DEFENSE DEMONSTRATION: Students sought a key hold in yesterday's exhibition of karate and kung fu. The demonstrations are part of Ethnic Cultural Week.

Ethnic Cultural Week is sponsoring "Evolution of a Leader," a film about the socio-political development of a Philippines village leader at 7 p.m. today in the A. A. Lemieux Library Auditorium.

Malcolm X's birthday will be celebrated with a dance from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday. WDBS, a soul band reorganized from the Purple Haze, the Majestics and another Seattle blues band will play. Admission is 50c.

"AN INTERNATIONAL Affair," a potluck picnic, will be Saturday at Seward Park from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. A 25c fee will be charged to those who do not bring food. During the picnic there will be music and male and female basketball tournaments.

In the event of rain the picnic will be in the North Court of the Connolly P.E. Center.

The Japanese-American Citizen's League (JACL) will exhibit a pictorial and literary history of Japanese-Americans from the immigration period through the present on Monday. The three-day exhibit will be in the Library display room.

The "Pride and Shame" panel discussion, with Joan Misler, a teacher of Asian-American history at U.W., and a cross section of the Japanese-American community in Seattle, will present their views concerning the JACL exhibit and the concept of "Asian Identity" Monday.

ALSO ON MONDAY, "The Homecoming," a film on Asian hard core drug abuse will be shown from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

"Fence at Minidocks," a K O M O television news film about Japanese-American internment during World War II, will be shown Tuesday night at 7.

Minister Farrakhan, former Brother Louis X, a Black Muslim Minister from New York, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Garfield Auditorium, Garfield High School, 400 23rd Ave. Farrakhan has been named as a possible successor to Elijah Muhammed, leader of the Black Muslims.

Japanese-American speaker calls for Asian redefinition

J. Wright Hotchkiss

"We have to redefine ourselves, our culture, our past status and where we're going from here," Warren Furutani, field director of Japanese-American Citizen's League of Los Angeles, slated yesterday in a speech on "The Emergence of the Asian-American."

He prefaced his speech saying "I have no formal education in what it is to be an Asian-American. I draw analogies from my own life. Your own criteria (in relating to life) has not come from books as there are few books on Asian-Americans."

TAKING a cue from Stokely Carmichael, a black militant, Furutani said minorities must redefine themselves. "Investigate to see who and why we are."

Asian-American men and women experience self-hatred, an "experience one goes through coincides with the majority culture. Then when you start looking inside yourself it begins to get really scary."

Furutani pointed out that Sigmund Freud's theories on power and sex are behind many minority men buying 'supercars' and minority women 'slaving' to copy Caucasian fashion trends. He feels that many Asian-Americans dislike their sexual counterparts as much as they dislike themselves.

"THE BASIS of redefining the self comes from history. Take the stereotype of being quiet. In our group men are as noisy as anyone. In other groups they are quiet. Of course this is a generalization."

The reason men are quiet is not because their ancestors were from Asia, Japan or the Philippines, Furutani continued. "They aren't any quieter than anyone else. Rather, the culture of people of color in the U.S. is one of history in the U.S.

And it's been a case of survival. You want to be invisible so you won't be a target."

Concerning the state of Asian-Americans in the U.S. he said that "the thing that happened to blacks, chicanos, Indians and Asian-Americans is the same. The power in this country has used the same idea over and over again—manifest destiny. The motivating force is not what color you are but how much money you have."

HE SAID racism still exists in the U.S. and is the same as in S. E. Asia, Australia and South Africa, the "haves" versus the "have nots."

"The only thing I ask of you is to think about it and yourself. And ask why—why Nixon put mines in Haiphong Harbor. Just to bring the POW's home? Think of his re-election. Morality and God have been a front (for the policy makers) for a long time," Furutani concluded.

Faculty feedback

Battelle participants outline plans

Questions of the future role of scientific education at S.U., and of responsibility for executing ideas formulated at the recent Battelle "think session," were raised at yesterday's meeting of Battelle participants and faculty members.

THE MEETING was open to the entire University community but only a handful of faculty members joined the "Battelle 18" in the Library Auditorium.

Brief reports from members of the four committees, goals, academic program needs, experimentation-future plans and external degrees/Jesuit consortium, prefaced the question session.

Dr. Eileen Ridgway, dean of nursing, said the goals statement was "fine as far as it goes but it doesn't convey any awareness of the scientific and technological world in which we live."

PARTICIPANTS agreed the statement integrating science and humanism could have been stronger.

Another question asked the wisdom of emphasis on undergraduate education with the rapid growth of community colleges evident.

Fr. James Royce, S.J., dean of arts and sciences and Battelle chairman, noted the emphasis on undergraduates was not just for fiscal reasons but to keep at S.U. a close contact between faculty and students.

TOM TREBON, political science, asked if the experimental, interdisciplinary program planned for fall would be any different from an enlarged honors program.

Fr. Royce said the new program would take a problem-oriented approach instead of a chronological one. Students will be chosen at random, not by grade point.

ALBERT MANN, history, noted that historians "were burned" by the problem approach. He said the present core structure could certainly be toyed with but that the chronological approach should be maintained.

Ms. Mary Alice Lee, registrar, and Dr. Bernard Steckler, chemistry, discussed the experimental Ricci College as an informal, flexible approach to the educational needs of the 1980's and '90's.

Mann noted that "nothing in the analysis or proposal of the college would be the least familiar to Matteo Ricci." The college has been named for the Jesuit missionary to China.

How do arts help man cope with reality? third Interface seminar asks tomorrow

Seminar III of the Interface program will be presented in the Chieftain Lounge on Friday, May 19 at noon.

Titled "How do the Arts Help Late Twentieth Century Man Deal with Reality" or "putting the pieces together through the arts," this seminar will be arranged and directed by the fine arts department.

The previous seminar went an hour overtime when about 100 students and staff heatedly debated the state of Christianity in the post-modern world.

Fr. James B. Riechmann, S.J., philosophy department chairman and Dr. Glenn W. Olsen, honors program director, defended some innovative positions about the impact of contemporary technology on religion and Christianity in that seminar.

That topic will be discussed further in a future seminar, the Interface committee announced.

Senate finishes budget check; fund amendments due Monday

by Richard Coleman

Tim Flynn, ASSU treasurer presented the second half of ASSU budget allotments as a special senate meeting last night.

FIRST BUDGETS were discussed Monday night.

Discussion began with the International Relations Club which sponsors the Model United Nations.

Sen. John Cummins questioned MUN's need for such large sums. "It needs further justification," Cummins said.

Defending the MUN's need, Larry Brouse, a representative, informed the senators that "over 450 people (students) participated in the recent conference (at the Seattle Center) and that the school benefited a lot from the publicity of this particular conference."

ACCORDING to Brouse, a major part of the money would be spent on traveling to two conventions next year. Twenty-five candidates were to be sent to these conventions.

The allotment for the Political Union was cut back minimally because, according to Flynn, "we want the politically-oriented clubs on campus to ask the Political Union for financial aid."

ASSU scholarships were not cut by Flynn and the financial board.

SEN. CUMMINS presented figures showing the scholarships provided "excessive" compensation for the amount of work done. He proposed that the scholarships be cut from $7,584 to $5,834.

The Spectator was cut $3,862 because, according to Flynn, of an "over-request" for printing payments, delivery costs, meals, and scholarships.

AWS was cut $2,049 because the intramurals program took over most of the women's sports activities. Also Flynn felt, the number of candidates to women's conferences should be reduced to four instead of the proposed six and that these candidates should pay for more of the expenses.

The next meeting, scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m., will be devoted to amendments to the budget.

Bonnie Simms, Bill Brophy to vie in primary for senate position

Bill Brophy, a junior majoring in Spanish and business, is running for senate seat no. 12.

For the past year Brophy has served on the senate as appointed junior class president. He feels that this experience has interested him enough "to want to continue actively working."

THE SENATE, he says, "is just beginning to represent the students but it still has a long way to go."

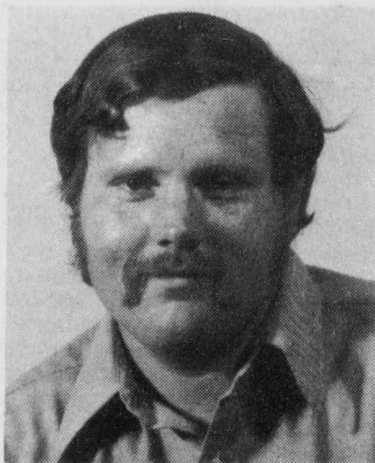

Brophy would like to see an Activities Center, modeled after that at Pacific Lutheran University, set up on campus.

At the start, Brophy says, the Center would be primarily an information center for local shows, concerts, air, rail and bus schedules and such.

"EVENTUALLY, we might be able to develop it into a mini travel agency," Brophy said.

Brophy is chairman of the student and minority affairs committee.

"It is just recently," Brophy said, "that the committee really began to function. I think we've covered the student point of view more than the minority one but I'm going to try to find out what we can do there."

Bill Brophy

Bonnie Simms

Bonnie Simms, a sophomore majoring in foreign languages, is also running for the seat.

Bonnie would like to become an active part of the senate.

"AFTER LOOKING at this year's budget, I'd like to see how the cuts were made," she said.

She would also like to see "less antagonism between senators and students" in regard to the budget.

Bonnie would like to work on the student and minority affairs committee so that she could "take care of some of the problems" she's seen on campus.

"I WON'T be idealistic and say I'd take care of everything but I'd like to do something," she added.

Bonnie would like to see changes made in the senate.

The senate, she feels, should have a little more voice in academic matters.

Laverty unopposed for president

Dan Laverty

Dan Laverty, a junior in business and present senator, is the unopposed candidate for senior class president.

He is presently chairman of the senate finance committee and a member of the activities committee. He feels the senate needs, not a change in activities, but a "change in senators (excluding myself)."

"THERE ARE a lot of personal grudges holding business back," he said, "and attendance is down—people don't want to spend time working on their committees."

He would like the finance committee to help ASSU become more self-supporting and less dependent on student fees.

He says placement of some contingency funds in the credit union this year has been one step in that direction.

"THE BIG thing is to get activities where money is not lost," he added, "so contingency money can remain in the credit union drawing interest."

As senior class president, he says he would try to raise money during the year so as to lower the price per person of the senior breakfast. Seniors must presently pay for themselves and guests and, he says, "graduation costs enough."

Next Tuesday, candidates for two class presidenices and three senate seats will present their platforms.

Clubs involved

Events to benefit Kidney Center

A special week of events, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Knights, begins Monday to benefit the Northwest Kidney Center.

THE I.K.'s are seeking to involve as many campus clubs as possible in the effort to raise some $13,500 or enough money to cover the first year of treatment of a kidney patient.

The Kidney Center, located at 1102 Columbia St., now treats 235 patients with 90 more expected to apply during 1972.

All are victims of uremic poisoning which is caused by total kidney failure and is fatal unless treated eight hours a day, three days a week on a portable artificial kidney machine or unless the victims receive a kidney transplant.

THE I.K.'s are planning a wishing well on campus, a kidney bean contest and food sales on the mall next week. A dance is scheduled for next Saturday, May 27. A band and numerous prizes have been donated for the effort, according to Kevin Brown, I.K. publicity director.

The A Phi O's have agreed to donate the proceeds from their annual smoker next Friday, May 26.

letter to editor

quite shocked

To the Editor:

I was quite shocked to read about campus reaction to the George Wallace shooting in Tuesday's Spectator. The student views almost entirely overlooked his humanity; indeed most prefaced their remarks with a disclaimer of his politics.

If a considerable body of S.U. students believe Wallace "got what he deserved" for his political views, God help this college. Lets hope the Spec's random sampling methods are not random.

Phil Hannum
Jr., Comm. Serv.

Editor's note:

The opinion sample was indeed random. Whether or not it was representative is another matter.

unboaters, arise!

Needed: unboat captains and crews.

The second annual Alpha Phi Omega Unboat Race and Sammamish Slough Freeze-Out will get underway Saturday at 11 a.m. at Merrymount Park in Redmond.

An unboat is anything that floats, from bathtubs to telephone booths, except factory made boats. Contestants are urged to "express their ingenuity in construction," an A Phi O spokesman said.

A minimum of two people is required in each craft. Entrance fee is $1.50 per person.

The race course runs through the Sammamish Slough.

Free beverages will follow the race.

More information may be obtained from Bob Wilson, EA 5-8539.

fine arts talent

Drama students will present readings and songs in the Tabard Inn tonight at 8:30 as part of Fine Arts Week.

A student-faculty talent show will feature Anita McReynolds, S. U. senior, and Dr. Joseph J. Gallucci, S.U. music professor. The show will be presented tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in Buhr 122.

smoker sign ups needed

Five fights are now definite for A Phi O's eleventh annual smoker, scheduled for May 26, with three or four more possible.

Sign-ups are still being taken for the smoker which will be held in the Astro Room of the Connolly P.E. Center. A Phi O would like to see 12 matches. If there are no more sign-ups the smoker will be cancelled.

Tag teams will have two two-minute rounds. Matches will consist of three one-minute rounds.

All participants will receive trophies or medals.

Those interested should contact Bob Bunch at 243-5422 or Bob Vanina at 626-5865.

SCC having Sunday retreat

The S. U. guild of the Society for the Christian Commonwealth (S.C.C.), is sponsoring a "Day of Recollection," Sunday from 12-5 p.m.

"The purpose is to give everybody in the S.U. community a day of meditation and spiritual renewal at the end of the year," Peggy Moen, senior history major and S.C.C. member, said.

THE PROGRAM will be composed of three lectures by Fr. Robert I. Bradley, S.J., associate professor of history, and a Mass in Bellarmine chapel.

The lectures, on the theme of Pentecost, will be at noon, 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. in the A.A. Lemieux Library auditorium.

The Mass will be at 4:15 p.m.

Harney, Simpson interviewed last night for Chieftain head coaching job

by Sue Hill
Jim Harney and Bernie Simpson were interviewed last night in the first of several interviews the Athletic Board will hear possibly over the next week.

"IT WAS AN easy task to express my opinion about basketball to the Board since I love and am dedicated to the game of basketball," Harney said after his hour-and-a-half interview.

Harney, who is former S.U. basketball player and captain, said, "I am considered a fundamentalist. That is, I stress more on the aspect of technique involved in the game."

Concerning the possibility of hiring a black assistant coach if chosen as the new coach at S.U. Harney relayed, "I would seriously consider a black assistant because of the contributions that black players make to basketball. I feel a black coach should be given the opportunity."

"IF CHOSEN, I would continue the fast break style of play. I also feel a full knowledge of defense is the heart of any championship team."

Harney feels that the selection of the new coach at S.U. is a form of competition against the six candidates considered for the job.

"But it is a different kind of competition. Usually in competion a person knows whether he has won or lost. We have no way of knowing but I feel good about the way I expressed myself in the interview."

HARNEY applied for the job as soon as he heard the position was open as, "I have always wanted to coach at S.U. since I once played here."

Remarking about the interview with the Board, Harney related, "Essentially the situation was me answering questions about which a coach is involved in and in leadership of."

FOR THE PAST four years, Harney has been the assistant coach under Don Zech at University of Puget Sound and spent nine years prior to that at Seattle Prep both teaching and coaching under Frank Ahern who "was outstanding" in Harney's opinion.

Harney played basketball for S.U. in '56, '57, and '58.

BERNIE SIMPSON, the second and last person interviewed last night, was pleased with his hour-and-a-half interview but hopes that the final decision is made as soon as possible.

"The longer we wait, the tougher it is for the total program," Simpson said.

Simpson, who has been the S.U. assistant coach the past six years, said, "I really believe that there is no better place to be than S.U. to get prepared for a head coaching position. I've gone through administrative decisions, policies and my outlook on athletes has changed while here. I feel I am adequately prepared."

"WHEN I FIRST came here I had background in junior college and high school and I did not know what to expect at the college level. My experience here has been beneficial to becoming a head coach," Simpson said.

If Simpson is not the final choice of the Athletic Board, he made it clear that he would leave S.U.

"I was hired as a coach and a teacher and if I am not qualified enough to pursue that particular field then I will look into other endeavors." Simpson stressed.

In an earlier interview, Simpson related that a black assistant coach would be important to him if he was chosen.

"I would want to give the opportunity to a qualified black coach in our community. I would not be hiring him because he is black. He'd never be a figure-head."

Simpson's background in basketball coaching started with his four years as head coach at St. Ignatius in San Francisco, Calif., and one year at Laney Junior College in Oakland, Calif. He has been the assistant coach at S.U. for six years, two of them being freshman coach and the other four assisting the head coach.

Answer still in doubt

The athletic board met yesterday and will continue to meet today and tomorrow to interview the seven candidates the screening committee suggested last weekend.

Ed O'Brien, athletic director, feels that the announcement will not come until probably next weekend, mainly because of the problem of getting all the Board members together at the same time and also "because some of the candidates are from out of the area," O'Brien said.

Crew team cancels journey to California

by Ed Hayduk
The crew team cancelled its planned trip to the Western Sprint Regatta, scheduled for this weekend in Long Beach, California, because of failure to come up with the necessary finances, according to head coach Jorge Calderon.

"We needed $1200 for transportation down to California, and then some for food and accommodations," said Calderon. "But we only came up with $700, so were still half short."

THE WESTERN REGATTA represents the crew championships of the Western United States. Last year the races were held in Seattle and the Chiefs placed second in the lightweight division.

Thus the crew season ended

Saturday with a disappointing third place in the LaFromboise Cup on Lake Washington.

Calderon termed the season, "a little disappointing" but views next year with more enthusiasm.

"We are only losing three or four men off this year's team," said Calderon, "and we hope to recruit a large group next year."

CALDERON ADDED that he hopes to start workouts earlier and with the expected larger squad should have both a lightweight and heavyweight boat.

"Without a heavyweight boat this year some of our guys had to lose seven or eight pounds before every race," added Calderon, "which is just too tough on the body."

Chieftains lose to U.W.; face Bellevue C.C. next

The University of Washington tennis team, winning five of the six singles matches, defeated the Chieftains, 6-3, in a match Monday night at the Seattle Tennis Club.

Warren Farmer was the only S.U. player to win his match beating Bryce Perry, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3. Mike Prineas, the Chiefs number one ranked player, was beaten by freshman Gary Yee.

FARMER AND Prineas did win their doubles match, beating Perry and Yee, 7-6, 7-5. The Chieftain team of Marc Soriano and Dave Merrill beat Hussein Lofty and Joe Cannon.

The Chiefs play their next match Monday afternoon at 1:30 against Bellevue Community College at the Bellevue Racket Club. The final match of the year will be against Olympic Community College, Tuesday in Bremerton.

Phi Chi aids VIVA's selling of remember POW-MIA bracelets

Prisoners of war and ways to help them will be discussed by Steve Frank, national director of operations for Voices in Vital America (VIVA), in Pigott Auditorium on Wednesday, May 24, at 11 a.m.

VIVA is a student, non-partisan, non-profit organization founded in 1967, that uses non-violent tactics to put pressure on public officials and to keep the public aware of the problems of P.O.W.'s and those missing in action. (M.I.A.'s)

The organization, with over 1000 chapters here and abroad, sells bracelets engraved with the names of P.O.W.'s to finance its activities. Nickel bracelets cost $2.50, and copper ones, $3.50.

Frank serves on the Youth Council on Selective Service and was appointed by President Nixon to the White House Conference on Youth.

The talk is sponsored by Phi Chi Theta, women's business fraternity. The fraternity will sell P.O.W. bracelets in the Chief from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday, during

S.U.'s "Week of Concern" beginning May 22.

On Wednesday in the Chief, concerned persons may sign a telegram, for ten cents a name, requesting President Nixon to continue efforts for P.O.W. release.

Special Olympics slated

The Washington Association for Retarded Children has announced that the special olympics will be in Connolly P. E. Center on June 3 and 4.

These special olympics are a competitive athletic program for mentally retarded young people.

Although all S.U. students are invited to attend these events, the Association stresses that the competition should be particularly interesting for prospective teachers, nurses and social workers.

Schedules

Tentative course offerings for the 1972-73 school year are now available in the Registrar's office.

Summer Credit Other Schools
Summer sessions credits will be accepted for transfer to S.U. only if two copies of the transcript are on file with the Registrar's office by December 1, 1972.

A grade of "E" at S.U. cannot be removed by repeating the course elsewhere. The repeated course can be accepted for transfer, if it meets an S.U. course requirement, but no change will occur in the student's S.U. gpa.

The final 45 credits of university work must be completed in classes at S.U. before registering for summer work elsewhere. It is advisable to present the course description from the catalog of the other school to the Dean, Department Head and/or Registrar to determine if it is acceptable for transfer to a degree program at S.U.

Spring Quarter Grade Report

Spring quarter grades will be mailed to home addresses about June 13th. Students who wish grades mailed elsewhere must leave a temporary address with the Registrar's office before leaving campus.

Graduation

Diplomas and transcripts of 1972 graduates will not be released until all financial and Library obligations are cleared. A list of graduates who do not yet have clearance will be posted on the bulletin boards June 1.

Graduates whose names appear on this list are to report to the Registrar's office for instructions. A list will also be posted at the cap and gown issuing desks on Friday, June 2.

Caps and gowns may be picked up on June 2 between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. in the foyer of the Pigott auditorium.

Sometimes flying standby is mostly standing by.

That's why Northwest came up with Reserved Youth Fare.

Camping out is great. But not at an airport. Sometimes, unfortunately, it turns out that way. Now, though, we've done something about it.

If you have any airline Youth Card, you can get a reserved seat for 20% off. Make a reservation and when flight time comes, just walk in and take your seat along with all the other important people. No waiting. No worrying. No getting bumped off the plane when you really wanted to go all the way home.

If you don't have a Northwest Youth Card, you should. And you can get one at any Northwest ticket office or your campus travel agent. (Be sure to bring along proof that you're between 12-22.)

Next time you can't afford to wait, remember Northwest's Reserved Youth Fare. And call your travel agent or Northwest Airlines.

FLY NORTHWEST ORIENT

P.S. STANDBY FARES. To those of you who don't mind standing by in airports and even think it's sort of neat because you meet interesting people there: your Youth Card can still get you Northwest's regular standby youth fare—40% off Coach.

Area program needs teachers

The Central Area Religious Education Program needs teachers.

Volunteers are needed to work with adults and children in religious education programs. To help satisfy the need, Central Area parishes are scheduling two recruiting sessions.

THE SESSIONS, scheduled for today and May 25, will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Hall, 611 20th Ave. S.

Today's session is designed to show the parallels between human development and religious understanding. Bill Braswell, religious education coordinator for St. Francis Cabrini parish in Tacoma, will be the lecturer.

May 25, Ms. Caroline Lassek, religious education coordinator for Lady of the Lake parish, will discuss trends in religious education.

ANYONE interested in helping develop a program for the Central Area is invited to attend.

More information may be obtained from Sr. Joanne Miller, EA 3-3027.

L. Cooney at ASB fete

Lloyd E. Cooney, president and general manager of KIRO, Inc., will be the principal speaker at the second annual Associated Students of Business awards banquet Saturday.

The banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the Iron Shield Restaurant, 7th Avenue and Blanchard Street. Dinner is $6 per person with reservations being accepted at the School of Business, ext. 5456.

COONEY WILL also be presented with the 1972 Alpha Kappa Psi Civic Award "for service to the community and country and for his inspiring leadership in recognition of his ideals and efforts to enrich the lives of others."

The award is given annually by S.U. students of the Gamma Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business fraternity, to individuals who "have rendered exceptional civic service."

Cooney has won several awards, both national and local, for his television editorials, commentaries and analyses on Channel 7.

His talk is "Tell It Like It Is."
