from campus groups were $64,595.

The student senate last night held a special meeting to give its official approval to the ASSU operating budget, which totaled $6,000. The operating budget covers the basic costs of running the student government, including expenditures for such things as office supplies and the senate general fund.

Treasurer Tom Robinson appeared to discuss this basic budget as well as the larger activity budget. The senate unanimously supported the first set of allocations but voted to delay consideration of the activities allotment until Sunday morning, Nov. 17.

"Since enrollment dropped this year, our allotment dropped correspondingly," Robinson said, "so naturally some cuts have had to be made."

Most organizations took some cut, although a few vital ones, remained the same. The Political Union was hit particularly hard, receiving $1,225, as compared with $2,500 last year.

The Associated Women Students received the only substantial raise, $2,475 against $1,459 last year.

"The cuts were difficult to make, but I think we have an equitable budget," Robinson said.

The budget was formulated by the ASSU Financial Board, chaired by Robinson, which included ASSU President Larry Inman, former treasurer Leo Hindery, senate representative John Graves, and student-at-large Ron Coleman.

Homecoming Beauties Chosen

The results of the primary voting for the 1969 Homecoming Court were released yesterday. Twenty-four campus beauties will now enter the final stage in the selection of the 1969 Homecoming Court.

Seniors nominated for Homecoming Queen are Susan Blakesley, Suzanne Champoux, Mary Kay Williams, Sharon Green and Barbara Franciscovich.

Candidates for princess from the junior class are Jeanie Mallette, Louise Morrow, Patty Shank, Patty Uniack and Cheryl Watson.

Sophomore nominees are: Jan Fenty, Brenda Gomex, Mitzie Bastasch, Kris Williams and Jeanie Parent.

Freshman class selected: Nancy Mudd, Tina Abersfeller, Margaret Callahan, Gloria Johnson, Mary Dixon, Mydge Boyd and Melodie McKenzie.

Voting for the final candidates will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the L.A. Building, Chieftain, bookstore and library. There will also be voting in the dorms and first floor of the library.

"Waves of Reflection" will be the nautical theme for S.U.'s 1969 Homecoming, January 24-27, John Petrie, Homecoming general chairman, announced.

Rod McKuen, poet and songwriter, will provide the entertainment highlight of the week of festivities. He will appear in the Seattle Center Opera House on Friday, Jan. 24.

The homecoming dance, nautically flavored, will follow Saturday night, Jan. 25, at a site as yet unannounced. College Night, featuring club displays and activities, will be Sunday, Jan. 26, on campus. The weekend will be climaxed by the Homecoming game with Texas Western University, Monday, Jan. 27.

Monday will also be a President's holiday, Petrie announced.

Pattie Brown, Homecoming secretarial chairman, will make sign-up sheets for Homecoming's seven committees available in the ASSU offices. Members for all committees are needed, she said.

The Homecoming dance committee is headed by co-chairmen

Terry Steele and Dennis Healy; the court committee by Michelle Harvey and Rosemary Busby; game committee by Pat Layman; publicity by Tom Yagle; entertainment by Bill Teglia and Brian Parott; special events by Mike Daniels and Don Ladwig, and bids and invitations by Marsha Whalen and Evy McElmeel. Leo Hindery, former ASSU Treasurer, is the financial secretary.

Priest To Speak

Fr. Michael Toulouse, S.J., of the S.U. philosophy department, will discuss "Faith and Reason" at 10 a.m. today in Pigott Auditorium.

His talk is being sponsored as a free hour by the philosophy department and the ASSU.

Student Needed

A student-at-large representative to a student committee coordinating with the Plant Manager's office is needed. Interested students should contact the ASSU first vice president on the second floor of the Chieftain.

Gamblers Gather Tonight

CASINO ROYALE: S.U.'s card sharks and compulsive gamblers will get a chance at wheeling-and-dealing tonight from 8 to midnight in the Chieftain during the annual Las Vegas night. A Phi Os and Spurs will join forces in hosting the affair, which will feature crap games, black and 4-5-6. The A K Psi raffle will not be held tonight as previously announced. It is postponed until Nov. 22.

Editorial

poor richard

Richard Milhous Nixon is President-elect of the United States.

A lot of liberal college students are disturbed by this fact. They should be. They helped elect him.

Time magazine this week carried a wry bit of verse by Ogden Nash which summed up the situation succinctly,

*They have such refined and delicate palates,
They can discover no one worthy of their ballots.
And when someone terrible gets elected,
They say, "There, that's just what I expected!"*

There can be no doubt, in an election as agonizingly close as was Tuesday's, that disaffected youth played a large part in selecting the President under which we will live for the next four years. Unfortunately, they chose to play the part of the prima donna.

It was an intriguing puzzle at the beginning of the campaign why the extreme left-wing dissidents chose to concentrate their heckling on the more liberal Hubert Humphrey. But it is becoming increasingly clear that the dissident leaders realized, incongruous as it sounds, that they needed Nixon.

Jerry Rubin, yippie Grand Sachem, put it plainly in a chilling statement to the Associated Press last week.

"I know our heckling helps (rightest candidates), but it's what we want. In order for a revolution to succeed, the society has to be more repressive than it is now."

The statement is interesting not only for its cold-bloodedness, but also for the revelation of the leftist interest in power more than the proclaimed motives of freedom of justice.

The revolutionists know that if reform comes peacefully, the power stays with the "establishment." If it comes violently, power gravitates to the New Establishment—themselves. It is in the interest of the revolutionary, therefore, to block peaceful reform.

Now, having torn the hell out of Hubert Humphrey, they can reassert their leadership by screaming, with admirably righteous indignation, "look what the Establishment gave us!"

To anyone with his wits about him, however, the cry of the Leftists should have a decidedly hollow ring. Despite their protests, Richard Nixon is their baby.

sport support

To the editor:

Contrary to popular belief on this campus, S.U. does have a varsity soccer team. You may ask yourself what is soccer? Well, imagine a sport almost as fast-moving as hockey, more action than football, and demanding more physical endurance than basketball.

Let's also throw in an hour and a half of constant action with only one five-minute half interrupting the game. But despite all these great aspects S.U. students have only managed to turn out on an average of about 12 students a game.

Now compare this with SPC who consistently puts out crowds of 100 or more for every game. I will say, however, that there are a few dedicated students on the sixth floor of Campion, in the ASSU office, and a few who live off campus.

Understand that I am not putting down the students of S.U., for a person cannot attend a function if it isn't publicized.

Spirits is supposedly formed to support both basketball and soccer, yet when members of the team approached the Spirits president and vice president, and asked for some publicity for an up-coming game, they were told to make the posters themselves. Is this what one calls performing their assigned duty?

So far nothing has been done by Spirits to support the soccer team; in fact more enthusiasm has been created by the members of the team by word of mouth. Last week the ASSU Secretary created more enthusiasm by a simple phone call to the S.U. athletic department than Spirits has done all year.

All the team asks for is a little support in return for all their effort. Presently, S.U. is in second place in league play, only one point behind the U.W., and after suffering two successive defeats the men are slightly demoralized, but far from being out of spirit.

The Chiefs have the personnel to take the league, now all we need is the support of the students and Spirits behind us.

By DOUG SMITH
The Seattle University Chieftains threw a real scare into the University of Victoria Queens before finally succumbing to Victoria 2-0 last Saturday.

VICTORIA, coming off an overwhelming 5-0 rout of the University of Washington Huskies on Friday night, found the Chiefs to be a more difficult foe.

Coach Hugh McArdle once again juggled his lineup to try and find the front line combination that will hopefully carry the Chiefs to the conference title. McArdle moved Steve Flynn from his halfback position to a forward, Jim Hoyer from left wing to center forward, and inserted Paul Nowak in the right half position.

BUT IT WAS the defense that kept the Chiefs in the game. Bob Wilds, in goal, played his most outstanding game of the season as he knocked away numerous Victoria shots. Joe Zavgaglia and Mike Hurley also did a good job of keeping Victoria away from the goal.

Coach McArdle commended his team's defensive effort with a "well done." He was definitely pleased with the play against Victoria, a team that makes very few mistakes. He felt that the only difference was the years Victoria has been playing together and the fact they always kept their passes on the ground.

TOM YAGLE
Defensive Standout

Chiefs Win, 4-1

Before a sparse crowd of Chieftain supporters, the Seattle U. soccer team defeated a well conditioned but outmanned Charles Wright eleven 4-1 Tuesday night. The Chiefs were led this time by Terry Dunn who became the third Chieftain to get a hat trick this season. His three goal performance matched earlier hat tricks by Jim Hoyer and Easy Ed Robinson.

Dunn got the Chiefs' first two goals on breakaways in the first half. The Charles Wright full-backs played up near the 50-yard line in an effort to force the Chiefs offside. This strategy backfired here as Dunn outraced the defense and then blasted the ball past their startled goalie.

The Chieftain passing was a little ragged in the first half and they had to settle for the first two goals. Bob Wilds, who had a shutout in the first half, yielded to Harry Arnold who took over at goalie for the remainder of the game. Coach McArdle, confident of victory, substituted freely to give the reserves some game experience. He moved Joe Zavgaglia up to the front line in an attempt to get Joe into the scoring column this season.

In the second half the defense, led by Tom Yagle, Mike Hurley and Steve Flynn, gave the offense many more opportunities to score by keeping the ball in our offensive zone.

The Chiefs passed the ball well around the goal area but were unable to put one in until Mike Carney broke the ice about half way through the period on a pass from Terry Greiner. Terry Dunn then added his third goal to close out the Chieftain scoring.

The Chiefs now begin practice for their stretch drive that we hope will carry them to the title. The three remaining games are all conference affairs against Seattle Pacific, Western Washington and U.W. The Chiefs need a sweep of all three for the title.

Shoot Out

The four-man S.U. Rifle team will shoot it out against the U.W. rifle team in a match that will open the Chieftain marksmen's schedule Saturday.

Competition will run for approximately six hours starting at 8 a.m. on the Husky rifle range.

Next match for the rifle team will be held in Pocatello, Idaho, in the winter. The team has been reformed after a one-year lay-off. Chieftain teams have done well in competition throughout the Pacific Northwest in past years.

SAM PIERCE: forward-guard

By KATHI SEDLAK

Samuel Alexander Pierce hails from Birmingham, Alabama, and is in his junior year at Seattle University. Sam stands 6'4" tall and 180 pounds heavy.

An education major, Sam wants to be a history teacher. Sam says that if he were to get a chance to play pro ball, he would for a few years to finance graduate school, but that his final goal is teaching.

SAM is a talented artist in many ways, and singing and painting are his favorite. He explains, "These two arts are a way of expressing my self, my inner feelings."

Regarding this year's basketball team, Sam says, "In my judgment the team has more quickness than last year. My teammates are working very hard to build a good team so that it can be representative of our school. We have 14 good players. All have a chance to start."

SAM ATTENDED Parker High School in Birmingham, which was a segregated school. He says that he never knew any whites until he came to S.U., and adds, "My main reason for choosing S.U. was because the student body was small and I felt I could adjust to the northern society faster." Sam feels that "there is a lack of communication between black and white students on campus. The campus life is built around a white middle-class society, and there is no way for a black student to enter into this society. There's no ideal way to solve this problem, but there are ways in which we can work toward bettering this situation which all students are confronted with in university life today."

Chiefs-Huskies Under Hoop?

The game will be basketball—but it's likely to be of a very different sort.

The Spectator staff will go at it against the U.W. Daily Staff during the halftime of the Seattle Sonics-Phoenix Sun National Basketball Association game at the Seattle Coliseum next Friday, November 15.

The occasion is to kick off a Sonics' ticket promotion which will entitle card-carrying students to purchase $4.50, $3 and $2 seats for half price on any Friday, Saturday or Sunday for the remainder of the year.

You can get a lot more out of college if you don't have to spend every minute with your nose in a book.

If reading was all there was to getting an education there wouldn't be any need to go to college.

You could go to a library instead.

But college offers more than just endless stacks of books. It offers you a chance to meet people who are experts in their fields; a chance to broaden yourself and your personality. It offers dating, athletics, parties, contacts and a host of other things.

Any yet, ironically, how much you are able to take advantage of all these things depends on how much time you have. And that, in turn, usually depends on how fast and how efficiently you read.

That's where Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics comes in.

With Reading Dynamics you can learn to read from four to ten times faster than you do right now. Even more important, you can learn to concentrate better and to understand and remember more of what you read.

With Reading Dynamics you get your assignments read on time . . . with time to spare. Journals, texts, briefs, classics, philosophy, even technical material—all become easier to read and remember.

What's the secret?

There really isn't any. Reading Dynamics isn't a trick or a reading shortcut. It's a method. A carefully researched and professionally taught course developed to overcome old-fashioned reading habits and teach you to read faster with greater comprehension.

The course has been taken by United States Senators, Congressmen, students, educators and professional men and women; by nearly 7000 people here in the State of Washington alone; possible by someone you know.

Gregory Allan Lair, Seattle . . . "I wish I had known this method through college."

L. Lester Snodgrass, Des Moines (Wn.) . . . "Real good; well satisfied. Still hope to improve study with practice."

Bruce Edmond Sternberg, Seattle . . . "I enjoyed the class and am glad to see that I can read faster."

Michael C. Wakefield, Lynnwood . . . "Very satisfied with course. Accomplished my purpose."

Many top national and local industries have enrolled groups of their key employees for instruction. At the request of President Kennedy, Reading Dynamics was given to members of his staff.

Right now, new Reading Dynamics classes are being formed near you. If you think you can spare 8 evenings of your time to make yourself into a more efficient person, why not look into one?

It could just be the smartest thing you've done in a long time.

For more information and beginning class schedules, call MA 3-1563 (collect). Or write: Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics, 504 Fourth & Pike Building, Seattle, Washington 98101.
